SOVIET FORCE CHARGES HILL; BEATEN BACK, JAPANESE SAY

Three Russian Regiments, Aided by Tanks, Repulsed After Severe Hand-to-Hand Fighting, Communique Reports.

HEAVY LOSSES IN NIGHT ATTACK

100 Planes Declared to Have Taken Part in Raids in Korean Territory — Railway Bombed and Cut Near Kogi.

By the Associated Press.

YUKI, Korea (Near the Siberian Border), Aug. 7. (Sunday.)—A Japanese communique said today Soviet Russian troops made a night attack on a hill in Changkufeng heights, but were repulsed with heavy losses.

The communique said three Soviet regiments began advancing shortly before dusk Saturday, accompanied by many tanks. They charged Japanese positions an by midnight were repulsed after severe hand-to-hand fighting, the communique said.

Japanese reported today that about 100 Soviet airplanes were involved in yesterday's invasion of Korean territory.

In addition to two Soviet planes said to have been downed by anti-aircraft fire, four heavy Russian guns were said to have been silenced by Japanese artillery.

A reliable eye-witness reported that 24 Russian planes bombed the Tumen-Rashin Railway yesterday afternoon at a point 15 miles northwest of Yuki, in Korean territory, as well as a highway running from Yuki. It was termed the most intensive aerial attack ever made against a Korean objective.

Railway communications were interrupted. The railway parallels the northeastern Korean border and connects Rashin, the Korean seaport, with Kirin and Hsinking, Manchoukuo. It runs within a few miles of Changkufeng.

A Japanese communique, issued by the Northern Korea army headquarters, said the Soviet raiders also attacked Korean villages.

The communique said also that Russian artillerymen "shelled Changkufeng and nearby Shuiliufeng Heights fiercely since early morning."

Of the aerial operations, it said: "At 1:30 p. m. and 5 p. m. 14 bombers with scouters crossed the Tumen River, went into formation and bombed various Korean villages. The Japanese brought down two planes. Our losses, which we are now investigating, seem slight.

"The Japanese policy heretofore has been patient, but now we are highly indignant at this unwarranted manifestation of the Soviets' challenging attitude, whereby they crossed the border and bombed peaceful Korean villages."

The communique said yesterday's attacks raised the total number of aerial incursions over Korea to 77.

At 3:30 p. m. the Associated Press corespondent saw more than 20 planes engaged in a dogfight in the direction of Changkufeng.

Tokio Indicates Moscow Conversations Will Continue.

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Aug. 7.—(Sunday)—A Foreign Office spokesman said today the Japanese Ambassador to Moscow might confer again today with Soviet Foreign Commissar Maxim Litvinov on the Manchoukuoan border question.

It was understood the Japanese ambassador, Mamoru Shigemitsu, would continue talks attempting to find a basis for settlement of the conflict and enter a protest against continued Soviet air bombardment.

Russian and Japanese infantry, a communique said today, clashed last night at a hill designated as a half-mile southwest of the disputed Changkufeng Heights. The communique said Soviet troops attacked but retreated under a rain of Japanese hand grenades.

Soviet air attacks were said to have centered on Kogi, Changkufeng and "certain" military barracks. One Squadron, the communique said, attempted to destroy a train but "no damage resulted."

Forty Russian tanks were said to have been destroyed or damaged.

Election Board to Seek Changes In Permanent Registration Law

One of Proposals is to End Tranfers 15 Days Before Voting Date, Due to Confusion Experienced in Primary.

Proposed changes in the permanent registration law, to provide additional safeguards and eliminate some practical difficulties, will be considered by the Election Board this week, in the light of experience in preparing for last Tuesday's primary. The board will recommend to Gov. Stark that the Legislature, convening next January, be requested to make the changes.

On the whole, Acting Chairman Claxton E. Allen said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday, the application of the law was satisfactory. This was the first major election under its provisions. It became effective last autumn, and the first enrollment of voters was in December.

The greatest difficulty encountered by the board was due to the fact that registration of voters closed 15 days before the primary but the law permitted transfer of voters up to five days before it.

In the intervening 10-day period about 9000 persons who had moved since enrolling obtained transfers. They crowded the board's office at a time when the officials and clerks were busy with the required revision of registration.

Registration closed July 18 and the regular canvass of voters was made by the precinct clerks July 22 and 23, after which the revision was carried out, striking from the rolls the names of persons not found at the addresses from which they had registered. There was confusion between the activities of revising and transferring.

It would be possible for an Election Board which was not careful, or which did not desire to be strict, to carry out wholesale improper transfers, without a convenient means for a check on legitimacy of the changes by any outside agency, said Allen. He advocated a change of the law to end transfers 15 days before an election.

Another point on which Allen commented was the practical impossibility of preparing printed lists of registered voters, by precincts, after the revision. The last correction of the lists was made following the close of registration and before the opening of the canvass. Allen conceded that, lacking a new list prepared after the revision, an independent agency could not have made a check of the registration.

As long as there was an honest board, trying to do its work well, there would be no difficulty growing out of this situation, the acting chairman asserted, but he knew of no convenient means of checking, if a board of a different type was in office. He has not proposed a specific remedy for this situation.

In 1936, when the Post-Dispatch carried out an inquiry into the registration for the primary, it used the precinct lists of voters prepared after the regular canvass and revision, which was then held in June. The finding that the rolls had been padded in wholesale fashion resulted in a recanvass by the board, and precinct officials were notified that thousands of persons whose enrollment was questioned were not to be allowed to vote. After the primary, Gov. Park removed the Election Board then in office "for the betterment of the public service."

JAPANESE AID SOUGHT IN SEARCH FOR CLIPPER

State Department Informs Tokio Airline Thinks Plane May Be Near Douglas Reef.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The State Department issued the following statement tonight concerning the search for the missing Hawaii Clipper:

"The State Department this afternoon informed the American Embassy at Tokio that the Pan American Airways believes the Hawaii Clipper may be in the vicinity of Parece Vela (Douglas Reef), 20 degrees 25 minutes north and 136 degrees and five minutes east, which is in the approximately area of probable drift, and would greatly appreciate a search."

Reports, later declared to be erroneous, were sent out from Tokio last night, saying the Hawaii Clipper had been sighted near Douglas Reef, 850 miles south of Japan, and that the United States Embassy had requested the Japanese Navy to send a ship to the scene.

WARNER OLAND DIES ON VISIT TO SWEDEN

'Charlie Chan' of Movies Succumbs to Attack of Pneumonia.

By the Associated Press.

STOCKHOLM, Aug. 6.—Warner Oland, Hollywood actor best known for his Oriental roles, died today of pneumonia. He had appeared in the title role of the "Charlie Chan" detective mystery series. Oland was taken ill in Hollywood in January, but had come to his native Sweden for a holiday. He was 57 years old. He died in a hospital here following his removal from the home of his host, Eric Stocklasse, Scandinavian artist and friend of the actor, in Tyreso, near Stockholm.

After many years on the stage, Oland entered motion pictures in 1920, playing with Theda Bara, Douglas Fairbanks Sr. and others. He left Sweden when he was 13.

Mrs. Oland, who is at her Rincon home, 65 miles from Hollywood, is the former Edith Shearn, stage actress. She had been estranged from her husband several months and recently was awarded judgment in a separate maintenance suit. However, when the seriousness of Oland's condition was reported to her yesterday she made preparations to go to his bedside here at once.

Oland Was Villain in Pearl White "Perils" Series.

HOLLYWOOD, Aug. 6.—Twenty years ago, movie fans sat breathless as Warner Oland tried, week after week, to kill Pearl White. Both died in Europe, far from the scenes of the old silent movie serial thrillers in which they played—Miss White in Paris two days before Oland. They were the villain and heroine in the old serial, "The Perils of Pauline."

Mrs. Oland was overcome by the news of her estranged husband's death. She canceled reservations on airplanes and steamer, made five days ago when she first learned of her husband's illness.

Harrison Ryon, the widow's attorney, said Oland would be buried in the little Swedish town of Umeo, his birthplace, as he requested.

Oland's departure to Sweden more than a month ago on a Swedish freighter was very quiet. He had reached a separate maintenance agreement with his wife after her suit filed a year ago, and patched up differences with his Hollywood studio, which temporarily suspended him after an unannounced departure from the set.

Mrs. Oland charged in her suit that Oland "so disregarded his duties as a husband that he caused her much mental anguish." She declared excessive drinking was the cause of their trouble. As "Charlie Chan," she said, he earned $90,000 in 1936.

So convincing was Oland as a Chinese, he was mistaken by Chinese for one of their countrymen on a vacation trip in the Orient. "Everywhere I went," he said,

SHERIFF TESTIFIES AGAINST EX-AID AT MURDER TRIAL

Says Carroll Couldn't Account for Whereabouts Night of Dr. Littlefield's Death.

DESCRIBES ARREST ON MORALS CHARGE

Quotes Defendant: 'God, Sheriff, You Don't Think I Had Anything to Do With Killing?'

By the Associated Press.

SOUTH PARIS, Me., Aug. 6.—Francis M. Carroll's former superior, Sheriff F. F. Francis, testified today at Carroll's trial on a charge of killing Dr. James G. Littlefield that the defendant, when arrested on a morals charge, blurted out: "God, Sheriff, you don't think I had anything to do with murdering Dr. Littlefield, do you?"

The morals charge, Francis testified, involved Barbara Carroll, 18-year-old daughter of the defendant and former sweetheart of Paul N. Dwyer, 19, who once confessed the killing and accepted a life imprisonment sentence.

The Sheriff, principal State witness on the sixth day of Carroll's trial, which recessed at noon for the week-end, said he replied to Carroll:

"Francis, I and others know a lot of things you do not realize are known about Dr. Littlefield's murder."

Absent Night of Killing.

The Sheriff also said his former chief Deputy had not accounted for his whereabouts on the night, last Oct. 13, when Dr. Littlefield, 67-year-old country physician, was beaten and strangled in Dwyer's Paris Hill home. Dwyer charged from the stand that Carroll killed the doctor.

Thus far, the jury has heard testimony from seven witnesses, presented to bolster the State's contention that Carroll killed the doctor because, through Dwyer, the physician had gained knowledge of alleged illicit relations between Carroll and his daughter.

Dwyer, chief witness for the State, further asserted Carroll strangled Dr. Littlefield's 63-year-old wife, Lydia. The youth also had confessed that murder when arrested in North Arlington, N. J., last Oct. 16 in an automobile containing both bodies.

Anger aroused by a slur on his "girl" by the doctor, Dwyer said then, prompted the first killing. Mrs. Littlefield, he said, was killed because she suspected what he had done to her husband.

While the Sheriff testified to his investigation that led to Carroll's indictment, the defendant sat wih his feet on the rungs of a chair he tipped back and held with both hands.

Girl Chats With Mother.

Barbara Carroll, seated among the spectators, idly waved a fan and chatted with her mother, Mrs. Ruby Carroll, who has declared her faith in her husband's innocence.

Carroll's wife and children will join him in testifying defense counsel announced today.

Besides Barbara, Carroll has four younger children.

Dwyer, after two-and-one-half days of testimony, went back to State prison yesterday.

Mrs. Jessie Dwyer, his mother, testified in cross-examination by Clyde R. Chapman of defense counsel, she did not believe her son ever had mentioned Carroll's name in his story to her of the killing.

Mayor Alexander Allen of North Arlington, the first witness today, quoted Dwyer as saying he hoped Carroll was not being sent to return him to Maine. Allen said the youth expressed fear Carroll would throw him out of the plane by which Maine authorities expected to take him back.

BRITISH CONSULAR AGENT IN SPAIN HURT BY BOMB

MADRID, Aug. 6.—The British Consular Agent at Alicante, Gabriel Callejon, was seriously injured today when a bomb exploded two yards from the consular building during a raid by six insurgent trimotored planes. He was taken to a hospital. The consular building was damaged by the bomb.

Most of the bombs fell in the Vista Hermosa quarter, killing one person and injuring 11 others.

A bomb crashed through the roof of a children's summer school, injuring 14 persons. It was estimated 60 bombs were dropped in the raid.

THIRD TERM TALK MAY HIT SNAG ON TWO-THIRDS RULE

Southern Democrats Organizing to Regain Veto Power They Once Had in Party Convention.

ISSUE GROWS WARM FOR NEXT CONGRESS

Canvass of Opinions in the House and Senate Indicate Hot Debates in Coming Session.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—A group of Southern politicians is already calculating the chances of winning enough Northern support in 1940 to restore the two-thirds rule which once gave the "solid South" an effective veto power in the Democratic National Convention.

Under the two-third rule, scrapped in 1932 when President Roosevelt was nominated, no candidate could win the nomination without a two-thirds convention vote. The South had more than a third of the delegates and so could withhold the nomination from anyone it opposed.

If anti-Roosevelt forces could muster a majority in favor of the two-thirds rule in 1940, they would be able to block any third-term drive.

Some of the politicians considering anti-third-term tactics said today that it might be possible to obtain a majority for the rule even though a majority of the convention would vote to renominate the President.

What Roosevelt Said.

Roosevelt's best known statement on the third-term question thus far was made at a Democratic banquet on March 4, 1937, when he said:

"My great ambition on Jan. 20, 1941, is to turn over this desk and chair in the White House to my successor, whoever he may be, with the assurance that I am at the same time turning over to him as President a nation intact."

Charles Michelson, the Democratic party's publicity director, joined the discussion today, saying in his weekly column:

"My guess is that Franklin D. Roosevelt would take a case of the hives rather than four years more of the headache that being President means."

He was replying to Senator Vandenberg (Rep.), Michigan, who had said he expected the President to try for a third term—and fail to get it.

Michelson wrote: "It will not be so easy a choice, at that. Circumstances might arise that would make it impossible for him to lay down the burden. The world may be at war, with or without threat of our involvement, or some other equally acute emergency may eventuate that would forbid a change of administration, and the man in the White House is not the kind of individual who would let his personal desires interfere with what seemed to him to be his duty."

Opinions in Congress.

Views expressed by members of Congress and others indicate that the third-term issue will be debated hotly in Congress next year. Here are some of the opinions:

Senate Majority Leader Barkley: "I keynoted the President into the White House twice and I might possibly do it again in 1940."

Senator Burke (Dem.), Nebraska: "It (a third-term bid) would split the Democratic party into a thousand pieces."

Secretary of the Interior Ickes: "If the reactionaries in the Democratic party want a real test of President Roosevelt's strength with the people, I suggest that they continue to work for a situation that will result in the people being given an opportunity to vote directly on the proposition of whether or not they are for President Roosevelt and his policies."

W P A Administrator Harry Hopkins: "Ninety per cent of the people on W P A favor the Roosevelt administration."

Senator Lewis (Dem.), Illinois: A third-term effort would "destroy the Democratic party" but the President is "not such a man as to present himself for a continuous third term."

Senator Smathers (Dem.), New Jersey: "There is no one big enough or strong enough to carry on for him."

Holt Against Third Term.

Senator Holt (Dem.), West Virginia: "I am sure that those who supported the La Follette anti-third term resolution (in the Senate) during the Coolidge administration will be very glad to support a similar resolution now."

Senator Pepper (Dem.), Florida:

LIGHTNING KILLS GOLFER AND STUNS THREE OTHERS

Leonard T. Grant, Professional Football Coach, Loses Life at Dedham, Mass.; Caddy Also Hurt.

By the Associated Press.

DEDHAM, Mass., Aug. 6.—Leonard T. Grant, 32 years old, of Dedham, an assistant coach for the New York Giants, professional football team, was killed by lightning today.

Grant was playing golf at the Norfolk Club with Roger Shine, Calvin Tucker and James McCartney. The others were stunned by the bolt which struck Grant, former captain of the New York University football team.

A caddy, Leonard O'Brien, suffered burns on his left foot and was thrown 15 feet.

Grant's sister, Alice, 25, a nurse at a Boston hospital, worked for an hour in an attempt to revive him, although doctors said they believed he died almost instantly.

A former national intercollegiate heavyweight boxing champion, Grant played professional football with the New York Giants for 10 years and was physical education instructor for the New York Police Department.

PILOT KILLED BY OWN GLIDER AFTER BAILING OUT IN STORM

Craft Hits Him as He Descends in Parachute; German Claims New Altitude Record.

By the Associated Press.

WASSERKUPPE, Germany, Aug. 6.—A glider pilot was struck and killed by his own craft today a moment after he bailed out in mid-air. His parachute brought his body to earth.

The pilot, Werner Belchs, was forced to leave his glider during a thunderstorm after he had reached 17,700 feet in an attempt to set an altitude record.

A number of other pilots caught in the storm came down safely in parachutes.

Air Capt. Walther Drechsel of Lufthansa, German Airline, earlier in the day claimed a new world record of 23,196 feet attained from a start of 3084 feet.

Baltimore Party and Crew Take to Open Boats and Are Picked Up by Another Craft.

By the Associated Press.

NANTUCKET, Mass., Aug. 6.—Seven persons took to open boats tonight when the 64-foot cabin cruiser Intrepid III struck a submerged object in Nantucket Sound and began to sink.

Dr. and Mrs. J. A. C. Colston, Charles B. Reeves and Miss Edith O'Donovan, all of Baltimore, escaped in one dinghy, the crew of three in another.

Both boats were picked up by the Fantasy, owned by Bernard Doyle of Boston, and the occupants brought here.

U A W A EXPELS FRANKENSTEEN AND TWO OTHERS

Auto Workers' Board Gives Three Ex-Officers Maximum Penalty — Fourth Suspended.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—The executive board of the United Automobile Workers of America removed from office and expelled from the union tonight three of four suspended international vice-presidents. The fourth was suspended from office for three months.

Those given the most severe penalty possible under the union's constitution are Richard T. Frankensteen, Wyndham Mortimer and Ed Hall.

Walter N. Wells was suspended for three months dating from June 13, the day President Homer Martin suspended the four and Secretary-Treasurer George F. Addes. Addes was tried by the board, removed from office and expelled from the UAW a month ago.

Charges Against Five.

Martin charged the five officers with conspiring to "disrupt" the union and turn it over to Communists.

The disciplined officers retaliated with charges that Martin's administration was dominated by Jay Lovestone, head of the Independent Communist Labor League.

Martin announced the verdict of the 18 members of the board who tried the officers. None of the dedendants appeared before the board at the resumption of their trial today.

The U A W president said Wells' penalty was light because he "never was identified with the so-called Communist conspiracy." Wells incurred disfavor, Martin explained, because of his opposition to a group insurance plan for the union membership proposed by Martin. Martin said Wells will be eligible to resume his vice-presidency Sept. 13.

The four vice-presidents spent most of the day with their attorney, Maurice Sugar, who had objected to the change in trial procedure adopted by the board.

History of Trial.

The trial opened July 26 and dragged on with little accomplished for several days, because of bickering between the pro and anti-Martin factions in the union leadership. Finally the board abandoned the secret hearing and ordered counsel for each side to file briefs covering their evidence, with arguments fixed for today.

Expulsion of the officers had appeared a foregone conclusion for some time and was made more probable when they defied an order to appear before the board or be

INCUMBENT AHEAD WITH MORE THAN TWO-THIRDS OF BALLOTS COUNTED

He Has 208,804 to 176,560 on Reports From 3106 of the 4313 Precincts in Democratic Senatorial Primary.

GOVERNOR SAYS W P A WAS USED

Haswell of G. O. P. in Front—Under State Law Vote Count Ended Last Midnight and Will Be Resumed Tomorrow.

By the Associated Press.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., Aug. 6.—Senator Alben W. Barkley's lead on returns from today's Democratic senatorial primary over Gov. Chandler was 32,244 at 11:30 p. m.

The report at this hour was from 3106 of the State's 4313 precincts. Eighty counties were complete. Kentucky has 120 counties.

Senator Barkley was leading in seven of the nine congressional districts.

The Courier-Journal in its 11:30 edition tonight said Barkley had "won the Democratic nomination" over Chandler.

Barkley Wins Home District.

Barkley had a substantial lead in Western Kentucky. In the First District—his home—Barkley had 30,591 votes to 17,979 for Chandler. In the adjoining Second, Barkley was ahead 34,997 to 26,237 for Chandler.

The first report from Jefferson County (Louisville) of 36 precincts gave Barkley 3247 votes to 849 for Chandler. The counting in Jefferson County did not begin until after 9 p. m.

In the Republican senatorial primary John P. Haswell continued to lead his four opponents. Haswell had the backing of the State administration. Haswell's vote was 6694 on returns from 874 precincts in 36 counties.

Radio Talks by Candidates.

In a national broadcast tonight from his home in Versailles Gov. Chandler said: "All the power of the Federal Government had been used to bring about my defeat. As you know the President came to Kentucky and made a speech against us. They ran the W P A from 33,000 to about 100,000. We have made a gallant campaign and still have a smile on our face and a song in our hearts."

Senator Barkley in a radio speech from Paducah said: "My friends, I have very little to say, except that I'm delighted with what seems to be an overwhelming nomination to the United States Senate.

"It has been a hard fight—one that I did not think I would have to make. But in a sense it was a blessing in disguise. It gave me an opportunity to meet more people than ever before in my political history. To all persons who supported me, I extend my heartfelt gratitude; and to those who opposed me, now that the battle is over, I hope we will close ranks and make a victory in November larger than any other in the State's history. I shall use all my ability to make for Kentucky a capable, honest and upright member of the United States Senate. I guess that's about all I have to say."

Count to Go on Tomorrow.

Tabulation of the vote in Breathitt County where Lee Combs, former Sheriff and an election commissioner, was killed Thursday night and Sheriff Lalter Deaton, also an election commissioner, was wounded, was postponed until Monday. The Hart County tabulation also was postponed until Monday.

The polls closed at 4 p. m. Under State law the count of the vote must end at midnight, to be resumed Monday.

FEDERAL INQUIRY INTO GOV. DAVEY'S PENSION LETTERS

Social Security Board Threatens to Cut Off Funds Because of Political Plea With Checks.

COX URGES PARTY TO BEAT EXECUTIVE

Sawyer Seeks Place—Taft and Day in Hard-Fought G. O. P. Senate Race—Primary Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBUS, O., Aug. 6. — The Democratic administration of Gov. Martin L. Davey, often investigated, faced a Federal inquiry into old age pension law violations tonight with the Ohio primary election Tuesday.

Davey, seeking a third term nomintion is opposed by Charles Sawyer, National Democratic Committeeman, whose forces have charged administration workers were "intimidating" old age pensioners to vote for Davey.

The Social Security Board announced in Washington today it might cut off old age pension funds for Ohio because of alleged political activities of Davey and H. J. Berrodin, State Pension Division Chief.

It ordered an immediate investigation of charges Davey and Berrodin sought to influence pension recipients' votes. The State and Federal Government share equally the cost of pensions for 110,542 persons in Ohio, who receive an average of $23.02 monthly.

Letters were sent to pensioners with their checks recalling Davey's part in securing pension fund increases, the board said. It declared this was "contrary to the purposes of the Social Security Act and of the laws of Ohio."

Cox Urges Party Purge.

James M. Cox, Democratic presidential nominee in 1920 and Dayton (O.) publisher, today made a plea for a "party purge" of Gov. Davey's administration and the nomination of former Lieutenant-Governor Sawyer.

Cox predicted that if Davey were nominated Republicans would defeat Democratic candidates in November "in part or whole to the bottom of the ticket."

In another hot primary tilt, the Republican opponents for the U. S. senatorial nomination, Robert A. Taft, son of former President William Howard Taft, and Supreme Court Judge Arthur H. Day, kept up their intensive verbal sniping. The hard-fought contests were expected to attract a record 1,450,000 primary vote.

Campaign Expense Charges.

Taft and Day, involved in a controversy over campaign expenditures—with Day accusing his rival of trying to buy the nomination—filed today detailed fund reports with the Senate Campaign Expenditures Investigating Committee.

Taft reported $28,969 in total expenditures, and Day $9946. The committee had threatened to send an investigator to obtain the data if it were not provided by Monday.

Davey's expenditures also drew Sawyer's fire. He accused the former Kent tree surgeon of spending nearly $500,000 in the campaign.

A State Senate graft-hunting committee charged last winter that favoritism existed in the handling of some State contracts. A special grand jury two weeks ago described conditions in the State Government as "deplorable."

Davey's Reply to Charges.

Davey declared in speeches that his campaign was "as clean and straight as any in Ohio history." He ascribed the investigations to a "smear Davey" movement.

Replying to the investigation charges made today, he said: "The Social Security Board can investigate to their heart's content. They will find nothing that could be used as a thin excuse to cut off Federal allotments for old age pensions."

"The old age pensioners will be fully protected," he added. "I guarantee that. After next Tuesday, nothing further will be heard about this panicky eleventh hour falsehood. The old age pensioners will vote for Martin Davey almost unanimously because I have been their friend. We will win the primary by 3 to 1 or better."

Davey continued to make John L. Lewis' Committee for Industrial Organization the prime issue of his campaign. He charged that Lewis sought to control the State Government through Sawyer.

The Democratic senatorial fight between Senator Robert J. Bulkley and former Gov. George White was overshadowed by the other major fights. Bulkley bore President Roosevelt's New Deal indorsement, but White also campaigned as a Roosevelt supporter.

Security Board to Hold Hearing on Withholding Allotments.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Arthur J. Altmeyer, chairman of the Social Security Board, made public today photostatic copies of letters which he said Davey and H. J. Berrodin, chief of the Ohio division of the Aid for the Aged, had enclosed in envelopes with the last checks sent to the pensioners. These letters said Davey had been active in behalf of the aged, and the one attributed to the Governor asked the pensioners to vote for his re-nomination in Tuesday's primary.

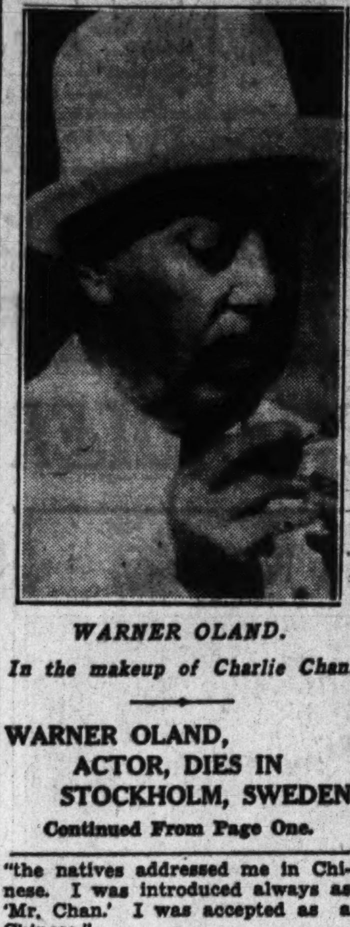
Moreover, officials said, the board received information two weeks ago that recipients of the pensions were visited by representatives of certain political candidates, who talked to them about their pensions and the coming election. The board is investigating these reports.

Late next week, members said the board expects to set a date for a hearing on the Davey and Berrodin letters, to determine whether it should cease its old age pension allotments to Ohio.

The State has received $36,648,162 in Federal funds for its old age pensions since February, 1936. On the Ohio old age pensions rolls are 110,542 persons, whose monthly checks average $23.02.

"It is essential to the efficient administration of state assistance plans operating under the Social Security Act that no attempt be made by public assistance officials and employes to influence recipients of such assistance in their exercise of their right to vote," Altmeyer wrote to Berrodin. "On the basis of these letters it seems self-evident that the division of aid for the aged has attempted to influence recipients of old age assistance for political ends contrary to the purposes of the Social Security Act and of the laws of Ohio relating to the administration of old age assistance. Other information in the possession of the board indicates that there are serious deficiencies in the administration of old age assistance in Ohio."

Actor Dies Abroad



WARNER OLAND.

In the makeup of Charlie Chan.

WARNER OLAND, ACTOR, DIES IN STOCKHOLM, SWEDEN

"the natives addressed me in Chinese. I was introduced always as 'Mr. Chan.' I was accepted as a Chinese."

Oland came to America in 1893 with his father, Jonas Oland, half Russian, and his brother, Arvid. They settled on a farm in Connecticut, but before many years he was working in a Boston machine shop to earn $6 a week while he took voice lessons.

In his first stage appearance there he played one of the gay Gascons in a Sarah Bernhardt production. Then he understudied Edward J. Morgan, creator of the role of "The Christian." After that he went on the road playing in another of Hall Caine's productions, "The Eternal City," with Viola Allen.

Oland saved his money, and after his marriage in 1908, produced and played in Ibsen's "Peer Gynt." As a producer, Oland made and lost a small fortune.

Work in Pictures.

In 1910 he made his motion picture debut, getting $25 a day for playing John Bunyan in "Pilgrim's Progress." That was produced at Fort Lee, N. J.

Again he returned to the stage, purchased a little theater in New York and lost all he had. His clothing was shabby when he finally got a part in the play "A Fool There Was." In 1914-15 he starred in "The Yellow Ticket."

In the silent days of Hollywood he began in Theda Bara's picture, "Jewels of Madonna." He also appeared in Douglas Fairbanks' "Don Q"; "The Jazz Singer," "In Old San Francisco," "Chinatown Nights" and "The Mysterious Dr. Fu Manchu." Charlie Chan was brought to life on the screen by Oland in 1931 and he made 17 pictures in this character.

Oland never cared much for Hollywood, and stayed there only while he was making pictures. He owned a small farm in Connecticut and about 7000 acres, comprising the southern end of Palmeto de la Virgen, off the coast of Mazatlan, Mexico. This property has about 10 miles of coastline. His home at Rincon is of adobe built in a Cape Cod farmhouse style. Stocklasse, whose home Oland was visiting when he was taken ill, designed and built the living room's huge fireplace patterned after blueprints of one in a medieval Swedish castle.

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Aug. 6. —Motion Picture Director John G. Blystone, 45 years old, died today of a heart attack a few hours after the death in Stockholm of Warner Oland, whom Blystone started in the "Charlie Chan" series.

Blystone resigned in February, 1936, after 17 years of service.

JAPANESE PLANES BOMB CHINESE AIR BASE AT HANKOW

Fifteen Defense Craft on Ground and Supply Buildings Are Reported Destroyed by Raiders.

By the Associated Press.

SHANGHAI, Aug. 7. (Sunday.)—The Japanese navy announced today that its air force had struck a "fatal blow" at China's aerial defenses at Hankow, provisional capital in the heart of Central China.

Japanese said an air raid Saturday destroyed 15 Chinese planes on the ground at Hankow, and wiped out numerous airdrome buildings and fuel and ammunition warehouses.

The Japanese asserted further that navy flyers raided many widely separated military establishments throughout the lower Yangtze River valley, and that Japanese warships had fought their way up the river to within 110 miles of Hankow.

The warships were reported shelling Chinese positions on both banks near Lungping, with Chinese shore batteries returning their fire.

All reports seemed to indicate the Japanese were pouring out all their offensive strength in an attempt to gain a good foothold in the Yangtze above Kiukiang, which they have not yet done. Kiukiang, 135 miles from Hankow, was captured July 25.

In the vicinity of Kiukiang, Japanese stated the Chinese were concentrating large numbers of troops.

Effort to Land Troops Expected.

The Chinese expected the bombardment near Lungping to be followed by mass air attacks as a prelude to an attempted landing for an attack on Kwangtsi, 25 miles north of Wusuea. Such a move wuold aid the advance of Japanese troops, which Chinese said were halted by the Yangtze flood.

Chinese advices said the floods, caused by broken dikes above Kiukiang, were growing worse, with dike breaches widening and the river inundating huge areas on both banks.

While the floods were halting the Japanese offensive, these advices said, they also were inflicting suffering on the Chinese populace, as did floods along the Yellow River in June.

Japanese naval air squadrons attacked the entire 100-mile length of the Kiukiang-Nanchang Railway and bombarded Nanchang, Chinese air base. A Japanese naval spokesman said bombs had set munitions warehouses afire at Nanchang.

Foreigners at Nanchang reported Chinese troops were tearing up the railway south of Yungsin, 16 miles from Kiukiang, while a steady stream of refugees poured into Nanchang.

Fighting South of Kiukiang.

The Chinese reported heavy fighting around Shahochen, 10 miles south of Kiukiang, where they said the Japanese had been repulsed, leaving 70 dead. At Niutowshan, or Ox Mountain, east of Shahochen, they asserted the Japanese suffered 400 casualties in a severe engagement.

The Japanese, on the other hand, asserted they had smashed through Chinese defense lines at Shahochen and were advancing toward Huanglaomen, or Old Wong's Door, nine miles to the south.

Correspondents on the Nanchang front reported large numbers of Cantonese troops moving northward along the railroad to reinforce the Chinese. They said all towns on the railroad were virtually deserted.

Chinese reports from North China said the Japanese had suffered 4000 casualties in a series of battles during the last two weeks in the Shaoyuan sector, near the Honan-Shansi border.

A Peiping dispatch said Chinese guerrillas temporarily blocked highway communications between Peiping and Tientsin, but finally were dispersed.

Pamphlets Dropped in South.

Reports from Canton said Japanese planes dropped large numbers of pamphlets over South China cities warning the people that Kwangsi and Kwangtung provinces soon would be isolated and inviting co-operation with "all-powerful Japan."

Bombing of the Canton railway was resumed, but on a greatly reduced scale, indicating the Japanese air strength in South China had been curtailed.

HOOVER SEES TWO BIG ISSUES: JOBLESS, U. S. INSTITUTIONS

Says 12,000,000 Must Be Put to Work Right Away and Rubber Stamp Congress Must Go.

By the Associated Press.

GALLATIN GATEWAY, Mont., Aug. 6.—Two dominant issues—putting 12,000,000 unemployed back to work, and preserving American institutions—are before the American people, former President Herbert Hoover declared today to more than 500 Montana Republicans.

The first issue, he said, "is an immediate necessity.

"The second is vital to our future and the outstanding action to accomplish both the return of the 12,000,000 to real jobs as well as to preserve free men and women is to replace this rubber-stamp Congress with independent men.

"Jobs for the unemployed will mean wider markets and less taxes for the farmers."

TWO SHOT TO DEATH AS THEY SLEEP IN AUTO IN CHICAGO

Gunman Said to Have Leaped from Another Car, Killed Men and Escaped.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Two men were shot to death today as they slept in a parked automobile.

Witnesses said the killings were done by a gunman, who leaped from a car, fired through open windows at his victims and then rejoined a companion to make a quick getaway.

The dead men were Bruno Switaj, 35 years old, and Leo Moszinski, 34. One was in the front seat of the auto, the other in the rear.

Authorities said robbery apparently was not the motive. Switaj, a pharmacist by profession, recently had been working as a clothing salesman. Moszinski was employed as a door guard in a handbook shop.

Third Term Precedent Too Powerful for Him to Break, 1936 Republican Candidate Says.

By the Associated Press.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., Aug. 6.—Former Gov. Alf M. Landon of Kansas, Republican candidate for President in 1936, said today that President Roosevelt "will go down to a crushing defeat" if he runs for a third term.

"I am certain the people of this country would oppose a third term for Mr. Roosevelt with the same indignation they opposed his attempts to pack the Supreme Court," Landon said in an interview. "The third term precedent is too powerful for him to break."

Senator Logan (Dem.), Kentucky, speaking of Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner: "I have not the slightest doubt in my mind that they will not seek third terms."

Gov. Frank Murphy of Michigan: "The nation comes first, and it may be necessary for the President to accept a third term."

LOYALISTS FLEE ON EBRO FRONT, REBELS ANNOUNCE

Retreat Develops Into Rout Along Fayon Sector, Insurgent Communique Declares.

By the Associated Press.

HENDAYE, France (At the Spanish Frontier), Aug. 6.—The insurgent general staff reported an offensive which started late today had broken through Government lines at several points along the Ebro River front in Eastern Spain.

Government fighters were said to be in headlong flight in the Fayon sector of the Ebro front while their comrades in the north maintained the offensive against Tremp, hydro-electric center about 75 miles south of the French frontier.

"Militia men were fleeing as fast as they could," an insurgent communique said, in describing the surprise drive by Generalissimo Francisco Franco's troops along the Ebro.

The dispatch said "terrible losses were inflicted on the enemy whose retreat developed into a rout" in the Fayon sector. Three thousand Government fighters were reported killed and 2000 taken prisoner.

"The Red (Government) infantrymen were throwing themselves into the river where our machine-gun fire continued to pursue them," the insurgent communique said.

"More than 200 of our planes flew over various sectors, causing heavy losses."

The sudden insurgent push came at a time when the Government fighters held the offensive generally. Besides their drive in the North, they had launched a westward movement in the direction of Fayon in an effort to take three strategic hills, only to be met with the fierce insurgent onslaught.

Insurgent headquarters announced that many foreigners of the Government's international brigades were among the prisoners captured. All the insurgent attacks were made within the northern part of the Ebro front, between the Matarrana River which joins the Ebro south of Fayon, and north to a point where the Ebro bends westward opposite Mequinenza.

Franco's infantrymen apparently reached the Ebro just north of Fayon and pushed northward along the west bank of the stream. Another insurgent column stormed and conquered Auts Peak in the Mequinenza Mountains. This was described as the key point to the entire northern sector.

The Government clung to its lines around Fayon, however. The forces there were reported counter attacking to re-establish communications with their comrades in the nearby mountains.

In the Ninth District, the Republican incumbent, John M. Robsion of Barbourville received 2134 votes with 107 of 606 precincts reporting. Trailing him were Charles B. Candler of Somerset with 147 and Earle L. Cole of Barbourville with 109.

In the Third District the incumbent Emmet O'Neal, Democrat, of Louisville, was opposed by James P. McCormack and J. Franklin Fairleigh, both of Louisville.

Barkley's Long Record.

President Roosevelt, early in July, came into Kentucky for a one-day speaking tour. He made three speeches favoring Senator Barkley.

Senator Barkley has served Kentucky in the national capital for a quarter of a century. As Senate majority leader he guided New Deal legislation through the upper House.

Gov. Chandler came into the nation's political spotlight in 1936 when he carried the Roosevelt banner and won the governorship in a run-off. Chandler, campaigning then chiefly on a repeal of the State sales tax, was credited with smashing an old-time political machine.

While the Barkley campaign meetings throughout the drive for votes have generally been serious with the speaker dealing in facts and figures, there has been a jovial atmosphere about the Chandler gatherings.

Chandler Often Sings.

To enliven his meetings, the Governor adopted "There's a Gold Mine in the Sky" as his theme song and often led his listeners in the strains of the cowboy ballad. When Mrs. Chandler was along she accompanied him.

Charges that Federal and State funds were being used in the campaign was one of the many highlights. The Senate Campaign Expenditures Committee took cognizance of the reports and sent investigators into the State.

This was followed by a public report that the investigators had found the existence of such a condition and warning from the committee that a hearing might be held before the successful candidate for Senator took his seat in the next Congress. The committee returned its investigators into the State to remain through the primary.

Chandler Poison Story.

Statements from two physicians that Gov. Chandler, who became ill in a Louisville hotel after a speech, was suffering from "poison in drinking water," created a campaign sensation. Major Joe Burman of the State highway patrol, who traveled with the Governor, said three other poison attempts had been made on Chandler's life.

Louisville's Police Chief and the head of city detectives said they had investigated and reported the "poisoning" was a "publicity stunt" and a "political bedtime story." Later the Civil Service Commission censured the officers for the statements.

The "poisoning" kept the Governor from the stump for a week and after he resumed speaking he told his audiences he still was weak. As the campaign neared the climax, however, Chandler had regained his strength.

Alleged Logan Trade.

Another development was President Roosevelt's comment in his Bowling Green speech on reports of an attempted trade by which Senator M. M. Logan would get a Federal judgeship clearing the way for Chandler to go to the Senate and leave Senator Barkley without opposition.

When Chandler charged in a speech that Logan, openly advocating Barkley's renomination, had "begged" for a judgeship, the Senator retorted: "It's a damned lie."

Later Dan Talbott, the State Finance Commissioner and one of the leaders in the Chandler organization, issued a statement charging Postmaster-General James A. Farley was "double-crossed" in a proposition to get Logan the judgeship. Talbott said the suggestion for the "trade" had come from Farley and not Chandler.

RED TAPE TAKEN OFF EXPORTS OF GOLD FROM NETHERLANDS

Decree Removes Rule That Permit Be Obtained Before Selling It Abroad.

By the Associated Press.

AMSTERDAM, The Netherlands, Aug. 6.—Flow of gold out of the Netherlands was freed from red tape today by a Government decree removing the requirement for a permit for exports.

The Netherlands Bank president, in June, 1937, announced permission would be necessary for exporting gold but promised that it always would be given. Under today's decree, permission is unnecessary.

The action does not signify a return to the gold standard as the Netherlands Bank still is not obliged to sell gold for export.

ARMY TIGHTENS UP RULES ON LOBBYING

War Department Forbids Unauthorized Sponsoring of Bills Affecting It.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The War Department tightened up today its regulations concerning army lobbying for legislation.

"Except as authorized by the War Department, efforts to procure or influence legislation affecting the army or to procure personal favor through legislation are forbidden," said a circular revising an existing regulation.

Offenders may be court-martialed.

The new rule was promulgated without official explanation. In military circles, however, there was speculation that it was an aftermath of an unusual amount of legislation affecting individuals or special groups.

Bills not originating with the War Department were offered at the last session of Congress to promote individual officers and to provide assistant chiefs for several branches. One of these, giving the dental corps a brigadier-general and the medical corps an additional general officer, became law.

President Roosevelt vetoed a bill to raise the pay of warrant officers.

Hearings were held on a proposal to increase chances of promotion for officers of the Judge Advocate General's department by giving them a special status.

Officials said the new regulations apply to retired officers and men as well as those in active service, but were not intended to prevent officers or enlisted men from pressing private claim bills.

The navy already has similar regulations.

TRADE COMMISSION FINDS NEW LOTTERY TO ATTACK

Cites Ice Cream Concern for Using "Lucky Sticks" Occasionally as Handles for Frozen Lolly Pops.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The Federal Trade Commission issued a complaint today charging the Good Humor Corporation of America, Maspeth, N. Y., with furnishing the means of conducting lotteries in the sale of frozen confections.

The Commission said the company licenses ice cream manufacturers to make frozen confections for which it holds patents, then sells them the wooden handles on which the confections are impaled.

The complaint said an occasional handle is marked "lucky stick" and entitles the holders to free ice cream. This, the Commission said, constitutes a lottery.

SPENDING RISING, INCOME RESTRICTED

Non-Payment of Taxes, Constant Demand for Hospital and Recreational Facilities Are Factors.

A warning that the city's deficit —now at the record high level of $2,298,461 and expected to be $3,106,881 when the current fiscal year ends next April—would continue to mount from year to year, because of growing expenditures, while income was restricted and tax delinquency continued, was contained in Comptroller Louis Nolte's annual report, issued yesterday.

City finances, as far as the general fund was concerned, were at an extremely low ebb, the Comptroller declared. The condition is due primarily, he said, to the nonpayment of taxes and the "constant demands made on the city from various groups for increased hospital and recreation facilities." Enlargement of such facilities increased operating and maintenance costs, he pointed out, but the city had no additional revenue in sight.

He counseled immediate economies by all city departments, so that they would spend even less than was appropriated for them for the current fiscal year, which began last April.

The estimate of a new deficit peak exceeding $3,000,000 at the end of this year was based on present appropriations and income estimates.

Long Record of Deficits.

There has been a deficit every year since 1920, except in 1924 and 1928. The smallest was $24,700 in 1926 and the largest heretofore $2,118,590 last year. This condition has existed through the administrations of Mayors Kiel (1913-25), Miller (1925-33) and Dickmann. Previously, in the last half century, the only deficits, comparatively small, were in 1900 and 1916.

In recent years the demands of public relief, together with decreased property valuations and increased tax delinquency, have played a large part in making the deficits. The general budget for the current year appropriated $1,125,046 more than estimated receipts.

The annual municipal balance sheet, however, showed assets of the city as $270,951,466 and liabilities as $96,965,152—an excess of $173,986,313 of assets. The assets consisted of $11,504,005 cash, $8,276,046 in accounts receivable (including $5,757,887 in delinquent realty taxes and $1,644,070 in delinquent personal taxes), $671,942 due from a closed bank, $1,331,922 in deposits for matured bonds and coupons, $1,250,000 in sinking fund investments and $247,917,549 in city-owned real estate. The principal liability was $82,231,000 in outstanding bonds.

$35,994,351 in Receipts.

In the last fiscal year the city received $167,997 as a partial return of its deposit in the closed Lafayette-South Side Bank. Receipts from all sources passing through the treasury in the year amounted to $35,994,351, including $1,358,518 in P W A and other Federal funds. The income of the general fund was $20,495,154, an increase of $1,097,202 over the previous year, while expenditures for maintenance and operation were $20,177,707, an increase of $103,296.

Vehicle tolls on Municipal Brifige yielded $934,719 in the year and rail tolls $110,087. A refund of $222,095 was obtained on excess payments of Illinois taxes on the bridge for 1933-36. Receipts of the self-supporting Water Division for the year were $3,499,257, a decrease of $199,212 from the previous year, and operating and maintenance costs of the department were $2,305,075, an increase of $115,993. In the year, city bonds for $5,435,000 were retired. The statutory borrowing margin, as the current fiscal year began, was $25,598,711.

Assessed valuation of general property for 1938 taxes, including an estimate for the State's share of the assessment, was placed by the Comptroller at $1,047,564,742, compared with $1,038,618,322 last year and a peak of $1,325,567,437 in 1931.

Division of Expenses.

A chart showed that the city's expenditures for the last year were divided as follows: Bond interest and retirement, 23.68 per cent; courts, police and corrections, 17.13 per cent; public utilities, 11.08 per cent; new public work, 13.70 per cent; hospitals, 7.73 per cent; Fire Department, 5.73 per cent; direct relief, 1.77 per cent; other health and relief activities, 4.78 per cent; streets and sewers, 4.91 per cent; parks and recreation, 2.70 per cent; all other purposes, 6.79 per cent.

It was disclosed in the report that, up to the start of this fiscal year, $1,714,209 of the $85,280,918 proceeds of the general bond issue of 1923 had not been spent and appropriations had not been made for $1,101,740 of the fund. In the meantime, the bonds, having been sold several years or more ago, have been drawing interest, mostly at 4 to 4½ per cent a year. The interest on the unexpended portion exceeds $65,000 a year.

Largest unappropriated items are: Elimination of grade crossings, $487,611 unappropriated of a $1,600,000 issue; additional parks and playgrounds, $287,026 of a $2,500,000 issue; improving streets, $194,423 of a $5,800,000 issue; River des Peres Drainage Works, $123,301 of an $11,000,000 issue; improving parks and playgrounds, $102,602 of a $1,300,000 issue.

The smallest amount unappropriated was 17 cents of the $1,000,000 issue for Municipal Service Building. The $400,000 in bonds authorized for an aquarium have not yet been sold, nor has an odd $500 bond for the Fire Department. A $1,500,000 item for an unwanted rail approach of Municipal Bridge was canceled.

Of the $16,100,000 bond issue of 1934, intended for a public works program, only $10,100,000 of the bonds have been sold, appropriations amounted to $9,270,314 at the start of the fiscal year and expenditures were only $5,961,973. The city has been paying interest at 2½ to 3¼ per cent on an unexpended balance of more than $4,000,000, the interest cost on this portion being more than $100,000 annually.

Martin had said previously that if they failed to complete their defense a verdict of guilty was a certainty.

Tension which had surrounded the trial from its inception nearly two weeks ago increased today when the defendants announced they had refused to enter the U A W headquarters because of information that "an army of men" was waiting there to beat them.

Sugar, attorney for the suspended officers, said it was the board's purpose to prevent the defense from introducing evidence purporting to show that Martin was under the influence of Lovestone.

Although the board assured the defendants of "adequate protection" in the statement demanding their presence at the trial by 11:30 a. m., Sugar said the suspended officers decided to remain away from the headquarters because of advice from a sympathetic board member that "the situation looks bad."

MAN KILLS WIFE, FOUR SONS AS THEY SLEEP, THEN HIMSELF

Sheriff Believes Kansan Held Rifle Against Head of Each, Muffling Sound of Shots.

NORTON, Kan., Aug. 6.—Powder burns around the forehead, rifle wounds that killed a mother and four sons in bed here today were cited by officers tonight in explaining how the father was able to shoot each of them with a single-shot rifle without awakening the others.

The father, George Dobbie, 39 years old, was found dying of a wound in the head by a messenger sent to learn why he had not appeared on his job as a tractor operator for the county engineer's office.

His wife, 34, and their four sons, George Jr., 17; Glen Donald, 15; Raymond, 12, and Floyd Gene, 11, all were dead when found. Dobbie died later.

Sheriff C. W. Holland said he believed Dobbie placed the muzzle of the .22-caliber rifle between the eyes of each of his victims, muffling the explosions.

The Sheriff said he was informed there had been domestic difficulties in the family recently.

The woman had been shot through the mouth and her body was slumped in the front seat. Her husband's body was in the rear seat. A bullet had been fired into the head, apparently from a pistol found in the car.

THE REV. P. J. MAHAN, LONG ILL, DIES AT 57

Funeral Tuesday for St. Louisan, Former President of Creighton U.

The Rev. Patrick J. Mahan, S. J., who was president of Creighton University, Omaha, Neb., until last year, died yesterday afternoon in St. Mary's Hospital, on Clayton road, after a prolonged illness. Father Mahan, who was 57 years old, suffered from leukemia, an excess of white corpuscles in the blood.

Father Mahan was a native of St. Louis, and took his academic and theological studies in St. Louis University. His boyhood home was in St. Lawrence O'Toole's parish, near the church at Fourteenth and O'Fallon streets. He attended the parish school and St. Louis University High School, and the College of Arts, before entering the Society of Jesus, at the Florissant novitiate, in 1899.

From that time until his ordination to the priesthood at St. Francis Xavier's Church here in 1915, he studied theology, the classics and pedagogy, and taught in Chicago Catholic high schools and St. Mary's College, St. Mary's, Kan. After his ordination he continued high school teaching until he was made regent of the Medical School of Loyola University, Chicago. He held that position from 1918 to 1931, when he was made president of Creighton University.

Because of debility resulting from his illness, he resigned the presidency in 1937 and returned to St. Louis University, where he taught last year in the department of philosophy. In June he went to a Wisconsin camp with Jesuit scholastics, but was obliged to return to St. Louis and enter the hospital.

While at Creighton, President Mahan made the charge that "big-time football is crooked," that regular players of big teams were paid, and that if university presidents were ignorant of conditions, it was because they wished to be so.

He took part in the prohibition repeal movement, denouncing the Eighteenth Amendment as "lawless law" and out of place in the Constitution.

Father Mahan is survived by a brother, Nicholas Mahan, a brother of the Jesuit order, stationed in Omaha, and by two sisters, Miss Alice Mahan of Madison, Wis., and Sister M. Euphrasia of the Sisters of St. Joseph, Chicago. Sister Euphrasia, attending a retreat here, was able to be at his bedside yesterday.

The funeral will be held in St. Xavier's (College) Church, Grand and Lindell boulevards, at 8:30 a. m. Tuesday, followed by burial at Florissant.

150 EMPLOYES STRIKE AT 40 TIRE STORES

Deadlock Over Contract Causes Walkout; Picket Lines Are Established.

About 150 employes of 40 automobile tire stores and filling stations which handle tires were called out on strike yesterday by the Gasoline Service Station and Warehouse Employes' Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor. The strike closed the retail stores of several major tire makers and a few of the larger independent concerns.

Irwin Frowitter, business agent for the union, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter that the strike, affecting only members of the Rubber Association of Greater St. Louis, resulted from a deadlock in the negotiations for a contract to replace one which expired in May. Picket lines were established at most of the firms.

Frowitter said satisfactory agreements had been reached with many of the small independent retail tire stores and that contracts were signed about a month ago with gasoline retailers representing most of the 1500 filling stations in St. Louis.

E. L. Meyer, manager of St. Louis stores of the Goodyear Rubber Co., and a director of the association, said the strike involved Goodyear, Goodrich, Firestone and other major company stores, as well as a number of independents. He said no overtures toward settlement had been made and that a preliminary survey indicated that most of the concerns intended to remain closed pending negotiations.

The principal dispute in the contract negotiation, Meyer said, was over the wages to be paid men hired to change tires. He declared the union had demanded that tire changers' pay be raised from the present $95 a month to $125. He added that representatives of the managements and union had reached tentative agreements on wages for vulcanizers and other skilled workers.

"The companies are unable to meet the increase asked," Meyer said. "While no pay cuts have been considered here, salary reductions have been general throughout the industry."

Frowitter declared that issues other than wages of tire changers were involved in the dispute.

"'QUESTION-MARK' BRAKES? NOT FOR ME!

That's Why I Bought a Hudson," Says Joseph Megal, St. Louis, Mo.

ONCE you realize what it means to have brakes that are really safe . . . that you know will stop you every time . . . you'll never feel comfortable again with any other kind. Drive with Hudson Double-Safe Brakes and see!

There are no finer brakes than good hydraulics. And no hydraulics are finer than Hudson's . . . self-energizing 4-wheel Bendix hydraulics.

But what if the hydraulic fluid should leak away, through some accident or carelessness? It can happen with hydraulics of any type! Yet only Hudson has done the one thing necessary to take away that question mark—to make hydraulics the perfect brakes.

There's still a third braking application from the easy acting parking brake.

But Hudson safety doesn't stop there. It gives you bodies all of steel. Greatest windshield width . . . clear vision all around. Safety plate glass. Up front . . . massive forged radial arms for safer steering and extra strength.

That's how Hudson does things . . . discovers the best and makes it better. Not only in safety but in roominess, performance, economy, long life and many other things that add to automobile value.

Drive today in a Hudson Terraplane, Hudson Six or Eight, or the new "lowest priced" car, the Hudson 112, and see for yourself.

MAYTAG-C I O PARLEY TO BE RESUMED TODAY

C I O Union's National Organizer Arrives in Iowa to Aid Local.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 6. — James J. Matles, of New York City, director of organization for the United Electrical, Radio and Machine Workers of America, arrived here today to aid in negotiations toward settlement in the Maytag labor controversy.

He and William Sentner, national vice-president from St. Louis, planned to meet at 4 p. m. tomorrow with company representatives and the C I O local's executive council.

Sentner, meanwhile, drew up charges against the Maytag Company to add to those already being heard by a National Labor Relations Board trial examiner here.

The charges, he said, included violation of the Wagner Act by the discharge of 12 men, on recommendation of the Iowa National Guard military commission, for unlawful activities.

The guardsmen continued to patrol Newton today, after opening the plant for production Thursday under martial law but the factory was idle, as usual, under provisions of the 40-hour work week.

A. H. Taylor, plant superintendent, said operations yesterday were "completely normal" and that 17 carloads of washing machines were shipped out. More than 1400 workers, including foremen, went back to their machines yesterday after the union had capitulated to the Governor's opening order "under protest."

Major-General Mathew A. Tinley, commanding the guardsmen in Newton, announced that his military commission was studying the letters sent out to 275 workers yesterday notifying them that they had been identified as sit-down strikers and that their cases would be investigated. The sit-downers held the plant from June 23 to July 1.

Gov. Kraschel, in his first public utterance since he issued the proclamation opening the plant, declared in a speech at Toledo, Ia., against outside labor leaders and criticised the "adamant attitude of the Maytag Co.

ROOSEVELT CRUISER ON WAY TO PENSACOLA

Begins 1100-Mile Final Leg of Vacation Trip — Panama Canal Forces Praised.

By the Associated Press.

ABOARD U. S. S. HOUSTON, OFF OLD PROVIDENCE ISLAND, Bahamas, Aug. 6. — President Roosevelt headed toward Pensacola, Fla., tonight on the last leg of a vacation cruise which started three weeks ago today.

The homeward run is slightly more than 1100 miles. The cruiser Houston left Old Providence shortly after 6 p. m.

Earlier, Mr. Roosevelt praised officials of the Panama Canal Zone in a message to Gov. Clarence S. Ridley and commanders of the defense forces. He said:

"I am increasingly impressed with the fine understanding of the vital importance of the canal and its efficient operation and protection by the various services represented.

"I was impressed anew yesterday with the constant improvement of the canal facilities, smart appearance and military bearing of our forces stationed in the zone.

"Will you express to those responsible my admiration and appreciation?"

The President and his party arrived off Old Providence Island shortly after 10:30 a. m., after a 260-mile overnight run from Colon, C. Z. Mr. Roosevelt dispatched the message before leaving the ship to take advantage of the last day allowed by his vacation itinerary for fishing.

It was his first visit to Old Providence, sixteenth century rendezvous of Sir Harry Morgan and his buccaneers. In the waters hereabouts, Morgan gathered his forces for the attack on Panama, the sacking of Porto Bello, Panama, and his march across the isthmus which resulted in the capture of Panama City from the Spanish.

Old Providence Island is a possession of Colombia, and the Colombian destroyer Caldas greeted President Roosevelt. Military honors and official visits were exchanged between the naval vessels.

ELECTION CONTEST DROPPED

Suit Over 1936 G. O. P. Committee Race in Twentieth Ward.

The suit of Mrs. Maude T. Oswald contesting the election of Miss Lillian Thirolf as Republican City Committeewoman of the Twentieth Ward was voluntarily dismissed yesterday by the petitioner before Circuit Judge Eugene L. Padberg. The dismissal was entered at her cost.

The contest grew out of the primary held Aug. 10, 1936, at which Miss Thirolf was elected by a majority of 55 votes as shown by the official returns. The contestant charged irregularities in the count of votes.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Approximately 500 delegates gathered here today for the fortieth convention of the Knights of Pythias. The biennial session attracted members from 48 states and Hawaii. The Pythian Sisters held concurrent meetings. The convention will continue through next Saturday.

WIFE SUES DR. T. R. MEYER

Seeks Divorce From County Health Commissioner.

Mrs. Dorothy Meyer, 7603 Forsythe boulevard, Clayton, filed suit at Clayton yesterday to divorce Dr. Theodore R. Meyer, health commissioner of St. Louis County. She charges general indignities.

They were married on March 22, 1928, in Goshen, Ind., and separated last Aug. 1. In her petition Mrs. Meyer alleges that her husband was cold and indifferent and told her he no longer loved her. Dr. Meyer declined to comment.

CORRIGAN REVIEWS THE 'FIGHTING IRISH'

After Seeing Troops, Flyer Is Guest at Dublin Society Dinner at New York.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Still wearing his oil-smeared brown leather jacket, Douglas Corrigan forgot his slight chest injury today and motored to Camp Smith at Peekskill, N. Y., to review the "fighting Irish" of the famous old Sixty-ninth Infantry Regiment.

The 31-year-old aviator, who set his compass for California and landed in Dublin, Ireland, in his $900 "old crate," was escorted by Major-General William N. Haskell, commander of the New York State National Guard; Col. Joseph A. S. Mundy, Twenty-seventh Division staff chief, and Col. Alexander E. Anderson, commander of the 165th Infantry, which was known as the "fighting 69th" of World War days.

After the review, he returned to New York to rest a bit before attending a testimonial dinner sponsored by the Dublin Society of New York. Fifty-seven Irish organizations were represented.

The flyer today received a telephone call from Mayor La Guardia, who expressed regret at Corrigan's chest injury and invited him to be his guest again when he returns Thursday from visits to Boston, Newark, Baltimore and Washington.

"I feel great," Corrigan said, rubbing his taped chest with exploratory caution, "and I'm not going to have any X-rays made."

Somehow in the crush of cheering thousands during yesterday's parade and reception, Corrigan suffered his injury, diagnosed as a torn cartilage.

After leaving New York en route West, except for receptions in Milwaukee, St. Louis, San Antonio, Galveston, Long Beach, Los Angeles, San Francisco and the Cleveland air races, he has practically no commitments at all.

As for the future: "I have no plans, except to fly."

Police Expert Says Tests Show Bullet Came From Window of Republic Plant at Youngstown.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — James Fagan, C I O organizer, told the Senate Civil Liberties Committee today that, although the 1937 "Little Steel" strikers in Youngstown, O., hailed the arrival of the National Guard as intervention in their behalf, they quickly found that the reverse was true.

With John Steuben, C I O organizer, Fagan testified that thereafter organizers and picket captains were arrested and re-arrested, meeting places were taken away, union headquarters were padlocked, the homes of strikers were raided repeatedly, military trucks "roamed the streets," and militiamen and city police alike urged and ordered strikers to get back to work.

The militia arrived two days after an all-night battle between strikers and police in which two strikers were shot dead. Police contended then, and vigorously repeated today, that the only bullets involved in the battle were used by strikers themselves in a prolonged bombardment of the police forces. None of the police were wounded.

Four Strikers Tell of Firing.

The Committee heard today testimony by four strikers that they saw the flashes of shots from the Republic Steel mill, heard bullets click on buildings and steel oil tanks nearby, and that examination next day showed bullet holes and dents which from their location must have come from the mill.

George E. Brubach, Pittsburgh detective and firearms expert, testified also that his investigations showed one "high velocity rifle bullet" was fired from the vicinity of the Republic mill.

The bullet in question penetrated the front wall of a filling station facing the mill and then went through a door at the rear. Brubach stretched a "taut" line between the holes, he testified, fixed a "spotting scope" along that line, and, sighting through the hole by which the bullet entered the building, found a window of the Republic mill directly in his line of vision.

"In my opinion," he said, "that bullet came from the vicinity of the thirty-ninth window of the mill or from the railroad tracks directly in front of the mill."

Denies Police Had Rifles.

There had already been testimony by strikers that company police of the Republic mill were seen taking up positions along the railroad embankment.

Earl Butler, in charge of the company police, denied that his men had been so placed, and denied that they had been given rifles. Only shotguns were issued to them, he said.

Chairman La Follette of the investigating group presented a picture of what had been represented as a box of dynamite, allegedly found in the home of Russell Gibboney, a Youngstown striker. The picture was presented to the Senate Postoffice Committee last year by Tom Girdler, chairman of Republic, and was published widely.

Gibboney testified that the box actually contained wood ashes, to be used, in combination with certain chemicals, to remove "the hair from deer-hide." Not until yesterday, he added, was any official retraction made as to the contents of the box, and meanwhile he had suffered acute embarrassment among his friends and neighbors.

Says Strikers Shot at Planes.

Late in the day, the committee began a study of the strike as it affected Republic Steel plants at Warren and Niles, O.

Frank E. Flynn, district manager for Republic, testified that pickets shot at planes taking food to non-striking workers. Twenty-four hours after the strike was called, Flynn said, 3500 employes had gone on strike and 2300 remained in the plant. The problem of providing food proved acute, he said.

Pickets blocked the roadways, and by placing ties on the tracks prevented transportation of food into the plant.

"We had to use the airplane," he added.

In answer to La Follette's questions, he said much difficulty was experienced in getting the food shipments by air. He said one plane had "25 bullet holes in it."

On Sunday, he said, he left the plant to go to church. City officials declined to provide protection for him while getting back into the mill, he said, and he went to Cleveland and took a plane.

"They put a hole through that plane, too," he said.

PROF. HENRY VOSHOLL DIES

Retired in 1934 After 56 Years With Central Wesleyan College.

WARRENTON, Mo., Aug. 6. — Prof. Henry Vosholl, 86-year-old retired member of Central Wesleyan College's faculty, died last night of heart disease after a long illness.

He became a teacher at the college after his graduation in 1871, serving until 1876, when he continued his studies at Boston and Harvard Universities. In 1878 he rejoined Central Wesleyan's faculty, retiring in 1934 after serving as teacher and librarian for 56 years. He served a term as Representative from Warren County in the State Legislature.

CHIEF OF POLICE RESIGNS UNDER FIRE AT RACINE, WIS.

By the Associated Press.

RACINE, Wis., Aug. 6.—Grover C. Lutter, suspended as Chief of Police by Mayor Roy A. Spencer July 25, resigned today, three days before a hearing scheduled on charges of misfeassance in office, filed by the Mayor.

Lutter's attorneys issued a statement which said in part:

"Although I believe I could successfully meet those charges, it is inadvisable to air them at a public hearing. The publicity attendant to such a hearing, and the personal antagonisms and animosities that must necessarily be brought into the open, would make it impossible for me to function properly as Chief."

During Lutter's absence from the city July 22, Mayor Spencer ordered gambling raids which resulted in 90 arrests and confiscation of $15,000 worth of gambling equipment. The raids were followed by charges against Lutter, including sanction of gambling and conduct unbecoming an officer.

ALTON DAM LAKE NEAR ITS PERMANENT DEPTH

It Will Be Lowered Next Winter to Complete Clearing of Woods.

Alton Lake, formed in the Mississippi and Illinois rivers by the $8,800,000 navigation dam at Alton, was within one inch of its permanent stage yesterday, its highest level since the gates of the dam were closed last spring.

The lake, the surface of which at the Alton dam is 419 feet above mean sea level, stretches 38 miles up the Mississippi to Cap au Gris, the second dam in the series of 26 between Alton and St. Paul-Minneapolis. It runs 80 miles up the Illinois River from Grafton to La Grange, Ill. Its width varies from half a mile to two miles and it covers a total area of 62½ square miles.

About half of the old navigation dam at Kampsville, Ill., midway on the Illinois River arm of the pool, has been removed in recent weeks, so that this discarded dam no longer interferes with the maintenance of the pool stage in Alton Lake. The rest of the old dam will be torn out later.

The power, control and lighting system contract at the dam is expected to be completed this month. The only other work remaining to be done is the completion of the clearing of woods from inundated land. Lieutenant-Colonel P. S. Reinecke, district engineer of the Army Corps of Engineers, said to a Post-Dispatch reporter yesterday that the pool stage would be lowered for about two months next winter for this undertaking. For work along the Illinois River the corps and a contractor each will need about two weeks, but another contractor will require six weeks or more.

A large section of woods had to be left standing on the Missouri side of the Mississippi section of the lake because of labor trouble. Lieutenant-Colonel Reinecke said there had been no new instructions concerning this and no provision of money for it, but that it would be physically possible to clear this section, too, next winter.

The pool stage at Alton is 30 inches higher than the arbitrary 21-foot flood mark on the Weather Bureau gauge there. Some business establishments at Alton found it necessary last week to take precautions against flooding their property, but this was expected. The dam system was not designed for flood control.

Howard County Vote Correction.

By the Associated Press.

FAYETTE, Mo., Aug. 6.—A count of the absentee ballots today gave Roy Roberts of Fayette the Democratic nomination for County Clerk of Howard County by a majority of 62. The unofficial count Tuesday night showed Roberts leading his opponent, Dick Little, by 15 votes. Correction of an error in a Glasgow precinct gave Little the lead by 12 votes. Democratic nomination is equivalent to election in this county.

BEATING DISABLES OPPONENT AND SCHADING WINS

With President, David A. Jones, in Hospital, Union Upholds Business Agent 141 to 140.

David A. Jones, president of the electricians' union, is at Deaconess Hospital suffering from a compound fracture of the left leg and other injuries sustained Friday afternoon when he was assaulted by two Negroes a few hours before he was to have presided at a union meeting.

At the meeting opponents of the union's business agent, Arthur Schading, lost by one vote their effort to strip him of the power he has to remove union members from their jobs. Jones is a leader of the anti-Schading group in the union.

Jones told a Post-Dispatch reporter at the hospital he thought he knew the reason for the assault, but declined to say what his opinion was. He said he could identify one of his assailants.

Warning Telephone Call.

About 10 o'clock Friday night someone who refused to give his name telephoned to Jones' home and told his daughter: "Tell Dave to hurry up and get well so we can give him a couple more."

Schading was taken to Police Headquarters yesterday for questioning about the assault. He told police he had no knowledge of it until he observed, at Friday night's meeting, that Jones was not present and inquired concerning the reason for his absence.

Jones, who had been working as an electrician at the Tower Grove Bank & Trust Co., 3134 South Grand boulevard, was beaten with an iron pipe in the basement of the bank building as he was changing his clothes at 4:30 o'clock in the afternoon, preparing to go home.

No Attempt at Robbery.

Jones told police no effort was made to rob him, although his watch and wallet were in plain sight. His assailants, on entering the basement, said they had gone there to remove old papers.

Approaching the union president, they began, without explanation, to beat him. They knocked him to the floor and belabored him with the pipe, about 18 inches long, one of the blows breaking his leg.

Jones, 58 years old, lives at 109 Arthur avenue, Webster Groves. He was elected president of the union last June 25, defeating Frank Kaufman, a Schading supporter who sought re-election.

Results of Election.

At the election, although Schading's opponents failed in their efforts to replace him as business agent, they obtained control of the union's executive board.

The motion defeated at Friday's meeting, by a vote of 141 to 140, would have transferred Schading's unrestricted power to remove union members from their jobs to the executive board.

The assault on Jones was discussed at the meeting before the vote on the motion to curtail the business agent's power. Discussion was long and heated and the noise coming from the Electrical Workers' Hall, at Boyle and Gibson avenues, was such that residents of the neighborhood gathered outside.

LABOR BOARD'S RADIO HEARING TO BE RESUMED TOMORROW

Union Expects to Complete Presentation of Case; Collective Bargaining Involved.

The National Labor Relations Board hearing on the petition of the American Federation of Radio Artists for certification as collective bargaining agency for all persons who speak, act or sing before the microphones of four St. Louis radio stations, will be resumed tomorrow at the Federal Building.

Henry Jaffe, counsel and organizer for the union, said he probably would complete presentation of his case tomorrow, as only three or four witnesses remained to testify for the union. The hearing began Thursday.

Managements of the stations, contending that the functions and interests of staff announcers differ from those of free lance singers and actors, have raised the question as to whether announcers should be included in the same bargaining unit. The hearing does not involve charges of unfair labor practice.

RADIO TALK ON GROWTH OF ZOO ANIMAL SHOWS

The origin and development of the animal shows at the St. Louis Zoo were discussed last night by George P. Vierheller, director of the Zoo, on a Community Forum radio broadcast.

The idea for the shows originated about 15 years ago, Vierheller said, and the first star of the show was Sam, an orang utan that was fond of ice-cream cones. Sam's antics so delighted the public that it was decided to expand the idea of performing animals.

"At first," Vierheller remarked, "the circus idea shocked many persons because of the fear of old-fashioned training methods." He added that harsh training methods had never been used at the Zoo, and that kindness and rewards for laudable efforts had been the key to success.

EX-GOV. JOSEPH FIFER OF ILLINOIS DIES AT 97

State Executive From 1889 to 1893 Is Victim of Heart Attack.

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ill., Aug. 6.—Joseph Wilson Fifer, who was Governor of Illinois from 1889 to 1893, died at his home here today from a heart attack. He was 97 years old. He had been ill for two weeks and a physician had visited him less than an hour before his death.

A daughter, Mrs. Florence Fifer Bohrer, announced the death, which occurred at 10:40 a. m. Mrs. Bohrer once was a State Senator, an office her father also held.

Gov. Fifer was a lifelong Republican. He was born in Staunton, Va., Oct. 28, 1840, and moved to McLean County in his youth.

When the Civil War broke out, he enlisted with his brother, George, in Company C, Thirty-third Illinois Volunteers. He served two years and was gravely wounded July 13, 1863, before the Confederate works at Jackson, Miss., when a minne ball pierced his right lung.

The devotion of a comrade, Johnston B. Lott, who carried ice from Vicksburg to keep down the fever, saved his life. The wound handicapped him all through life.

After the War, College.

When the war ended, he was 25 years old. He entered Illinois Wesleyan University at Bloomington and by hard work and frugal living, obtained his diploma in 1868. He then began the study of law.

His first public office was as City Attorney of Bloomington. Later he served eight years as State's Attorney. The story was told of how after he had worked hard to obtain a conviction of a criminal and the man had been sentenced to 25 years' imprisonment, he exclaimed "thank God, it was not hanging."

In 1880 he was elected State Senator. In 1888 he made the race for Governor and it was during this campaign that he won his soubriquet of "Private Joe." Years later he told the story in an interview.

"You see, I had six candidates against me for the nomination—Gen. Smith, then Lieutenant-Governor; Gen. McNulty, Gen. Reinecker, Col. Clark E. Carr, Maj. Connelly and Capt. Frank Wright. I was the only private soldier among the contenders and the cry went up, 'Why not elect a private?' It took like wildfire. Then, in the election, John M. Palmer, a Major-General, was against me—and that settled it. I was elected."

Defeated by Altgeld.

He was inaugurated Jan. 14, 1889. He sought re-election, but was defeated by John P. Altgeld, a Democrat.

During Gov. Fifer's administration the Australian ballot system of conducting elections was enacted into law. He had supported the bill.

Gov. Fifer later was an Interstate Commerce Commissioner. For many years he was a trustee of Illinois Wesleyan University.

He married Miss Gertrude Lewis, June 13, 1870. They had two children, Mrs. Bohrer, and Herman Fifer, now dead.

On the day Gov. Fifer was 97, he received congratulatory messages from many prominent persons, including President Roosevelt and Gov. Horner.

Gov. Fifer fell and fractured his left hip last March. The fracture was completely healed, Mrs. Bohrer said, despite his age.

In his last years he kept abreast of world events by having newspapers read to him daily. This continued almost to the day of his death.

STATE SALES TAX REPEAL PETITIONS GO OUT TOMORROW

Initiative Proposal Sought to Be Submitted to Voters at November Election.

Initiative petitions to place on the ballot in the November election a proposal for repeal of the State sales tax will be circulated throughout the State, starting tomorrow, by the Consumers' Association of Missouri, it was announced last night by Charles P. GERMAN PLANE STARTS FOR U. S. TOMORROW

Nazis' Biggest Condor to Try Non-Stop Flight From Bremen.

By the Associated Press.

BREMEN, Aug. 6.—Germany's latest, fastest and largest all-metal landplane, a 26-passenger, four-motored Condor monoplane, was made ready in its airport hangar here tonight for a non-stop flight to New York.

Its departure originally was set for Sunday morning, but was postponed, at least until Monday. Apparently delay arose in connection with the crew or cargo.

Preparations for the flight had been made in secrecy, and leaked out only after word came from Washington that the flight was about to be undertaken and that a permit had been granted for the plane to land in Alaska and the United States.

The plane is Diesel-powered, a product of the Focke-Wulff Airplane Co. here.

The four engines, 870-horsepower machines built in Bavarian motor works, were checked over carefully to insure their usual performance giving an average speed of 240 miles an hour and a maximum of 270.

The smoking cabin for nine guests and a non-smokers' compartment for 17 were made shipshape to make the best possible impression on its arrival in the United States.

Although news of the proposed flight was disclosed in the United States, the German public has not the faintest idea Germany is bidding for international recognition as a factor in future trans-Atlantic mail and passenger service.

Orders at the Focke-Wulff plant were to withhold all news until the plane reaches New York. The reticence was believed due to the fact that enormous advance publicity had been given out concerning an attempt June 27 to fly a Condor plane to Cairo, Egypt, and back in one day.

The plane, similar to the one set for the New York hop, reached Cairo, 1972 miles from Berlin, in slightly under 11 hours, but on the return trip developed wireless trouble and landed at Salonika, Greece.

Aviation circles expect a successful flight to New York and a speedy return to Germany will be a forerunner of a round-the-world flight, although the Air Ministry denies such a trip is contemplated.

JAPANESE REPORT RUSSIAN CHARGE ON HILL REPULSED

made a slight advance on the disputed Changkufeng Heights.

An earlier Japanese army communique said Russian troops "advanced apparently planning to attack" but were dispersed by Japanese artillery while Soviet planes roared over Korean soid adjacent to the battle zone.

Thirteen bombers and six pursuit planes flew over Changkufeng, the Japanese said, but dropped no bombs. Later they were sighted over Korean territory and two planes were downed by Japanese anti-aircraft fire, the Japanese said.

Domei, Japanese News Agency, reported the Japanese Ambassador to Moscow, Mamoru Shigemitsu, had received fresh instructions to proceed with diplomatic negotiations sticking to lines already laid down in conferences with Litvinov.

Japan first suggested mutual troop withdrawals from the danger zone pending demarcation of the frontier between Siberia and Japanese-supported Manchoukuo.

Litvinov countered with the statement that Russia would withdraw if Japan recognized validity of the Russian-Chinese treaty of 1886 which puts Changkufeng within Siberia's boundaries.

Soviet forces occupied the Changkufeng area July 11 only to lose it July 29 to a Japanese attack that has been followed by continuous bitter warfare.

Domei dispatches reported the Soviet Government had renewed demands for closing of two Japanese consulates, those in Khabarovsk and Blagoveschensk, important cities of Eastern Siberia.

The new request was said to have demanded shutting the consulates within 48 hours, a further complication to Soviet-Japanese relations.

Despite military developments, the Foreign Office spokesman remained optimistic that frontier fighting would be kept to an isolated area and said "some progress" toward a peaceful solution had been made in the Shigemitsu-Litvinov talks.

Domei reports said the Japanese air force at Changkufeng had not yet been called out to meet new Soviet aerial movements.

Soviet planes were said by Domei to have dropped 40 bombs near the police station of Inkel, Korean village on the Tumen River's south bank.

Charles Kroener, 51 years old, unemployed baker, ended his life yesterday in a room where he stayed at 1411A Chouteau avenue by inhaling gas. He was found with a blanket over his head with a hose extending to an open gas jet.

In a note he asked that his mother, residing in Evansville, Ind., be notified, and said, "I don't want to die, but see no other way out. Wherever I'm going, I hope there won't be any W P A or bakers' union."

$40,000,000 EXPORT PACT WITH RUSSIA

Soviet Expresses Intention of Exceeding Figure in New Trade Agreement.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The United States and Soviet Russia renewed today a commercial agreement in which Russia expressed the intention of increasing its purchases of American goods beyond a minimum of $40,000,000 a year.

This minimum was exceeded in the first nine months of the year, covered by the previous agreement, which expired yesterday. In this period American imports of Russian goods were $17,561,000.

The renewal was effected through an exchange of notes at Moscow between Alexander C. Kirk, the American charge d'affaires, and Maxim Litvinov, Foreign Affairs Commissar.

In return for the guaranteed Soviet purchases, this Government gives Russian imports benefits of the tariff and other concessions in the reciprocal trade treaties already signed with 17 nations.

In extending the agreement the United States made a reservation, however, regarding imports of Soviet coal, which are limited to 400,000 tons annually. An American producer challenged the exemption which has been granted these imports from the $2-a-ton excise tax imposed by the 1932 Revenue Act, and the question was referred to the Treasury for a decision.

The 400,000-ton quota was continued. The State Department noted Soviet coal shipments actually were "considerably less" than this.

It was the third renewal of an agreement originally signed in 1935. Since then, official figures show, trade with Russia has risen steadily, the trade balance materially favoring the United States.

Prior to the agreements, in the three calendar years 1932 to 1934, inclusive, the Soviet Union bought from the United States an annual average of $12,000,000 worth of goods.

The successive agreements, the State Department said, "have provided a basis for the successful expansion of trade between the two countries although the commitments contained in these agreements probably cannot be considered entirely responsible for the trade increases."

In the first two years, the Soviet-guaranteed minimum of purchases was $30,000,000, which was increased by a third a year ago.

Russia as well as the United States has profited, the State Department said, citing record American imports of $27,000,000 worth of Russian goods in 1937.

MAN KILLED AT HOT SPRINGS WANTED IN TWO MYSTERIES

Earl Young Suspected in Killing of Two Women, Disappearance of Tourists From Illinois.

By the Associated Press.

EL PASO, Tex., Aug. 6.—An ex-convict who was shot to death when he attempted to escape from Hot Springs (Ark.) officers yesterday had been sought for questioning in two of the Southwest's major mysteries, Sheriff Chris Fox said today.

The Sheriff said he had been looking for the man, Earl Young, 28 years old, of Lebanon, Pa., in connection with the killing near here last Mach of Mrs. Hazel Frome and her daughter, Nancy, of Berkeley, Cal. The Federal Bureau of Investigation also sought him, Fox said, for questioning concerning the disappearance three years ago of Mr. and Mrs. George Lorius of East St. Louis, Ill., and Mr. and Mrs. Albert Heberer of Du Quoin, Ill., when on a tour of the West.

Hot Springs authorities telegraphed police here that Young had been in the vicinity of El Paso when the Frome women were killed.

GLENN FRANK PUTS 4 QUESTIONS UP TO VOTERS OF NATION

They Involve Self-Government, Free Enterprise, Economy of Plenty and Bill of Rights.

RESULT OF FIVE-DAY FORUM ON PROGRAM

G. O. P. Committee Chairman Says New Deal Seeks "Political Monopoly of Economic Life."

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6. — Chairman Glenn Frank of the Republican Program Committee accused the Roosevelt administration tonight of "persistent undermaning of economic leadership in its drive for a political monopoly of our economic life."

He asserted in a radio address the American people must answer with their ballots four questions which he said were posed by the administration.

Frank, in amplifying the committee's report yesterday of its progress after a five-day forum on social and economic problems, said the committee's work had convinced its members that answers must be speedly found for these questions:

"1.—Shall we retain and perfect representative self-government, in the American tradition ,or shall we, in the newer European tradition, shift virtually all power to the Federal Government . . . and henceforth trust for progress to the decisions of an unduly centralized authority?

"2.—Shall we carry on our economic life under a system of free enterprise, adequately regulated to prevent abuse . . . or shall we turn to a politically-planned economy dominated and controlled from Washington?

"3.—Shall we take full human advantage of the plenty we are equipped to produce ,or shall we legislate a retreat to an age of scarcity . . . ?

"4.—Shall we maintain the Bill of Rights tradition of free speech, free press, free assembly, right of petition, and guaranty against unreasonable search and seizure, or shall we assume that the liquidation o foppositions, freely practised elsewhere, is a new ethics of American politics and that, once we put an administration in power, it becomes social treason not to beat the drums for its every policy?"

Frank declared these questions were not "four sham battles staged by a political opposition seeing conflicts of principle that do not exist."

"In these four questions," he said, "two utterly different philosophies of the American future are in head-on collision."

He emphasized that the program committee was not commissioned to speak for the Republican party as a whole. The committee was charged, he said, with the duty of making recommendations to the Republican National Committee regarding national issues and policies.

3 SUE FOR ESTATE THEY SAY UNCLE WANTED THEM TO GET

George E. Helfers and His Sisters Seek to Enforce Alleged Agreement.

George E. Helfers of St. Louis County and his two sisters filed suit in Circuit Court yesterday to enforce an alleged agreement in 1909 between their uncle, the late Charles Helfers of Los Angeles, and his wife whereby they were to receive his property on the wife's death. Under the agreement, the petition said, the wife was to be beneficiary of the property during her life.

The wife died in 1935, the petition continued, leaving the property, valued at $60,000, to Mrs. Lillian Williams, who resided at 1125 North Grand boulevard. Mrs. Williams, it was stated, died last year, leaving her estate to Dr. C. S. O'Connor, 7221 St. Andrews road, after several specific bequests, including $3000 to the Pentecostal Church, 4017 Easton avenue. An inventory valued Mrs. Williams' estate at $21,750.

Helfers and his sisters, Mrs. Henrietta Backowski and Miss Celeste Helfers, asked for a judgment awarding the estate to them. Helfers resides at 8713 Garvin avenue.

BELLEVILLE, Ont., Aug. 6 (Canadian Press).—Hugh Jones, 44-year-old farmer, spent six days in a swampy bog up to his neck, but has an even chance to recover.

Jones fell into the bog while walking along the bank of Crow River.

18 WALRUSES CHARGE HUNTERS IN ALASKA

Senator Reynolds Among Those Engaged in Providing Provisions for Wainwright.

By the Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Aug. 6.—Eighteen walruses charged a boatload of hunters near Wainwright, Alaska, on the Arctic Ocean, a radio dispatch from the Coast Guard cutter Northland announced today.

Previously Senator Reynolds of North Carolina shot a 3000-pound walrus bull at 20 yards. The hunt provided 35,000 pounds of walrus meat for the natives of Wainwright.

Two wounded walrus cows and a wounded bull with 15 others attacked the hunters later.

"The hunters were directed to pick certain bulls for slaughter," Lieutenant-Commander Robert C. Sarratt, leading the exposition, radioed. "Evidently the animals smelled the blood and about 15 charged the boat. The crew paddled desperately for the ice floe and the wounded bull walrus hooked its tusk over the gunwhale of one boat, nearly capsizing it. A shot into its neck killed it and finally frightened the others away."

G. O. P. CHARGES LEVY ON U. S. EMPLOYES

Asserts Democratic National Treasurer Seeks Campaign Gifts From Them.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The Republican National Committee called upon the Civil Service Commission today to protect Federal workers from a "shakedown" which it said had been undertaken by Oliver A. Quayle Jr., treasurer of the Democratic National Committee.

The committee made public what it said was a copy of a letter sent out over Quayle's signature to Civil Service as well as non-Civil Service employes. It said the Democratic treasurer had written as follows:

"We have before us this year a very essential congressional election which is most vital to the Democratic administration. Your national committee, therefore, is charged with a grave responsibility and gifts are needed to assure another New Deal victory.

"Now, under these circumstances, may I ask you to lend your assistance in the interest of the Democratic party. I will be happy indeed to accept it personally should you prefer to call at my office."

The Republican National Committee said Quayle had sent out a less firm letter previously, but that the response to it apparently had not been encouraging.

Under civil service regulations, the committee declared, no Federal employe was under any obligation to contribute to any political party.

"In view of Mr. Quayle's activities," it added, "the Civil Service Commission should now publicly come to the protection of Federal workers."

ROOSEVELT AS POPULAR AS EVER, FARLEY SAYS

Democratic Chairman Accompanied by Wheeler to Glacier Park After Alaska Trip.

GLACIER NATIONAL PARK, Mont., Aug. 6.—Postmaster-General James A. Farley, back from his trip to Alaska, said today President Roosevelt "is just as popular as he ever was and people are just as keenly interested in his program and policies."

During his two-day stay in Glacier National Park, Farley, who is also Democratic national chairman, was accompanied by Senator Burton K. Wheeler (Dem.), Montana, who met him in Banff, Alberta, and came here with him. Farley predicted victory for Democratic candidates in Montana in the general election.

Life Insurance Concern to Lend $550,000 and P W A Is to Put Up $450,000.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Ralph Chapman, president of the University of Illinois Foundation, announced today that a million dollars had been assured for erection of a student center at the University in Urbana.

Chapman's announcement was made immediately after members of the executive committee had arranged for a loan of $550,000 from the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Co. The loan enables the foundation to accept a P W A grant of $450.000. It will be amortized over a period of 20 years through a small increase of student fees.

The structure will be opened for student, faculty and alumni use by September, 1939, provided alumni gifts of $250,000 to furnish the building are realized during the coming year, Chapman said. The necessary ground was sold to the foundation last Monday by the university trustees.

Ernest L. Stouffer, university architect, is designing the building. The center will be used by both men and women.

VICTOR BY 3 LENGTHS GETS $8,000, FULL PURSE

By the Associated Press.

SARATOGA, SPRINGS, N. Y., Aug. 6.—El Chico, unbeaten two-year-old from the barn of William Ziegler Jr, took another long leap toward the 1938 juvenile turf championship today when he equalled the six-furlong track record in winning the thirty-sixth Saratoga Special.

The chestnut son of John P. Grier-La Chica stepped the distance in 1:10 2-5 under 122 pounds He led from end to end and reported to the judges three lengths on top for his fifth straight victory.

George D. Widener's Eight Thirty, breaking faster than in his last appearance, supplied what little contention there was from the start. The Flash Stakes winner was second by four lengths. Mrs. Payne Whitney's Third Degree finished third, far clear of the five other two-year-olds.

Winner Takes All.

Since the conditions of the Special, the most sporting event on the American turf, called for the winner to take all, El Chico earned $8000 and a gold cup for the easy journey and boosting his winnings to $31,550. Backers of the Ziegler colt received only 2 to 5.

There was little to the running of the race. Nick Wall broke El Chico in front from the outside post position. The colt quickly opened up daylight advantage on Eight Thirty and lengthened his lead in the last furlong. His performance was all the more remarkable since the track record was set by Jyntee as a three-year-old in 1913 and equalled only once, by Polymelian, since then.

Great Union Victory.

Ziegler tried for a double in the mile and three-sixteenths of the Merchants and Citizens Handicap, but his five-year-old mare, Esposa, beaten only a nose by War Admiral last week, was left flat-footed at the start. She just galloped along back of the field, finishing last in the role of the 13 to 10 choice.

Victory in the race went to Mrs. E. Graham Lewis' Great Union, a 20 to 1 shot. Setting all the pace under 105 pounds, the three-year-old son of Sir Gallahad scored by three lengths to earn the purse of $7600.

Walter M. Jeffords' Regal Lily moved up from fourth place in the stretch to take runner-up honors by a nose over William Woodward's Isolator.

Rutledge Loses in Final.

BAR HARBOR, Me., Aug. 6.—Thomas G. Rutledge of St. Louis lost in the final match of the Bar Harbor tennis tournament concluded here yesterday.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Goliath, Here I Come!

HENRY ARMSTRONG, built up to the proportions of a Goliath by his knockout record, by his conquest of champions in two fight classes, and by the press buildup that followed his ring successes, is girding himself for his effort to capture a third title and wreck the present champion, Lou Ambers.

In the estimation of the public and in the opinion of expert authorities as reflected in the early odds on Armstrong, Lou seems merely a bold young David, hazarding a setto with an unconquerable giant. Armstrong is supposed to be a super-fighter; Lou just another boxer.

What must be the feeling of a fighter who hears day by day on every hand about the famous deeds of his foe; who reads scores of predictions that he hasn't a chance against the "Negro marvel"; and who finds himself considered as good as eliminated before ever a blow is struck.

The psychological effect of such continued and almost systematic belittlement must be devastating. What will Lou, seated in his corner waiting the first bell, say to himself as he gazes on his superman rival?

It's the Real Test.

RIGHT THERE will be the real test for Louis D'Ambrosio, the Italian-American boy from Herkimer, N. Y., who is staking everything against what is declared to be almost hopeless odds.

The chances are Lou, who has been under fire before and acquitted himself well, will say: "Well, he's just my size; doesn't weigh any more; has only two hands and two feet; can't see any better or move any faster. What's he got on me?

"Punch? He couldn't put down

Bobby Riggs (right), who has been having a highly successful tennis campaign, successfully defended his Meadow Club championship against Sidney B. Wood, in the final match yesterday, winning by 6-0, 6-3, 7-5. Before the match, it was said the victor likely would get the No. 2 singles berth on the United States Davis Cup team.

RIGGS DEFEATS WOOD IN FINAL

By the Associated Press.

SOUTHAMPTON, N. Y., Aug. 6.—Bobby Riggs of Chicago, America's second ranking tennis player, dealt a crushing blow to Sidney Wood's comeback campaign today when he beat the New Yorker, 6-0, 6-3, 7-5, in the final of the forty-eighth annual Meadow Club invitation tennis tournament. The victory gave Riggs his second leg on the Meadow Club bowl.

The young Chicagoan also took another step toward clinching the No. 2 singles berth on the United States Davis Cup team. Before the match he and Wood were recognized as two of the outstanding candidates, but Wood, tired after two hard matches yesterday, didn't appear to be in Riggs' class today.

There was some doubt whether Wood would play in the singles final, for he had a squabble with the tournament committee over playing yesterday's doubles match and threatened to default unless his sore muscles responded to treatment overnight. The start today was delayed an hour while Wood visited an osteopath, who assured him no harm would come from his playing.

Wood Limps.

Wood limped considerably during the first set, favoring his left leg, but appeared better able to move around the court as the match progressed.

Riggs started off using speed and power to take the opening set at love. During the second set Bobby softened his game, dropping the ball into the forecourt and occasionally hoisting lobs over Wood's head. Wood scored a few points on spectacular passing shots, but seldom could outguess Riggs, who made some incredible returns.

There might have been a different story if the old Sergeant had another relief pitcher like Fred Johnson, late of Toledo. In fact, Gabby probably was wishing that he had several of them, and when Les Tietje, after five good frames, suddenly wilted, the leader of the Browns decided that as he had only one Fred Johnson, he might as well make the most of it.

But it was too much for Johnson. The veteran, who had pitched a full game on Friday, stopped the sixth-inning Philadelphia uprising, but he didn't have enough left after his hard work of the day before, and the Mackmen whacked him merrily in the seventh and eighth, seven hits in those frames producing five runs, or one more than the Mackmen's margin of victory.

Snappy Duel—for a While.

During the early innings, it was as snappy a pitching duel as you'd care to see. There was only one hit off Tietje in the first five frames, and only two off Luther Thomas, a young righthander. Werber's pass and a double by Brucker had given the Mackmen a run in the fourth, and Roy Hughes had tied the score in the fifth with a home-run drive into the left-field bleachers.

Then in the sixth, Tietje suddenly faded. He walked Brucker, Bob Johnson doubled, Sperry singled and when Haas singled, driving in the second run of the inning, Manager Street wig-wagged to the bullpen and the hard-working Fred Johnson trudged to the hill.

Moses' safe bunt, Brucker's single, Sperry's double and Parker's infield out produced two runs in the seventh and in the eighth Finney's safe bunt Werber's triple and Bob Johnson's homer to the left field seats increased the Philadelphia total to eight.

Buster Mills' infield hit and Sperry's error on Bell's grounder set the stage for the second Brownie run of the game to cross the plate in the seventh while Hughes was hitting into a double play.

Clift Hits Home Run.

Clift batted for Heffner with one out in the eighth, and hit into the left-field seats for his sixteenth homer of the season, after which Mazzera batted for Johnson and

JIMMY BROWN LEADS 12-HIT ATTACK WITH FOUR SINGLES

By a Special Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

PHILADELPHIA, Aug. 6:—The fumbling Phillies threw a scare into the Cardinals in the ninth inning of the second game of the series at Shibe Park here today, but when it was all over the Redbirds were on top, 7-6, for their second straight victory.

Bob Weiland was breezing along, defending a 7-4 lead, when Heine Mueller opened the ninth with a two-bagger. The Cardinal southpaw retired Pinch-Hitter Pinkey Whitney, but Myers fumbled Jordan's roller. When emergency swinger Bill Atwood slashed a safety to center, Frankie Frisch jumped out of the dugout and that was the end of Weiland.

Also, it was the end for the Phillies, because Curt Davis, a former Phillie, replaced Weiland and erased the two long-distance lefthanders of the Quakers, Chuck Klein and Phil Weintraub, only one more run counting. The game ended with Terry Moore racing to the wall in center for Weintraub's drive.

Eleventh Victory of Year.

Despite his inability to finish, Weiland twirled a pretty fair brand of ball to score his eleventh victory of the season. He was hit hard and often, but when in trouble, the lefthander called on his Sunday pitch, which invariably developed into a double-play ball and the Phils failed to take advantage of their 11 safeties.

On one occasion the Quakers had the sacks loaded with none out in the fifth and after Gil Brack's double scored a pair, the sacks were jammed again and for the third time in the afternoon the infield came through with a twin killing.

Al Hollingsworth wasn't so fortunate. The Cards nicked him for 11 of their 12 safe blows, but instead of double plays the Phils made errors behind him and three of them led to four runs.

Jimmy Brown was the ring leader of the Cards attack with four consecutive singles. His last safety came in the seventh, breaking a 4-4 deadlock and was followed by the game-clinching smash, a triple off the right field wall by Johnny Mize.

Starts Own Downfall.

Hollingsworth started his own downfall in the seventh when he passed Weiland Terry Moore singled and so did Brown, then Mize tripled. The Redbirds made their first tally in the third on singles by Moore, Brown and Pepper Martin. They picked up three more in the fifth on singles by Owen and Brown plus a two-base muff of Martin's drive by Hershel Martin, Pepper coming home on Medwick's double off the right field wall. Had Martin held the ball the side would have been retired.

The series with the Phillies ends tomorrow, when a double-header is scheduled with Roy Henshaw and Fiddler McGee likely to pitch for the Redbirds against Wild Bill Hallahan and Claude Passeau.

ODDS AGAINST ARMSTRONG VICTORY OVER AMBERS TUMBLE

HENRY WOULD BE FIRST TO HOLD 3 TITLES

Negro, Quoted at 4-1 Recently, Now Down to 13-5 to Win Lightweight Crown Wednesday Night.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Little Henry Armstrong, former St. Louisan, goes shooting Wednesday night for something no boxer has ever attained—a third major ring title in less than a year.

Last October, after a sensational charge to the top through the trial horses, Henry belted out game little Petey Sarron of Birmingham to become undisputed featherweight champion of the world.

Exactly seven months later to the day he made a quick raid into the welterweight division to wear down a stout-hearted Barney Ross and annex the 147-pound title. Lou Ambers and his lightweight crown are next on the list.

Ambers and Armstrong are booked over the championship 15-round route at the Polo Grounds Wednesday night. If the Armstrong winning streak continues, he'll be the first man in boxing history to wear three crowns at the same time.

Armstrong, hailed as the outstanding fighter of 1937, was a 3 to 1 favorite at the start, but the best you could get along Broadway today was 13 to 5 on the Negro and most of the operators were stingy about that. They wanted to cut it to 12 to 5. By ring time it is not unlikely the odds will be down to 2 to 1 or lower.

Ambers, the "Herkimer Hurricane" is looking fit again after a so-so campaign on the Pacific Coast. And during the last few days a flood of Ambers money has poured into Broadway. Nobody knows where it's coming from, but it's there. Those who have it insist on odds, but they're settling for 2½ to 1.

From the standpoint of Mike Jacobs, the promoter, the bout likely will prove a flop. Jacobs needs $60,000 to break even and right now the advance sales are a long way from that mark. They've picked up the past two days, however, leading Jacobs to predict a gross gate of around $100,000.

Over at Summit, N. J., Ambers has been showing superb form. His speed, boxing ability and his knack of shooting punches from all angles and directions have his supporters all hopped up. Many think Ambers' legs and his ability to take it will keep him in there 15 rounds and retain his championship.

On the other hand, Armstrong has been pretty much of a puzzle. He can hit a lot harder than the lightweight king, if not as often and he has the speed and endurance to carry on. But until Thursday the brown boy's training camp showing was so poor as to be almost pathetic.

MRS. THOMPSON AND MISS TRIBOUT MEET IN EAST ST. LOUIS FINAL

Mrs. Bert Thompson, defending champion, reached the final of the East St. Louis Municipal women's singles tennis championship by defeating Margaret Tribout, 6-0, 6-3, at Jones Park yesterday. Mrs. Thompson will oppose Lillian Tribout in the final this afternoon at 2 o'clock.

Pete Shukest reached the final of the men's singles by defeating Tom Shanklin, 6-3, 6-2, 6-3, in the semifinals and will oppose Norman Dean in the final this afternoon at 1 o'clock. Dean and Karl Kammann led Carl Neureuther and Shanklin, 6-1, 6-2, in their doubles semifinal which was halted by darkness yesterday. The match will be resumed today and the winners will oppose Shukest and Larry Harper in the doubles final.

St. Louis and Indianapolis in Typos' Opener

St. Louis Union Printers will be host to visitors from 10 other cities when the twenty-eighth annual tournament of the Union Printers' International Baseball League begins on Grounds No. 11 in Forest Park today, with Indianapolis playing the local typesetters in the first game of the first round, starting at 2:30 o'clock. This will be the only game played today, but beginning tomorrow there will be four games, with St. Louis and Indianapolis remaining idle until Tuesday.

This is the third time the tournament has been held here, St. Louis having been host in 1911 and 1926. Washington, present holder of the Garry Herrmann $1000 trophy, emblematic of the championship, has won the trophy 13 times in 28 years.

The schedule for tomorrow will be drawn immediately after the completion of today's game. All games are scheduled to be played on the new athletic field in Forest Park opposite the Jewel Box.

St. Louis won its only championship in the tournament in 1915.

Rev. Keaney in Final.

Rev. Melvin Keaney, the defending champion, will oppose Sylvester Appelbaum in the final of the Magnolia tennis tournament today. Rev. Keaney defeated Gus Fellhauer, 6-0, 6-3, in the semifinals.

Four St. Louis Girls in National Track Meet Today

NAUGATUCK, Conn., Aug. 6.—Most of last year's champions were listed to appear here tomorrow to defend their honors in the Women's National A. A. U. track and field meet at Recreation Field.

Among the 87 entries, representing many of the outstanding female athletes in the United States and Canada is Roxy Atkins of Toronto, Canada.

Miss Atkins is the international and Canadian 80-meters champion.

Other title holders expected to compete include Cora Gaines of Tuskegee Institute, 80 meters; Lula May Hymes of Tuskegee, running broad jump.

Other leading entries included Tidye Pickett, Leora Johnson, Genevieve Brick, Jane Willoughby, Ada Meyers and Katherine Hurd of Chicago; Thelma Lalumondier, May Brady, Beulah Clark and Dixie Oehler of St. Louis; Gertrude Johnson and Frances Sazczak of Cleveland.

Thelma Lalumondier, Crystal City star, with May Brady will compete in the sprints; Beulah Clark, Belleville girl in the high jump and Dixie Oehler, is entered in the baseball throw.

The St. Louis team is in charge of James Blanton, coach of the Crystal City High School team, during its stay in the East.

Meeting Tuesday To Plan Annual Softball Tourney

Managers and sponsors of amateur softball teams in the St. Louis area, will meet Tuesday night at the Ozark A. A. U. headquarters, 211 De Soto Hotel, to formulate plans for the annual local tournament, the winner of which will qualify for the national amateur meet in Chicago next month. The meeting will be presided over by Ed Schaeffer, St. Louis Commissioner for the Amateur Softball Association of America. Schaeffer is desirous of contacting teams from the Y. M. C. A. Industrial League; independent industrial plant teams; squads from the Brokers League and municipal teams.

The A. S. A. of A. is affiliated with the National A. A. U. and the local tournament has the sanction of the Ozark A. A. U. To be eligible to compete in the tournament, teams must be registered with Schaeffer, who can be reached at his home, 5215 Neosho street, FL. 4772. Anyone interested in placing a team in the tourney is invited to attend the meeting.

WALTHER LEAGUE STARS IN TRACK MEET TODAY

The Senior and Junior Walther League societies' star athletes will compete this afternoon in the annual St. Louis Lutheran Walther League track and field meet at Beaumont High School starting at 2 o'clock.

The entrants will compete in the usual sprints, relays, and jumping events as well as in distance throwing events. There will be team and individual trophies at stake.

South Ends Play Undefeated Team

An undefeated team this season, boasting 18 victories, will be the opponent of the South End semi-pro baseball team tonight. The Springfield (Mo.) Yellowjackets will try to make it 19 in a row at the South End Park, Kingshighway and Hartford. Game time is 8:30 o'clock.

Pitchers Jackson and Allison have divided the 18 victories scored by the Yellowjackets. They formerly played in the Western Association.

Last year Springfield reached the final of the Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma tournament where it was defeated by the Picher (Ok.) club which went to the National Semi-pro final at Wichita.

John Dobernic probably will pitch for the South Ends tonight.

MISSES JACOBSON AND SCHOCK TO PLAY IN KANSAS TOURNEY

Frances Jacobson and Jean Schock will depart today to participate in the annual Kansas State tennis championship, which opens tomorrow at Independence, Kan. The two players are entered in the singles and will pair in the doubles.

Miss Jacobson is a former St. Louis District indoor women's singles champion. Last week she scored a big upset by defeating Lois Keene, county champion, in the St. Louis Municipal women's singles championship.

Miss Schock is a member of the Missouri Valley Junior Wightman Cup squad and ranks near the top in girls' tennis in the St. Louis district. She was finalist in the Municipal girl's singles tournament last year.

KEANEY AND R. WIESE AGAIN IN MUNY FINAL

By Davison Obear.

Frank Keaney, defending champion from Reservoir Park, will oppose Ray Wiese, O'Fallon Park, for the Municipal men's singles tennis championship on the Jefferson Memorial courts in Forest Park at 1:30 o'clock this afternoon.

The champion defeated Wayne Smith, Jefferson Memorial player, 6-2, 7-5, 6-2, in one of the semifinals yesterday. Keaney's greater stroke variety gave him the advantage over Smith, who, however, played a much better game than in previous tournaments. Smith had set point once in the second set but lacked steadiness.

Ray Wiese entered the final for the second successive year by defeating Ward Parker, Reservoir Park, in a very close battle, 6-1, 4-6, 6-0, 4-6, 6-4. Parker carried Wiese to four-all in the final set but the O'Fallon Park star proved too steady in the last two games.

Keaney and Parker will defend their doubles title against the new combination of Wayne Smith and Herbert Weinstock in the final which will probably begin about 3:30 o'clock. The champions gained the final bracket by defeating Lee Travis and Eugene Lindemann, 4-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4 in one semifinal yesterday. In the other semifinal Smith and Weinstock won from Elmer Haub and Bernard Goldwasser, 6-0, 6-3, 6-2.

WRAY'S COLUMN

Barney Ross, with 200 or 300 punches; and he isn't going to hit me that way. He's just another fighter."

Ambers proved in three or four fights that he has a cool head and a brave heart. He showed it in his bouts with Canzoneri, Dublinsky, Montanez and others. The bigger the job, the better Lou did it.

Benny Leonard, a good judge of fighters, as former champions go, saw Lou at work and predicted that Armstrong would have plenty of trouble with the Herkimer Hurricane.

But it would be a real surprise if, through this scorned David of the lightweight division, Goliath Armstrong should meet his downfall.

Another "Match" Race.

THEY'RE MAKING IT easy for Seabiscuit, in his climb toward the top of the all-time money-earning ladder. They virtually handed his owner $37,000 recently in the Hollywood Cup, the competition in that being below Seabiscuit's quality.

Now the Bing Crosby track, Del-Mar, apparently is going to play Santa Claus to Mr. C. S. Howard, who owns the son of Hard Tack. He has put up $25,000, all to go to the winner of a match race between Ligaroti and the Biscuit, Aug. 12. That accounts for the delay in shipping Seabiscuit to Saratoga.

The stake appears to be a gift to Seabiscuit, even though the weights will be 130 for Biscuit and 115 for Ligaroti. Carrying 133 to 118, Seabiscuit beat Ligaroti five lengths recently.

That the management also believes Seabiscuit will win is evident from the fact that there will be no mutuels on the race.

Were mutuels permitted, practically everyone on the premises would rush to wager on Seabiscuit. And that would be too bad for the Del-Mar pocketbook. Under the California law, the track is compelled to refund at least 20 cents on every winning $2 ticket.

In a recent race at Hollywood, the play on Lawrin was so heavy that paying out this 20-cent payoff cost the track management about $19,000.

Still another match race with Specify, is also planned for Seabiscuit on the coast. That, too, should be a walkover for Howard's crack racers.

Nearing the Top.

SEABISCUIT now has a money-earning mark of $290,000. If he wins the $25,000 match race, his total will be $315,000, or about $61,000 under Sun Beau's mark. Already he is sixth in the all-time rating and the $315,000 total will put him fourth behind Sun Beau, Equipoise and Gallant Fox.

Another campaign may enable him to carry on past Sun Beau's $376,744 peak.

Another Night Project.

HORSE RACING, which holds the daylight pari-mutuel monopoly in nearly all sectors of the United States, is preparing to invade the realm of greyhound racing by holding a horse race meeting at night.

Officials of the new Hollywood track in Florida, who are completing arrangements for a $1,500,000 track near Miami, have sued to have a Florida Racing Commission regulation barring horse racing at night set aside as unreasonable and arbitrary. The petition was filed last April and the hearing is pending. The petitioners demand that the commission repeal the rule.

Promoters declare night racing will greatly enhance the value of the track.

It also will depreciate the value of three or more dog tracks operating at night in the neighborhood. This means another fight between horse and dog promoters.

ST. LOUIS HAD the original night horse racing plant. That was 40 or more years ago when the South Side Park plant was operating. Its lighting system was primitive and the racing scandalous.

With modern lighting facilities, horse racing at night should not be handicapped in the least by lack of visibility.

Parker Winner Over Allison In Canadian Final

TORONTO, Aug. 6.—Frankie Parker, third ranking player in the United States, today won the Canadian singles tennis championship with a 6-2, 6-2, 9-7 victory over Wilmer Allison, veteran Austin (Tex.) player.

Abandoning the aggressive game which brought him through the semifinal round with a straight set victory over Ross Wilson of Toronto, Parker again was the patient baseline waiter, content to let Allison make errors.

Parker made only 23 placements to 41 for the Texan, but Allison's persistent rushing led to errors that lost him his service nine times. His outs were 53 and his nets 33 to Parker's 34 and 19.

Parker and Allison teamed together to win the doubles title, defeating Bobby Murray and Laird Watt of Montreal, 6-0, 6-4, 6-8, 6-3. Parker's steady back court play and Allison's hitting from the fore court proved better than the Montrealers' clever co-ordination, gained over years of team play.

TWO SWIMMERS FACE SUSPENSION

Suspension of A. A. U. membership faces two St. Louis swimmers, Willie Brand and Claire Staley, following their participation in the Midsouth championships at Memphis, it was announced yesterday by Ozark Registration Chairman Marvin Plake.

Staley and Brand are life guards at the University City Municipal pool, Plake said, and therefore ineligible for A. A. U.-sanctioned events until 90 days after they have ceased to be lifeguards.

Plake telegraphed the Southeastern A. A. U. to recover, if awarded, medals or trophies won by the two. Staley and Brand placed first and second, respectively, in the 200-meter free style.

Rudy Brand, coach of the Y. M. H. A. team here, also competed in the meet, Plake said, but no action can be taken against him as he is a professional.

singled and scored on singles by McQuinn and Buster Mills, Buster's wallop knocking Thomas out of the box. Edgar Smith, another of Connie's young pitchers, stopped that rally and disposed of the Browns in the ninth to make the victory safe for Thomas.

After the game, Manager Street explained that it was Johnson's own idea to go to Les Tietje's rescue. And with good relief pitchers as scarce as they are in the Brownie fold, you certainly can't blame Gabby for welcoming the volunteer.

Now, the best the Browns can do about seventh place is to take both ends of the doubleheader this afternoon, in which case they would be in the cellar by only two games. And with only one Fred Johnson, winning two games in one day is a large assignment.

BROWNIE NOTES.

BUCK NEWSOM, who pitched an excellent game against the Senators Wednesday, may hurl both contests of this afternoon's doubleheader with the Athletics. Buck, who has won 10 and lost nine, would like to make it an even dozen, so if he wins the opener, he'll return to the hill in the nightcap. Oral Hildebrand also is a candidate for duty. He was scheduled to oppose the Mackmen yesterday, but reported his arm was bothering him.

The second game of the series attracted a ladies' day crowd of 3152, including 1341 paid and 976 women.

Clift, after hitting a home run as pinch-hitter for Heffner in the eighth, went to third base and Hughes shifted to second. Clift had been on the bench with an infected toe.

Mel Almada singled in the sixth inning, making it 22 consecutive games in which he has hit safely.

FETTE SINGLES, BATS IN RUN TO BEAT CUBS, 1-0

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Aug. 6.—Lou Fette, the 31-year-old big league sophomore, tossed a six-hitter and drove in the only run of the game with a single today to give the Bees a 1 to 0 decision over the Chicago Cubs. The defeat dropped the Cubs to fourth place in the National League.

Fette's single, the last of three hits the Bees bunched off Rookie Vance Page, who was making his big league debut, sent Al Lopez across in the seventh with the game-winning tally.

CRAFT'S HOMER WITH THREE ON BASE HELPS REDS BEAT DODGERS

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, Aug. 6.—The come-backing Cincinnati Reds stretched their winning streak to five straight today, equaled a major league fielding record and climbed into third place in the National League race by walloping the Dodgers, 11 to 6.

They clubbed three pitchers for 14 hits, one of them Harry Craft's homer with the bases loaded in the first inning, which sent them out in front never to be headed.

The record-equaling performance was for making just one fielding assist in the full nine innings. That one was credited to Young Whitey Moore, the winning pitcher, in throwing out Dolph Camilli in the third inning. Four other clubs had turned in the record-tying performance previously, beginning with the Chicago White Sox in 1917, and followed by the Boston Red Sox in 1924, the Chicago Cubs in 1932 and the New York Yankees in 1934.

RIGGS BEATS WOOD IN SOUTHAMPTON FINAL

set were split as Wood tired and was passed frequently by Bobby's shots down the sidelines. Wood's strong service, probably his most effective weapon, was hampered by close officiating as several foot faults were called against him.

The doubles final produced an upset when Frank Kovacs and Bobby Harman of Oakland, Cal., who beat Wood and Joe Hunt in the match that started the argument yesterday, overcame the smooth Southern team of Frank Guernsey Jr. of Orlando, Fla., and Russell Bobbitt of Atlanta, 1-6, 9-7, 1-6, 6-4, 6-4.

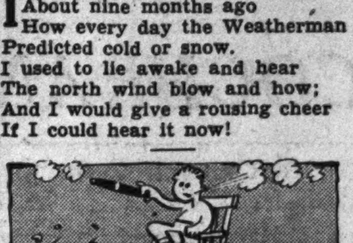
SPORT SALAD
by L. Davis

Boy, Page North Wind.

I REMEMBER, I remember,
About nine months ago
How every day the Weatherman
Predicted cold or snow.
I used to lie awake and hear
The north wind blow and how;
And I would give a rousing cheer
If I could hear it now!



Oh, Mama! That two-and-a-half-year-old cigar smoking baby is in again.

Hints for Christmas.

HANG up the baby's stocking
Be sure you don't forget
To give the dimpled darling
An ornate smoking set.

A box of panatellas
Would tickle him no doubt;
The teething ring and rattle
Are definitely out.

A pint of bourbon maybe
Would please the tiny tot
For he's a bottle baby,
And likes his morning shot.

There has been a decided recession in the batting averages of the leading batters of 1937. For which the rabbit refuses to take the rap.

The players who formerly led the procession
Are now in the throes of a batting recession.
In spite of the absence of shine balls and spitters,
Have the pitchers caught up with the .300 hitters?

"Bees Sell Riddle to Kansas City."

Riddle is a backstop. We knew there was a catch in it somewhere.

Cliff (Mountain Music) Melton was released from the doghouse Thursday afternoon. He has been paroled to the "Deacon."

I LIKE mountain music, sweet mountain music
Played by the hill billy band;
But I don't like the doghouse
I'd much prefer a log house
Back home in my own native land.

Corrigan.

"WEST is East and East is West
Beneath me coat I wear me vest
I also wear (don't look askance)
Me bee vee dees outside me pants.

"When I start out to go go some place,
The other way I always face;
I scorn to take a beaten track,
And meet meself on my way back."

When Corrigan steamed into New York harbor he was greatly pleased and somewhat surprised to find the Statue of Liberty looking him straight in the eye.

Not to be outdone by Corrigan, President Roosevelt related that he caught a 100-pound sail fish without a hook. A mad world, my masters.

The Browns could have vacated the cellar by sweeping the series with the Athletics. But who wants to get out of the cellar when the thermometer is hitting around 96?

HAMBLETONIAN STAKE TOPS $100,000 WEEK OF TROTTING

HARNESS RACE CLASSIC TO BE RUN WEDNESDAY

Goshen, a Little New York Village of 3500, Will Try to Care for 40,000 Visitors.

By the Associated Press.

GOSHEN, N. Y., Aug. 6.—This sleepy little village of 3500, celebrated as a harness horse racing center since the Revolutionary War, awakened today to find itself a budding metropolis as the kings and queens of trotters and pacers arrived for the opening of the Grand Circuit meeting Monday.

The $100,000 five-day session at W. H. Cane's Good Time park reaches its peak Wednesday when a dozen or so high-ranking three-year-old trotters clash in the thirteenth $40,000 Hambletonian, the Kentucky Derby of light harness horse racing. On Tuesday the great Greyhound, himself winner of the 1935 buggy whip Derby, will make his appearance against a hand-picked field of older trotters.

It has been more than 80 years since Hambletonian X, grandsire of nearly all the present line of trotters, was foaled near this historic county seat of Orange County. But Goshen hasn't changed much since those days.

Four days before the big race, Long Key, owned by E. J. Merkle of Columbus, O., shapes up as the probable favorite. The son of Peter Volo-Isola's Worthy, herself winner of the 1927 Hambletonian, was just an ordinary two-year old but stepped to the front this year by winning the National Stallion Stakes at Cleveland after trotting one mile in 2:01½ and then taking the American at Agawam.

McLin, distinguished largely because he finished last in five races as a two-year old, also has come forward as one of the favorites over the ranking juveniles of 1937. McLin joined Lawrence B. Sheppard's Hanover, Pa., stable a few days ago when he was purchased from Cane for $20,000.

Ben White will be up behind Long Key in quest of his third victory while Henry Thomas, who scored with Sheppard's Shirley Hanover last year, will handle McLin's reins.

There'll be a family angle to the race with Uncle E. Roland Harriman's Prohibitor seeking to outtrot Nephew Elbridge Gerry's Dale Hanover.

Other probable starters include William Hughes' Champlain of Cleveland; J. J. McIntyre's Earl's Mr. Will, another Cleveland-owned trotter; Professor from Mark Kyler's North Tonawanda, N. Y., stable; H. M. Marshall's Scovere of Urbana, O.; Sheppard's Henry Boyd Hanover, and Duchess, owned by W. J. Mooney of Fremont, O.

LaMonte Gets Fight.

FAIRMOUNT TO HAVE $156,000 IN PURSE MONEY

There will be an average daily purse distribution of $5379 during the 29-day race meeting at Fairmount Park, starting Sept. 3, it was announced yesterday by General Manager D. C. Burnett, who opened his office on the grounds preparatory to dressing up the plant. As was the case earlier in the year, the purses will run from $600 to $1200, so that there will be an aggregate of $156,000 distributed among the horsemen in purse money.

Little work in the nature of redecorating is necessary to put the track in shape for the opening, Burnett said. Most of Track Superintendent John LeBlanc's labor has been around the barns. The running strip is in better condition than ever before and a wet summer has resulted in brighter, greener lawns and infield than in any previous year.

Freddie Crafton, and Cliff Abbo, placing judges, will report to Burnett within the next week to assist in lining up stables. Starter Johnny Mofrissey will be on the grounds a week before the opening of the meeting.

Two U. City Games Today.

The Hannums meet the Jay B. B. Smiths on Grounds No. 1 and the Deibel's oppose the United Lumber team on Grounds No. 2 in the weekly University City Municipal Baseball League doubleheader at Heman Park this afternoon starting at 2:30 o'clock.

RAIN CUTS INTO TROTTING PROGRAM

By the Associated Press.

AGAWAM, Mass., Aug. 6. — With rain curtailing the "Get-Away" day program of the Grand Circuit meet at Agawam track, Bravo, son of Volomite, scored an upset today by winning two straight heats in the Hanover Farm Stake, which carried a purse of $5000.

Bravo's times were 2:02½ and 2:03½.

Because of the rain, the feature race was declared finished after the two heats. The Massachusetts Stake for pacers, also worth $5000, was declared completed after one heat, which was won by Dexter Worthy in 2:03¼.

University City will hold a special election Sept. 27 on a proposal to issue about $23,000 in bonds as its share of the cost of the fire department station. The site has not been selected but would be south of Olive Street road and west of North and South road.

St. Louis and St. Louis County have received $59,327,796 of Federal funds for W P A undertakings since the Works Progress Administration was established in November, 1935, it was shown in a compilation made public yesterday by R. M. Bristol, city engineer for W P A work.

The city got $41,392,256 of that total and the county $17,935,540. As its share of the cost of work done by the W P A the city appropriated $2,747,083, and the county and its subdivisions $3,842,539.

Under the usual division of costs the Federal Government pays the wages of W P A workers and the local communities provide materials and supervision.

The peak W P A expenditure in St. Louis for a full year was 1936 when the total was $20,346,661. The total for this year, to date, has been about $15,000,000.

VETERANS OF 138TH HOLD ANNUAL REUNION

Men of St. Louis Unit Gather After Close of 35th Division Meeting.

The seventh annual reunion of veterans of the 138th Infantry, a St. Louis unit of National Guard troops that served in France in the World War as a part of the Thirty-fifth Division, was held last night at the Battery A Armory, 1221 South Grand boulevard.

Many members of the Thirty-fifth Division, who yesterday ended their twentieth annual reunion, remained in St. Louis to attend the meeting. Memorial services were held in honor of 16 members of the unit who have died during the last year, and there was a program of entertainment.

James R. Stockdale, retiring head of the 138th Infantry Association, received a medal commemorating his service as Field Officer of the Day. He has been succeded by Samuel Frank.

The Thirty-fifth Division veterans, who had been drafted from the Missouri and Kansas militia, concluded their three-day reunion program in the afternoon with a trip to the Anheuser-Busch Brewery. In the morning they had a business session at the Municipal Auditorium and later held memorial services for World War dead at the south steps of the Soldiers' Memorial on Memorial Plaza.

At the services a portrait of the late Brigadier-General Frank M. Rumbold, commander of the 128th Field Artillery, was presented to the city by the Battery B Veterans' Club. The portrait, which will be hung in the Soldiers' Memorial, was accepted by Mayor Bernard F. Dickmann in behalf of the city.

Gen. Rumbold served in the Philippine and Mexican expeditions, and organized the artillery unit in St. Louis at the outbreak of the war. After the armistice he went to Washington to serve with the board on militia affairs. He died there in 1934 and is buried in Arlington National Cemetery.

United States Senator Bennett C. Clark spoke briefly in making the memorial address. He served with the Thirty-fifth Division as Colonel and with the 140th Infantry before being transferred to the staff of the Eighty-eighth Division.

A wreath was placed on the cenotaph in the memorial building by Michael Sullivan of Kansas City, retiring president of the Thirty-fifth Division Association. Taps was sounded by John Klein, division bugler, and a salute was fired by a squad from the Sixth Infantry, Jefferson Barracks.

At the closing business session, Charles Browne of Horton, Kan., was elected president of the association, and United States Senator Harry S. Truman of Kansas City was chosen first vice-president. The 1939 reunion will be held at Kansas City, Kan., at a time to be fixed later.

Scientists Advise That Basic Foodstuffs Be Furnished People Of Britain as a Public Service Committee Against Malnutrition Issues Report on National Food Policy to Insure Wholesome Diet for All.

By ARTHUR E. MANN.

LONDON, July 20.

EIGHT noted British scientists have just made the revolutionary suggestion that the basic foodstuffs necessary for proper human nutrition should be removed from the present normal field of supply and demand and furnished to the people of Great Britain as a public service.

They made it in a report entitled "Toward a National Food Policy," issued here by the Committee Against Malnutrition.

The scientists are: W. E. Le Gros Clark, professor of anatomy at Oxford; F. Gowland Hopkins, professor of biochemistry at Cambridge; A. St. George Huggett, professor of physiology at the University of London; Dr. J. R. Marrack, professor of clinical pathology at the London Hospital; Julian Huxley, biologist and secretary of the London Zoological Society; Dr. G. C. M. McGonigle, Medical Officer of Health for Stockton-on-Tees; Prof. V. H. Mottram, professor of physiology and expert on dietetics, and Sir John B. Orr, director of the Rowlett Institute for Research in Animal Nutrition, Aberdeen, who had previously reported that 50 per cent of the population of Great Britain was under-nourished.

The Committee Against Malnutrition, which was formed four years ago, has a membership of about 200, most of them London medical men, scientists from Oxford and Cambridge and a certain number of social workers.

Discussing the question of a national food policy, the report said:

"This is a national problem, upon which the public as a whole must make up its mind. When the public has once decided that a course of action is necessary, it will doubtless find statesmen willing to initiate such legislative changes as are needful. If the problem is to be solved, it might as well be solved immediately. There is no reason to assume that it will be any easier to solve in 10, 50 or even 100 years' time.

"The modern scinece of nutrition confronts governments with an array of proven facts which, if accepted, would seem to demand an adjustment in food policy. The scientific case may be summed up by saying that all individuals should, in the interest of health and efficiency, consistently obtain a large proportion of their energy from foodstuffs rich in protein (both animal and vegetable), vitamin and mineral constituents. The economic obstacle lies in the fact that such foodstuffs are precisely those which are among the more expensive items of diet.

Counting the Cost.

"What is required is an adjustment of national economy towards the provision of an adequate guaranteed diet to all sections of the community. It is true that "this may mean that we remove food (or a certain range of foodstuffs) from the normal influence of supply and demand. But if we accept the statement that an adequate diet is, like pure water, absolutely necessary for human health and efficiency, we have no alternative. If we refuse to take action, we imply that we are content in perpetuity to have a community well below the level of health and efficiency to which it might reasonably attain.

"We would emphasize the amount of working time lost and the high proportion of public expenditure incurred, as it would seem, through the prevalence of gastric and respiratory complaints, tuberculosis and other ailments; we consider that there is reason to suppose that malnutrition of one kind or another plays a significant part in the causation of such complaints."

Three Remedies Suggested.

The scientists then discussed the following three methods which have been previously suggested, at one time or another, for raising the dietetic standard of the population:

1. The raising of incomes through higher wages, family endowments and more liberal unemployment and social insurance payments.

2. Free or cheap distribution of milk and other foodstuffs to selected sections of the community.

3. Lowering of the prices of foodstuffs.

The report rejected the first method on the ground that it would have only a partial and indirect effect. The second method was objected to because it was a negative approach to the problem and would benefit only a selected group of the population. Then, discussing the question of reducing the price of foodstuffs, the report continued:

"It is clear that if the consumers could obtain a wide range of foodstuffs at consistently low prices, they would (assuming that their incomes at least remain level) have a fair chance of being adequately fed. It has indeed been proposed that in a certain number of foodstuffs should be marketed through public concerns, whose aim would be that of reducing costs and ensuring quality.

Revolutionary Proposal.

"Our argument is that basic food should be taken deliberately out of the normal field of supply and demand, in that food is a primary necessity and must be guaranteed inalienably to all.

"The lowering of production costs alone will not necessarily lower the final cost to the consumer; the margin might be swallowed up in distributive profits or in wasteful methods of distribution. If, however, we have first dealt with the whole apparatus of distribution, we can then turn to the side of production and hope to evolve measures for reducing costs at this stage. The following methods have been suggested, and we commend them as likely to yield good results.

"(a) Fertilizers and fodder material might themselves be marketed through public boards and the producer thus enabled to cheapen his costs considerably.

Concrete Proposals.

"(b) The Government might decide to encourage the shift of production in this country from wheat, fodder and sugar to dairy produce, eggs, fruit and vegetables. In that case the wheat, sugar, etc., would be imported from the countries where they are more economically produced, and the Government would gradually by aid of subsidies and loans on favorable terms, persuade the producer to transfer to the more suitable forms of production.

"(c) Co-operative production and marketing could be encouraged among the smaller producers and some effort made by ensuring the producer a steady return to remove his fears of concentrating on single crops, particularly in areas suitable for their production.

"But indubitably the factor inclining the producer to experiment and test new methods would be the guarantee of a steadily rising demand. Given this steadily rising demand in the country and assuming the forms of encouragement to the producers we have indicated above, we have no doubt that the producers as a whole could respond over a term of years to the new demands made upon them in the quantity of production and in the type of food produced. As we know, if the diet of the whole population were raised to the level of the optimum, there would be a much larger demand for dairy produce, eggs, fish, fruit and vegetables.

Problem of Distribution.

"Turning now to distribution, we must remark at once that the scheme evidently assumes that the food boards would be instructed to purchase food in bulk through im-

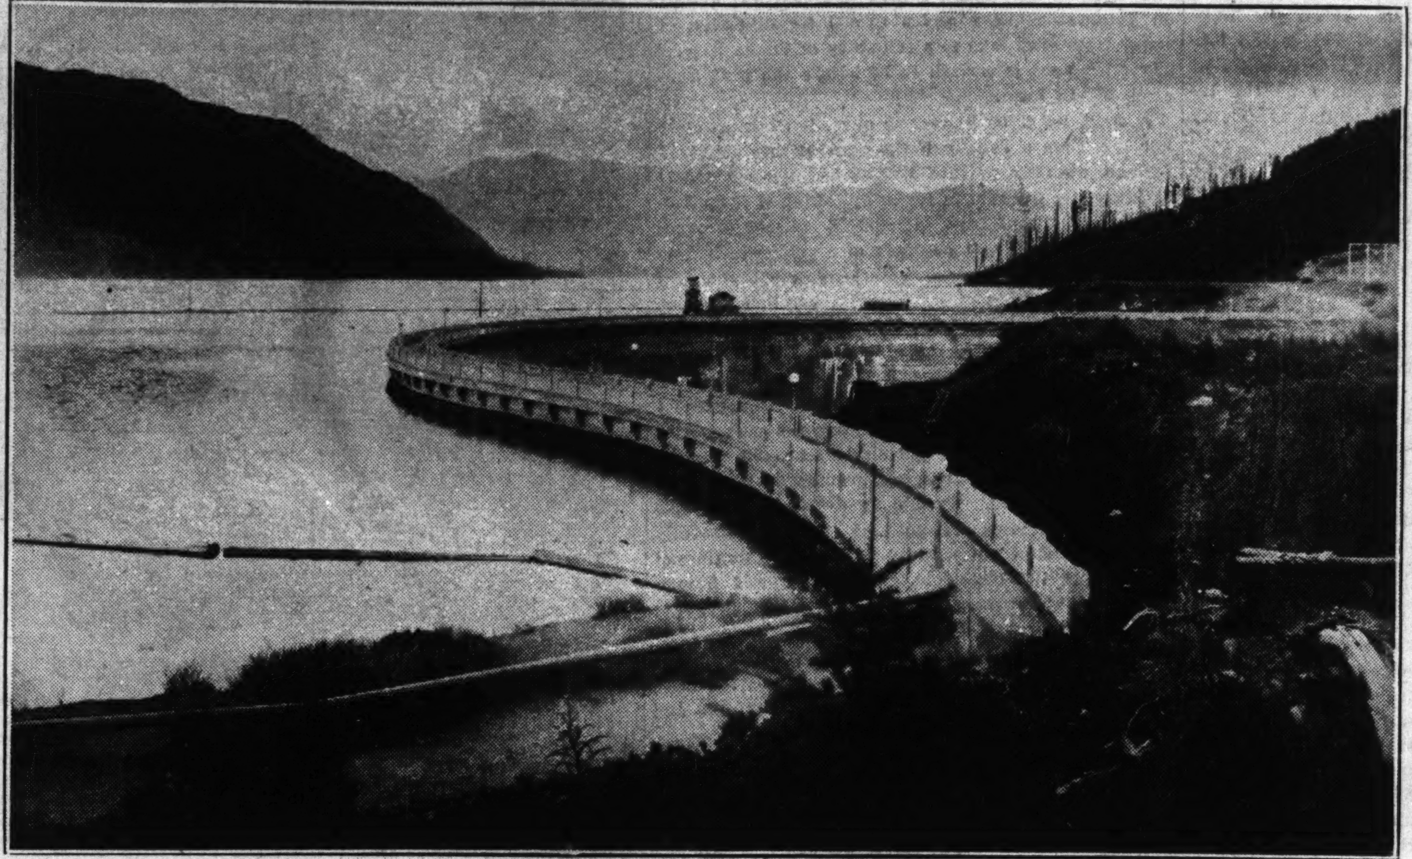
How War for Public Power Is Being Won in the Northwest



CUSHMAN POWER RESERVOIR No. 1—Part of the Tacoma system. The cost of this unit was $12,000,000.

Long Before Bonneville and Grand Coulee, Progressive Communities Waged Successful Battle for State Laws to Obtain Basic Utility Rights—Tacoma With $30,000,000 Municipal Enterprise Has Lowest Rate in U. S.

By MARQUIS W. CHILDS
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

TACOMA, Wash., Aug. 6

THEY are building here in the Northwest a great empire of public power. In the swift white rivers and high mountain lakes of this State there is concentrated 20 per cent of the entire nation's water power resources. And those projects now under construction represent a long step toward harnessing the millions of horsepower that have lain untapped for countless centuries on end.

Bonneville and Grand Coulee, the huge Federal projects on the Columbia River, the public has heard a great deal about. They are spectacular in their very size. But long before these projects were even considered, the development of public power had begun in the State of Washington. It began with a municipal power system here in Tacoma that has grown to a $30,000,000 public enterprise providing the lowest average household rate of any community in the country.

What is more, if the bountiful resources of power from Bonneville and Coulee are to be utilized for the good of all the people in the Northwest, it will be because of the pioneering work at Tacoma, Seattle, Centralia and other communities. And behind the success of Tacoma and other municipal power plants was the foresight of a determined group of progressives who were able to write into State law more than 30 years ago certain basic rights and guarantees.

Bone's Career Built On Public Power Fight

The inheritor of that progressive tradition today is Senator Homer T. Bone who has made his career on a fight for public power. He was elected six years ago as a Democrat and he is running for renomination in the Democratic primary. But on previous occasions he has been on the Farmer-Labor ticket and on the Republican ticket. Always with Bone it has been the issue—whether the state was to keep its basic inheritance and thereby retain control of a vital social necessity.

Virtually every important power site was claimed by private companies and the effort is now to recover those sites; to take over by the right of eminent domain not only power resources, actual and potential, but power facilities. An important step was taken in this direction with the passage in 1930 of the Grange power bill authorizing the creation of power districts which should have complete right of eminent domain.

Through this law it will be possible to build up a unified state-wide system of public power with some resemblance to the British grid system. Bonneville and Grand Coulee will be tied into this system as will also, of course, the municipal power plants now in operation. There are still many obstacles in the way but the ground work has been laid and county power districts are already moving ahead under the Grange law.

With the financial statement put out by the Light Division of Tacoma's Department of Public Utilities a brief comparison is given showing the savings from municipal power. In 1937 the average number of kilowatt hours used by residential customers in Tacoma was 1698. The national average was 725. For 1698 kilowatt hours the Tacoma householder paid $27.51. And the national average paid by each residential customer for 725 hours was $34.20. This comparison is based on data compiled by the Edison Electric Institute which is composed of large power companies.

Stern Struggle Back Of Tacoma's System

The report of the Federal Power Commission on domestic rates in major cities, issued in 1935, showed that Tacoma was third lowest for 15 kilowatt hours, fifth lowest for 25, third for 40 and lowest in the United States for 100 kilowatt hours. Low rates become most significant, of course, in the upper levels since they encourage increased consumption. And that, perhaps, is what Senator Bone and others who have fought for the Tacoma system are most proud of—a domestic rate of consumption so much higher than the national average.

Seeing the Tacoma system today, with its dams and power plants, its high voltage power lines serving communities up to 50 miles distant, with additional power capacity planned 25 years in advnace, it is difficult to realize what a stern fight is in the background. That comes out in talk with Senator Bone. A mild-mannered, scolarly appearing man, he becomes vehement when he talks of the power fight, the "power trust." It was a very real thing to him, this "power trust," for 20 years or more.

Bone dates the power fight from 1908. That was the beginning of the slow, painstaking process of education, directed through such organizations as the Grange and the State Federation of Labor. Long before this however, Tacoma was in the power business. From the days of the first small generator the city had its own distribution system but prior to 1912 power was purchased from the Puget Sound Power & Light Co., a subsidiary of Stone & Webster, holding company with headquarters in Boston.

It was in 1908 that the city voted to build its own hydro-electric plant on the Nisqually River, at a power site about 30 miles from Tacoma. This is one of the remarkable features of Washington's basic power law; that a municipality can go anywhere in the State and exercise its right of eminent domain, establishing proof in court of the need for a power site or a right of way in the construction of a municipal system. Through this right of eminent domain Tacoma obtained the Nisqually site, which had been held by power interests, for a reasonable figure.

The hydro-electric plant was complete in 1912, with a capacity of 32,000 horsepower. Beginning in 1915, Tacoma established the lowest domestic rate in the country and has maintained that rating, Bone says, with pride, ever since.

Bone's Light Bill at Home and in Chicago

For the smallest domestic users, that is with the smallest volume of measured floor space, the rate per kilowatt hour is one cent after the first 20 kilowatt hours. Larger domestic users pay 4½ cents per unit for 40 kilowatt hours and then the rate is one cent. And above 500 the rate is a half cent.

The current is so cheap in volume that many families use it for supplementary house heating and a few use no other heat in the mild winters that prevail here. One of Bone's favorite stories is about his own electric light bill. In the course of one month he used—under a special heating rate—2249 kilowatt hours and his bill was $16.55. This was at the height of the late Samuel Insull's power as a utility promoter and Bone was to make an address at the City Club in Chicago, the Insull stronghold, on public ownership. He took his bill with him and had the Commonwealth Edison Electric Co. figure it at the Chicago rate. It came to slightly more than $96 and served as a fine illustration of the principle he was talking about.

The Nisqually plant, and this is true of the Seattle municipal power development of 1905 and virtually all public power development in the State, was financed by what are known as utility revenue bonds. The purchaser of such a bond has a lien not on the physical property of the plant but on the revenue from the sale of power.

Reduced to the simplest terms, this is the way it works. If interest payment should be defaulted, the bondholder can come into court and obtain an order that would have the ultimate effect of increasing the rate charged to consumers. That is, the court would order the rates raised to such a point that it would be possible to meet interest payments. Even in the leanest depression years, 1932 and 1933, the Tacoma system came out with a slight surplus over and above the amount needed for bond interest and redemption, according to Ira S. Davisson, Utilities Commissioner for the city. Although they were skeptical at first of these utility revenue bonds, financiers in New York now would like more of them, Bone says.

How the Farmers Got Around Joker in Bill

The real fight with the private power companies came over the question of whether the city of Tacoma could sell its power outside the city limits. A number of farmers around the city had inquired about the possibility of hooking onto the city's lines that come from the Nisqually plant. Bone had advised them to form co-operatives or mutual companies, under a 1907 law, and then come back to the city. Having done this, they approached the city attorney who was doubtful that the authority existed to sell power outside the city limits.

So that there would be no question, a law was put through the Legislature specifically authorizing all cities to sell current from municipal plants beyond their corporate limits. But at the next session of the Legislature, in 1913, as Bone tells the story, the power interests succeeded in attaching a joker to an innocuous-appearing water act. This was

Labor Schools Have Grown From Small Beginning in 1890 To Instruction on High Level

Garment Workers Spend $260,000 a Year on This Work and Other Unions Follow Suit—Employers Co-Operate.

By ERNEST KIRSCHTEN
A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

MOUNT DAVIS, Pa., Aug. 6.

WITHOUT much more ceremony than the humdrum packing of their few belongings, 200 steel workers, most of them officers of Steel Workers' Organizing Committee locals, were graduated here a few weeks ago from the S W O C's first training school. Its curriculum devoted primarily to the discussion of such union problems as contracts and negotiations, the school, conducted for two weeks on one of the highest peaks in Pennsylvania's Alleghenies, represented the development of an important instrument by the C I O for the unionization of the country's mass industries.

However, by no means does it mark the American labor movement's first venture in formal education. That was started as long ago as 1890 by the dress makers of New York—probably the first trade unionists to realize that education means a disciplined rank and file, as well as intelligent leadership, and so makes for greater stability in employer-employe relations.

Training Leaders.

In the last half century labor education has become a widespread and many sided development. It has gone far beyond the teaching of industrial economics and trade union tactics. It has even included the fine arts in its scope. Examples of this are the Garment Workers' Art Center in New York and their production of "Pins and Needles," the brightest musical comedy on Broadway in years.

The rapid growth of the CIO in the mass production industries where the workers were without a trade union background, however, made necessary a return to the fundamentals through the organization of schools like this one on Mount Davis. Its primary object was to provide the new steel workers' locals with effective leaders—men with an understanding of their union and their industry and well versed in the administration of employer-employe agreements.

Employers Co-operate.

To this end, the SWOC school tried hard to see both sides of the picture. Employers co-operated by sending special educational films and also supplied two of the faculty members—Morgan Cavanaugh, general manager of the Oliver Iron & Steel Co. of Pittsburgh, and W. L. Christon, secretary of the Elliott Co. of Jeanette, Pa.

Prof. Sumner Slichter, the labor expert of Harvard's economics department; government economists, municipal welfare directors and Catholic clergymen, as well as labor officials, were among the other faculty members.

Daily lectures and recitations were on the program, but there was time, too, for swimming, tennis and other sports. As a matter of fact, the steel workers enjoyed a cheap vacation. A $5 bill covered all their expenses at the camp—but they had to bring their own blankets and wash their own dishes.

The United Automobile Workers, who encountered even more difficulties in their organization drives than the S W O C and who have been especially harrassed by "wildcat" strikes directly traceable to their members' lack of union discipline, have a more elaborate educational scheme than Philip Murray's steel workers. The work in Homer Martin's union has been somewhat handicapped by a lack of funds, despite a 5-cent educational allotment out of every $1 of dues.

Auto Workers 'Graduate' 30.

Nevertheless, under the direction of Morris Field, the Automobile Workers "graduated" 30 trained leaders from their school in Detroit this month. These men attended classes nine hours a week for eight months. Another class of 91 is now enrolled. Representing 20 locals, these students are union officers, shop stewards and plant committeemen.

The Automobile Workers also are encouraging educational activities in their various locals. Regional educational directors are to be appointed as soon as possible to help in this work, but, meantime, the union's visual education department has been organized to send out pertinent films, both silent and sound.

Incidentally, this union hopes eventually to recruit all its teachers from its own membership. The men from the ranks, it is explained, speak the language that is understood on the assembly line.

Here the union is facing a difficulty that has been encountered by all labor educators. When university instructors are obtained by a group—as is often done for night classes, these men must adapt their methods and their materials to their labor pupils.

Often these are without the benefit of even a high school education. Many of them are dog tired after a hard day's work. They are not interested in "this educational stuff" anyway—especially if there is a good movie around the corner. But others are eager to learn.

Correspondence School.

The problems involved in meeting the needs of such heterogenous groups have been solved in large measure by Sidney Hillman's Amalgamated Clothing Workers who are among the old timers in workers' education. Hillman's international conducts an extensive correspondence school in which about 15,000 union members are currently enrolled.

While these lessons by mail are the backbone of the union's educational activities, they are supplemented by classes in parliamentary law, public speaking and other subjects. These classes are organized by the locals. To keep up interest, these, in turn, are supplemented by forums, round tables and lectures. Each year the international makes available to its locals the services of a number of outstanding speakers.

The Amalgamated's program, naturally, has been influenced by Hillman. A great negotiator, he has been called by those who do not like him too well the Talleyrand of labor. In a way, he does play that role to John L. Lewis' Napoleon. Essentially a diplomat, he prefers a conference to a strike, and he insists that a good union official should know at least as much about his industry as an employer—preferably more.

However, it remained for the International Ladies' Garment Workers' Union, the organization of Hillman's arch-rival—David Dubinsky, to bring labor education to its widest development.

A variety of courses in economics and unionism are offered, of course, but the I L G W U is rapidly building an almost complete school system, including a workers' university. Regular classes in almost everything from foreign languages and health and hygiene to painting and music appreciation are now open to members of the union.

Labor Stage Success.

Labor Stage has become the fair-haired child of the union. With "Steel" and "Pins and Needles" already good box office attractions on Broadway, the dressmaker-actors are now preparing to present Sidney Kingsley's version of "The Outward Room." They are also planning to extend their triumphs beyond the New York bright light belt. Chicago has already seen "Pins and Needles," and St. Louis is to get it in the fall.

Louis Schaffer, executive director of Labor Stage, is a brass tacks trade unionist. He was long skeptical about working class drama. To him it was a synthetic thing

I know that my retirement will make no difference in its cardinal principles; that it will always fight for progress and reform, never tolerate injustice or corruption, always fight demagogues of all parties, never belong to any party, always oppose privileged classes and public plunderers, never lack sympathy with the poor, always remain devoted to the public welfare; never be satisfied with merely printing news; always be drastically independent; never be afraid to attack wrong, whether by predatory plutocracy or predatory poverty.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Ex-Lieut.-Gov. Hiram Lloyd, Who Saved James Seward's Life, Asks Parole Consideration.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I HAVE been much interested in the editorial which appeared in the Post-Dispatch of July 21, also of Aug. 4, and the article written by Mr. Ennis in reference to James Seward, who was sentenced to death on a charge of killing Andrew Deck, and whose sentence was commuted to life imprisonment by the writer as Lieutenant-Governor, while acting as Governor.

After a careful reading of the transcript of the trial, I was of the opinion that there was a miscarriage of justice and that Seward was convicted of a crime he did not commit. At the time of commuting Seward's sentence to life imprisonment, I was sure in my own mind he was not guilty of murder. There has been no evidence presented since in connection with this case to cause me to change my mind.

Record of the trial did not justify the verdict of the jury. Local feeling, however, ran high and this may have had something to do with their official action.

I quite agree with your statement of July 21—"Here is a case which deserves the prompt and close reconsideration of the Parole Board and of the Governor."

That $14,400 Cat.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE Art Museum paid $14,400 for a bronze statue of a cat. Now, this may be a very fine statue from the viewpoint of art, also the cat may have been a remarkable cat, but since the cat is long dead, and the $14,400 cannot buy any milk or liver for the cat, it seems to me that a small part of that money would have paid quite a lot of rent for an unfortunate family who have recently had only the blue sky for a ceiling.

Architects on Milles Fountain Setting.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE St. Louis Chapter of the American Institute of Architects has addressed a letter to Mayor Dickmann with reference to the proposed setting for the Milles fountain of Aloe Plaza, containing the following:

"The architects of St. Louis have expressed themselves as heartily approving Mr. Milles' design and it is encouraging to know that it is to be provided with something more than a bare plot of ground on which to stand.

"The drawing recently reproduced in the Post-Dispatch showing the proposed treatment for this plaza indicated to us a totally unsatisfactory solution to the problem. It violated one of the fundamental principles of design, and in all respects is unworthy of this important location. We feel that such a treatment would not have the approval of the sculptor.

"Therefore, the St. Louis Chapter, American Institute of Architects, requests that a competent architect or architects, who would be satisfactory to Mr. Milles, be retained to lay out the development for the Aloe Plaza. This chapter stands ready to co-operate in any way toward the accomplishment of this end."

We need the support of the press and the public to convince those in authority that it would be a mistake to proceed in accordance with the scheme now in contemplation.

St. Louis County Goes Democratic.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN the recent primaries, the Democrats cast more votes than the G. O. P. in St. Louis County, the first time since the memory of man runneth not to the contrary. Yes, Virginia, there IS a Santa Claus!

Program for Gov. Stark.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE setback of Boss Pendergast is of major importance. It is to be hoped that this significant political development means a definite trend toward democratic processes in Missouri, because it is only through democratic processes that the interests of freedom can be served.

On the basis of new found leadership, Gov. Stark now has an opportunity to demonstrate exactly the opposite of what Pendergastism stands for. He ought to use his leadership along the following lines:

(1) Demand that W P A be taken out of vicious leadership and control that is anti-progressive, anti-labor, paternalistic in some cases and having alliances with gangsterdom in others; (2) take relief problems out of politics; (3) get a State-wide housing program under way to eliminate both rural and urban slums; (4) see that organized labor has a chance to stay organized and that the unorganized have the unprejudiced opportunity to get organized and eliminate all sweatshops in the State; (5) find a worthy solution to the problem in the tiff mines, and the technologically-displaced worker areas, especially in the Lead Belt, Flat River and Joplin districts; (6) solve the child-labor problem; (7) see that civil liberties are fully guaranteed, and that equal opportunities are open for all in education.

THE BOSS, THROUGH THE YEARS.

The boss, we have always with us. Individuals pass. Events, riding the racing tides of popular emotion, sweep them out to sea. For a period after the departure, something like chaos prevails among the "lesser breeds." But a successor soon or late appears. He may be of the same party, or of the opposition. The label is meaningless. Possessed of the peculiar will and skill that wield the scepter, and here he is, a new figure, a younger face, exercising the same old power, by virtue of the same old intrinsic qualities.

Somewhere someone may be even now pounding out a volume, titled "The Bosses of American Politics." Personalities that have faded into names stare insolently or naively or cryptically out of the pages.

In the same Valhalla they dwell today: the Tom Platts and Dick Crokers of New York; the Quays and Penroses of Pennsylvania, and their successors, the Vares, in the pent-up Utica of Philadelphia. On Ohio's pediment the scrollery twines into the granite visage of Mark Hanna. Down the Lake Shore drive of an earlier Chicago swings the landau of the elder Carter Harrison, to be followed at an immeasurable distance in manners by the ludicrously commonplace, but uncommonly canny Hinky-Dink and Bathhouse John.

Our unidentified author has come to St. Louis emerging out of the paralysis of the Civil War into the lusty, gusty eleventh hours of the nineteenth century. Col. Ed Butler is the law. His imperceptible nod may send a captain of industry beamingly away to bear a favorable message to waiting associates. Out in the State, whose "bosky dells" Jim Reed's fine, ringing baritone was wont to sing, here, there, everywhere, trips the bright, brisk figure of Bill Phelps, a Northerner by birth, a Southern Colonel of ante-bellum grace and spacious hospitality. The guide, the philosopher, the friend, the legal counsel of a railroad, Phelps dispensed transportation with lavish hand, literally wrote the bills our compliant Legislatures eagerly hurried through, but it was when the parties met in State conventions to nominate their candidates that Phelps enjoyed his zenith hour.

Grateful delegates who had come on passes gratefully performed. Did he certify the nominee for Governor? Did he dictate the personnel of the Supreme Court? Indignant voices in pulpits, editorial pages, from many rostrums, rang wrathfully through the land. In high moments of civic righteousness, a reforming Roland blew his horn, but the walls of bossism were of solider masonry than Jericho's. Well, a Joe Folk came, with few weapons in his quiver, but with the priceless quality of courage. As Circuit Attorney, he placed St. Louis on the map as a city redeemed, and to his influence in the Governor's office we are largely indebted for the primary.

The primary was democracy's repudiation and expulsion forever of the boss. But the boss refused to vacate this best of worlds. St. Louis was presently to meet a dynamic little personage in the suave "Jep" Howe, who would rout the Democrats from the City Hall and make the city as impregnable a Republican stronghold as it had been an invulnerable Democratic citadel when Butler and, later, Harry Hawes sat in the seats of the mighty.

As the graveyard of the boss, the primary was revealed to be an ornate cenotaph—magnificent in appearance but quite unoccupied. More labor was involved in manipulating the primary, but the business of citzenship, it was soon disclosed, was an irksome task. The rank and file of the voters would not go to the primary. They left it to the party workers, to the professional politicians, and the boss came back, or his equivalent, the machine, and it has since run party affairs with pretty much the same results as the disavowed convention.

Here in the fulness of primary experience, Tom Pendergast has attained to a stature of bossism previously unknown in Missouri. Pendergast suffered his first major defeat last Tuesday, but that was a rubric day, and there are so few such days on the people's calendar. Tomorrow, he cheerfully boasts, will be his. Thus: "The Jackson County organization has placed the State administration in office four distinct times. It will do so again." Abdicate! The word is in no boss' vocabulary.

So what is the answer? Only the aphorism which repetition seemingly has dulled. Trite or not, "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." It is the price of democracy.

Bossism is a system, a ruthless, mercenary, tightly organized, closely-operated system that lives by and for spoils. Democracy is a way of life—the most just and most honorable human intellect has as yet devised.

Bossism and democracy are each the antithesis of the other. Between them it is, and must be, war to the death. And the people always win when they buckle on their armor and go fightingly forth.

GOLD, OIL AND JEWELS.

In the early days of the Ethiopian massacre, when Italian planes were shattering into dust the poor huts that the Ethiopians called home, and Italian bombs were mowing down the primitively armed natives, an American mining engineer ventured the opinion that Mussolini would be disappointed in his conquest. In the practice of his profession, which had taken him to the ends of the earth, even to the land where Homer fancied "the sun probably sets," Herbert Hoover had found no trace of oil or precious metals. Other travelers had looked and shuddered at a desolation which they spoke of as bleak, lonely and forbidding.

From time to time since the son of Il Duce exalted "glorious war," rumors have crept into print as to the barren poverty of the possession for which Italy paid so heavily in blood and money and honorable repute. And again, after two years of bloody occupancy, comes the report that the wealth which the Italian dictator had anticipatedly counted with avaricious ecstasy has not been found. No gold, no oil, no jewels. The search has not been abandoned. Exploration goes on. But money is needed, and Italy is inviting foreign capital to finance the projects. It is an expensive business, the experts say, and hazardously uncertain.

Mussolini could have informed himself about Ethiopia's mythical riches by consulting the records of his own Imperial Rome, to whose splendor he is resurrectionally committed. He could have learned that Petronius went into Ethiopia and placed her warriors under the yoke and that Augustus turned his shrewd back on the barren waste without incurring the unprofitable cost of even trying to exact tribute.

To the fair-play world, this Italian experience is a gratifying hard luck story—the harder the better.

ASSAULT ON THE NATIONAL DOMAIN.

The battle of the people against the special interests which would destroy the great heritage of the national parks is one that can never be permitted to lapse. It has been waged from the time when Yosemite and the other large preserves of unspoiled natural grandeur were set aside in the last century. It will go on so long as selfish users of land and natural resources try to subordinate the rights of the United States to their own will to profit.

Yellowstone National Park, one of nature's show places of the world, is now under attack. Senator James P. Pope and Representative Compton I. White of Idaho are sponsoring a plan to construct "a weir on Yellowstone Lake and a tunnel for diversion of water from such lake to a tributary of Snake River." Their proposal is certain to be before the next Congress in bill form.

A weir, let it be known at once, is nothing more nor less than a dam, and the plan in toto simply a scheme whereby private irrigation interests would obtain water for sale in Idaho by taking it from Yellowstone National Park. If carried out, the proposal would add to the water supply of a state which does not deserve an increased water supply. Idaho now wastes 60 per cent of its water, a profligacy which could be prevented by enforcement of its irrigation laws.

But the fundamental objection is not that the dam would give Idaho water which that State is not entitled to. The national parks are the property of the people. They were purposely set aside to protect them from the grasping promoter. The argument that the "weir" would keep Yellowstone Lake at a constant level and so keep it more constantly beautiful should not mislead anyone. It would not only affect the biological, recreational and human values of Yellowstone National Park, but it would also set a thoroughly bad precedent.

This is not a Western affair simply because the sponsors are from Idaho and the lake involved is in a corner of Wyoming. It is a national matter and people everywhere should go on guard.

WILL AYLWARD REMAIN?

One of the fruits of Gov. Stark's victory over Boss Pendergast obviously should be control of the chairmanship of the State Committee, now held by James P. Aylward, the boss' right-hand man.

Meetings to discuss Aylward's successor have been held by Gov. Stark and other anti-boss leaders. From these meetings, however, Senator Clark, who must be conceded a strong voice in the matter, has been absent.

Will Senator Clark throw his strength to Aylward or will he assent to the selection of an anti-boss man?

The State is watching the outcome for, if Aylward is named and control of the party organization remains in Kansas City, it will be a tragic forfeiture of anti-boss gains made in the primary.

If Senator Clark carries his alliance with the boss so far as to insist upon Aylward, it will be, in effect, a repuditaion of the people's verdict at the polls.

SEWARD'S FATE IS IN THEIR HANDS.

Recently we discussed the strange case of James Seward, who has served 17 years in the State penitentiary for murder, although his three alleged co-conspirators were acquitted and for all these years have walked the streets as free men.

Many persons who have studied the case think James Seward an innocent man, pointing to new evidence discovered after his trial and to the fact that three juries which freed the alleged co-conspirators in effect declared their belief in Seward's innocence.

Among those who have interested themselves in Seward are ex-State Senator A. L. McCawley, John G. Christy, Speaker of the Missouri House of Representatives and Albert S. Ennis, a Festus attorney, whose admirable summary of the case we have printed. In today's letter column, ex-Lieutenant-Governor Hiram Lloyd, who, as acting Governor, saved Seward from the electric chair, in August, 1923, agrees he should be considered for parole.

Seward has been a model prisoner and has been a valuable worker in the prison construction department. According to Speaker Christy, he receives a $50-a-month pension for being wounded in action in the Spanish-American War and has been offered a house to live in rent-free for the remainder of his life if he should be paroled. He is now nearly 60 years old.

Seward's application for parole, under State law, may be brought up at any time; on a previous occasion, the Parole Board, it is understood, strongly recommended a parole, but it was not acted upon, for some unknown reason, by Gov. Park.

Robert C. Edson, St. Joseph, executive secretary.
Leslie N. Bledsoe, Kirksville.
H. S. Johnson, Brookfield.

PAGING THAT JEWEL, CONSISTENCY.

> Fascism means unity, anti-Semitism destruction and division. Fascist anti-Semitism or anti-Semitic Fascism therefore implies a crass absurdity. To us in Italy, it appears extremely ludicrous that the anti-Semites of Germany should try to win their way through Fascism. And from other countries, too, information reaches us that a Fascism of anti-Semitic shade is trying to strike root. We protest with all our energy against Fascism being compromised in this way. Anti-Semitism is a product of barbarism.

The speaker was Benito Mussolini, addressing a meeting of foreign journalists in November, 1927—the same Mussolini who is now going in for this "product of barbarism" on his own hook.

THERE'S ALWAYS TOMORROW.

An Editor Looks at the Lawyers

Legal profession tends too much to glorify the past, Cleveland editor tells bar group; it puts too much stress on precedent and neglects modernizing of statutes, he adds; urges attorneys to take interest in economic, social and political affairs, and strive to improve country's institutions; says public expects them to assume leadership.

From an Address by Paul Bellamy, Editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer, before the Junior Bar Conference of the American Bar Association.

FOR centuries, lawyers and jurists paid scant attention to what the public thought of them. Based on and protected by the absolute power of church or state, they did not have to. It is only since the rise of free democratic governments that the legal profession really began to place some value on public good will.

I am aware that the American Bar Association has labored for years and labors today to wage a ceaseless warfare against unworthy persons who occasionally break into the legal profession. Indeed, from the standpoint of public opinion, too much stress cannot be laid upon the paramount necessity of policing your own ranks.

This is the day and this America the place for widespread publicity on every public act and organization. I wonder whether the full story of what the legal profession is doing to improve itself and to serve the public has ever been adequately set forth.

I wonder if you know how high a position you can occupy in public estimation if you really try. I wonder if you know how glad we laymen are to see our lawyers coming when the great emergencies arise. Only the clergy and medical men are as welcome as you in the most fateful hours of the average individual's life. And because you often do accomplish miracles for us, we expect you to accomplish miracles in other forms of activity, notably in public life. And we expect you in your own field not only to practice law but to improve law.

I think it is a useful and an honest calling to interpret the law as it is written. I think it is a noble and an honest calling to narrate the day's events as they have happened. But I think it is a nobler and more exalted mission to make justice truly come down to dwell among men and, as far as we of the Fourth Estate are concerned, to bring about a better state of society by molding public opinion to that end.

History tells us that the mores are always ahead of the law. I believe this is not only true but proper and natural. Another and more brutal way of expressing the same idea is to say that the Supreme Court follows the sword, as in the Dred Scott case, or that it follows the ballot box, as in more recent matters.

I was against President Roosevelt's plan to pack the Supreme Court. I will live gladly under any system of society which my fellow-citizens ordain by changing the Constitution of the United States according to the method provided therein, but I do not go in for trick plays. And that, it seems to me, was the essence of the Supreme Court issue.

But, although I opposed the step the President advocated, I believe that he was right in feeling that sometimes there is too great a lag between the newer ethical concepts of an advancing society and their rendition into statute law.

You, as lawyers, tend, if I may be permitted to claim a layman's privilege, to put too much stress on precedent. If you can find a precedent in the common law going back to Star Chamber, it is regarded among your confreres as fairly sound, but, woe betide you if you are confronted before Mr. Justice Buzz Fuzz with a citation from Edward the Confessor. May I say that to the unanointed this seems like balderdash?

The lay world has been delighted beyond measure in recent times by the new program of procedure in the Federal courts. Personally, I always gagged at the distinction between the courts of law and courts of equity. It sounded to me like a frank acknowledgment that the average court of law had little or nothing to do with equity. The reform procedure will cut to the heart of the matters we are discussing. It will make justice more certain, more speedy and more economical. And my prayer is that the state courts will have the good sense to follow the example.

I adjure you, as members of an ancient and illustrious profession, to remember the sacred obligation that has been laid upon you by the great jurists of the past. When you act for a client, you must try to make his cause prevail. I realize that. But at the same time, do not forget that in the eyes of the public you occupy a position more exalted than that of a mere advocate, one which imposes on you the badge of leadership.

I should like to see you step out more emphatically in all good efforts toward bringing the law up to the standards of public opinion.

I plead with you to increase your extracurricular activities. I see no reason why a state's attorney of Queen Elizabeth's time who had successfully prosecuted a petty thief to the gallows should not have turned around the next day and entered the political arena to fight for the repeal of the law which penalized so small a crime with so great a punishment.

The Greek philosopher was right who said that nothing was permanent except change. So long as you are content merely to defend things as they are, you will never see the glory of the dawn of things as they ought to be.

I have known good lawyers and bad, as I have known good and bad newspaper men. I make no claim of perfection for my own calling. But this thing I know: that whatsoever calling a man chooses, he will find that there are certain pre-existing metes and bounds which condition him. And the preexistent limitation against which all lawyers have to struggle, if they are to become effective agents of a better day, is the tendency to glorify the past. The past is always glorious, the present always doubtful and the future belongs to our children.

Young lawyers of America, I implore you to interest yourselves in the economic, social and political affairs of a doubtful present. Name your own political party. That is your business. But do not be parrots and rest content merely to echo the views of the comfortable past and the comfortable client. You can make money that way. Many have, but it is death to the soul.

Record of a Crucial Year

Books in the News

THE writer of an annual review of political affairs has, of course, a broader perspective than the daily or weekly commentator, but he is still too close to the course of events to approach in grasp and objectivity the definitive historian whose work is done years later. This handicap comes to mind in approaching such a book as "The United States in World Affairs in 1937," by Whitney H. Shepardson and William O. Scroggs (Harper & Bros., New York).

A year is at best an arbitrary designation, for that eternal serial story, the day's news, does not fall neatly into chapters to correspond with the calendar. The task of choosing significant items and giving each its proper weight is therefore a great one.

Considering the obvious handicaps, the authors have done an excellent job. They have woven from the tangled strands of press dispatches and official documents a solid fabric that tells the story of the year's developments in American foreign policy, with excursions back to past years and into foreign countries to give the narrative its required coherence and unity. Their purpose is not to plead a cause or express opinions, but to record the trend of events with impartial fairness, and in this they have succeeded well.

These annual surveys, published by the Council on Foreign Relations, began in 1931, and the writers now are able to look back and see the period covered as "the first section of a new chapter in history," including as it does the world depression and the emergence of militarist nations.

The outcome is hidden, but it is clear that "continuity with the preceding period has been broken, . . . that civilization is on a long march into unfamiliar country." The march continued inexorably in 1937, perhaps toward a new world war, and the chief aim of the United States became that of avoiding the threatened involvement.

This dominant motive is seen in the attitude toward events in Europe and the Far East, in the struggle over new neutrality legislation, in the reinforcement of the good-neighbor policy toward Latin America, in the policy of reciprocal trade treaties. The writers note the growing isolationist spirit, and they note also the rearmament program, the State Department's stronger attitude toward protecting American rights in China and Washington's growing readiness to take parallel action with other Powers in the Far East.

What this will all eventually add up to, these observers do not undertake to say. The amount of space required to treat developments abroad that affect this country is evidence, however, that the dream of the absolute isolationist is far from realization.

The two writers are well equipped for their work. Mr. Shepardson, a graduate of Oxford and Harvard Law School, has been a director of the Council on Foreign Relations since 1922, has conducted a survey for the Rockefeller Foundation and has written for various periodicals. Mr. Scroggs, holder of two degrees from Harvard, is director of information of the council, has been a financial and editorial writer on New York papers and has written several books.

In the next volume, the writers conclude, it remains to be seen "what, if anything, the United States, Great Britain and France, together or separately, would do for the peace and order of the world in 1938."

ENGLAND, FRANCE PUT MONEY RING AROUND GERMANY

Entrenching Themselves Behind Economic Interests in Face of Nazi Advance Down Danube.

OBVIOUS POLICY OFFICIALLY DENIED

Financial Activities in Central and Southeastern Europe Clearly Indicate Two Powers' Intentions.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Aug. 6.—Great Britain and France are reinforcing their diplomacy with cash to combat Nazi Germany's economic advance down the Danube. Both British and French officials publicly have denied a design to encircle Germany, but privately they admit the two countries are entrenching themselves behind economic interests in Central and Southeastern Europe.

Europe's brand of "dollar diplomacy" quickened today with developments in three spheres tied closely with the Berlin-Rome trade system:

1. A British trade delegation arrived in Bucharest for trade talks designed to bring King Carol into closer British commercial co-operation.
2. Bulgaria—brought into the widening circle of London and Paris sway by a British-French loan of 375,000,000 francs ($10,357,500) mainly for rearmament—may receive even more money from Britain than that granted Aug. 5.
3. Belgrade reports indicated Premier Mussolini's economic ally, Yugoslavia, may be weakening before the temptation of British and French financial facilities.

$80,000,000 Loan to Turkey.

The new moves followed Britain's successful £16,000,000 ($80,000,000) loan and credits July 4 to Turkey—Europe's Balkan outpost whose friendship may be vital to either side in any future war through control of the entrance to the Black Sea and the Eastern Mediterranean.

Earl Stanhope, Government leader in the House of Lords, explaining the Turkish financing July 18, denied it was evidence of Britain's desire to "eliminate Germany and Italy as customers of the Danubian-Balkan countries." Instead, he said, it was intended to improve natural trade and as a step toward possibly reviving international trade generally.

In sending goods to Germany and Italy, other countries are forced to take credits which can be liquidated only by taking Italian and German goods in exchange. In trading with Britain and France they can get cash for their goods. Unless British and French money is poured in the smaller countries, one British commentator said, would "be losing their economic freedom and beginning to put a mortgage on the political freedom likewise."

Effects Widely Felt.

Such Anglo-French action promises to be felt throughout Central Europe and the Near East since Turkey is linked with Greece, Yugoslavia and Rumania in the Balkan entente which now has started a good-neighbor policy with the one-time outcast of the post-war treaty of Neuilly, Bulgaria.

Rumania and Yugoslavia, too, are linked with harassed Czechoslovakia, where Britain's most important mid-European economic venture yet may take place.

With Viscount Runciman sent by the British to Praha as unofficial mediator in Czechoslovakia's dispute with her Sudeten German minority, is smiling stock F. T. A. Ashton-Gwatkin, an expert diplomatist and head of the British Foreign Office's economic section.

"He will be able to get an idea just what the British can do to help Czechoslovakia economically," said a well informed source.

Significance of Ashton-Gwatkin's presence was enhanced by the fact Germany can strangle land-locked Czechoslovakia economically by blocking her normal trade channels though post-war treaties gave Czechoslovakia access to German ports.

Ambassador Wilson Talks With Runciman in Praha.

By the Associated Press.

PRAHA, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 6.—Hugh R. Wilson, United States Ambassador to Germany, and Britain's "unofficial mediator," Viscount Runciman, talked at length today in a meeting regarded by Czechoslovaks as bolstering efforts toward peaceful settlement of their minorities problem.

The meeting was described officially as being without particular significance. Wilson, as he climbed into a Berlin-bound plane, repeated his visit here was planned before he or his superiors knew anything about Lord Runciman's mission.

Northwest's War for Public Power

in the form of an amendment repealing, by number, certain statutes and it was not until after the bill had been passed that public ownership advocates discovered one of these was the measure authorizing cities and towns, to extend their power sales.

With this door closed, the farmer companies then asked Tacoma for permission to string lines to the city limits where a meter could be installed just inside the line. This would have been too costly if the city had not in the end granted the mutual companies the right to string their small lines on the city's poles just below the high voltage wires carrying Tacoma's supply of electricity. Moreover, the city helped the farmers obtain all necessities at wholesale rates and supervised the construction job.

Bone and the other public ownership partisans were not satisfied with this subterfuge. They determined to restore the right that was stricken out by trickery. In successive Legislatures, 1917, 1919 and 1921, they were beaten.

"The power trust had the finest political machine the State has ever seen," Bone declares. "They owned the Legislature, body and soul. More than any other state this was a fiefdom of the private power companies. Control worked through both parties and the power lobby was tied in with all other corrupt lobbies at the State Capital. Year after year the issue was the same—can the City of Tacoma sell power beyond its corporate limits?"

Ran on Issue, "Do We Own State?"

In 1923 Bone made the fight tougher by altering the Bone bill so that it no longer restricted cities to the sale of "surplus" power but gave them the unqualified right to sell beyond the corporate limits. Too, he ran for the Legislature on the Farmer-Labor ticket. He came out top man in a crowded field on the sole issue. "Do we own this State or is it owned by a Boston Corporation?"

In the 1923 Legislature, too, the Bone power bill was defeated. It was at this point that Bone and other sponsors of the measure decided to use the initiative to get the proposal directly before the voters. More than the requisite 50,000 signatures were obtained with little effort and initiative No. 52 precipitated what Bone says was the hottest political fight the State has ever seen.

"The power interests spent in that fight," Bone declares, "at least $1,000,000. They distributed a half million pieces of literature saying that $300,000,000 in power property would go off the tax books if the proposal was approved. Actually they were taxed on a valuation only slightly more than $9,500,000. For months they carried full page advertisements in all the newspapers."

Bone and others toured the State talking to large crowds but it was not enough. Initiative No. 52 was decisively beaten. Among the partisans on both sides, however, this was recognized as merely another battle in the war. In 1926 Bone started once again to tour the State making hundreds of talks about an hour and a half in length on the question of whether the State should have public power.

Bone Wins and Gets Law.

In 1932 Bone ran for the Senate on the Democratic ticket, winning by a majority of more than 200,000, running about 15,000 ahead of Roosevelt. As a United States Senator he went down to the State Legislature at Olympia and talked as follows: I was elected almost solely on the power issue. The people of this State want the Bone power bill. You were elected as New Dealers and now it's up to you to pass it. And the Legislature passed the bill, much broader in its scope than the original measure, giving public power plants the right to do business anywhere just as though they were private companies.

Even after the bill was made law, power interests sought to block it by resort to the referendum. The advocates of public ownership were quite willing to let the issue go to a general vote once more, confident of the outcome. In 1934 the law was overwhelmingly sustained.

In the meantime the real fight had shifted to another front. Educated to the significance of the power issue, the state Grange came to Bone with a request that he draw a bill which would make it possible for counties to own and operate power facilities. Under the law that was finally passed any county may constitute itself a public power district, or a part of a county, or two counties may combine or all of the State's 39 counties might, under the provisions of the law, combine in a single power district.

State-Wide System.

It is this which opens the possibility of a unified, state-wide system of public power. In a whole tier of counties in the western side of the State power districts have been formed with the aid of the Grange organization. And, according to Jack R. Cluck, Seattle attorney who is representing the power districts and shaping the general strategy in behalf of the Grange, a unified approach to the task of taking over private power facilities is being studied.

For example, in Whatcom, Skagit, Snohomish and King counties a private company operates a more or less unified system that is tied together across county lines. This fact makes it extremely difficult for one county to take over—through the right of eminent domain granted under the law—since it would mean isolating a single section of a unified system. Therefore a plan is contemplated whereby four or five counties would combine to take over the entire system.

Wherever possible, according to Cluck, the power companies will be taken over by direct purchase through the right of eminent domain. The latter process is likely to be long drawn out. Already a mutually satisfactory price has been agreed on with independent companies operating in Lewis County but this is a rather special case because of the fact that several small independent companies are involved. In Pacific County the price offered by the power district is 35 per cent lower than the lowest price which the private company has indicated it would accept. Here, according to Cluck, court proceedings are to be started.

Hopes to Avoid Duplication.

Cluck points out the economies that will be effected when these county power districts are tied together. In the county of Grays Harbor, for example, the Washington Power & Light Co., a subsidiary of Electric Bond & Share, huge holding concern, is operating a steam plant on fuel oil imported from California. But not far distant, in Lewis County, the municipal plant at Centralia has an excess of hydro-electric power that it would like to sell. With the two counties tied together the costly operation of the steam plant would no longer be necessary.

The creation of duplicate systems is not contemplated, Cluck explains, because that would be "socially wasteful." Under the Grange power law a property tax of two mills may be levied by the power district until facilities are taken over by eminent domain. Purchase or new development will be financed by utility revenue bonds so that after the first modest assessment for organization purposes, the taxpayer will not be asked to contribute to the new power system. Cluck is typical of the young men who have been drawn into the power fight by Bone's example.

Oregon adopted a Grange power law very much like that of Washington. Bone campaigned in both states for these laws. And it is an interesting sidelight that the man who has won the Democratic nomination for Oregon's vacant Senate seat, Willis Mahoney, was in the Washington Legislature at one time and associated with Bone in the early days of the power fight. Mahoney is expected to defeat the Republican nominee, Rufus Holman, former Oregon State treasurer, in the election this fall.

Preparing for New Power.

Every effort is being made to prepare for the time when Bonneville and Grand Coulee come in with their vast loads of power. Washington has passed a constitutional amendment so that indebtedness contracted for the construction of feeder lines from the big power dams will not come under the State's constitutional debt limitation of $400,000. In part with P W A funds, Seattle is building a dam on the Skagit River, 100 miles north of the city. This power development will ultimately produce 1,000,000 horsepower. Bonneville is to have an eventual capacity of 485,000 horsepower with a first output of 100,000 and the colossus, Grand Coulee, to be finished in 1942, will have 2,000,000 horsepower. To the frequent criticism that this will be a development far in excess of the State's needs, Bone says:

"The answer is yes ond no. It will not be excessive if a really aggressive power policy is followed throughout the State. Rates must be lowered and lowered again so that consumption all over the State in every field will be vastly increased. Then we must have new industries here, not only to use the power but to give work to men who have hitherto made a living out of the lumber industry. Unless such an aggressive policy is followed there is the possibility that we shall have an excess capacity."

What Bone comes back to is the tangible achievement of the Tacoma system. In 1926 the city built two dams and two power plants at Lake Cushman in the Olympic Mountains, about 70 miles from Tacoma. The cost was $12,000,000 and the capacity is 125,000 horsepower which is to be increased ultimately through added building to 168,000. In addition the city has a steam stand-by plant, for emergencies, with a capacity of 45,000 horsepower. A conservative book valuation of $23,000,000 has been put on the entire development but Bone says that if private power practices were followed, the valuation would be $30,000,000. Ten farmer mutual companies and Fort Lewis, the largest army base in the country, buy power at low rates from Tacoma. Fifty miles from the city farmers are buying power for one-third of what they would pay in big eastern cities, according to Bone.

Seasonal fluctuations in power capacity, due to variance of stream flow, are not great. In recent years, however, there have been one or two seasons of phenomenal drouth when both private and public power companies all along the Pacific Coast were hard put to it to find reserve power.

Profits From Plant.

"Even before Cushman was built," Bone says, "the Nisqually plant and the city distribution system were so profitable that at the end of the first 12 years of operation, the city had paid each year's installment on the bonds as they fell due, and had in addition accumulated so large a surplus that it could have 'called' all the remaining eight years of bonds then outstanding.

"The twelfth year of operation of our light system with the Nisqually plant showed a net profit of nearly one million dollars. When this power plant was proposed, newspapers in the city of Tacoma prophesied that it would be a huge 'white elephant' and that the city would 'be glad to get rid of it in a few years at 30 cents on the dollar.'

"Not one penny of the taxpayer's dollar ever went into the Tacoma system. It has been built entirely out of earnings. It is the city's greatest asset. Its newest plants are built in solid rock and are the finest examples of hydraulic engineering."

There is only $3,500,000 of indebtedness left on the system, amortizing out at the rate of $500,000 a year. Bone believes firmly that rates for power should be brought lower and lower as the system is relieved of debt service and other charges. He opposes the policy of lowering the general tax rate with municipal power revenue. This, he says, is done at the expense of the small consumer of electricity and benefits the large taxpayer.

Civil Service Employes.

The Tacoma system is set up independently of the city government and all employes are chosen by civil service. The Utilities Division pays the city 7½ per cent of gross receipts in lieu of taxes and approximately 3 per cent of gross receipts to the State. In addition the utility pays for a generous share of the cost of maintaining certain city departments that are related to the power system.

Utilities Commissioner Davisson is a member of the city council but he has, of course, only one vote when questions concerning utility policy are being passed upon. In 1937 the council declined to vote an appropriation to the utility to pay for lighting Tacoma's streets. This year the council followed the same course. Davisson is disturbed by this since he agrees with Bone that small consumers should benefit first by the lowest possible rate. The public utility in this instance is being made to pay for lighting the streets and Tacoma, incidentally, claims to be the best lighted city in the country. The amount is comparatively small but it is the principle involved which disturbs public ownership partisans.

Bone is not in the least troubled by his race for re-election. In fact so far it doesn't look even faintly like a race. Both C I O and A. F. of L. have agreed to support Bone and so far as can be seen at this time there will be no opposition worthy of the name. The reason, Bone guesses, modestly, is the essential issue that is involved, the issue of public power that he has championed for 30 years or more. The voters of the State have been taught to understand what that issue means and they are all for the man who symbolizes it.

Peoples' General in Power War

IDAHO CONSERVATIVE SEEKS POPE'S PLACE

Senator Has Blessing of Farley and Hull; Primary Is Tuesday.

By the Associated Press.

BOISE, Idaho, Aug. 6.—An avowed New Dealer, carrying the blessings of two administration officials, and a conservative test their strength in Idaho's Democratic senatorial primary Tuesday.

The staunch New Dealer is Senator James P. Pope, 54 years old, who aspires to a second term. The conservative is Congressman D. Worth Clark, 36.

James A. Farley, Democratic national chairman, spoke kindly of Pope's loyalty to the administration on a recent visit. He did not mention Clark. Secretary Hull praised Pope recently for lending a hand to the administration's reciprocal trade program.

Pope repeatedly has said he plans to "continue to play ball with the President."

Clark has bolted administration leadership on such measures as Supreme Court revision and governmental reorganization, taking the position that "a Senator must rely on his own judgment—and vote accordingly—rather than blindly follow the dictation of any group or faction."

Pope a Wilson Follower.

Pope embraces the foreign policies of the late President Wilson, favoring a world court and a League of Nations. Clark describes himself as a disciple of the veteran Idaho Republican Senator, William E. Borah, a so-called isolationist in international relations.

The winner must face one of three candidates for the Republican nomination: former State Senator Donald A. Callahan, Wallace Lawyer, mining man and financier, formerly of Chicago; Frank H. Adams, Twin Falls produce dealer and one-time Chicago newspaperman, or Walter H. Anderson, Pocatello lawyer and author of widely used texts on law.

Highlighting the Democratic gubernatorial race is the comeback campaign of C. Ben Ross, three times Governor who unsuccessfully sought to unseat Senator Borah in 1936. Ross is opposed by Gov. Barzilla W. Clark, uncle of Congressman Clark; Lieutenant-Governor C. C. Gossett and W. P. Whitaker.

Two Republicans, C. A. Bottolfsen, newspaper man, and R. H. Young, prominent rancher, seek their party's gubernatorial nomination.

Nine Run for Congress.

There are nine Democratic aspirants for the seat Congressman Clark plans to vacate, including one woman, Mrs. Frank E. Johnesse, once the only woman Democratic State Chairman in the United States. In 1936 approximately 50,000 Democrats and 40,000 Republicans participated in the primary.

M. L. Alsup, secretary of the Idaho Progressive Association, today announced that a La Follette Progressive party convention would be held at Caldwell Tuesday to nominate candidates for State offices. Under Idaho law minor parties may nominate candidates at conventions.

In a campaign speech last night, Representative Clark advocated the Townsend old age pension plan.

"The Townsend plan may not be perfect, but it is the best method yet proposed to deal with a condition of scarcity in a land of plenty. It fits better into our framework of Government; it recognizes private industry; it is democratic; it may work," he said.

TWO WELFARE AGENCIES NAME JOINT EXECUTIVE COMMITTEE

Another Step in Unification of Programs of Children's Aid Society and Provident Association.

Unification of the welfare programs of Children's Aid Society and the Provident Association, begun two years ago with creation of a joint staff under a single administrator, was advanced yesterday with appointment of a joint executive comittee for the two United Charities agencies.

Members of the committee are: For the Provident Association, Samuel C. McCluney, Roy D. Kercheval, Mrs. D. K. Rose, Mrs. E. H. Steedman, Mrs. Kenneth H. Bitting and L. M. Stewart. For the Children's Aid Society, C. Powell Fordyce, Berthoud Clifford, Mrs. Fred B. Eiseman, Mrs. J. M. Nelson Jr., Isaac C. Orr and Dudley French, president of the Children's Aid Society, who was named chairman of the committee.

"We are convinced that the joint administration plan has increased immeasurably the value and effectiveness of the services offered to the people of St. Louis by both agencies," French said. "This step will further still more the integration of the service program. Child aid and family welfare are so closely inter-related that complete co-operation in the two fields can do much to further the aims in both."

Marine Recruits Sought.

A temporary recruiting station of the United States Marine Corps will be open for two weeks, beginning tomorrow, at the Federal Building, Twelfth boulevard and Market street. Applicants must be single, 18 to 30 years old, 5 feet 4 inches to 6 feet 2 inches tall, and with no dependents. Those accepted will be sent to the Marine Corps base at San Diego, Cal., for training.

China's Buddhist Monks Quit Monasteries to Aid Defenders As Rescue Corps Behind Lines

Priests, Who in Past Wars Have Shut Selves Within Temples, Doing What They Can to Help Defeat Japan.

By DOROTHY DAVIS

Member of the Staff of the China Weekly Review Until the Japanese Occupied Shanghai.

WARS have come and gone in China these hundreds and thousands of years, but the followers of Buddha have heeded them not. Their founder enjoined on them the doctrine of non-resistance and they have obeyed his precepts.

When China was torn with civil strife in times past, when the barbarian nomads from Mongolia and Manchuria invaded the fertile plains of the Yangtze and Yellow rivers, the monks withdrew into their monasteries, shutting the gates. The scent of incense on the breeze, the echo of gong and drum told the fighting mobs outside that within barred doors the monks were at prayer beseeching their Lord to help all men to know the peace of contemplation, so that they might cease their physical strife and strive only for bliss, the nothingness of Nirvana.

But Buddha knew nothing of modern warfare, of trench mortars creating death and destruction, of bombs dropped from the skies on the heads of innocent and belligerent alike. He knew nothing of a land plucked clean of its people, of hordes of the panic-stricken driven before armies like straw blown by the wind. He knew nothing of a hundred million starving, stripped of every small thing they possessed, nor of the "scorched earth" policy whereby no blade of grass, no thing of value is supposed to remain for the invaders. When Buddha counseled non-resistance, he could not look into the future and see the havoc which would be wrought in the land where his teachings were to exert their greatest influence.

Monks Change With War.

The wave of misery and destruction which is sweeping over China has penetrated into the monasteries and temples of him who was an apostle of peace, as nothing else ever has. No longer can the monks withdraw in peace to burn fragrant incense on his altar, a bomb or shell is no respecter of temples or holy images. Times have changed radically and the monks must change with them, however much they may wish to stay within the quiet peaceful halls that have sheltered them so long from mankind's troubles. As the peasants have been driven from their fields, the workingmen from their jobs in the factories, so the priests and monks have had to flee if they would live to continue serving Buddha.

A life into which has come so catastrophic a change as modern war, demands a reassessment of ideals and their practice. Especially is this true in a country such as China, which is barely emerging from a primitive, thousand-year-old order of society into the modern world. So the ideas of China's Buddhist monks must change with the changing fortunes of their country; incense and chanted prayers are of no avail against damage created by bombs and shells. Since they have had no other choice the monks and priests have succumbed with good grace to an existence where the immediate problems of life and death so completely outweigh all other things as to leave room for nothing else.

Rescue Corps Organized.

That the present Chinese-Japanese war was a war, the like of which had never been fought in China before, was recognized first by a group of 120 monks from Shanghai Buddhist temple, led by Abbot Hung Ming. Perhaps credit should not be given to their special foresight. After all Shanghai had been through a fight with the Japanese in 1932, and they had had opportunity enough of observing what modern warfare was like during the days when Chinese first fought Japanese on a grand scale.

Still faithful to the principle laid down by Buddha that no living being should suffer death at their hands, the monks decided that it was not inconsistent with the remainder of their principles to take part in activities designed to save lives. Therefore, a rescue corps was organized, and the monks went behind the lines with stretchers while the fighting was going on around Shanghai, rescued the wounded, gave them first aid and took them to the newly-established Buddhist hospital in the International Settlement. When the Chinese army was forced to retreat from Shanghai, the corps of 120 monks went with them. They are now in Hankow where they are continuing the work begun in Shanghai.

Another group of monks, also from monasteries in and around Shanghai, remained behind after the fighting moved into the interior. They formed the Shanghai Buddhist Burying Corps. Following in the wake of the two armies, Chinese and Japanese, they buried the dead, soldiers as well as refugees who failed to get through and died on the road. Wherever it has been possible for the burying corps to learn the names of those who died, they have erected wooden tablets in commemoration. Each mass or single burial has been accompanied by a chant for the souls of the dead, and sometimes Japanese Buddhist monks sent out by Japanese military headquarters have joined the Chinese monks in the services, especially where the bodies buried have been Japanese.

Others in Interior Join.

In the meantime their brethren in the interior have not been idle. As the war moved inland, it engulfed other monasteries and temples; many more monks decided to leave their quiet cloisters, so soon to echo with the thunder of exploding shells, and join the rescue and burial squads organized by the monks from Shanghai. Until recently Hankow has been the center of their activities, but the drive of the Japanese armies toward the provisional capital has caused the monks to plan to move further inland.

The concentration of monks in Hankow permitted a more efficient organization of both rescue and burial work. For seven days during the latter part of April, the China Buddhist Association held at the Ninth Lotus Temple in Hankow religious ceremonies designed "to raise the souls of war heroes from land and water." Considerable sums were collected from the worshipers during these ceremonies, and as a result the Hankow Buddhist Rescue Corps was able to purchase a number of ambulances, stretchers, first-aid kits and other medical supplies.

Now the ancient plains of China are regularly treated to the sight of a dozen or so monks hanging onto a modern, up-to-date ambulance as it rattles over the dusty roads. If they should pass an old-fashioned monk trudging down the road, complete with beads and flowing gown, his shaven head exposed to sun and rain, he would seem an anachronism by comparison with this Buddhist ambulance corps, its members neatly dressed in military-style uniforms, on each head a jaunty cap.

Leader an Ex-Soldier.

The man who has done more to break down his brethren's disinclination to indulge in active life and to build up the rescue and burial corps is the Monk Hung Ming, until the fall of Nanking last November, abbot of one of the largest monasteries in that city. But Hung Ming was not always a monk, for as Brigadier-General Yang Teh-chao he led an army of thousands of volunteers in the Shanghai fighting of 1932. Like so many Generals in China, Hung Ming fell into disfavor; he took part in the revolt of the Nineteenth Route Army in Fukien Province in 1934.

This army, which had so bravely defended Chinese soil against the Japanese in the first Shanghai battle, was transferred to Fukien after the fighting was over and a demilitarized zone created around the city. The heroes of the Nineteenth Route Army felt disgruntled over what they considered cavalier treatment on the part of their Government; they resented being sent to the backwoods of Fukien when all the world was singing their praises. They objected to fighting their own countrymen, the Chinese Reds, while the Japanese still occupied part of Chinese soil. After their rebellion collapsed, Hung Ming fled to Hongkong, where he lived until he made his peace with the Chinese Government. On his return in 1935 he became a monk and was ordained shortly thereafter as abbot of the Hsiang Lin or Fragrant Forest Monastery in Nanking.

Hung Ming's Foresight.

As an ex-soldier and still not entirely divorced from worldly affairs, Hung Ming foresaw that Japan would not be content with occupation of Manchuria and semi-dominion over North China. Months before the present war opened with the Lukouchiao or Marco Polo Bridge incident outside of Peking on July 7 of last year, Abbot Hung Ming began to agitate for the training of Buddhist monks in the type of work they are now doing. And when the war did start in the north, Hung Ming left his monastery in Nanking and came to Shanghai to organize the Shanghai Buddhist Rescue and Burying Corps, so that when the fighting began around that city on Aug. 13, Hung Ming and his 120 fellow priests were ready. A hospital had been established under his leadership, an ambulance was on duty and trained stretcher bearers carried the wounded to the ambulance and then to the hospital. This Buddhist hospital is still in operation in Shanghai giving free treatment to Chinese refugees.

When the Chinese were forced to retreat from Shanghai last fall, Hung Ming felt that he and the 120 monks who formed his original corps would be able to be of more service to China if they followed the armies. Therefore, they marched inland with the troops, first to Kaifeng, later to Hsuchow and finally to Hankow.

Through the agency of Hung Ming and countless others who must remain nameless, even the Chinese Buddhist monks have come to feel that their country's future is their own. A life of peace and contemplation is not possible when China is fighting for its life, when misery and starvation stalk through the land. The chanting of prayers, the solemn, rhythmic beat of gongs, must be combined with activity so that peace will come again. And peace cannot come until the Japanese are driven from the country, so China's Buddhist monks are doing what they can to help their country defeat the Japanese.

COUNTY BOARD SEEKS RELIEF CONFERENCE

Chairman Says Reduced Staff of 19 Can't Handle Work—30 Needed, at Least.

The St. Louis County advisory board of the State Social Security Commission joined the St. Louis advisory board yesterday in requesting a conference with members of the commission at Jefferson City to discuss the "grave crisis" resulting from a shortage of administrative funds.

John A. Dowdall, chairman of the county board, said the staff of the commission's office in the county had been reduced last week from 25 to 19, although at least 30 were necessary for proper administration of relief, old age pensions and allowances for the aid of dependent children.

The county, Dowdall said, now has about 3580 families receiving public assistance, and has pending nearly 1000 applications which have not yet been investigated.

In St. Louis, where the administrative staff has been reduced from 328 to 121, there are 2400 pending applications and new cases can be investigated at the rate of about 60 a day. Last week the number of applications usually was received by 8 a. m. and no more applicants were admitted to the waiting room at 2221 Locust street.

Would Furnish Basic Foodstuffs to British People

port boards of their own, which would also be responsible for home produce, and to hold the food in storage plants, refrigerators, and so forth, and release it when and where the demand arises. Clearly so large a concern could watch for favorable markets of supply and could so arrange its net storage as to minimize costs.

"Clearly, too, it could encourage research into methods of refrigeration and storage and could moreover make full use of modern canning technique. It may be assumed that the public concerns would take charge of many of the canneries and of the butter and cheese making plants in this country, and extend their scope according to scientific plan.

Retail Trade.

"Turning to the retail trade, we find a very complex picture. It is evident that in theory costs could here be reduced in respect of a wide range of foodstuffs. But we should have to imagine at what disadvantage the saving might be realized. We should hesitate to support a policy of sweeping changes that might produce widespread suffering. Nevertheless, the retail trade will have to be investigated; and it might well be that the schemes for centralized milk depots, bakeries and abattoirs will turn out to be of considerable value.

"The political aspect of the whole conception of food boards demands some comment. The consumers, that is to say, the public at large, are to receive full consideration. Apparently there is only one person who can represent the public as consumers and that is a responsible Cabinet minister. The proposed food boards would have to be under the control either of a Food Minister or of some existing ministry such as the Board of Trade."

War Act Fitted to Peacetime.

The authors of the report tried to avoid raising any politico-economic implications in it by stating that "we are assuming that no profound adjustment of our economic system is contemplated." No doubt their suggestions will appeal first and foremost to the Labor Trade Union movement of Great Britain. But if those suggestions are implemented, it would not be surprising, to judge from the post-war social-economic history of the country, to find it done by a Conservative Government.

It is highly significant, however, that the basic principles recommended by the report are the same as those contained in the British Government's latest wartime food control plans, which place the production, importation, purchase and distribution of essential foodstuffs upon the footing of a public service. What the Government believes to be essential in time of war, these eight scientists hold to be equally necessary in times of peace.

LIBRARY CIRCULATION RISES

193,451 in July, 17,531 More Than in Corresponding 1937 Month.

During July, the St. Louis Public Library circulated 193,451 books, or 17,531 more than in July last year, Librarian Charles H. Compton reported yesterday. The 3496 borrowers registered represented the largest number for July for five years. During the month, 3612 books were added to the library.

The five most popular non-fiction books were: "Importance of Living," by Lin Yu Tang; "Summing Up," By Maugham; "Carpenter of Nazareth," by Yost; "Evolution of Physics," by Einstein, and "Mein Kampf," by Hitler.

BURGOS, Spain, (By Mail)—Insurgent Spain's cinema chieftain, Manuel Augusto, has ruled all foreign-made movies shown in insurgent territory must have Spanish sound tracks "dubbed in." He said the ruling was to promote Spanish culture and language.

Stock Prices Turn Upward in Closing Sessions of Quietest Period Since Week of June 18

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Stocks advanced in today's market, many reaching new high territory for the year or longer, with gains running to 2 points or so at the best. The list encountered more insistent profit taking in the closing hour of the brief session and peak prices for the majority of leaders were reduced. Motors, steels, rubbers, rails and a wide assortment of specialties were in the forefront of the day's push.

Associated Press stock market index for the week showed industrials up two full points, rails up an even point, utilities .3 of a point higher, and 60 stocks up 1.4 points. The Dow-Jones average of 65 stocks advanced 1.50 points for the week.

Volume was low for the week at 4,829,910 shares, smallest since the week of June 18, compared with last week's total of 7,961,220 shares. It was the liveliest Saturday session since July 2, with transfers totaling 829,060 shares compared with 358,940 in the preceding 2-hour proceedings.

Brokers attributed the extentions of Friday's rally mainly to the continuance of business hopes and the impatience of traders and investors to put idle funds to work. Although the Far Eastern Russo-Japanese major war threat was far from cheering, most market observers held to the belief a general outbreak in this quarter would be avoided.

Gold Hoarding Resumed.

Resumption of gold hoarding abroad aroused apprehension in some financial circles and the price of the yellow metal at London was lifted the highest level since March a year ago. Sterling and the French franc gave ground in terms of the dollar.

Bonds, particularly rails, followed stocks on the forward trek, but commodities lacked rising vigor. Wheat at Chicago came back ⅛ to ¾ of a cent a bushel after Friday's slump. Corn, though, dipped ¾ to 1¼. Cotton was down 5 cents a bale to up 20 cents.

During the short proceedings new tops for 1938 were registered for General Motors, Briggs Mfg., Greyhound Corporation, Goodyear, Goodrich, United States Rubber, Celanese, Libby-Owens-Ford, du Pont, American Can, Phelps Dodge, Delaware & Hudson and Texas Corporation, among others.

Backward were Douglas Aircraft, Union Carbide, J. I. Case, Oliver Farm, Western Union, Homestake Mining, Dome and Philip Morris.

What Business Index Shows.

The market generally during week showed an inclination to move out of the rut it had occupied for about 10 days while intrenching after its sweeping June and July advances. A number of issues sold at new peaks for the bull movement, among them General Motors, American Can and Delaware & Hudson.

Speculation, however, assumed the lethargic appearance Wall Street has frequently associated with the early August dog days. With temperatures in the East at uncomfortable levels, many stayed away from financial haunts for vacations in cooler spots.

Still dominating attention in market circles was business. The chief measures of industrial activity extended previous gains, going counter to the usual summer trend. The Associated Press weekly industrial index, making its fourth consecutive advance, rose to 72.9 from 70.8, the largest week-to-week rise since February, 1937. Residential building, a major factor in the recovery trend, rose above the comparable 1937 figure for the first time this year.

Gathering speed, the upturn from the late spring lows now amounts to more than 10 per cent, the Associated Press index having jumped more than seven points.

Hopes this trend would hold through the autumn months seemed to be the main motive behind accumulation of stocks. The large crops the nation is harvesting, preparations of the big motor industry to hasten production of 1939 automobiles and the breadth of revival in building were among causes for optimism cited in Wall Street.

Demand for Gold.

While business rebound at home was stressed as the most important element in speculative calculations, attention was diverted to foreign affairs by heavy demand for gold in the London open market, accompanied by a further decline in the British pound against the dollar. The drop in foreign currencies seemed to have been caused fundamentally by a slump in the export trade of England and other big trading nations and a large surplus of merchandise exports from this country, throwing the international balance of payments decidedly in favor of the dollar.

The Japanese-Russian border clash apparently accentuated the weakness of foreign currencies, reviving old war fears and conjecture whether Central European politics were about to take a turn for the worse again.

But the excitement in the London gold market largely was localized In Wall Street there was a flurry of buying in gold shares at the height of the rush for the metal abroad. Elsewhere the flight into gold, with exchange traders playing for a fall in sterling, merely emphasized a waiting mood. The halt in specualtion for the rise in domestic markets was welcomed by many who were apprehensive lest security prices get too far out of joint with business on the recovery swing.

Spurt in Corporate Financing.

The week's news afforded Wall Streeters ample incentive for rumination over the contrast with trends a year ago, when the first clean hints of the impending industrial recession began to crop out in trade statistics. Most striking was the sharp ascent of residential building. F H A figures showed mortgage guarantee business of the Government in July about doubled the comparable 1937 figure.

Also significant in the eyes of several commentators was a fresh spurt of new corporate financing, following a July lull.

A definite upturn in bank loans still was lacking but this was held to be natural in the early phases of recovery. Analysts counted on expansion in bank credit to follow the basic industrial barometers, assuming the upturn carries through the autumn months, as many anticipated.

MODERATE DECLINE IN COMMODITY PRICES

Industrial Raw Material Values Weaken for First Time Since Early July.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Commodity prices dipped moderately this week, holding in the narrow range of the past five weeks.

The Associated Press weighted index of 35 important wholesale staples stood at 67.48 per cent of the 1926 average, compared with 67.50 a week ago and 89.95 last year.

For more than a month the barometer has moved between 67.5 and 67.7, with rising industrial quotations more or less offset by declining farm products.

For the first time since early July, industrial raw material prices weakened this week. Steel scrap continued to climb into new high ground for the year, but other staples—including rubber, turpentine, tin and linseed oil—slipped back.

Slump in Textiles.

Textiles slumped for the second week, wool, cotton cloth and silk joining the parade of lower prices. The heavy demand of early July subsided, the trade reported, while mill operations continued to soar sensationally to the highest level since last fall.

The modest setback of industrial staple prices stemmed largely from slackening demand.

The first rush to stock up had worn off and fabricators sat back to survey their positions.

Grains and other farm products were mixed. Spot corn and wheat improved slightly as private crop estimates were reduced for the second month. Oats and rye pushed ahead a bit on better demand.

Cotton dipped, although harvest estimates were the lowest in several years and approximately equal to domestic consumption and exports last year. The carryover from last year's record-breaking crop, of course, still hangs on the market.

Livestock was down. Hogs and lambs slipped, while cattle nudged ahead to within striking distance of their recent peak.

Market-basket items were mostly lower. Eggs, flour and lard gave way before moderate selling pressure, while cocoa and coffee pushed upward.

THE WEEK ON NEW YORK STOCK MARKET—

INDUSTRIAL ACTIVITY INDEX UP SHARPLY

Rise of 2.1 Points Carries Average to Level 10.7 Per Cent Above May Basis.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Latest available statistics point to the sharpest rise in industrial operations this week since the recovery boom was nearing its crest last year.

The Associated Press seasonally adjusted index jumped to 72.9 per cent of the 1929-30 average, from 70.8 last week and compared with 102.8 a year ago.

From the low point at the end of May, this barometer has advanced 10.7 per cent.

Residential building, cotton manufacturing and steel-mill operations surged ahead to new peaks for the year; home construction topping last year for the first time.

Inquiries were reported by industrialists to have picked up sharply, and orders also began to flow faster than the trickle-level of recent months.

Automobile assemblies were curtailed.

Although total freight loadings improved moderately—the result principally a bulge in coal movement—miscellaneous carloadings, the major industrial classification, continued to decline, after allowance for seasonal factors.

The index, with its components based on latest available data and with 1929-30 as 100, compared as follows:

Mid-Week Rush to Sell British Pound Dries to Trickle at Close

Sterling Sinks Close to $4.89, Lowest Level in More Than Year, in Week's Trading.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Pressure on the English pound attributed to nervousness of European capital demanding gold or American dollars, and which has brought a slump of about 10 cents in the value of the pound in two months, appeared to have subsided somewhat today.

Buying of gold in the London open market totaled only $3,700,000 as compared to the total of more than $25,000,000 for Wednesday and Thursday.

Today's easing up was in some quarters attributed to lessening tension in the international political situation.

The pound's slump brought comparatively little gold to this country during the past week, England's shipments totaling only $2,500,000 out of $12,248,000, of which the largest portion was from Japan.

Heavy pressure on the British pound last week had the money experts scratching their heads for an explanation.

Plunging about 3 cents lower in terms of the dollar, sterling sank close to $4.89 and to the lowest level in well over a year as continental capital turned from the pound to gold and the dollar.

British trade figures offered one underlying explanation, according to international banking circles. For the first five months of the year the "sterling bloc"—that is, countries using the pound or closely related to it—showed a small import balance, while in the similar 1937 period there was a heavy export balance. Broadly considered, in other words, demand for sterling did not equal the supply.

As the pound declined the price of gold in London soared to the highest point in more than a year. Since the gold price is controlled by the Government, traders saw in this move a willingness on the part of authorities to allow the pound to sink to its old gold-dollar parity of about $4.86.

With the exception of the belga—the only major European money directly tied to gold—continental monies slid down with the pound. One of the hardest hit was the volatile guilder, which lost around ¼c. The franc lost close to .01½ of a cent, cushioned by control support, while the Swiss franc held comparatively steady.

Gold engaged abroad for shipment here totaled $12,248,000, compared with $13,863,000 last week.

The Federal Reserve Bank reported the engagement of $1,935,000 in gold in London for shipment here.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6. — The New York Central Railroad, applied to the Interstate Commerce Commission today for authority to borrow $5,000,000 from the National City Bank of New York.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation has offered to guarantee payment of principal and interest.

The railroad proposes to use the money for maintenance work. Among other things it plans to purchase 28,600 tons of rail.

CHAIN STORE SALES

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—S. H. Kress Co. reported July sales of $5,821,610, a drop of 11.2 per cent from $6,558,921 in July last year. Turnover in the first seven months of the year amounted to $41,804,450, a decline of 7.1 per cent from $45,015,301 in the similar 1937 period.

Tending to broaden the difference between July this year and 1937 was an extra business day in the 1937 month.

NONFERROUS METALS QUIETER BUT FIRM

Copper Demand Is Fairly Active — Lead Market Rules Steady.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—The bank holiday in London and lower foreign exchange markets dampened the recent bullish enthusiasm for metals during the past week but prices, except for tin, remained firm.

Copper demand was fairly active at 10⅛ cents through the week with Russia, Germany and Japan reported the most interested buyers. July bookings were estimated at over 123,000 tons, the highest since October, 1936. Sellers were believed reluctant to supply metal too far ahead, and some premiums were reported at Connecticut valley plants, making copper equal to 10¼ cents a pound.

Tin dropped to 43.60 cents from 44.25 cents at last week-end, which was the high price for the year. Late recovery in the Singapore market brought better domestic buying and improved steel operations brightened sentiment, though statistically the outlook was no better, visible world supplies rising to 31,097 tons, the highest since late 1933.

There was a good general demand for lead and the price was steady at 4.75 cents New York. Battery and cable makers were again credited as large buyers. Producers said demand was steady and active. Production remained curtailed.

Zinc shipments and sales were good during the week with buyers now fairly well filled on their requirements. Galvanizing operations were strong. Demand for last quarter metal was good and some sellers felt the 4.75 cent price was too low, but the London market has been a barrier to price upturns here, due to large stocks and production abroad. Considerable zinc was said to be going into armament manufacture in foreign countries.

Antimony was unchanged at 14 cents for Chinese grade, sales of which were small. American grade demand picked up a little.

Steel operations rose again, reaching about 40 per cent, the highest since last November. Buying continues of general character and schedules of most districts are around the average. The south, however, remained at close to 50 per cent leading the cuntry. Pittsburghs scrap reached a new high for the year at $15.75.

Mill Operation to Increase.

By the Associated Press.

MASSILLON, O., Aug. 6.—Steel mill operations will increase in Massillon next week when Republic Steel Corporation places the second of its open hearth furnaces here. The first furnace was lighted three weeks ago. The open hearth division has been out of operation since last November. Republic officials said the additional furnace would mean calling more men back to work.

WHEAT HIGHER AFTER TOUCHING NEW 5-YEAR LOW

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—The wheat market dropped as much as 1¼ cents to a new five-year low during the first hour of trading today, but then bounced back and closed with net gains ranging from ⅛ to ¾ cent.

Firmness at the opening, based on the fact that securities were strong and Liverpool failed to reflect fully the break here Friday, soon gave way to increased selling much of which represented stop-loss orders. On the rebound after mid-session liquidation dried up in an apparently oversold pit. A firmer Winnipeg market after an early break, and gains of almost a cent at Kansas City helped buying sentiment here late in the session.

On the early break all grains reached lows unequaled in the last four or five years. September wheat fell to 63½, or about 12 cents under the loan price, September corn hit 52¾, oats 22⅝ and rye 42¾. Liverpool closed about a cent lower, compared with declines of more than 2 cents here yesterday.

Winding up ⅛@¾ higher, September wheat closed at 64⅝@65, and December 66¾@⅞; corn was ¾@1¼ lower, September 52⅞@53, December 50⅞@51; oats ¼@⅜ off; rye unchanged to ⅜ up, and lard 7@10 cents lower.

Temporary weakness in wheat was ascribed partly to stop-loss selling, especially on accounts for which additional margin was needed, in view of the decline of world prices the last three weeks. Winnipeg prices were 1½ lower at the time selling was most pronounced.

Export business was limited, but Liverpool reported more willingness on the part of U. S. exporters to dispose of holdings. Stocks were reported piling up in the United Kingdom.

Although uncertainty prevailed as to mechanics of marketing Canada's new 1938 crop, most traders called attention to the fact that the Government guarantee of 80 cents to Canadian farmers will not alter prospects for a large exportable surplus which will be in competition in the world market with United States grain. Whether this competition will be too much to permit export of substantial quantities of domestic wheat remains to be seen, it was said.

Weakness in corn, traders said, was the result largely of generous rains the past two days in important sections of the belt. Export sales were estimated at 300,000 bushels.

Provisions declined with grains and in sympathy with hog market losses this week.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE. Aug. 6.—Local grain futures were not quoted today.

Liverpool wheat opened ⅞ to 1d lower and closed ⅞ to 1d off.

Winnipeg wheat opened ⅛@⅜c higher and early was ½ to 1c down. The close was net unchanged to ⅜c higher.

Argentine wheat started ¼@⅜c lower and corn ¾c off. The close was ½c lower for wheat and ⅜@⅝c off for corn.

Local wheat receipts, which were 192,000 bu., compared with 474,000 a week ago and 241,500 a year ago, included 125 cars local and 3 through. Corn receipts, which were 52,500 bu, compared with 79,500 a week ago and 39,000 a year ago, included 23 cars local and 12 through. Oats receipts, which were 56,000 bu, compared with 42,000 a week ago and 30,000 a year ago, included 16 cars local and 12 through. Hay receipts were 4 cars through.

ST. LOUIS CASH GRAIN.

In the cash grain market Saturday, soft wheat was steady to ½c higher. Supply was somewhat smaller and the demand was good. Trading basis was better, especially on the high grades. Corn was 1¼@1½c lower. Supply was somewhat larger and with the demand only fair, some grain was carried over. Outside order buyers, elevators and glucose makers showed the interest. Premiums were ½c above Friday's level, with No. 1 yellow and No. 1 and No. 2 white selling ½c over the September figure and No. 1 mixed ½c under. Oats were unchanged. Demand was only fair and some grain remained unsold. Elevator and outside order buyers showed the interest.

FOREIGN MARKETS AT A GLANCE

LIVERPOOL, Aug. 6.—Tangible evidence of expanding wheat supplies caused recessions of ⅞d to 1d in the futures market today. Traders noted increased exporter's offerings from the United States as well as expectations of large world shipments for the week. United Kingdom port stocks increased by 800,000 bushels in July.

Cotton futures declined uniformly 8 points under scattered liquidation and hedging brought about by more favorable weather. Offtake was poor. A gloomy view was taken of the supply and demand situation, considered unsound. Traders were cautious pending Monday's American bureau cotton production estimate.

London and Paris markets are closed on Saturday.

REBOUND IN RAILROAD BONDS AS WEEK CLOSES

Sharp Setback in Carriers Feature of Week—New Issues on Market.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Railroad issues found new support in the bond market today, reversing with vigor the lower trend prevalent most of the week. Other groups exhibited uniform firmness.

The turnabout in carrier liens, first noticeable in the last hour of Friday's session, was accomplished without the benefit of specific news developments, other than that carloadings last week, reported yesterday, were up slightly more than had been expected.

Prominent on the comeback with gains of major fractions to around 3 points were Alleghany 5s of 1949 and the stamped 5s of 1950; Great Northern 4s "G," Illinois Central 4¾s, Missouri-Kansas-Texas 5s of 1962, Nickel Plate 4½s, Southern Pacific 4½s of 1968, and Erie 5s. There were many others.

Gaining ground in the industrial and utility groups were Western Union 5s at 73¾, Walworth 4s at 70, the convertible issue of American Typefounders at 114¾ and Bethlehem Steel 3¾s. The Associated Press average of 10 industrial bonds attained a new 1938 peak at 100.3, up .2 of a point on the day.

U. S. Governments were lifeless, with total sales of less than $75,000 par value. Of the six active issues traded, two advanced 2-32ds of a point, one was 1-32d lower and three unchanged.

Foreign dollar bonds tended higher. Uruguay 6s advanced 2¾ points to 48 on a single sale. Japanese 6½s were ¾ higher at 68¼.

Total sales of $3,054,000 par value compared with $2,519,150 last Saturday.

Railroad bonds declined sharply earlier in the week, tending to obscure moderate progress in other divisions of the market.

Of greater interest to the investment community than day-to-day fluctuations, however, were increasingly clearer indications of a substantial mid-summer revival of the new capital markets. The first of an array of new issues aggregating $300,000,000 expected to be offered publicly during August and the first part of September made its appearance Friday in the form of $37,500,000 bonds and notes of the Indianapolis Power & Light Co.

To follow within a week was an imposing list of scheduled offerings totaling upwards of $100,000,000. Included were: $36,500,000 securities of Toledo Edison Co., $32,000,000 New York Steam Corp., $25,000,000 Republic of Argentina, and $10,000,000 Public Service Electric & Gas.

Later this month or in the forepart of September such new issues as the $73,000,000 Commonwealth Edison bonds and debentures and $10,000,000 Crucible Steel 4½ per cent bonds are expected to make their appearance along with a number of others.

Of the immediate market, the drop in railroad liens was attributed to a variety of factors. Included were the long expected "corrective" reaction following the sharp upturn beginning on June 20 and the failure of rail management and labor to make any progress in their discussions looking to a wage adjustment.

Industrial bonds and the low-yield group used in the Associated Press averages attained new 1938 highs during the week.

Among foreign bonds, Nipponese issues were upset by the Russo-Japanese flareup.

U. S. Governments pointed slightly higher.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—The Interstate Commerce Commission authorized the Southern Railway Co. today to issue $4,500,000 first consolidated mortgage 5 per cent bonds to provide for the retirement Sept. 1 of an equal amount of East Tennessee reorganization 5 per cent bonds.

COTTON TRADE QUIET AS CROP ESTIMATE IS AWAITED

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.—Cotton moved over a narrow range today as the trade awaited Monday's Government cotton crop report. December rocevered from 8.46 to 8.52 and closed at 8.49, with fina lprices one point net lower to four higher.

The market opened one to two points lower in partial response to easier Liverpool cables and under pre-bureau liquidation. December sold below 8½ cents for the first time on the current decline in the early trading but more trade price fixing was uncovered and prices turned steadier. Liverpool and Bombay also bought here, but on the whole transactions were small.

The trade is expecting a Government crop estimate of around 11,300,000 bales, based on the average of private figures.

Cotton goods sales for the week were estimated at less than 50 per cent of the current rate of cotton mill output. The amount of cotton on shipboard awaiting clearance at the close of the week was estimated at 30,122 bales against 22,037 last year and 22,045 two years ago.

Horses and Mules.

NATIONAL STOCKYARDS, Ill., Aug. 6.—About 200 horses and mules were on sale the past week, a modest supply. More young mules were included in the run and these sold to good advantage. Several good cotton mules brought over $200 a head and cotton feeders and desirable two and three-year-old offerings sold well. Dealers say they can sell a good supply of cotton mules. There is also an outlet for shippers 14.3 to 15.2 hands, four to six years old. The horse market was rather quiet. Some good thick mares and fillies brought steady terms, but yearlings were easier and branded stock without quality was hard to dispose of.

Rise of Labor Union Schools, Begun in 1890

like the proletarian novel. Too much of it had only an intellectual relation to the worker and could not hold his interest through half an act, he believed. Ostensibly for workers, it was written by intellectuals and doctrinaires for other intellectuals and doctrinaires. He has seen to it that Labor Stage productions are cut from different cloth. They are of, by and for the garment workers, and therefore sparkling and fresh and a joy to any audience.

Start Made in 1890.

The Educational Department of the I L G W U, which was reorganized in 1934 and placed under the direction of Mark Starr, had its beginning in the Educational Club formed in New York in 1890 by a few waistmakers.

Locals, whose meetings are in themselves excellent classes in the working of the democratic process, were urged to devote at least one session a month to lectures and debates, but the union did not begin its intensive educational activities until shortly before the outbreak of the war.

Naturally, the first efforts were rather disconnected. But the movement took real shape in 1914 when Local 25 of New York obtained the use of Public School 63 and induced Juliet S. Poyntz, instructor in history at Barnard, to become its educational director. In 1915 a summer school was organized under the same direction at Pine Hill, N. Y.

New York Schools Used.

More New York school houses were placed at the union's disposal during the year, and joint action by a number of locals permitted more ambitious programs. This success in New York led to definite action by the organizaton's convention at Philadelphia in 1916. Establishment of educational committees in all locals was decreed. An international educational director was appointed. Co-operation was offered to other unions for the establishment of a "labor college." And, most important of all, the international voted its first educational appropriation—$5000.

This was increased to $10,000 at the Boston convention two years later. The 1920 Chicago convention made it $15,000, and in 1922 at Cleveland $17,500 was voted. Currently, the international is spending more than $60,000 a year for educational, cultural and recreational activities, while the various locals are disbursing an additional $200,000 annually.

Evening classes were established elsewhere than in New York. Today about 20,000 union members are enrolled in 600 regular classes in Boston, Atlanta, St. Louis, Kansas City, Passaic, Chicago, Minneapolis, Dallas, Montreal, San Francisco and other cities. The sylabi, pamphlets and reading lists prepared by the international are available in all of these places, and books are provided throughout the country at wholesale prices.

Half of Members Participate.

"More than half of our membership today actively participates in the educational activities of our International," Vice-President Julius Hochman reported at the 1937 Atlantic City convention., "The work comprises many enterprises—classes and lectures, institutes and summer schools, publications, motion pictures and radio programs. We have a staff of 29 educational directors who are functioning in 24 states and in Puerto Rico and in Canada. Out of a total of 236 locals, 193 or 75 per cent of the locals are carrying on educational activities.

"One of the outstanding accomplishments of our educational work was a pageant, called 'Surging Forward,' presented by our St. Louis union in June, 1936."

Its long experience has given the I L G W U a definite philosophy of workers' education. It has come to realize that study and recreation must be balanced in a successful program. More than a decade ago the Villa Anita Garibaldi on Midland Beach, Staten Island, was opened as a vacation resort for members. It was followed by the opening of the Forest Park Unity House, near Stroudsburg, Pa., by Local 25 of New York. This was destroyed by fire in the summer of 1934, but was soon replaced by a modern main building, a hotel-dormitory and eight cottages at a cost of $325,000. The new structures, under the direction of the international, can accommodate 1000 persons at a time and are today the union's most ambitious play places.

Organized Recreation.

Organized recreation, naturally, is not left only for the vacation months. All over the country, the locals have baseball and basketball teams, swimming and gymnasium classes, orchestras and bands. Hikes and museum trips are frequently arranged, and dances are popular.

Probably the greatest service of the I L G W U to the American labor movement came when its example induced other trade unions to follow its path in the educational field. Among the first of these were the Amalgamated Clothing Workers and the United Cloth Hat and Cap Makers.

The activities of the Garment Workers were brought to the attention of the 1918 convention of the American Federation of Labor at St. Paul and a committee was appointed to explore the possibility of their adoption by the federation. A favorable report was returned at the 1920 Montreal convention, and in 1921 at Denver the federation made workers' education one of its activities.

Labor College.

Under its stimulus, programs were worked out by central labor bodies in Boston, Philadelphia, Washington, Denver and elsewhere. The federation's activities culminated in the formation of the Workers' Education Bureau of America, a direct step toward the founding of the Brookwood Labor College at Katonah, N. Y., in 1921. Incidentally, since Brookwood closed its doors a year ago, it has been the fondest ambition of President Dubinsky of the Garment Workers to open a new labor college under I L G W U auspices, he told this reporter.

Before the establishment of Brookwood, there were only two such institutions in this country. Both were in New York and both were partisan, the Rand School being under Socialist auspices and the Workers' College an adjunct of the Communist party.

The closing of Brookwood, however, did not leave the field to these two institutions. There are still in operation the much-debated Commonwealth College at Mena, Ark., as well as the Highland Folk School at Monteagle, Tenn., and a similar institution at Little Switzerland, N. C. More attention, however, is generally centered on the Labor Summer sessions of the University of Wisconsin, Bryn Mawr College and the University of California. The Garment Workers, by the way, have supported all of these through scholarships and free study stipends.

Activities in St. Louis.

Such labor education as has been carried on in St. Louis has been, like these schools, under independent auspices and only loosely connected with organized labor in the city. Mildred Price, of Commonwealth College, established a labor college in Olive street, near Grand avenue, in 1934. When she found it necessary to retire after a year, the work was taken over by Ted Graham of the Cleaners' and Dyers' union. As an individual and not a a union official, he virtually re-established the school at 4114A Easton avenue, where it met until the spring of 1937 when the intensified organization drives on all labor fronts, stimulated by the C I O, took away its teachers and students for more active work. Meanwhile, a two-week summer school had been held on the Mississippi, about nine miles north of St. Charles, the previous year.

Developing Labor Education.

Graham's venture was supported by a tuition charge of $1.50 for the course, and by donations. Its budget was about $800 a year. The school never developed to the point where it offered more than courses in economics and studies in organization. However, it played an important role in the establishment of the Tobacco Workers, the United Radio, Electrical and Machine Workers', the Cleaners and Dyers' and the Inland Boatmen's unions in this area.

Its teachers were recruited from among the city's union officers and liberal ministers. Some of these are now carrying on the work as a special W P A educational project in the Board of Education Building.

This development of labor education from rudimentary classes in English for immigrant workers to instruction on the level of university graduate work has not been without its viscisitudes. For one thing, its progress has had a direct relationship to the prosperity of the labor movement.

Some Criticisms.

Criticism by union members has been a greater difficulty than lack of funds. It has been complained from time to time that educational projects—especially when they are as ubiquitous as those of the Garment Workers—are a drain of the union's finances, that they benefit only a few, and that they do not help greatly in the training of aggressive leaders.

The official answer is that while the I L G W U outlay, for example, has been large, it has been hardly enough to work miracles overnight. More and more members are taking advantage of the union's facilities to spend the new leisure it has won for them, and the training of good trade unionists has not been neglected.

Wisdom sprung from increasing experience has taught the Garment Workers—and also other trade unionists who followed their pioneering—that education should not be mixed with propaganda. The teachers enlisted by the Dubinsky union are trying to present facts—especially in the social sciences—and are leaving their pupils to interpret them as they see fit.

If this education has been prevented from degenerating into indoctrination and the resultant factionalism, it has, on the other hand, produced no unrealistic separation of the pupils' attitude from his position as a worker. It has not separated his cultural activities from his real surroundings. For proof, take the theme song of "Pins and Needles":

Sing us a song with social significance;
There's nothing else that will do.
It must be packed with social fact,
Or we won't love you.

The building would be erected on a site at Turnstall and South Elizabeth avenues. R. B. Snow, attorney for the syndicate which is promoting the structure, said negotiations for sale of the ground would not be closed until a decision was made in regard to the building permit.

The proposal calls for a two-story, U-shaped structure, with 38 units.

ADJOINS GROUND SOLD TO E. D. NIMS

By Berry Moore.

With plans for the erection of a modern office and sales-room building, the United Shoe Machinery Corporation has acquired a site with a triple frontage at the southwest corner of Washington avenue and Twenty-second street, owned by the Garrison Realty Co. The Henry R. Weisels Co. handled the negotiations, which had been pending for several months.

The site has a frontage on Washington of 120 feet, and on Twenty-second street of 155 feet. It extends through the block to St. Charles street, on which there is a third frontage of 120 feet.

Plans contemplate construction of a modern, fireproof two-story building, with finished basement. Covering the entire lot, it will contain approximately 53,000 square feet of available floor space, 15,000 feet of which will be air-conditioned. It will be used exclusively for office, sales and stock room purposes. Construction is scheduled to be begun at an early date.

Headquarters in Boston.

The company's local offices and salesrooms now are at 1427 Olive street. It operates a branch factory at 4035 Forest Park boulevard, which will be continued. Its headquarters are in Boston, while its main factory is at Beverly, Mass.

Arthur Hoehn, vice-president of the Henry R. Weisels Co., conducted the negotiations on behalf of the purchaser. R. Vernon Clark, realtor, represented the Garrison Realty Co., of which A. C. Garrison is president and Mrs. Price Lane is vice-president. The purchase price was withheld.

The building project is conspicuous as the first of its type to materialize in this part of the city since 1929. Now vacant, the site was one

House Acquired in Trade; One Recently Completed

CORNER OF SKINKER AND KINGSBURY SOLD

The southeast corner of Skinker and Kingsbury boulevards, now occupied by an old two-story residence, has been purchased by an undisclosed client of the Henry Haffner Realty Co. Title was taken in the name of Era Smissman, an employe of the real estate agency. The reported purchase price was $20,000.

The property was an asset of the Franklin-American Trust Co., being liquidated through the First National Bank. The lot has frontage on Skinker of 130 feet and on Kingsbury of 72 feet.

The Shell Petroleum Corporation has leased the site for 10 years for a super filling station, which will replace the residence.

The purchase was conditional upon the issuance of a permit for the filling station, which was ordered Thursday by the Board of Public Service, ending a controversy of more than eight years' standing over such use for this and an opposite corner. It had been denied by the Board on July 19 by a tie vote, with one member absent.

The Haffner Realty Co. acted for both the purchaser and lessee of the property. Thomas F. Stephens represented the First National Bank in the negotiations.

Four Duplex Structures In University City Bought

Four comparatively new duplex structures at 7808-10, 7812-16, 7822-24 and 7923-30 Delmar boulevard, University City, have been acquired by Victor S. Sandrock, of Victor Sandrock & Co., brokers. Oliver J. Kraehe, real estate operator and builder, was the seller.

The buildings were given a total valuation of $80,000 in the deal. As part payment, Sandrock transferred to Kraehe a residence and 9½ acres at 3 Lorenzo lane, on the north side of Ladue road, west of McKnight road. Edward L. Bakewell, realtor, handled the transaction.

Each duplex contains two six-room, two-story units, with tile baths and garage space for four cars in the basement. Designed with residential facades, the buildings are among the most striking of this type in that part of University City.

Construction Record.

In October, 1935, Kraehe and associates acquired 1600 front feet of ground lying on both sides of Delmar boulevard, between Warder avenue and Center drive, University City, all except 50 feet of which is now occupied by new buildings or buildings in course of construction. Eleven duplex structures, including those involved in the present deal, and three residences, have been completed on the south side of the street. Four duplex buildings and three residences have been completed on the north side. Four duplex structures are also under construction on the north side. The latter four are being financed by the Edward K. Love Realty Co. The remaining 50 feet is at the southwest corner of Delmar and Teasdale court.

Kraehe plans to occupy the Lorenzo lane residence. Built two years ago, the house is modern style. The first floor consists of entry hall, living room, dining room, kitchen, pantry, breakfast room. Four bedrooms and three baths comprise the second floor. A garage is an integral part of the house.

Subdivision Plans.

Approximately 7½ acres of the Lorenzo lane estate will be subdivided by Kraehe for nine residences, to be erected from plans by Winkler & Grueninger, architects, at an estimated cost of $20,000 each. The lots will range in size from ¾ acres to 1 1-3 acres.

The property acquired by Kraehe is just west of Willow Hill on the north side of Ladue road, a development in which many attractive houses have been constructed by professional builders, with loans made by the Edward K. Love Realty Co.

REPLANNING BEING DISCUSSED IN ZONED CITIES

Majority With 200,000 Population or More Studying Need for Revised Restrictions, Survey Shows.

More than one-third of the cities of the country (37 per cent) now have an active movement on for restudy of their city plan, for revising their plan in some way, or for rezoning and more than two-thirds (67 per cent) of the cities of more than 500,000 in population have such a movement, according to a large sampling made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards in connection with its recent semi-annual survey of the real estate market.

Taking cities of over 200,000 population, more than half are today studying the need for new or revised zoning and planning action.

Narrowing the inquiry to cities having a zoning ordinance now in force, 31 per cent of such cities surveyed have an active movement for replanning or rezoning.

(Of the cities studied that have zoning ordinances, 22 per cent also have a city plan, officially adopted.)

Reports Cover 259 Cities.

The reports covering 259 cities, made by the association's member boards in these cities, bring out the very striking degree to which restudy of city plans and of zoning needs is now going on, looking toward readjustment to changed needs and toward the checking of urban blight, and in preparation for expected new building.

Pointing out that the swiftly changing conditions of the past two decades have given rise to replanning problems, the association, in resolutions adopted at its most recent annual convention (in Pittsburgh in October) urged its member boards, which have been leaders in the movement for city planning and zoning, to make a careful study of the problem of city planning in their respective communities and undertake a revaluation of present methods and laws to determine their efficiency. It seeks the co-operation of city planners, architects, local officials and other groups in finding successful solutions to the problems of replanning which have arisen.

The largest cities show the most general trend toward re-examination of their planning and zoning provisions. Geographical differences are marked. Regions having a high percentage of cities in which new action is under discussion are: The Southwest region, with 60 per cent of its cities so reporting, the Southeast region with 46 per cent, the Great Lakes region with 37 per cent, and the Central Atlantic region with 35 per cent so reporting.

Regional Divisions.

There were 1761 cities of the United States having some kind of planning or zoning board or ordinance as of January, 1937, according to the last governmental survey, made by the National Resources Committee. Of these 933 had official planning commissions, 84 had unofficial planning commissions whose status was unreported. In addition, 128 cities had zoning boards and 515 had zoning ordinances but no planning or zoning organizations.

Of the 1311 zoning ordinances in effect, 954 were comprehensive ordinances; 235 were for use only; eight were for use and height; 96 were for use and area; 18 were interim ordinances; 11 were unspecified as to type. In addition, 89 were reported to be in preparation.

One hundred and thirty-six cities had a comprehensive city plan, officially adopted.

Of cities reporting in the association's study, 57 represent communities which have come into the city planning movement after the 1937 survey of the National Resources Committee, or are as yet outside the city planning and zoning movement, or counties or other units not listed by the committee. Of these, 22, or 39 per cent, have movements for replanning and rezoning. These are, of course, small cities.

Reports Recent Sales.

The northern part of the site is occupied as a filling station by the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana, under a short-term lease. The southern part is rented to the Berry Motor Car Co., distributer of Packard automobiles.

Apparently struck by the commercial possibilities of this section, Eugene D. Nims, formerly president of the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., recently purchased 125 feet by 150 feet of vacant ground on the south side of Washington avenue, just west of and adjoining that acquired by the United Shoe Machine Corporation. J. H. Farish-Knapp & Co. represented Nims in the purchase, which was made as an investment. The Mercantile Commerce Bank & Trust Co. acted for the former owner, the Gay estate. W. L. Gourley of the Lake Forest Development Corporation participated in the negotiations.

Occupied Under Lease.

Nims has erected a modern super-service station on the western 65 by 150 feet of the Washington avenue lot for the Berry Motor Co., which occupies it under a 10-year lease. The service station is operated in connection with the Berry Motor Co.'s main building, a modern four-story structure, at the northwest corner of Locust and Twenty-second streets.

With business concerns as the prospective buyers, negotiations are said to be pending for other sites in this section of Washington, which apparently is destined to be built up with substantial structures as far west as Grand boulevard.

By the Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Aug. 6.—The Federal Home Loan Bank of Des Moines announced tonight 71 bank members in Missouri had made home loans totaling $5,644,095 in the six-month period ending June 30.

R. J. Richardson, president of the bank, estimated 10,000 home owners in the district, which includes Missouri, Iowa, Minnesota, North Dakota and South Dakota, had received low cost, long-term mortgage financing through member savings, building and loan associations the first half of this year.

SAVING ASSOCIATIONS LENT $63,536,000

F. H. L. Bank June Reports Shows Home Building Is on Upgrade.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Advances by savings and loan associations for the purchase, construction, reconditioning and refinancing of homes increased by 2 per cent in June over May, reaching a total of $63,536,000, the Federal Home Loan Bank Board announced today. Loans in May aggregated $62,192,000.

Loans for June of this year were less than those of the corresponding month in 1937—$78,667,000—but more than those in June of 1936—$57,402,000. Home construction again is on the upgrade after reaching a low point last winter and early spring.

Divided into categories according to purpose, loans obtained from savings and loan associations in June were used as follows: For new construction, $18,591,000; for home purchase, $21,025,000; for financing, $12,303,000; for reconditioning, $4,517,000, and for "other purposes, $7,100,000.

State-chartered members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System led all other types of associations in the amount of loans made during June, accounting for $27,414,000 or 43 per cent, of the total of $63,536,000 in advances. Federally-chartered members of the system made loans totaling $26,310,000, or 41 per cent of the total. Non-members of the Bank System accounted for 15 per cent, or $9,812,000 worth of the loans reported during June.

Officials pointed out that 85 per cent of the lending by thrift and home-financing institutions in the small home field is being done by members of the Federal Home Loan Bank System, which now includes almost 4000 institutions with assets exceeding $4,300,000,000.

By sections of the country, the largest volume of loans made during June was in the Winston-Salem Federal Home Loan Bank district, including the Southeastern states, where they totaled $8,667,000. The Cincinnati Bank district, including Tennessee, Kentucky and Ohio, ranked second with loans of $8,591,000. Third in rank was the Boston Bank district, including the New England states, which reported new loans of $6,779,000.

WALLACE'S DEBT TALK ASSAILED AS 'HOKUM'

G. O. P. Publicity Director Cites Treasury Figures on Increase Under New Deal.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.—Franklyn Waltman, publicity director for the Republican National Committee, said today Secretary of Agriculture Wallace had presented "a lot of hokum" in his recent Iowa address comparing national debt increases under Republican and Democratic administrations.

Wallace tried to have the nation believe, Waltman added in his weekly column, that the national debt increased 19 billion dollars between 1932 and 1938, but that the New Deal had been responsible for only 14½ billions of this.

"He undertook," the Republican spokesman said, "to give the impression that in the last year of the Hoover regime the debt increased by 4½ billion dollars.

"Now the official Treasury records state the Federal debt on June 30, 1932, was $19,487,000,000, and that on March 4, 1933—the day the New Deal arrived—it was $20,937,000,000, an increase of $1,450,000,000 and not the $4,500,000,000 implied by Secretary Wallace.

"His statement in that respect was just about as accurate as the remainder of his speech.

"The truth of the matter is that, according to Treasury figures, the Federal debt has increased approximately 16 billions under Roosevelt, exclusive—and this is important—of more than four and one-half billion dollars of Government-guaranteed securities, or an increase of close to 21 billion dollars."

Waltman said Wallace's sole object was to divert attention from the increase in debt, and that he was trying to do that by creating confusion.

Disapproves Eagleton's Plan Concerning G. O. P. Aspirants to Judgeships Not Favored by Bar.

Barak T. Mattingly, chairman of the Republican State Committee, wrote yesterday to Mark D. Eagleton, Republican lawyer and Board of Education member, disapproving Eagleton's suggestion that the committee should try to get some Republican judicial candidates to withdraw. Eagleton proposed that judicial nominees who fail to obtain the Bar Association's approval in an impending referendum should retire from the ticket. This, he held, would improve the position of the Republicans remaining on the ticket and might result in election of one Republican Supreme Court Judge, presumably Judge William F. Frank, and two Circuit Judges.

The proposal also called for withdrawal of Bruno Sendlein, Republican nominee for Circuit Clerk against H. Sam Priest, renominated in the Democratic primary.

"In my opinion," Chairman Mattingly wrote to Eagleton, "your plan is not only politically impractical, but would in effect circumvent definite provisions of the election laws. If sufficient voters believe the candidates indorsed by the Bar Association are qualified to serve, they will be elected without the withdrawal of unindorsed candidates. In my opinion, the plan you suggest smacks as much of boss control as did the recent attempt of T. J. Pendergast to place his own candidate on the Supreme Court bench, and Mayor Dickmann's successful fight to nominate his own candidates for Circuit Judge and his unsuccessful attempt to nominate his own candidate for Circuit Clerk."

CHAIN GANG FUGITIVE KILLED, PAL HELD IN DETROIT

Man Fatally Shot Took Life of Guard in Breaking Out of Florida Camp.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Aug. 6.—Victims of recent holdups here will be asked to view the body of William Sherman, 26 years old, of Los Angeles, who was shot to death in Dearborn early today when he disobeyed the order of a policeman to surrender. Sherman escaped from a Florida chain gang two weeks ago after overpowering and killing a guard.

Florida police were on their way here to return Bruce Parrish, 22 years old, of Marianna, Fla., who was captured when Sherman was shot. He admitted he escaped with Sherman from a chain gang at Floral City, Fla., July 22.

Parrish told police he and Sherman stole an automobile after escaping, stole West Virginia license plates and drove to Dearborn, where they met William Zahari, 24, who was released in February, 1937, after serving a term in prison with them in Florida, and George Bergia, 21, of Dearborn. Sherman was shot when he ran when policemen questioned the four in the automobile.

JACK OAKIE SUED FOR DIVORCE

Wife Says Movie Comedian Was Quarrelsome and Jealous.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Aug. 6.—Jack Oakie, movie comedian, was sued for divorce today by Venita Varden Oakie, former actress, who described him as quarrelsome and jealous. Sometimes, she charged, he would quarrel with her all night and when she invited women friends to her home, he would leave.

They were married in Yuma, Ariz., March 22, 1936, and separated last Saturday. Mrs. Oakie's lawyer, Jerry Giesler, said a property settlement had been reached.

CREDITORS SUE NACHMAN, INC.

An involuntary petition in bankruptcy was filed yesterday in United States District Court against Nachman, Inc., a furniture store at 2620 Cherokee street.

Creditors bringing the suit were the Cherokee Property Co., M. Steinberg and L. Horowitz. They alleged the company had committed an act of bankruptcy July 27, last, by paying the Mayflower Lamp & Sales Co. $35, making it a preferred creditor.

SOCIAL PRACTICE CHAIRMAN

Prof. Frank J. Bruno Head of Newly-Organized Committee.

Frank J. Bruno, professor of sociology at Washington University, has been elected chairman of the recently-organized Social Practice Committee of the Social Planning Council.

The committee was formed for considering questions arising in the routine programs of social agencies. Dr. Archer O'Reilly, president of the St. Louis Society for Crippled Children, was chosen vice-chairman.

Program to Be Broadened and Two Internes Employed at Hospital.

Announcement that the United States Public Health Service had increased the annual allotment for St. Louis County by $4000, was made yesterday by Health Commissioner Theodore R. Meyer. The county will receive $23,430 in Federal funds for public health work during the year ending next June 30.

The additional funds, requested by Dr. Meyer and Dr. Curtis H. Lohr, superintendent of St. Louis County Hospital, will make it possible to employ two internes at the hospital who also will spend four hours a day in public health work.

The public health program, started by Dr. Meyer with his appointment two years ago, also will be broadened. With the beginning of school in September, he said, two public health demonstration areas, probably in Ferguson and Brentwood, will be established to show what might be accomplished with a full staff of nurses trained in such work. At present there is but one nurse for each 20,000 persons in the county, or less than one-fourth of the number considered adequate.

To establish the demonstration areas, the Missouri State Health Department will provide $1050 a year for each. This sum will be matched by the local school district.

Inspection of restaurants and swimming pools, with a view to assisting officials of incorporated communities in enforcing sanitary requirements, has been under way in recent months under the direction of the county health department's bacteriologist, Howard E. Lind.

Plans are being made for establishment of two venereal disease clinics in Negro communities. Two Negro physicians recently returned from Hot Springs, Ark., where they took post-graduate work at the United States Public Health Service's school and clinic.

Dr. Meyer said he would attempt to obtain legislation empowering the County Health Department to enforce in unincorporated districts the county regulations for safeguarding public health. Such authority is needed, he said, to insure proper milk control and to provide protection from typhoid fever and rabies.

ALTON VOTES $275,000 ISSUE OF SCHOOL BONDS

Authorizes $500,000 Building Program Contingent on Obtaining $225,000 P W A Grant.

In a special election in which less than 500 ballots were marked, Alton voters yesterday authorized the Board of Education to undertake a $500,000 building program, provided a $225,000 P W A grant is obtained. The flotation of a $275,000 bond issue was authorized.

The program, which includes the replacement of two antiquated grade schools and the construction of a new junior high school, was carried by a vote of 455 to 22. The bond issue was approved 456 to 24, and the necessary increase in bonded indebtedness beyond 2½ per cent of the assessed property values was voted 443 to 27.

The grade schools to be replaced are the Irving, which is now 54 years old, and the Lincoln, which has been in use for 72 years. The new junior high school, made necessary by crowded conditions in the present high school, is to cost $200,000. The new grade schools are to cost $120,000 each. A $60,000 gymnasium is also to be added to the McKinley School. All are under the jurisdiction of Alton Community Consolidated District, which includes Alton and its suburbs.

DEATHS OF 6 IN MICHIGAN LAID TO ORIENTAL MALADY

Residents Warned Against Shiga Disease, the Most Severe Tropical Dysentery.

By the Associated Press.

OWOSSO, Mich., Aug. 6. Dr. Don W. Gudakunst, State Health Commissioner, said today that the disease that has caused the deaths of six children here has been definitely classified as Shiga dysentery, an Oriental or tropical disease.

He described the disease as the "most severe of all dysentery diseases," and said its spread was through germs from intestinal contamination of food or water.

The diagnosis, Dr. Gudakunst said, was the first ever made of the disease in Michigan.

He warned citizens against eating uncooked food and drinking water that had not been boiled.

Policeman Reinstated After Killing.

CHICAGO, Aug. 6.—Policeman John F. Lewe, who killed his wife and her admirer when he found them seated in a car in the loop June 8, was reinstated today to his rank of patrolman by Police Commissioner James P. Allman. Lewe was exonerated yesterday by the Police Trial Board. A Coroner's jury had exonerated him and the State refused to prosecute.

Goodwill Camp Inspection.

The Goodwill Summer Camp, St. Charles and Woodson roads, which is conducted for the benefit of underprivileged children, will be open for public inspection Tuesday. Demonstrations of work and play programs at the camp will be given by the children at 10:30 a. m. and 3:30 p. m.

APPOINTMENT OF J. T. IRVINE as sales promotion and advertising manager for the Shell Petroleum Corporation has been announced by P. E. Lakin, vice-president in charge of marketing.

J. T. Irvine.

Irvine, who joined the Shell Corporation six years ago, has been in the sales promotion and advertising departments of the corporation.

He served first in one of the marketing divisions, and then was appointed assistant manager of the sales promotion and advertising department.

He succeeds as head of the department L. H. Spinner, who resigned recently.

CHARLES L. JACOBSON HAS been appointed sales manager of the Chrysler division of the Chrysler Corporation. He will have full charge of Chrysler car field operations nationally, and expects to put in most of his time in the field, relieving Joseph W. Fraser, vice-president in charge of sales for Chrysler, of some detail.

C. L. Jacobson.

Jacobson was in the Ford Motor company's advertising department for five years, joined C. Harold Wills when the Wills Ste. Clair Co. auto factory was started in 1919, and 14 years ago joined Chrysler, serving as field representative, regional and factory branch manager and, since 1932, as sales director and then assistant general sales manager.

THE SELF-ENERGIZING, OR servo, principle is used in the braking system on Hudson cars. That is, the forward motion of the car itself contributes toward the braking effect when one's foot presses on the brake pedal. So a woman who may weigh as little as 100 pounds need not exert more than a comfortable pressure on the pedal to bring a Hudson to a complete stop, although the brakes may be exerting a pressure of a number of hundreds of horse power. The servo action is so governed, that it is proportional to the speed of the car and, so, works smoothly yet powerfully.

FORD DEALERS OF EASTERN Missouri and Southern Illinois will start a 5000-mile economy run with the new cab-over-engine Ford truck, carrying a 6000 pay load, tomorrow morning in co-operation with the Socony-Vacumm Oil Co. Mobiloil and Mobilgas will be used throughout the run. M. N. Johnson, manager for Ford in St. Louis, said that the run would be made over highways of the two states and that the truck would run in and out of Springfield, Ill., daily during the Illinois State Fair and would be on exhibition nights at the Ford display on the fairgrounds. The truck will run on an exact schedule five days a week for three weeks to average 350 miles a day at an average speed of 40 m. p. h. The driver will obey all traffic laws, and the truck's arrival at Ford and Mobilgas stations along the route will be announced in advance.

A GAIN IN RETAIL SALES OF Buick cars in the second 10 days of July as compared with June is reported by W. F. Hufstader, general sales manager. Domestic deliveries of Buick cars totaled 4162 in the second 10 days of July as against 3394 in the first 10 days and 4025 in the second 10 days of June. Used car deliveries also are increasing.

PONTIAC 1937 AND 1938 CARS which have center-mounted heaters can be air-conditioned by closing the shut-off valve in the heater hose so that no water can circulate through the heater. Then, with the cowl ventilator open and the heater switch turned on, the fan will draw in air through the ventilator and distribute it throughout the car. This is especially effective in city driving or on the highway at less than 30 miles per hour when the normal draft through the cowl ventilator is not sufficient to give much cooling.

MORE THAN 75 PER CENT OF the Standard Oil Co. of Indiana's comic cartoon gasoline advertising is being placed in newspapers, according to Wesley I. Nunn, advertising manager of the company. The gasoline economy message is being dramatized by cartoons of all sorts, from those of animals and people to Ali Baba and the magic carpet. Clean rest rooms and Iso-Vis motor oil advertising, running at the same time, is depicting tennis players, swimmers and other devotees of sports being trained down for endurance the same as the oil.

BY PETITION OF MORE than 209,000 voters, a constitutional amendment, to require the use of all state gasoline taxes and motor vehicle registration revenue for highways exclusively, will be voted upon in the Michigan general election in November. Similar propositions will be voted upon in New Hampshire, California and Alabama. The Legislatures of Nevada and Indiana have voted favorably on such amendments, but their votes must be confirmed by the next Legislatures in the two States before the people can vote on ratification.

INCREASES OF 7 PER CENT in sales of new cars, and 14.8 per cent in used cars sales, by Chevrolet dealers in the first 20 days of July are reported by William E. Holler, general sales manager for Chevrolet. This is in face of the fact that the normal trend is usually down 10 per cent for July sales as compared with those in June. In the first 20 days of July, Chevrolet dealers sold 28,858 new cars and 86,654 used cars. "When there is an increase in new car sales," Holler said, "it generally follows that used car stocks increase. The Chevrolet dealers not only changed the normal July sales trend as compared with June for new cars, but were able to merchandise used cars so well, that they decreased their stocks 5900 in the first 10 days and more than 10,000 in the second 10 days."

A SERVICE WHEREBY A PASsenger, when he buys a ticket, can order a private car to be waiting for him at his desination, to drive it himself, has been put into effect by American Airlines. With the first month of travel completed since the inauguration of half-fare rates for children between the ages of 2 and 12 years, American Airlines reports a sharp upward trend in plane travel by children. Among the traveling children last month were 5-year-old twins who flew unaccompanied from Tulsa to St. Louis, and a 6-year-old boy who came alone by ship from Ireland and then was placed on an American Airlines Flagship for a flight in care of a stewardess to his parents' home in Detroit.

A SUPERFINISHING PROCESS recently installed in the East Jefferson plant of the Chrysler car factory enables the finishing of parts of a car with surfaces as smooth as those of the finest gauges, with inequalities, scratches or other surface defects reduced in some cases to less than a millionth of an inch in depth. This superfinish is now being used on virtually all working parts of Chrysler cars, with an almost incredible reduction in wear and improvement in performance and quietness, according to D. A. Wallace, president of the Chrysler division.

IN A RECENT ISSUE OF THE British Industrial News, is an extremely favorable report of a road test of a Graham Supercharger car. The writer, who drove the car at high speeds for more than 600 miles, reported gasoline consumption of only 20 to 22 miles per gallon.

REPORTING A CONCLUSION that the general feeling of the public toward business conditions is steadily improving, gained from a trip to visit distributers and dealers, W. C. Cowling, vice-president of the Willys factory, said the past week that he found dealer stocks of used cars low and dealers in good condition for fall. Discussing the future, he remarked that there were fully 7,000,000 cars past the stage of safety and economical use. These cars, he said, have been made obsolete not only by the improvements in cars of today, but also by the national safety campaigns. The normal replacement market, he declared, is one great assurance of the continuance of mass automobile production.

A SHARP INCREASE OF 12 per cent in retail sales in July is reported by the Ford Motor Co. Total sales of Ford V-8 units in July were reported as 44,905 as against 40,099 in June with truck sales up 42 per cent and commercial car sales up 17 per cent as compared with June. Total Ford sales in the last 10 days of July were 19,985, a 48 per cent gain over th second 10-day period of the month the company reported.

ST. LOUIS POST-DISPATCH
DRAMA WOMEN'S SUNDAY MAGAZINE RADIO
PART FIVE ST. LOUIS, SUNDAY, MORNING, AUGUST 7, 1938. PAGES 1—8G

THIS NEW YORK

By LUCIUS BEEBE

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

ONE of the problems which is forever vexing New York's paragraphers and columnists engaged in reclaiming its trivia from immediate oblivion is whether to assume the role of flattered and fastidious boulevardiers with which the out-of-town public, at least, invests them, or of ink-stained professional reporters, as they prefer to think of themselves. To imagine one's self, as the pictorial magazines insist the Broadway columnist is, as a high-toned broadcloth fellow whom waiter captains delight to honor and who has his being in a midst of orchidaceous celebrities, vintage-year Bollinger and obsequious flunkies, is vastly satisfactory. On the other hand, there is the tradition of the slouch-hatted reporter, privy to the secrets of the shady great, disdainful of the glitter world he sometimes touches, a slave in the salt mines of news and copy.

LUCIUS BEEBE.

As a matter of actual fact, most Manhattan paragraphers combine both these sets of characteristics, and the best of them are those who combine them in the highest degree. Maury Paul, for example, who is the plushiest of all social chroniclers, works like a galley slave pounding out copy at his office seven days a week, and is as competent a professional at copy-reading, editing and makeup as any one in the business. But when he goes out into the night for news or pleasure, his emerald studs are the envy of the town's smoothies, and only the most opulent levees command his attentions.

● LOUIS SOBOL, who is the nearest reporter to being the successor to Odd McIntyre and who occupies his space in the Hearst papers, is one of the hardest-working scribes in any editorial room, but his principal sources of copy are the mirth mansions between Longacre Square and Park Avenue where tiara-tossers are knee deep in whimsy and sparkling wine and where, of course, the best anecdotes of the town are first on tap. Nancy Randolph, who describes herself as a reporter who writes mostly about society, could have a table permanently endowed for her at the St. Regis or the Stork if she wanted to, but prefers to be in nobody's debt for so much as a beer so that she can write rowdily about the mighty when the spirit moves her.

Alice Hughes, who reports feminine aspects of Bagdad-on-the-Make, turns out an unconscionable quantity of weekly copy for her own paper and a syndicated column to boot while stemming through a bewildering mass of routes, fashion shows, luncheons, cocktail spasms and other Elizabeth Hawes doings. John Chapman, who does four Broadway columns a week and doubles as assistant in drama, eschews most minor, barn-raisings, but shines a mean top hat at the tonier muffin festivals, particularly if they have about them a cachet of theatrical smartness, while Danton Walker never, so far as can be determined, misses any party, tours half a score of hot spots a night and finds something of news wherever he goes. The town's best reporters are at once experts at getting up copy and slick getters-arounders where copy is to be found.

—o-o—

● WE UNDERSTAND that that intrepid adventurer, Westbrook Pegler, has already made clear a path in the wilderness in the direction of this particular oasis, but it was not until chance, and the Wabash's Banner Blue, brought us to St. Louis last week that this department had personally encountered something called Southern Comfort. Returning travelers with a bemused look in their eye have reported on this beverage which is sweeping the Middle West, but it was not until the hospitable hallroom boys of St. Louis, Louis Shields and Joey Burnett, actually showed us life that we believed a word of it. What may be in a Southern Comfort nobody seems to know, and perhaps it would be better not to think about it. It is a cross between a cocktail and a sling served in a glass with half an old peach at the bottom. The peach is not essential, but it adds tone. The basic spirit is Bourbon.

At a roadhouse where we were entertained by the Messrs. Shields and Burnett, as soon as a party ordered Southern Comforts, they were shown into a garden out back and assigned to a heavily barred and screened pagoda. When the drinks had been served the waiter scurried outside slamming and locking the door behind him like a keeper who has just poked meat at the lions. From the banshee howls on every side it was apparent that the whole zoo was drinking Southern Comforts, and with the second round we knew precisely how it got that way. The effect is approximately that of hasheesh accompanied by the Ninth Symphony, voluptuous but persuasive. New York hasn't yet taken to Southern Comforts on a universal scale, but we look forward to the time when it almost inevitably will. Five a. m. at the old Fakir's Ball will, in retrospect, assume a sylvan tranquility by comparison.

● THE BUSINESS of being a member of a summer stock company resident in a Connecticut barn or Westchester stable has never, of course, been an entirely theatrical occupation. There have been other commitments and obligations for players on what "Variety" calls the borscht circuit. Members of the cast have been expected to be available when local hostesses, particularly patronesses, have been shy a luncheon guest. Business managers have served as station-wagon pilots to meet guests from the city at the depot, and all personable members of the company have almost always been required at the country club dance after the Saturday night performance. In extreme cases the orchestra has waited on table when not evoking ragtime.

—o-o—

IN ONE CONNECTICUT summer playhouse a new duty has confronted the players this year. They are expected to attend Sunday church services. "Last year's company made a very poor impression on the community," the manager told the troupe. "We've got to correct the idea that actors are immoral and irreligious people." So every Saturday night the church assignment list is posted backstage, apportioning the company between the three denominational houses of worship the town boasts. Several players have evolved a method of getting to services directly from the country club dance. They take a change with them and leave their dinner clothes in the locker room.

HE'S LITERALLY A BORN TROUPER

MICKEY ROONEY . . . AS HE APPEARS IN THE FILM, "LOVE FINDS ANDY HARDY."

By H. H. NIEMEYER

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Aug. 6.

KID stars of the movies don't grow up to be actors as a rule. The little girls and boys who seem so terribly clever as 4-year-olds are generally pretty well washed up by 14. Madge Evans is one of the few exceptions to the rule and Jackie Cooper looks as though he might stick it out but one wonders what will become of the Shirley Temples, the Freddy Bartholomews and the host of other youngsters who are now very much in the limelight. At all events they won't have to worry over finances. At the ripe old age of 15, or thereabouts, they will be able to sit back with a million dollars or so and take things rather easy.

But Mickey Rooney is different. He ought to have his million before very long but he doesn't mean to retire. Mickey is a born trouper and he doesn't mean to retire ever. He cut his teeth on a stick of greasepaint and then and there acquired a taste for the stage.

It was the most natural thing in the world. At the age of two weeks, when most babies are being charted at hospital nurseries, Mickey was cooing in the top tray of a theatrical trunk while his mother and father were "out front," behind the footlights, panicking vaudeville audiences with their act billed as "Joe Yule and Nell Carter."

Mickey was born in Brooklyn. His mother went back to vaudeville when the baby was two weeks old, making the jump from Brooklyn to Newark to catch up with the act.

Three months later a nervous breakdown forced her to return to her family home in Kansas City.

Joe Yule Jr., as he was to be known for the next five years, started his career as a "scene stealer," a habit he has carried over to his life in Hollywood.

It happened one night in a theater, the name of which has long been forgotten. The headline vaudeville act, featuring Sid Gold and Babe LaTour, was in progress. It was a serious moment in the sketch. Suddenly the audience burst into gales of laughter. A deep red flush spread over the faces of the two headliners. Such a burst of merriment had never happened before. Mentally, they checked over their wearing apparel. Everything seemed to be in order, but still the audience roared.

At this moment, Sid Gold looked around. There, at one side of the stage, was a completely inverted bit of humanity. It was standing on its head, doing strange tricks with its feet. Gold recognized him immediately as the Yule youngster who had apparently broken out of his dressing-room play-pen and wandered onto the stage. Because the audience burst into applause at the child's acrobatic feats, there was nothing to do but make the most of a bad moment.

Gold called the youngster to the center of the stage.

"I suppose you can do the act better than I can?" he joked.

"Sure," answered the baby, without a moment's hesitation. "And I can sing your song better than you can, too," he added.

"Bet you a dollar," Gold countered.

Tiny Joe didn't have the dollar. The orchestra conductor, however, who was his particular friend looked good for a "touch." It worked. Then without benefit of orchestral accompaniment, he sang "Pal of My Cradle Days" in such an exact imitation of Sid Gold that there was nothing left for the actor but to acknowledge defeat. Mickey won the dollar. He paid the orchestra conductor his share by tearing the bill in half.

MICKEY JUMPING OVER THE IRON RAIL JUST OUTSIDE THE DOOR ON A HOLLYWOOD SOUND STAGE.

BY this time the audience was in a state of hysteria. They screamed, and applauded, and stopped the show for a good half-hour. Baby Joe took his bows like a trouper. By the end of the evening, he had been hired as part of the act.

From that time until his second birthday, the act read, Sid Gold, Babe LaTour and Joe Yule Jr.

"I don't remember much about it,' Mickey said, "but I guess I always believed in being in business for myself. At any rate, I branched out into an act of my own."

For this he received $50 a week, insisting he be paid in dollar bills so he could "roll 'em in a rubber band." Incidentally, the dollar bill "gag" became an integral part of the show.

Gradually the baby vaudevillian added to his repertoire. He even told jokes.

"There was one in particular that used to 'wow' 'em," he said. "I would come out on the stage and say, 'Did you ever hear the story about the saucer of milk? It's the cat's.'"

It was the impersonations portion of his skit, however, that won curtain call after curtain call. Most of these he learned from phonograph records of the artists, which, in spite of his scant four years, he would study for hours. His favorite was the "Two Black Crows." He would run to one side of the stage to be Moran, then race to the other to portray the role of Mack.

On one occasion he inadvertently gave an imitation of a Moran and Mack recording which had been scratched, with the needle remaining in one groove.

The truth of the matter was that Mickey had completely forgotten the line.

"The early bird catches the worm," he drawled.

"What worm?" he answered himself at the other side of the stage.

Back and forth he ran, for several minutes, repeating these same lines over and over again. Finally he turned to the audience.

"The record's stuck," he explained.

By this time his mother had cued him from the wings, and when the laughter of the audience had subsided he continued the act as per schedule.

Never, on any occasion, did the youngster and his bag of tricks fail to stop the show. And never, on any occasion, did Mickey go into his "curtain speech" until he had drained the audience dry of every bit of applause. He loved it. Then, and not until then, did he launch into a little dissertation which went something like this, as near as he can remember, anyway.

"Folks, Pardon me for calling you folks but I feel I know you too well to call you, Ladies and Gentlemen. Thanks for the use of the hall."

"THE BOY GREW OLDER" . . . MICKEY TRYING TO GET HIS BEST GIRL ON THE PHONE.

—o-o—

"YOU know it's funny the way things like that pop into your mind," Mickey said between scenes on his new production, "Boys' Town," in which he appears with Spencer Tracy. "A couple of weeks ago I was making a personal appearance at Lincoln, Neb. When the skit was finished I had to make a speech and I didn't know what to say. Suddenly that old line popped into my head and I said it, just like I did when I was a kid. It's sure funny."

So it was from the time he was 2 until he was 4½ years of age, Mickey played to packed houses, and played with his dump trucks and toy airplanes in the dressing rooms and wings of theaters from one end of the country to the other.

Six months after his fourth birthday, however, Mickey and his mother returned to his grandparents' home in Kansas City, remained a short time and then started off for Hollywood.

Mickey doesn't remember very much about arriving in Hollywood. His mother, however, has little difficulty in calling to mind the hardships and privations the little family of two suffered.

The first thing to be done was to enroll Mickey in school. This

YOUR SECOND WIND

By Elsie Robinson

DR. DAVID SEABURY—wise healer of sick spirits—one said this, "Your 'second wind' is the one that blows your argosies to shore."

The "second wind" — what a mighty difference it would make in all our lives if we'd bank on that "second wind" and not give up when our first enthusiasm was spent!

Queer experience, feeling that "second wind" hit your exhausted lungs. Ever have it happen to you? I did just once—unforgettably. Gives me a shudder even yet to think of it. But it's a good tale to pass on. Who knows—maybe some other poor devil is just about to give up, too——

It was this way. I'd been prospecting alone—out on the desert. No one around, except an Indian half-breed squaw with a year-old toddler, camping near a clump of greasewood. I'd struck a good prospect, had forgotten her, when she let out a scream that brought me up standing. One look and I got it. She was sprawled headlong . . . sobbing . . . screaming prayers . . . clutching at her baby's foot. And a yard away, a four-foot rattler was fading into the chamise.

—o-o—

SNAKE BITE—and the nearest serum in my own camp, three miles away! No man around . . . no car! Three miles and nothing but my own feet to take me there!

Teeth set, fists clenched, I ran. With my heavy, spiked boots fighting the clutch of that flaming sand . . . and never a living thing moving in all of that devilish land.

And now one mile had passed. Now two. And, vague as a glistening shadow, the camp lay far ahead. . . . But could I manage to make it? The blood roared thick in my head. . . . Perhaps if I rested a moment? By then, the baby would be dead! But, my lungs were closing . . . my feet would no longer lift . . . the darkness was wheeling before me—

When, suddenly, full and swift, a fresh, new strength rushed through me . . . my feet began to fly . . . the "second wind" had come to me—

And that baby did not die.

—o-o—

STRANGE THAT a thing like that can happen to a body, isn't it? And even stranger that it can happen to a soul. Yet it does. As over and over I've seen it happen.

"RUN!" comes the command into our life. And sometimes it's need that drives us, and sometimes it's love, or the lust of adventure or the thirst for knowledge. But always it's something that calls for all we have—and we give it, willingly. Give in a great surge of eagerness and enthusiasm and faith.

And, for a while, perhaps, all goes well. On we race—and on—swinging ourselves in great, triumphant strides over all obstacles. But presently, our stride begins to slacken . . . our interest begins to lag . . . our enthusiasm to cool. We're not so sure as we were at first. We wonder, if the game is worth the effort, after all? It's such hard, such dangerous work! Suppose we take it easy . . . play safe. Suppose we admit we're licked and—quit?

And many of us do, just that. Give up—thinking we've come to the end. But we haven't. Not unless we want to. There's always a reserve strength somewhere . . . some Power backing us, greater and stronger than our ordinary selves. . . . Some second wind of the soul that will send us on to victory. . . . If we'll give it a chance!

More Novelties for Coat Lapels, Millinery

NOVELTIES on coat lapels and millinery have reached the stage when a woman can pick up anything from a match to a paper clip and wear it with a feeling of assurance.

The appearance of a miniature whisk broom on a new felt turban or of a realistic grasshopper on the collar of a dress is no longer sufficiently sensational to attract attention. For autumn the designers are becoming even more original and producing tiny cheer leaders bearing flags, baseball players with wooden bat in hand and many other unusual decorations.

The vogue of accessory ornaments which match one's own gloves or shoes is another fad that is increasing in popularity. For example, if a woman wears white gloves with blue cuffs on her hands she has a miniature of the style for her hat or her coat. Tiny handbags also are worn clipped to a collar or lapel.

IS MRS. BILBO STARTING SOMETHING? TURN TO PAGE TWO

by

Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM just another person coming for some advice. I am in love with a boy and have been for quite some time. About four months ago talk went around about me liking a different boy. I thought I liked him, but found out I still love the first one. It was told to me by his sister that the first one still loves me, but he himself doesn't say so. I don't see him very often because we both moved, not so far apart, but just enough that I don't see him as much as I used to. So please tell me how to get him back. Could I invite him to my house and have other friends there, or what else may I do? WORRIED.

It would be all right for you to give a small party and invite this young man, or perhaps you could mention to his sister that you would like to have them both drop in to call some evening. Since you evidently know the sister rather well, you might enlist her aid in your problem.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

I AM A GIRL of high school age, very much interested in dress designing. Are there classes where this subject is taught free? I've been told the Y. W. C. A. teaches it. Is this true? PEGGY.

The Y. W. C. A. does not have dress designing classes. I do not believe there are any summer classes, but I would suggest you get in touch with the Hadley Vocational School about Sept. 1 for information about their classes.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● PLEASE ADVISE ME how to lose excess fat through exercising. I am a steady reader of your section and would like advice. THANK YOU.

I will be very glad to send you reducing leaflet if you will send in a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

—o—o—

Dear Martha Carr:

WILL YOU PLEASE GIVE ME the present address of Herbert Hoover, in order that I may write him? Thank you very much. ADMIRER.

You can address a letter to Herbert Hoover at Stanford University, California.

Dear Martha Carr:

● WILL YOU PLEASE thank Mr. H. for his offer to allow me to use his knapsack and also thank the man who left a sack at my home. I am sorry I wasn't there to thank him, but hope I can in some way, some time. Thank you also. SCOUT M. K.

Dear Martha Carr:

WILL YOU PLEASE answer a few questions for me? What is Clyde McCoy's real name? Is he married? If so, how long, to whom, and are there any children? How old is he and how long has he been a band leader? In what city does he live and at what night club does he play? How tall is he and how much does he weigh? CLYDE McCOY FAN.

You can get all this information by writing the Music Corporation of America, New York.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● I WANT TO THANK YOU and the kind people who helped me through your column. I wish to thank the woman who sent the package and also the persons who sent the dollar and the three dollars. I want them to know the money was spent in the right way. Thank you all again. "DOWN AND OUT."

—o—o—

Dear Mrs. Carr:

A READER WROTE IN to ask the initials of the Meade who wrote "Sweet Girl Graduate." As I recall, there is a book of that name by Mrs. L. T. Meade, who was a prolific writer of books for girls. She is an Englishwoman. She also wrote "Wild Kitty School Queens" and many others, which I recollect with delight, for I was a Meade enthusiast of the first order. L. B. A.

Thank you for this information. I also which to thank the others who sent in similar information.

Dear Mrs. Carr:

● BEFORE GOING to college I was in love, or thought I was, with a boy with whom I had gone steady for about four years. But I met a boy in college whom I think I love. I don't care for my former boy friend any longer and the friend that I had in college promised to write as soon as he arrived home. I haven't heard from him yet and I don't know what to do. Should I wait, or should I go with one of the boys here? YOUNG GIRL.

The mere fact that you are in doubt as to whether you should wait or go with someone nearer is rather a good sign that you are not so very deeply in love with the boy who is elsewhere. Under the circumstances I suggest that you do not become completely a recluse while awaiting a letter, but see something of other boys. Not one boy, but several, for after all the best way really to judge your feelings about one is to know others, for the sake of comparison. And then, if you do hear from the one absent, and your mutual regard lasts, you can always devote your time exclusively to him.

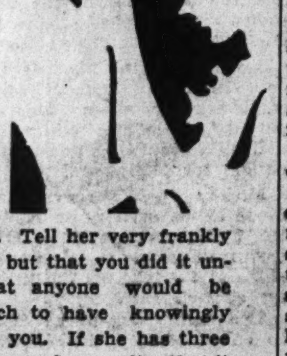
Dear Mrs. Carr:

A MONTH AGO I visited a boy friend who has three sisters and a very nice mother and father. But on the third day of the visit his mother took a dislike to me, and I learned that my actions one night previously had met her disapproval.

Her son does not go with me any more because he was told not to by his mother, which is the proper thing to do in his position. I would like to make friends with the mother again, as her son and I had very good times together. Please tell me what I can do. E. A. M.



It is too bad you are bothered only because of the good times you are missing, and not because you offended your hostess, as you apparently did. You should call on the mother, or, if she does not live close enough, write her a letter and apologize. Tell her very frankly that you are sorry you acted as you did, but that you did it unthinkingly and without realization that anyone would be offended; that you respect her too much to have knowingly offended, and hope that she will forgive you. If she has three daughters, she is probably understanding enough to realize that it may have been merely youthful thoughtlessness, as I presume it was.

THE WORLD AS WOMEN SEE IT

Striking Points Introduced in New Fur Coats

NOW that the fur trends of the coming season have been launched and silhouettes have been considered, certain details of designing and workmanship in the new fashions increase in impressiveness. There is the deft manipulation of handsome pelts, for example, to prove that the furriers can handle them as though they were fabrics, and also a new insistence upon decorative accents.

The simple type of coat which is cut along conservative lines and promises years of service continues to be a classical feature of the furs to recommend, but so many youthful and striking points of style have been introduced this season that it takes more than quality of fur to please a fashion-loving woman. The tuxedo type of silhouette is being recommended for those who want to get away from the conservative lines of coats but want a versatile garment. Many of these coats which have the full-length rolling revers may be worn wrapped snugly about the figure if the wearer tires of the tuxedo theme, while the addition of the extra width gives assurance of success in later remodeling.

ALSO NOTEWORTHY among the less radical innovations in the styling of fur coats but sufficient to strike a note of newness is the vogue of pockets. Little slit pockets are introduced below shallow yokes on many coats and a bright colored 'kerchief is added to match a scarf for hat trimming. Royal blue is a favorite shade to use in combination with black while the new tone of "rural autumn" which borders on the brick red tone brightens a brown coat. This little touch of color is apparent on expensive coats as well as more moderately priced ones and is advocated for afternoon types as well as those for general wear.

Braid trimming similar to that which made grandmother's old sealskin coat such a handsome wrap has returned to favor and is being variously used to adorn the latest models. It emphasizes height on certain straightline coats, gives a military aspect to the shoulders and sleeves of others and outlines yokes and bloused treatments on an equal number. Frog fastenings also are replacing buttons and there are jeweled clasps at many necklines.

—o-o—

MINK AND FOX continue to be the aristocrats of the animal kingdom but the furriers have achieved so much with unusual and less expensive furs that there is much variety to the mode. South American llama is a newcomer which is being used for short jackets as well as those of the knee length reefer type. Skunk that has been dyed also becomes impressive, especially for those short, loose-fitting coats to wear over early fall frocks. Sheared beaver is another that is being used extensively for coats of tailored style as well as for trimmings and has an appeal because it does not curl in dampness as did the old-fashioned variety. Color also is playing a part in the distinctive features of fur coats. Red fox coats of hip length are seen more extensively while blue fox is increasing in popularity. Kidskin and other sleek furs formerly seen in black or grey now are appearing in blue tones and reddish brown hues that are arresting.

Sharp Contrast In Shoe Fads

SO much has happened to footwear styles during the last few months that a woman who is fashionably shod will look as though she is walking on thick board soles one minute and in soft moccasins the next. The clumsy fad of the summer continues into the fall but to offer a strict contrast with such heavy looking footwear the designers present the daintiest types for afternoon that have appeared in the shops in many seasons.

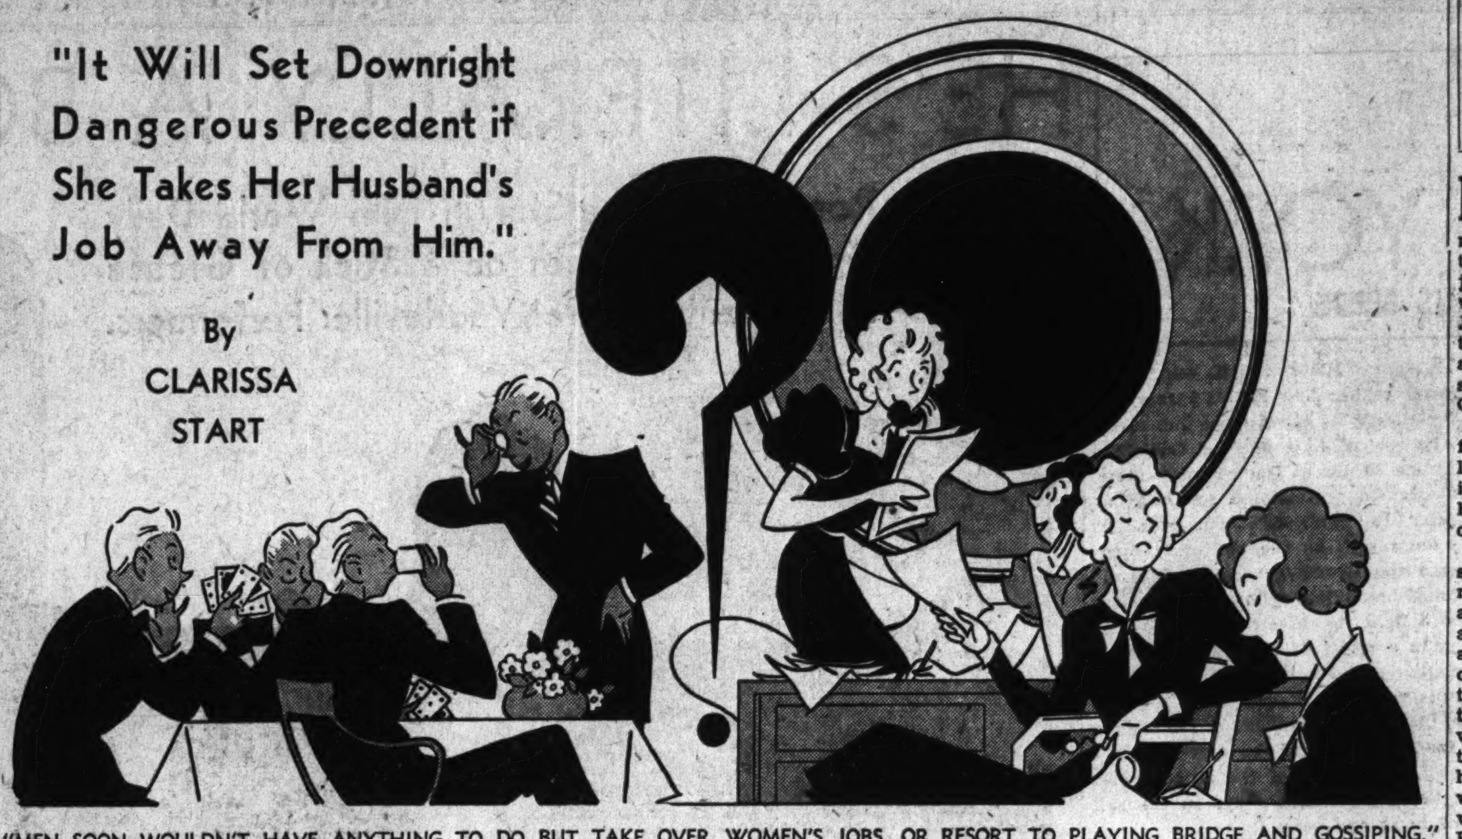
Novelties are the vogue in the scheme of footwear fashions. A thick-soled oxford, for example, will catch the eye and please the wearer because it has a spool heel. Another walking shoe that young girls like appeals because it has a boot strap attached to the heel. Heels that are wedged or partly so are made of such leathers as goatskin so that feet will attain a maximum of clumsiness.

In an effort to present the exact opposite of this mode, the creators of women's footwear have gone to extremes in their afternoon and evening models. Not only is the stretchable suede being used extensively to give the impression of a shoe that is molded to the foot but slide fasteners also are ingeniously placed. One of these high-heeled models employs both the elastic leather and the fastener which is inserted at the center front and extends high on the instep.

WHAT IS MRS. BILBO STARTING?

"It Will Set Downright Dangerous Precedent if She Takes Her Husband's Job Away From Him."

By CLARISSA START



"MEN SOON WOULDN'T HAVE ANYTHING TO DO BUT TAKE OVER WOMEN'S JOBS, OR RESORT TO PLAYING BRIDGE AND GOSSIPING."

A FEW days ago we came across a news item that caused us considerable dismay—the one in which Mrs. Theodore G. Bilbo, ex-wife of the Senator from Mississippi, announced that she might oppose her former spouse for the senatorial nomination in 1940.

"Long before the divorce," said Mrs. Bilbo, without batting an eyelid, "I was thinking of running against him. I don't know yet what my platform will be. I am not much of a speaker, but I can make a good talk. I've been in politics as long as the Senator and it's time I received some benefits from my work."

For shame, Mrs. Bilbo! Don't you know that woman's rightful place is to bask in the reflected glory of her mate? Little do you realize what you are doing. You are not only threatening masculine supremacy in all things, but you are setting a downright dangerous precedent. Consider the possible consequences!

Suppose, for example, that Hiram Zilch, the grocer down the street, has a little spat with his wife. Harsh words are spoken and a mention of Reno is bandied about.

"Who's that," snorts Hiram, unimpressed, "one of your bridge-playing friends?"

"No," says Mrs. Zilch in a hallowed voice, "she was the liberator of the oppressed!" Her tone has the ring of a battle cry. "I've been in the grocery business with you for a long time, Hiram, and for a long time I've though I could do better. Now, Hiram Zilch, I'm a-gonna open my own grocery store!"

Consider with what mushroom-like speed similar rivalries would spring up all over the country. Ex-wives of farmers would buy up the adjoining forty and start underselling their mates on eggs. Ex-wives of tavern keepers would set up shiny chromium bars and soon learn that fingers were used for something besides delving into the old skinflint's pockets, late in the night.

Ex-wives of authors would try their hand at turning out volumes on how to skin friends and influential people. Ex-wives of jockeys would hire themselves out to ex-wives of racing stable owners. Ex-wives of aviators would take 10 easy lessons and start flitting back and forth to Omsk and Ireland.

The butcher's ex-wife, remembering her meat-buying days, would lower the price of salami, and ex-hubby would have to come down or go out. Prosperity might return, but think of the moral decadence! Things would get to the stage where a man would have to remain a bachelor or run the chance of a possible future competitor.

—o-o—

YOU recall, do you not, the consternation of Scarlett O'Hara's second husband when he discovered that his tender little flower could add long columns of figures in her head? Equally great would be the consternation of the artist when he discovered that his ex-admiring wife had learned a thing or two about splashing out murals from him, or the lawyer who found out that the little woman didn't think habeas corpus was a Roman term for bird bath.

Many a husband now complains that his wife takes no interest in his work. In the future, cautious men will keep their business affairs under lock and key and remain quiet as the tomb with regard to their hard day at the office. It just won't be safe!

VOTE FOR MRS.
VOTE FOR MR.

"IF THERE IS ANYTHING A WOMAN CAN BEAT A MAN DOING, IT'S TALKING."

Salesmen wouldn't have a chance. Aside from using her charms on the male prospects, a saleswoman would know all the little ins and outs of the housewife's angle, and most housewives control the family coffers. While her one-time husband was pointing out the scientific advantages of a new refrigerator, she would quietly draw the prospect to one side and point out that her make of refrigerator included a special mouse trap contrivance that would snap briskly on hubby's fingers when he "snuck" down around midnight for a stolen wedge of pie.

There are numerous other fields in which the women would lead. For what male sit-down striker could compete with an old and experienced knitter or sock mender? What male train caller would have the resonance of tone of his helpmate, accustomed to bellowing for Junior each dinner time? What efficiency expert has ever been efficient enough to scrape a burning pot roast with one hand, pick up the baby's rattle with the other, and turn the pages of a cookbook with his chin?

We challenge any athlete to swing a baseball bat more effectively than his wife swings the rug beater, any policeman to quell a riot quicker than his wife squelches little Jimmy's battle royal with the neighbor boy, any diplomat to placate a dictator more effectively than his wife softsoaps him! And just try to tell the wife of an entomologist anything about animal life! Yes, there's little question of woman's fitness for her former mate's position in the world of industry or commerce. As for finance, any woman who can make a succulent stew out of everal unenthusiastic looking dishes of leftovers could balance the budget without half trying. Many a potential great explorer now spends her time on wash days tracking down her husband's shirts in some remote hiding place. These are the women whose talents go unsung but not unused.

Then there is another thing that worries us. Mrs. Bilbo states frankly and sans vanity that she's not much of a speaker but she can "make a good talk." Should she try, and succeed in her oratorical endeavor, it would automatically open the field for practically all the lingual positions from college professoring to tobacco auctioneering and toll the death knell for many a man in these professions. For—and we are not being catty to our sex—if there is anything a woman can beat a man doing, it's talking!

A recent article in a woman's magazine hinted that women should rule the world. Such sentiments are downright heretical. You know what happened when women decided they wanted the vote. They got it, ghosts and all! If every wife went after her husband's job, she might get it, and then where would we be? We shudder to think of it.

MEN soon wouldn't have anything to do but take over women's jobs or resort to playing bridge and gossiping, while their wives secluded themselves behind executive doors and occasionally stopped at each other's desks to mutter, "Djever hear the one about the traveling saleswoman and the farmer's son?"

Mrs. Bilbo, we beg of you, desist. The security of the masculine sex is shaky enough! Who knows? Mothers of the future may say to openmouthed children, "Yes, times have changed since I was a girl. Why, women used to have the weighty problems of the world on their shoulders—dishpan hands and holding their man and serving the right salad dressing—instead of the simple matters of floating bonds and managing corporations!" Or, in a confidential whisper, "Don't breathe a word of this to your father, but—he's getting cosmetic skin!"

Yes, if Mrs. Bilbo must oppose her ex-spouse, we wish she would choose a less spectacular method. She could at least spare his feelings if she chose one of his former professions, for instance, that of pecan grower. It would be much less reactionary, and besides Mrs. Bilbo would always have the satisfaction of saying, "Nuts to you, Teddy!"

accomplished she went about finding herself a job, ending up as manager of a small bungalow court in Hollywood.

On Saturdays and holidays, Mickey and his mother took bus rides through the exclusive residential sections of Beverly Hills. In comparison, the bungalow court looked pretty shabby to the youngster.

Standing by an open window following one such an excursion, his mother heard a strange conversation carried on by her young son and some prospective tenents.

"Yes," he said, "my mother is inside. But you see, we don't really live here. We have a beautiful home out in Beverly Hills, right in the middle of the Bridle Path."

Always, in his mind, he harbored the idea of being a successful actor.

"And when I make good," he would tell his mother, "we'll have one of those cars where you can sit in back and the chauffeur sits in front and gets rained on."

He didn't know then when a good prognosticator he would become.

There followed several months of heart-breaking disappointments. Then Marty Faust, a friend of the family, introduced the young vaudevillian to Will Morrissy, who was in the throes of casting a revue to open at the Orange Grove Theater.

Mickey was signed on the spot, but still as Joe Yule Jr. Then came a discoverer, in the person of Mervyn LeRoy, who was interested in the Larry D'armour idea of screening the cartoon strip of Mickey McGuire.

A national contest for a boy to portray the name role was in progress.

That Mickey was made to order for the part was the firm conviction of his mother. And she was right, too, for Mickey won out of 2500 contestants. Joe Yule Jr. became the Mickey McGuire of the screen.

It was Larry D'armour who suggested that the name, Joe Yule, be dropped forever, and Mickey McGuire substituted.

For the following six years, Mickey made comedies. He also made the "tough kid" roles on the screen famous.

—o-o—

"I WAS so tough that no one thought I could do anything else," he said. "Once Mervyn LeRoy did get me to play a midget in "Orchids and Ermine." I'll never forget that one. I had to smoke cigars, only they were made out of chocolate. Well, I wanted to act like a real grown up so, during the scene, I bit off the cigar end and blew it out of my mouth, just like a professional. I kind of surprised everyone, even myself, when my two front teeth flew out too."

So the front teeth were pasted back with chewing gum until the scene was completed.

But a fellow can't stay a baby forever. The day came when the Mickey McGuire characterization was a little too juvenile for the young man who had once been the baby wonder of the age.

Legal claim to the name, McGuire, made it necessary for him to relinquish all claims when he no longer appeared in the series. It was then he adopted the name of Rooney.

"I didn't want Mom to go back to work," Mickey said in speaking of the lean months that followed. "Finally I got her to write to some of the old vaudeville managers. It worked and I started out on another vaudeville tour."

Inadvertently it was made known that the Mickey Rooney, on such-and-such a vaudeville bill, was the original Mickey McGuire of the films, a fact which helped pack the houses and give the boy with the brand new name enough impetus to descend upon Hollywood exactly 10 weeks later.

But his re-entrance into the film capital garnered him nothing but occasional bits for several months.

Then came a film titled, "My Pal the King," in which he gave such a splendid account of himself in this that other roles followed in rapid succession. His characterization in "Hide Out" won him the contract under which he has appeared from that time to this.

"Gee, I'm glad I'm busy," Mickey stated as he resumed work on his latest song composition between scenes on his current picture.

And Mickey wasn't fooling.

At the present time he is probably the busiest young man in Hollywood, what with one film assignment coming fast on the heels of another, his school and his extra activities.

This latter includes, from an actual list, the organization of a football team known as the M-G-M Lions, rehearsing and appearing with his dance band, in which he is the trap-drummer, and studying for entrance examinations at the University of Southern California, which he plans to enter in the fall.

Two Extremes in Hat Silhouettes

TWO extremes in hat silhouettes that follow equally striking modes of hairdressing are seen among the latest fashions. One high turban with a shovel-shaped top which scoops forward sits precariously on top of the head. It is designed for wear with a coiffure which has curls starting high and massed in a topknot. The top of the hat is cut out so that the curls fill the opening like so many ostrich tips.

In contrast to this is a bonnet which fits with skeleton-like precision over the back of the head, extending to the hair line. The brim scoops upward across the front and the hat is worn far back so that a fringe of curled bangs gives a conspicuous location.

Muffs for Fall

EVERY woman will be carrying a muff long before the weather justifies this accessory, if the fashion dictators have their way. Some of these muffs will be made of furs but others will be made of feathers, suede and fabric. Evening muffs are of colored maribou or of delicately tinted faille and taffeta. The velvet muff also is an accent of afternoon and evening costumes.

One Parisian designer who is advocating muffs with every costume has designed these in the fabric of the dress or suit. A striking example is a black satin evening suit which has a muff made of thick satin cords. The coat also is trimmed with the same corded theme.

GIRL ABOUT TOWN

NEXT to a tobacco auction, we have always wanted to see a furniture auction. There is a romantic aura about getting something for almost nothing that we just can't resist. So, accordingly, we took ourselves last week to Ben J. Selkirk's at 4166 Olive, to learn the ins and outs of professional auctioneering, and hoping, on the side, to pick up a bit of authentic Chippendale for a song.

Our vocal chords were spared, fortunately, because we had to leave while they were still bartering over gas stoves and garden hoses, but we learned a lot from observing those who did buy.

One of the first things that struck us about the crowd was the number of "dead pan" expressions, any of which would do credit to a poker player. Second, was the auctioneer's familiar chant, which caused a look of bewilderment on the faces of some who were attending for the first time. One woman nudged me while he was in the midst of, "Six dollahs—gotta half—gotta half—gotta half—what's your name?" and asked wonderingly, "What's he sayin'?" But auctioneering is evidently something like swing music; once you get the rhythm of it, it makes sense. And we soon discovered that the auctioneer ended each chant with, "Give it to Brown at three and a half and we're on our way," the phrase, "we're on our way," being the battle cry.

WHILE THE auctioneer's rostum was rolled on to other fields, we made our way to the office of Ben Selkirk, where we learned that Selkirk's have been in the auctioneering business for 108 years, four generations all told, and pride themselves on their equitable auctions, by which is meant, I was told, that if a $6000 diamond pin brought 6 cents at public sale, it would go for that, and not be recalled for future sale. Nor do they allow the owner to bid, as do many auctioneers, and to thus run up the price until he considers it a fair one.

Selkirk emphasized the fact that none of the merchandise auctioned off is owned by them. It is merely consigned until purchased by a new owner. He also emphasized the diversity of their business, ranging as it does from the utilitarian sales, such as I had just witnessed, to the Galleries sales, where antiques and objets d'art are dispensed to those who have the appreciation and the price for such wares.

The Galleries season closes in May and will not be opened until Veiled Prophet's week. I was shown through the galleries, which are, Selkirk explained apologetically, "very much on their uppers" since they have been closed all summer. Here the procedure is vastly different from that of the "utilitarian auction." The auctioneers do not emulate auctioneers quite so much, as in this case they are not dealing with auction habitues but with women, who, Selkirk said, "might be mystified." As well they might!

ACCORDING to Selkirk, there is no business as fascinating as auctioneering due to the 'something new every minute' element. One day, for instance, Selkirk's appraised the furnishings of one of the finest homes in St. Louis, including fabulously priced museum pieces and four Thomas Morans (paintings, for the benefit of those, like myself, who wouldn't know a Moran from a Mickey Finn), and then went on in the afternoon to auction off the habiliments of a laundry, which was minus a roof by reason of a recent fire.

But despite the mass appeal of the general auctions and the cultural advantages of the Galleries sales, one of the things we found most entertaining was an obviously bogus painting on the office wall, labeled Aba Ben Hassan, famous Turkish auctioneer, 1765. Upon questioning, Selkirk disclosed that a humorous minded friend of his was doing a series of mythical famous auctioneers who, he claimed, were Selkirk's counterparts in other countries and other times. One that I saw was a "famous Chinese auctioneer, Yung Ben Le Ming," whose picture was oddly enough made up of a newspaper photo of Selkirk plus a queue and Chinese clothing. Mr. Selkirk's friend claims that this study takes him to all countries. "He's working on a Scottish one now," laughed Selkirk, "an auctioneer in kilts!"

—o-o—

"WE'RE ON OUR WAY" to another subject: We have definitely decided that we do not have what gardeners describe as the "green thumb" or the ability to make things grow. Three plants left with us for the summer while their owner was vacationing, have so far shown a disgusting lack of response to our tender ministerings. The once thriving trio, a robustly leafy fern, three spry onion shoots and a gently flowering shamrock, have now undergone a metamorphosis to become a brown onion shoot and a withered bit of fern, the shamrock having proven that even the Irish can meet defeat. We think

Color Relieves Severity of Black Frocks

Gay Belts and Other Bright Ornaments on Between-Season Dresses.

ALTHOUGH the black frock is the one which is being so generally advocated as ideally suited to bridge the gap between summer and autumn, the designers are not averse to the idea of introducing some color emphasis. Gay belts, multi-colored clips and other jeweled ornaments, embroidered motifs and a variety of decorations relieve the severity of these black dresses, which white beaded and braided trimmings also contribute to a diversity of interest.

The black costume suit consisting of a dress with its own brief jacket or full-length coat, is typical of the between-season ensemble on display in St. Louis shops. Some of these two-piece costumes have hip-length jackets with flaring peplums, some follow the Schiaparelli silhouette with short, flaring coats, and others present new versions of the redingote theme. Outstanding among these is the black crepe dress, very sheer of weight, which is accompanied by a brief jacket made of black crepe barred with white lines. Usually the swinging back of the jacket is cut on the bias so that the striking appearance of the material is emphasized. Contrasting jackets of gaily patterned fabrics also are introduced as a means of brightening a black frock.

The trend toward dressy details is apparent in the collections of these black dresses which the St. Louis shops are showing. Even the shirtwaist dress, for example, has become less of a uniform and not only has ornate studs or buttons to fasten the front but the pockets embroidered in bright colors. The flower-pot effect is typical of the trend, four pockets on the front of many dresses adopting this theme. Multicolored stitching, tri-colored yarn embroidery and flowers, felt bandings and braided borders are similar evidences of the unique way in which designers are adorning the first fall frocks.

Although the richly toned clips, belt sand bandings are expected to be of much importance during late winter and autumn, many of the first dresses have white beaded trimming. This decoration takes the form of pockets, sleeve bands and collars. The princesse frock which has an outline of white beads to mark the gores as well as to call attention to yoke treatments is another illustration of the interest in old-fashioned embellishment. Heavy lace bandings likewise are used as are braided bands in white or colors and borders of brightly tinted wooden beads.

With so many contrasting decorations used at this season of the year when black that is unrelieved by color always is regarded as a badge of smartness, every student of fashion trends is looking forward to much brilliance throughout the autumn and winter.

A GIRL ABOUT TOWN

there is something to plants recognizing their true owners because our cactus which we have nurtured from early youth, is withstanding the summer admirably and flourishing like the green bay tree, which, we understand, flourishes very well. But experience tells us that were someone to leave a green bay tree in our window sill for the remainder of the summer, it would shrivel into nothingness.

THIS MAY SOUND like a fish story but we have been informed in all seriousness that there is a wayside retreat on the South Side which is enjoying tremendous popularity because it specializes in fish and only fish. Fish and chips long have been the English equivalent of hot dogs and we are glad to see this jolly custom invading our borough. Our informant tells us customers are flocking to this fish commissary by the hundreds, not counting, of course, the "ones that got away."

Suede Jacket

Here's a novel idea for the girl who likes to attract attention with her autumn sports clothes. A short-sleeved suede jacket that hangs as loosely as one of those "beer" coats that have been so popular for several years, has been designed for wear over sweater costumes. The startling feature of the ensemble is that a long-sleeved sweater is worn underneath, so that the sleeves show below those of the coat. Contrasting color schemes guarantee the most comment.

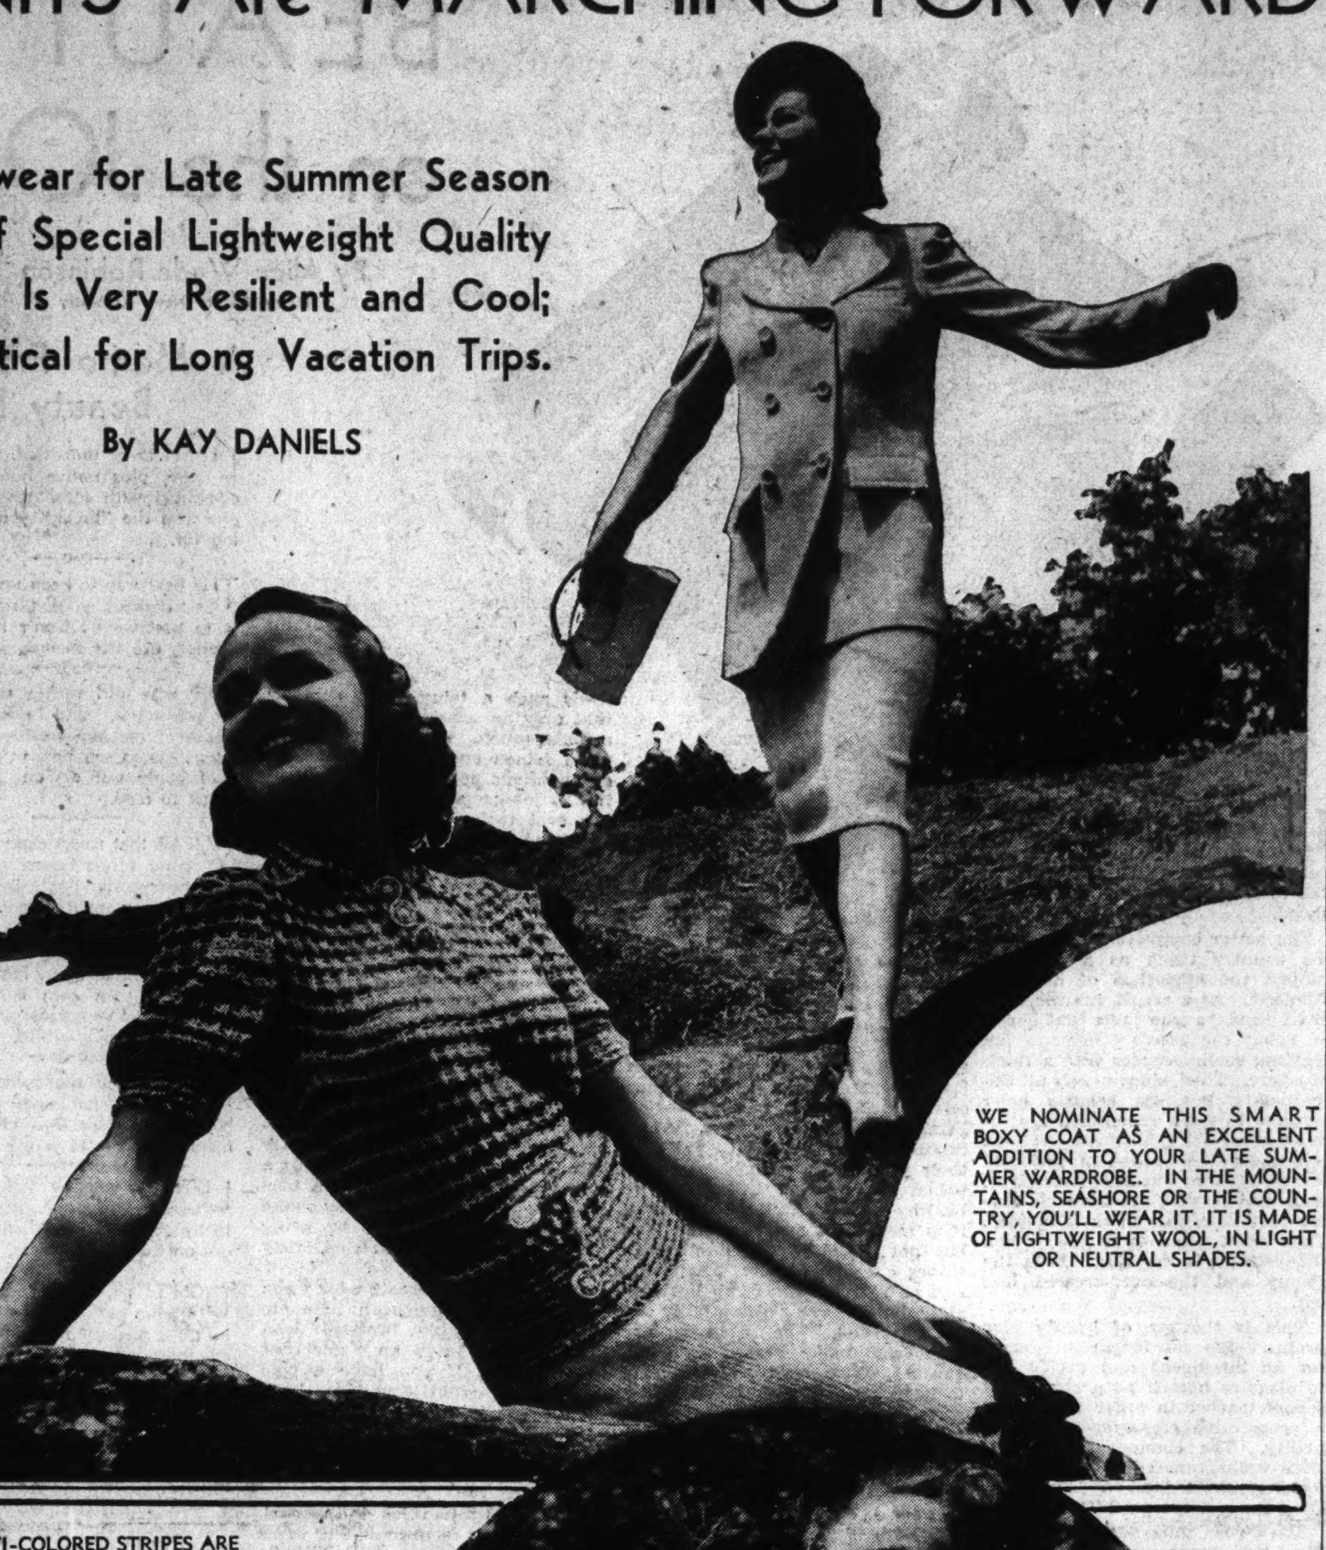
Copper Highlights

If you are interested in striking effects in metallic fabrics, consider copper highlights rather than those of gold or silver. Some of the new materials created for evening wear during the coming season make a feature of the copper colored threads. They are allied with white, black and tones of green. Moires which have patterns outlined with glistening threads are among the most fashionable of the luxurious materials.

KNITS Are MARCHING FORWARD

Knitwear for Late Summer Season Is of Special Lightweight Quality That Is Very Resilient and Cool; Practical for Long Vacation Trips.

By KAY DANIELS



WE NOMINATE THIS SMART BOXY COAT AS AN EXCELLENT ADDITION TO YOUR LATE SUMMER WARDROBE. IN THE MOUNTAINS, SEASHORE OR THE COUNTRY, YOU'LL WEAR IT. IT IS MADE OF LIGHTWEIGHT WOOL, IN LIGHT OR NEUTRAL SHADES.

GAY MULTI-COLORED STRIPES ARE COMBINED WITH WHITE IN THIS ATTRACTIVE TWO-PIECE SUMMER-WEIGHT SPORTS FROCK OF CHENILLE KNIT WOOL. THE SLIM, WELL-FIT SKIRT IS KNIT IN A SOLID SHADE, CONTRASTING BECOMINGLY WITH THE STRIPED OVERBLOUSE. INTERESTING COMPOSITION-AND-WOOL BUTTONS ARE DECORATIVE AT THE NECK-FRONT AND ON THE ENDS OF THE CAUSALLY KNOTTED TIE SASH.

A FAMOUS society leader is known for her wardrobe, which includes just two types of clothes—sweater sets and evening clothes. The casual garb she dons in between she considers quite unimportant. When this news first leaked out, we jumped to the immediate conclusion that her evening frocks were Schiaparelli or Chanel originals, and sweaters were simply pickups.

Quite the opposite formula holds true, however. It is said she shops for inexpensive evening frocks, which she probably only wears once and discards, but her sweater sets are carefully chosen as to color and excellence of quality. When a particular style or type suits her, she buys it in half a dozen different colors.

Now, the moral of this story is fairly clear. No woman is going to adopt any one type of garment unless it has something. So many new developments have taken place in knitted garments recently that few of us really appreciate their qualities, comfort and style possibilities for general wear. First of all, the new knitwear for late summer is of a special lightweight quality that is resilient and cool to wear even on a warm day. Then there is the texture and weave, and the stretch-resisting qualities that a good garment will have.

So many fabrics on the market today are said to be wrinkle-resisting, and sometimes belie their reputation, that we hesitate to repeat the feature, but we can only vouch for the repeated recommendation of travelers, who insist that a good knit frock packs well, and rides well on long trips.

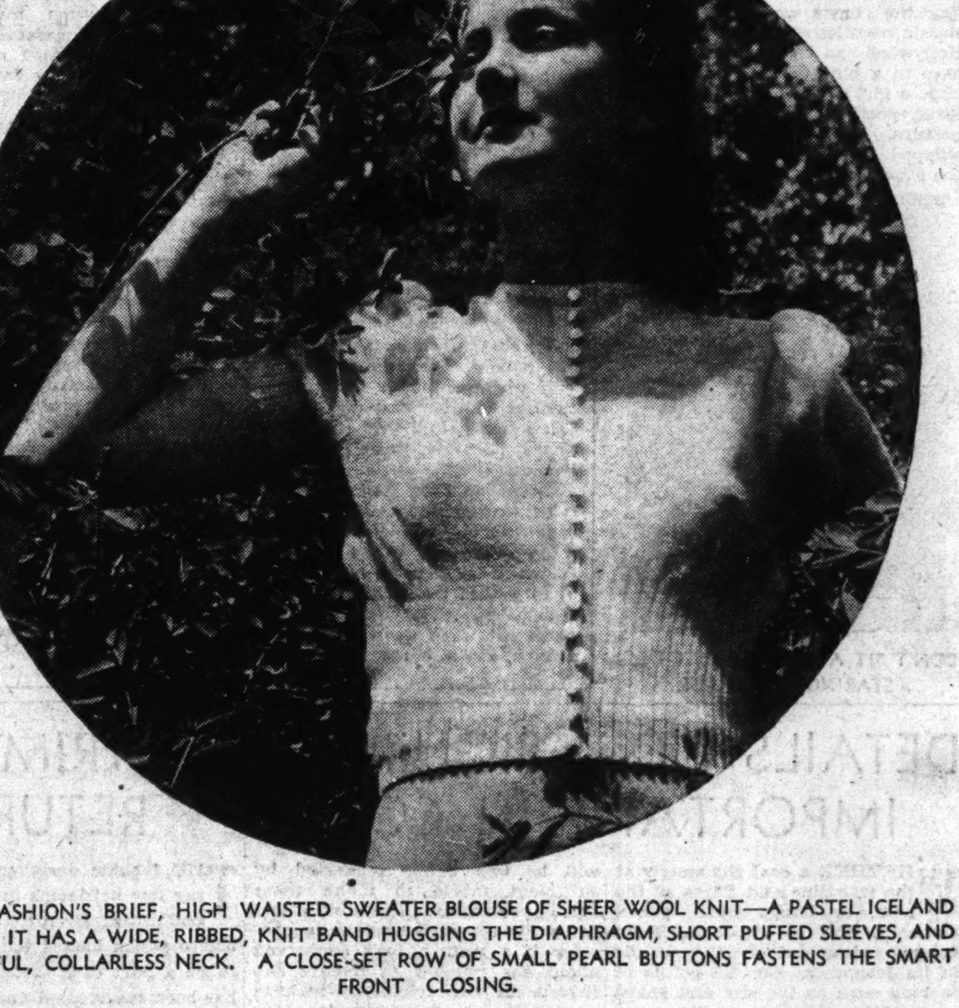
Styling, of course, is responsible in a large measure for the increased popularity of knitwear. No longer is this fabric relegated to sports. True, there are the sports classics with very little variation: The slip-on zephyr and its matching cardigan buttoned right up the front with small white pearly buttons. We saw one such outfit in a lovely shade of shrimp pink—the skirt and hat both matched. The only color relief was in a small insert of leather in the front of the matching fabric belt.

Incidentally, have you noticed how many of this season's costume belts—not the novelties—are made to match the dress, with the leather inserts in color at the front only? This is smart-looking, but it's also a nice gesture of consideration for the woman with a large waistline.

Now, a knitted frock may be strictly sports, or the pattern of the knit will give it an afternoon aspect. An up-and-down stocking knit is quite sporty looking. A fancy shell-knit or fan pattern on the other hand may be quite dressy with the right accessories. A novelty two-tone pattern, or attractive stripe is a woman's mecca, for it lops off years before your very eyes. You know, of course, that the overblouse style is an easy one to wear at any age.

Regarding those brief little short-waisted sweaters, we rather think these are meant for young people. They are difficult to handle with a skirt if you are plump, but they are especially nice for evening wear by tall girls. You'll also see them on the smart beaches this summer with slacks, in which case the midriff will get a sun-tanning.

We have seen knitted hats matching ensembles done by a very famous maker of knitwear, and when custom-made they can be smart. Generally speaking, however, a white or pastel sports hat is to our liking, and there are bandeaus and turbans galore for those who enjoy them. The casual knitted caps and hats on the little counters are swell to wear with your other sports clothes.



HERE IS FASHION'S BRIEF, HIGH WAISTED SWEATER BLOUSE OF SHEER WOOL KNIT—A PASTEL ICELAND MOHAIR. IT HAS A WIDE, RIBBED, KNIT BAND HUGGING THE DIAPHRAGM, SHORT PUFFED SLEEVES, AND A YOUTHFUL, COLLARLESS NECK. A CLOSE-SET ROW OF SMALL PEARL BUTTONS FASTENS THE SMART FRONT CLOSING.

Paris Designer's Tailored Clothes

SINCE many well-dressed women always look to Creed to tell them the authentic trend in tailored clothes, his new collections for autumn have special significance. Reports from Paris indicate that this designer indorses very short skirts, much red and black, striking fur and grosgrain ribbon trimmings and that he employs much waterproof velvet in the creation of suits. Waistlines are placed at normal and blouses have high necks.

One example of the popularity of waterproof velvet is a green coat that is designed for wear over a sport suit. Another is a rust colored three-quarter length town coat. Details of costumes are given much consideration. Buttons are unique and interesting.

Matching Hosiery.

One of the most striking features of the recent Paris openings was the introduction of hosiery to match the shade of dress trimmings. The style point was emphasized in sports costumes when such shades as bright blue were worn to match blue belts on autumn frocks and suits. The stockings were of silk thread.

Many Autumn Clothes Made Of Velveteen

This Material Will Likely Be One of Most Popular Fall Fabrics.

THE early attention that is being paid to velveteen indicates that this will be one of the most popular fabrics of the autumn season. Not only are entire frocks being made of this material but also are suits, coats and numerous accessories.

A two-piece suit of velveteen that looks enough like a dress to be worn for cold weather under a winter coat is one of the typical illustrations of the versatility of this rich-looking material. This suit is made of that soft shade of blue gray which looks well with brown accessories and mink accents. A similar model is available in reddish brown. The skirt is slightly flared to relieve the severity of its lines while the close-fitting jacket is cut so that it is wrist length. Flap pockets placed at an angle adorn the front of the coat. Sleeves are long and straight. Even more impressive is another suit that is banded with kolinsky at the edge of the flaring jacket peplum. Standing collar and tight-fitting cuffs are covered with the same luxurious fur.

The vogue of velveteen in dresses extends from strictly sports attire to ensembles designed for afternoon and informal evening use. Plaid and striped velveteen look decidedly new and often are combined with feathery woolens. The vogue of velveteen and tweed is another highlight of the autumn fashions. Often a tweed skirt will be combined with a plaid overblouse or this theme will be reversed.

Bolero jacket costumes that are allied with satin or handsome metallic blouses have a youthful flair as well as impressing with the new trend toward more elaborate clothes for fall. Wool dresses which have collars, buttons and belts of velveteen also are important in the mode. Typical of this last mentioned style is a young-looking frock with a high-waisted, flared skirt of light weight woolen buttoned to the wool blouse with large velveteen covered buttons. Collar and cuffs are of the same soft pile fabric.

Many of the new tweed coats and suits are collared with contrasting velveteen. These collars are variously styled, some being in the regulation notched type with rather wide lapels and others being very small turnover models. Entire sleeves and yokes of velveteen also are an interesting variation to the usual fur trimmings seen on many of the most attractive costume suits.

Men are plungers, gamblers, chance-takers. Women, I think, prefer to know, rather than to guess.

That's why so many women seek knowledge about funeral services, and funeral prices, in advance of necessity. They realize that if they wait until the very instant of need, they will not have the time to make a sound decision, and will have to take a chance on snap judgment.

Modern funeral firms like C. R. Lupton & Sons, 7233 Delmar Blvd., realize that this procedure is both logical and becoming more and more commonplace. Accordingly, they invite anyone desiring to do so to call at any time to discuss whatever problems may be confronting them. Honest, friendly counsel is assured.

LET ME SUGGEST

RECENTLY, in this column, we have been discussing certain characteristics of English and American furniture, the two styles that we utilize most and are, therefore, most familiar with. This week there will be a brief description of the outstanding features of the various French styles. And it might be noted, in passing, that no styles have been as much misunderstood, mis-interpreted, and mis-used as those of France. Bad reproductions have given people the impression that furniture of this country is elaborate, ornate and even gaudy while on the contrary, it is sophisticated, refined and eminently suited to our modern houses.

In studying French furniture it is well to keep in mind that many of the English craftsmen, such as Chippendale and Sheraton, often drew their inspiration from French styles and, therefore, it is frequently possible to combine these styles in a most effective and correct manner. It is true that we would not care to have an authentic French interior to live in but then, neither would we desire a strict eighteenth century English or Early American one. Today, many decorators are finding the effectiveness of using French furniture against modern backgrounds and color schemes.

In looking at the various French periods it is unnecessary to start with the Louis XIV style as it is so elaborate that it is mainly interesting as a study of a past age rather than a usable style today. In fact, it was a reaction against this magnificence that was responsible for the grace, the delicacy, and the intimacy of the Louis XV style which followed it. And this style is as suited to the small apartment or the intimate salon of the present as it was in its own time.

● THE LOUIS XV STYLE is the essence of the curvilinear type of furniture. Not only is every arm and leg curved, but there are scrolls carved on the curves. Natural walnut was frequently used for chairs while lesser woods were stained or painted. Unusual woods, in addition to satinwood and rosewood, such as tulip, lemon and thuya wood, were all used for veneering pieces in checkers, lozenges and herringbone designs. Ormalu, which was molded gilt, was used to decorate the legs of all sorts of furniture and for drawer pulls as well. The decorative motifs that were used in carving include wreaths and bunches of roses, ribbons scrolled and tied, musical trophies and the famous rock and sheel motif from which the name for the period, Rococo, developed.

The development of the Louis VI style was a natural outgrowth of the style that preceded it and yet it was strongly influenced by the uncovering of ruins at Herculaneum and Pompeii, which were completely classic in design and inspiration. The neo—or new—classic spirit prevaded not only France but England as well, and introduced straight, rectilinear, classic lines into the furniture of both countries.

—o-o—

The straight, tapered leg, fluted and banded, was most frequently used on chairs and tables. Backs of chairs were oval, circular, bowed, flat-arched and square. Although many of the same motifs and materials of the Louis XV period were used, there is a feeling of restraint in the later style. Mahogany became popular, although painted and inlaid woods were still used to a great extent, as was metal work. Favored decorative motifs were classic in inspiration, such as bows and arrows, borders of laurel, oak or ivy leaves and the attributes of war, music and pastoral life.

● THE DIRECTOIRE and Empire styles which followed the Louis XVI period were an even more deliberate and intentional copy of ancient classic designs. The Directoire is, on the whole, the more desirable of the two, being a transitional period between the beauty of the Louis XVI and the massive and often pretentious pieces of the Empire style.

The Directoire was really a simplification of the previous period. Legs were usually tapered but often curved outward toward the foot. In chairs, backs often had long, slow sweeping curves and a wide upper cross-piece. Mahogany, walnut and beech woods were all used and much painted furniture, frequently decorated with black or brilliant color, was seen. Revolutionary emblems such as the Phrygin bonnet, fasces and cocardas were all introduced.

The Empire style was essentially a heavy, massive one, unsuited to our houses today except in greatly simplified form. Legs were often of the pedestal variety with sphinxes, winged figures, or griffins supporting them; while arms of chairs and sofas resembled swans and angels. Many pieces were supported by either square or round columned legs which were often finished with metal caps and bases. Mahogany was the favored material and there was a great deal of metal trimming. The favored decorated motifs of this period were the wreath and torch, formed of bay or laurel leaves, various Egyptian motifs such as pyramids and obelisks and the bee, which was Napoleon's favorite decorative design.

BEAUTY on the JOB

By Alice Wade Robinson

KEEP YOUR HANDS AND FINGERS PRESENTABLE. THEY ARE THE TOOLS OF YOUR CRAFT.

LABOR DAY is a month away. So there's plenty of time to get in trim for job-hunting or job-taking in September. Lots of time too to set yourself in a job-keeping mood.

The better commercial schools in the country teach as a required subject the essentials of business etiquette. As a result, it's the rare girl nowadays who pulls that boner of using the boss's telephone for giggling reminiscences with a flock of beaux. Then, since nearly all the up-to-date business schools have lectures in good grooming, you almost never see a business girl bent low under the burden of artificial lashes. Modern business executives, male and female, are keen on having fastidious gals in their employ. They want them—and get them. Competition is exacting. Both the sloppy and the over-dressed lose out.

This is the era of beauty plus brains. It's no longer necessary for an intelligent and pretty girl to disguise herself as a story-book school teacher in order to impress a prospective employer with her ability. The chances are that if she's well-mannered and attractive-looking, she'll land a job sooner than the gal too proud to prink.

It's a good thing for speed in getting the day's work done that classic beauties are rare. Not even Hollywood can boast a dozen. Only once in a blue moon do you come upon a girl of modeled, regular features, peerless skin and queenly posture. That type seems to have skipped the modern picture. On the other hand though, the business world is full to bursting with "good-lookers."

Go into any high-grade shop, into any well-run business office anywhere in the country, you'll find there deep in work a majority of "good-lookers." To type them, they all possess five characteristics. First, they look clean as a flower. Second, their apparent pride in their job makes them fastidious rather than fussy. Third, they're healthy-looking, vital, alive. Fourth, they seem good-natured. And last, but not least, their intelligence shines out like a star. That's the sort of younger American business girl who has every potentiality for making good. The chances are that she'll make herself so indispensable that she'll be persuaded to keep her job after marrying.

Notice, she's not necessarily pretty, but even without prettiness, she's still a "good-looker." Her hair shines with cleanliness and daily brushing. Her complexion is as attractive as she can make it. Whatever skin faults she may have carried on through adolescence have been clarified to the best of her skill. Her makeup—but of course, the modern business girl goes in for it—is such a triumph in subtlety that only an expert can detect her artistic touch. She fearlessly displays hands and nails. That sort of fastidious preparedness is essential to job-keeping. Her hands are her best tools. Let them become begrimed, let torn, jagged or soiled nails embarrass, she loses poise. No business girl can afford that. It's as much as her job is worth.

And the sort of "good-looker" mentioned neither indulges in overscenting nor in failure to prevent body odors. Most of you know that modern business pace is keen, exactin, swift. Most of you know too that nervousness frequently causes the sweat glands to be over-active. Experienced girls prepare for such emergencies by a day-in, day-out preventive routine. Just as automatically as they take their nightly bath, brush their teeth, give nails a thorough look-see, they use a perspiration preventive. If they make precaution doubly sure by using under-arm or back shields, they change these nightly.

Be careful as to breath odor when on the job. At luncheon time abstain from highly flavored food which may leave an unpleasant breath. And if you have a cold or any catarrhal condition, keep mouthwash in your locker. Use it frequently during the day. It's refreshing anyway, but it may, without your knowing it, be a real necessity for you.

Now as to hankies in general. Take a lesson from men. For some reason, men seem much more meticulos about immaculate handkerchiefs than women are. They pride themselves on being sticklers on that point. It's well worth copying.

And you, unlike him, may scent your hanky. Confine yourself, however, to the sachet which has perfumed it or to a drop of eau de Cologne or toilet water.

A Memo From Beauty Editor

LEARN to be unruffled. Good nature, plus native humor when combined with intelligence should give you the "break" you're looking for.

—o-o—

THE best way to keep up the illusion about your fastidiousness is to practise it: Don't lick those stamps, use the sponge.

—o-o—

THE wise girl makes up in the washroom, and removes all traces of makeup freshening. No boss likes to see lipstick traces on mail going out or on that he's about to read.

—o-o—

WEAR that smart charm bracelet after office hours. You may not notice its jingle-jangle, but bosses have sensitive ears.

—o-o—

BE fussy about your purse. Keep it in prime order. For two reasons: For your own convenience, and to "save your face" in case the boss gets a peek within.

—o-o—

DON'T overdo that sometimes too obvious "feminine touch"—both as to your own clothes and manner; and as to your boss's desk.

—o-o—

LISTEN to yourself walk. Do you tread too heavily? It's not right to tiptoe either. Both irritate. They get on the boss's nerves.

—o-o—

DON'T sit, pencil in mouth, staring pensively out into space in those pauses in dictation. Have all those poetic raptures on your own time.

—o-o—

DON'T SIT AT YOUR OFFICE DESK STARING INTO SPACE.

Rector Gives Recipes for Frozen Foods

Including Rules for Cheese and Watercress Salad, and Bread Pudding.

By George Rector

SINCE mechanical refrigerators are so widely used, recipes have to be rewritten for the housewife to obtain maximum efficiency from this most modern of kitchen gadgets. We take as a matter of course a bountiful supply of ice cubes today, but a generation ago this ultra-bit of chic could be had only in the best places.

Rector's, I believe, was the first restaurant to serve symmetrical ice cubes in beverages. This idea today doesn't cause any comment or notice whatsoever, but in those good old days it was a novelty and something to write home to the folks about. We prided ourselves as pioneers in many of the niceties of service and fortunately our attention focused on ice. We abhored the idea of nondescript pieces of ice, so decided to do something about it.

It was only after considerable expense and a good deal of experiment that my father succeeded in having a band-saw built which was operated by electricity, to cut large blocks of ice into uniform-size cubes of about two inches. Restaurant and hotel men came from all sections of the country to see the ice-cutting marvel that they were hearing so much about. We gladly explained and demonstrated this machine and while the initial cost and installation seemed great, it was fully justified, as there was an appreciable saving in ice. The band-saw method is obsolete today (you should be glad), but in its place we have the chilling units of mechanical refrigerators.

—o-o—

LET'S GET ON with our recipes. Here is one, for refrigerator ice cream, that children will enjoy:

One pint milk.
Three tablespoons cornstarch.
Three-fourths cup sugar.
One-eighth teaspoon salt.
Two egg yolks, well beaten.
One-half pint heavy cream.
One teaspoon vanilla.

Dissolve the cornstarch with five tablespoons of cold milk. Put balance of milk in saucepan; stir in cornstarch and heat to boiling point, stirring constantly. Remove from fire; stir in sugar, salt and well-beaten egg yolks. Let mixture cool, then pour in heavy cream and vanilla and stir until evenly mixed. Pour into refrigerator tray and let freeze in chilling unit for two hours. Remove tray, empty contents into large mixing bowl and beat with a rotary beater for about five minutes to break the ice crystals. Pour mixture back into tray and freeze for one hour. Return mixture to bowl and beat again for five minutes. Pour back into chilling tray and freeze for two hours. It is now ready to serve, but if you wish, you can hold it in the chilling unit for several hours longer.

NOW HERE is a recipe which is somewhat glorified for a bread pudding, but I am sure that you will enjoy having it in your files:

One cup sugar.
One cup water.
Four eggs, separated.
One tablespoon gelatin.
One cup stale bread crumbs.
One-half cup seedless raisins.
One-half cup candied fruit, chopped.
One-half cup heavy cream.
Flavoring.
Grated walnuts.

Make a syrup by boiling sugar and water together for five minutes. Meanwhile, beat egg yolks until thick. Now gradually pour syrup onto egg yolks, beating constantly. Pour into top part of double boiler and cook until thick. Then add gelatin which has been softened in three tablespoons of cold water. Let mixture cool; add bread crumbs (all crusts removed) and fruit, then fold in stiffly beaten egg whites and whipped cream which has been flavored to suit your taste. Vanilla, sherry or rum can be used in this recipe. If it is vanilla flavoring you decide on, add one teaspoonful. If sherry or rum add two tablespoonfuls. Fill individual fancy paper cups with the mixture. Sprinkle top with finely grated walnuts and put the cups in the refrigerator tray to freeze for several hours.

A new frozen salad is always a happy thought and when cheese is one of the ingredients, it can easily constitute a complete meal. Here is the recipe for one:

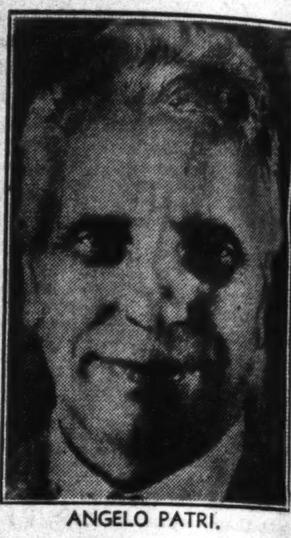
One-half pound cream cheese.
One-half cup milk.
One-half cup mayonnaise.
One pint heavy cream, whipped.
One bunch watercress.
Slight grating of onion.

Mash cream cheese with a fork. Gradually add milk until smooth and of creamy consistency. Then fold in the mayonnaise and whipped cream. Add watercress which has been carefully washed and picked over, discarding the coarse stems. Add onion and pour mixture into tray and freeze in chilling unit for several hours. Cut into squares on slices and serve on a bed of crisp lettuce.

Paint the shelves of the medicine cabinet with white paint, then they are easily wiped out if any medicine is spilled.

PUBLIC AND PRIVATE SCHOOLS

By Angelo Patri



ANGELO PATRI.

THE public schools are the schools for everybody's children and they ought to be the best schools for all children. But they are not. Children come one by one and in individual families, each in a different place, under different circumstances. Education to be of use, must be adjusted as nearly as possible to the needs of the individual child. This is not possible in the public schools as financed and managed today. For individual instruction, for education suited to the needs of the individual child, one must go to the private school.

And not just any private school. Each school has its own aims and standards. One serves girls who will not work in the competitive walks of life; another does the same for such boys; one prepares for a certain college, another for its chosen schools; one takes care of gifted children and another serves backward children; one leads to art school, another to business. Each group of special needs is served by some school that specializes in that field. So it is that the public schools are relieved of pressing responsibility for certain sorts of children, and society is better served.

What sort of school is the child to be sent to? The school that is looking for him. Some school is equipped for giving him what he needs most and one finds that school. How does one know it is the right school? One never knows. Children are never alike so the best we can do is to try out the school that seems to offer him most and be quick to see its success or failure as reflected in his happiness.

The price that is asked is not the standard of excellence. There are some schools, very few, which want only the children of moneyed people. If moneyed people want to send their children there, they have that right and privilege but the great majority of parents, who are looking for a working school, one that is set to develop the best gifts his child possesses, does not use them. Sending a child to a school to have him form associations that are to help him climb socially, or commercially, is about the most futile, the most belittling thing, one can do for a child. What a child needs is the education that develops what he has in him. The school cannot give him what he has not in his self the day he enters. What it can do magnificently, if it gets the chance, is to strengthen what he has that is good and send him with strength and intelligence and purpose fully developed for service.

Study the child you have with care. Don't take your own opinion of him as final because it is likely to be colored by your hopes and fears and ambitions. Get the expert's advice on him before selecting his school. And let the child be the guide. Not his wilful, mistaken and weakly gestures but his ordinary behavior in ordinary matters. Let the real child, the child unaffected by his own desire to be what you wish him to be, the child as he is when he feels free to be himself, show you where he needs to go.

For the unusual child, the genius, the gifted, the backward, the ailing one, private school offers the most. For the ordinary, healthy, carefree child the public school and the parochial school stand ready. There are none better in the world than ours here in America.

Along the Potomac

WASHINGTON, Aug. 6.

IN THE summer, the test of the well dressed official is, can he keep his white suit presentable until lunch time? Those who work in air-cooled offices do better than their subordinates . . . Some of the young New Dealers I see at lunch must stand at attention all morning to remain so immaculate. Or maybe they take their pants off and work, like H. L. Mencken, in shorts.

There's a cathedral calm about the clothes of Sumner Welles, the Undersecretary of State. His black satin neckties are as ecclesiastic as a necktie can be. Welles is always mentioned as one of the best dressed; he can stand up to any Briton without sartorial, if not diplomatic, eclipse.

LIKE JIMMY ROOSEVELT, he has the figure for it, which is half the battle, and more important than an income that tolerates $175 suits . . . Jimmy, who confesses to only four business suits, despite his ample bank account, is as well dressed as many a Washingtonian with 20 or 30 suits in his closet.

No new glory has appeared to replace Rex Tugwell's purple linen suit, which once almost won him the snakeskin belt as the Capital's best dressed man . . . His successor as the No. 1 bugaboo, Tommy Corcoran, is an indifferent dresser. There are nights when he hasn't time or energy even to empty his pockets . . . Tommy would look well in a Napoleonic shad-belly coat.

—o-o—

Were it not for a treacherous shirt which has a tendency to creep above his belt, Bill Douglas, the Securities Exchange genius, might be a dresser of greater distinction, in a quiet way . . . Some people suspect Jimmy Dunn, the State Department adviser, of wearing underdrawers that are part of his shirt tail, in a sort of unilateral pact.

—o-o—

● For some of Washington's officials, the important matter of clothes is part of the daily agenda. Their fittings at the tailor's are fairly regular, and when they show up there's a bedlam of excitement, with cutters and fitters and contact men rushing in every direction with tape measures, scissors, bolts of cloth and style books.

Others, however, like Corcoran, Henry Wallace and Lowell Mellett (the Emergency man) are a trifle disdainful about clothes. They would probably like to pull up at the curb on the way to the office, point to a suit in the window, and say "Send me two of those." Though Jerome Frank, the New Dealer who was purged and bounced back as tough as ever, is inclined to be lukewarm about most things British, he is a trifle casual and tweedily English in his vestments.

—o-o—

The work of Government is not hard on the clothes, and a Government official who buys a couple of suits a year is likely to build up quite a wardrobe through the years, provided he protects the seat of his pants with a felt or rubber chair pad . . . By 1940 many a New Dealer who stuck clear through with Roosevelt will have 16 suits in his closet.

—o-o—

● IN THE RANK AND FILE of officialdom there is a breezier tendency to experiment with odd coats and pants. This inclination, it seems to me, is the real hope of masculine costuming; as more and more men come to the Government payrolls at moderate but permanent salaries, there will be less and less of this slavish adherence to one color and one fabric from neck to ankles, and more adventurous blending of flannels, gabardines, tweeds and worsteds.

WITH A SORT OF WARM, patriotic devotion, Washingtonians keep saying that Gen. Pershing is the best dressed man in town. His erect figure would probably enhance any size 42 off the rack . . . Most well dressed men are, after all, a mere coincidence between chest and hip measurements and the size the clothiers have hit on so arbitrarily, two inches apart.

But I thnk a word should be said for Charley Michelson, the propaganda master mind of the Democrats, and Frank Waltman, his Republican rival. They are each, in their own ways, the finest flower of two different sartorial schools. Charley wears his clothes loose and baggy, while Frank's are tighter, with a loyal adherence to curves. Charley is twice as old as Frank, but Frank is twice as heavy. There must be some deep inner significance in this. I must consult an astrologer.

Versatile Jacket

The lumber jacket is becoming so versatile that it is as much at home at the opera as on the mountain trail. Dressed-up types intended for wear with evening clothes are made of ermine and velvet. Kidskin, Persian lamb and ocelot are being used for afternoon versions, while tweed and suede continue for sports occasions. Not only in the style of the garment but in the details of design does the little coat follow the windbreaker trend. Elastic waistline sections are seen, as are belts of colorful suede on fur and fabric.

DETAILS OF DESIGNING IMPORTANT IN COATS

WHETHER a coat fits snugly at the waistline and flares at the hem, or hangs with pencil slimness, isn't so important from a style viewpoint as the details of its designing. Certain points of fashion such as the size and shape of a collar, the cut of the armholes, the blousing of the back and the placing of fur trimmings count even more than silhouette in the selection of a winter wrap from the advance models on display for August.

Regardless of the lines of the coats for the coming season, all of them that meet the latest requirements of fashion look larger and more loosely fitted than last winter's model. The coat may be a version of the reefer or be even more fitted through the waistline but it has more fullness under the arms and certain other details of styling which make an old coat look small by comparison. There is an easy grace about the majority of the styles even though they have certain exaggerated features.

WITH A great variety of modes and types of fur trimmings, the selection of a becoming winter coat should be an easy problem. The women who have grown attached to the tuxedo fur trim will find more lavishly decorated types than ever before. In addition to one band of luxurious fur such as fox or mink extending at either side of the front of the coat, there will be two bands separated by sufficient fabric to make them more spectacular. The stole effect in tuxedo revers is another to consider if a woman isn't concerned about the number of dollars she invests in fur trimming because good pelts are necessary for such embellishment.

ANOTHER METHOD of applying fur that is continuing popular is that of covering the entire sleeve. The bishop sleeve, which is cut full and gathered not only at the shoulders but at the wrist where it has a tight band cuff is most striking when developed of a soft fur. Since the furriers have been so skillful at handling pelts as though they were fabrics the fur sleeve no longer gives a coat a bulky appearance.

When fur trimmings are applied in a less lavish manner there are certain new tricks to emphasize the newness of a coat. For example, the sleeve which is attached to a narrow shoulder so that it stands upright becomes even more attractive when a fur band circles the armhole. This method of outlining an armhole also is being done with success in the exploitation of the dolman sleeve.

The vogue of high hairdresses has changed the line of winter coat collars so that the designers are no longer concerned about collars which push against hats or hair. They are featuring the little standup collars.

JET-TRIMMED OUTFITS RETURNING TO FAVOR

THE fashion designers are leaving few heirlooms in the trunks and attics. Even that jet-beaded bolero which looked too out-of-date to be a part of a modern costume has been resurrected and reclaimed. It now is regarded as the swankiest of autumn accessories. Other jet-trimmed costumes are important style news.

Black velvet again is the background for the display of the glistening black ornaments just as it was in grandmother's day. Several evening frocks of the velvet have the jet jackets mounted on net foundations. Others are banded or embroidered with the glittering beads. A repetition of the theme also appears on hats and footwear. Hatpins and bands trim little doll hats while suede and fabric pumps are adorned with jet buckles.

WITH THE RETURN of black jet and velvet has come other relics of past eras. There is the hobble skirt which usually is reserved for evening but, in modified form, is included in some afternoon collections. A bustle that ends in long pleats is an addition to one new velvet evening frock in that old shade of green which grandmother called "reseda." A hoop skirt also appears among the demure types recommended for debutantes while many of the corseted bodices devoid of shoulder straps are included in the list of formal fashions. A moire dress which has its wrist length jacket stiffened with stays at the waistline and a fluttering trimming indicates again the interest in quaint models.

Day frocks that are made with bishop's sleeves and are buttoned down the front in cassock style are reminiscent of the days when ecclesiastic fashions were in vogue. The number of berthas appearing for daytime as well as for evening dates back to days when winsome styles were popular. Colorful embroidery, faggoting and other evidences of exquisite handwork on many costumes give a hint that every woman, as of old, will be learning some kind of "fancy work."

—o-o—

LARGE MUFFS that are made of the same fur or fur fabric that trims a suit, hats that are elaborately trimmed with feathers and high encased in snoods give us additional proof that a woman must look old-fashioned if she is dressed in up-to-date manner. Her numerous combs, pins and barrettes needed to keep her hair in the approved manner are reminiscent of the coiffure needs of other days. Much jewelry that looks worn and heavy convinces everyone that Victorian gew-gaws have an important place in the autumn mode, and that the selection of a wardrobe isn't complete until many frills are included.

Though Jerome Frank, the New Dealer who was purged and bounced back as tough as ever, is inclined to be lukewarm about most things British, he is a trifle casual and tweedily English in his vestments.

—o-o—

The work of Government is not hard on the clothes, and a Government official who buys a couple of suits a year is likely to build up quite a wardrobe through the years, provided he protects the seat of his pants with a felt or rubber chair pad . . . By 1940 many a New Dealer who stuck clear through with Roosevelt will have 16 suits in his closet.

—o-o—

● IN THE RANK AND FILE of officialdom there is a breezier tendency to experiment with odd coats and pants. This inclination, it seems to me, is the real hope of masculine costuming; as more and more men come to the Government payrolls at moderate but permanent salaries, there will be less and less of this slavish adherence to one color and one fabric from neck to ankles, and more adventurous blending of flannels, gabardines, tweeds and worsteds.

WITH A SORT OF WARM, patriotic devotion, Washingtonians keep saying that Gen. Pershing is the best dressed man in town. His erect figure would probably enhance any size 42 off the rack . . . Most well dressed men are, after all, a mere coincidence between chest and hip measurements and the size the clothiers have hit on so arbitrarily, two inches apart.

But I thnk a word should be said for Charley Michelson, the propaganda master mind of the Democrats, and Frank Waltman, his Republican rival. They are each, in their own ways, the finest flower of two different sartorial schools. Charley wears his clothes loose and baggy, while Frank's are tighter, with a loyal adherence to curves. Charley is twice as old as Frank, but Frank is twice as heavy. There must be some deep inner significance in this. I must consult an astrologer.

Versatile Jacket

The lumber jacket is becoming so versatile that it is as much at home at the opera as on the mountain trail. Dressed-up types intended for wear with evening clothes are made of ermine and velvet. Kidskin, Persian lamb and ocelot are being used for afternoon versions, while tweed and suede continue for sports occasions. Not only in the style of the garment but in the details of design does the little coat follow the windbreaker trend. Elastic waistline sections are seen, as are belts of colorful suede on fur and fabric.

A WOMAN'S NEW YORK

By Alice Hughes

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

I MANAGED to squeeze in my brace of days at Saratoga, or ye dear old Spa, and reveled as usual in the charm of that unique town that bursts into life during August and then goes back to sleep for 11 months.

All the sights and sounds were on tap—the Broadway horse-players in polo shirts wondering where they could snaffle another 10-spot, the swells in the clubhouse at the track, the beautiful horses, the beautiful girls and the barrel-shaped bookmakers posting their larcenous prices in the betting shed. Did I say all the sounds? My error. One vital one was missing during the first week of the meeting, and that was the tantalizing click—click of the little white roulette ball, "round and round and round she goes, and where she stops stops, nobody knows." For the Spa's historic gambling dens were shut tighter thans Paddy' drum—no click of the dice, no rattle of roulette, no tight-mouthed burglar dealing black-jack—a game I dearly love to buck. The Spa was very sad about this, and fondly hoped that the 1938 purity wave would roll away in a few days.

Of course, the famous night clubs are open and very fancy, with Adelaide Breoks, the social lass, singing for her supper and some cash, and the incomparable Medranno and Donna doing their thrilling dances at Piping Rock. The two belles of the younger crowd are Gloria Baker, just back from Honolulu, and the new Mrs. Alfred G. Vanderbilt, Manuela Hudson that was. Actually, crowds follow the Spanishy bride, and why not? Will you believe that there are at least 50 women horse-owners now at the Spa? Among them I saw Mrs. Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Mrs. Morton Schwartz, Mrs. F. Ambrose Clark, all names famous on the turf. Dice or no dice, there's no place as lovely and funny and exciting as Saratoga in race month.

A LOCAL SHOP has just turned loose what it calls "the peace scarf" because it has the word "peace" printed all over it in a terrifying variety of languages. Very nice—causes chit-chat, and all that. But the bombs still fall on Valencia and Canton, and you won't get far waving a scarf at those babies!

IT SEEMS that the worst is about to happen to our World's Fair. Not only has San Salvador decided not to take part, but the definite tip is out that Sally Rand, Baroness of the Bubble-Dance, will park herself and fans at the San Francisco exposition come February—unless our Grover Whalen speaks up promptly. Boss Grover, on the other hand, may have another girl in his mind, or up his sleeve. Or are we going to be strictly educational, and show the folks nothing but gears and turbines? If we are, friends, we're sunk five full fathoms deep!

VERA ZORINA, the town toast who is displaying her charm and beauty in "I Married an Angel," had to fly to Havana for 48 hours, so she could get a re-entry permit to our nation. That gave a chorus girl one of those Cinderella breaks, and Isabelle Kimpal leaped in and did the big role. Now, of course, she's back among the chorus girls, but she had her great moment. Soon after La Zorina got back I saw her at an evening spot wearing a gardenia halo on her pretty head, and a fetching sight it was. I estimate that 46,139 males of all ages here are new in love with this lithe-legged Norsewoman. If you see a fellow brooding here, it isn't the market—it's Zorina.

ANTONIA BRICO, conductor of our Woman's Symphony, rose to new fame the other night when she waved the stick over our Philharmonic Symphony in an outdoor concert. Critics, while none too cordial to her interpretations, made it clear that La Brico quickly established that she was boss over the gang of fiddlers and tooters. The critics, in fact, said the band made too much noise. "Din," they called it. Never mind, Tony . . .

WE HAVE BEEN hosting a couple of gay honeymooners—Lee Tracy, of stage and films, and his new missus, formerly Helen Thomas Wyse. They made jollity several evenings over at Ben Marden's beautiful Riviera night club, at the Jersey end of the George Washington Bridge. Then they sailed away for London and a stage job for Lee . . .

THE OTHER DAY I visited Elizabeth Hawes, of "Fashion Is Spinach" fame, at the New York hospital where my spouse spent all last summer, and then I went to the glass-walled nursery and personally inspected Liz's new son, Master Gavrick Losey. I assure you Master Losey is not spinach, at all! . . .

WE CERTAINLY are getting to be pushers. Numbers of the girls are inching their way into the sacred and cool Men's Grill of the Ritz Carlton Hotel. Poor chaps, no escape. I only know of two big bars into which women positively cannot poke their pretty heads—those of the Biltmore and Waldorf. It tickles my dissolute spouse into fits to see women get the bum's rush from these places—which they do, in a nice way.

—o-o—

FLASH, bulletin and new lead. The seers of style have spoken. Skirts next fall will be 15 or 16 inches from the floor, which is more than a mite shorter than last season. Wasn't 14 the figure then? This new length again puts the burden of proof on our stockings, which must be absolutely perfect lest we be ashamed. The hosiery people have been busy as humming-birds getting out lines styled to all the costume colors promised for autumn.

BY THIS TIME the theme exhibit of our World's Fair must be pretty well known from coast to coast, or even from Dan to Beersheba. Technically, the tall spike and the big round ball are known as the Trylon and the Perisphere, or more familiarly, as the Sally Rand Balloon and Grover Whalen's Knitting Needle. All three of the local ball clubs have the things appliqued on their uniform sleeves, and by this time millions must wonder what they are all about. In fact, my friend Henry Dreyfuss, who designed it, says he is going daffy from answering questions about the brain baby, selected after 1035 other designs had been tossed away.

The knitting needle is 700 feet high, and the balloon is 200 feet in diameter outside. That's a lot of balloon. The Trylon, we may assume, simply represents human aspiration, or reaching for the moon. But the Perisphere is going to have a thrilling show inside, which will display snappily and excitingly the World of Tomorrow—which is the general thought behind the whole fair. Crowds will be carried around the inside of the balloon on a moving platform and they can see the whole display in six minutes. Overhead will be the firmament, shown by all manner of film and light trickery much in the manner of modern planetariums, and below will be the city of tomorrow, buzzing and bubbling with life. "Democracity," they aim to call it.

Why Goggles Are Good for Sensitive Eyes

They Save a Great Deal of Eye Irritation, Says Doctor.

By
Logan Clendening, M. D.

SUN goggles undoubtedly have a great deal of eye irritation. Those with sensitive eyes—blue and light irises—find them almost necessities. The summer sunshine on motor highways and by beach and shore is not badly irritating. If you think, however, of what the glare of the sun coming through the thin air of the mountain peaks and reflected from the fields of snow will do, you can see that there are possibilities of trouble in any bright, prolonged sunlight. The mountain snow field glare would cause a severe conjuncivitis to anyone who was long enough exposed. People vary in sensitiveness to this, and instinctively those who would be burned by summer sunlight affect goggles.

Besides the local effect on the conjunctiva, goggles prevent headaches and reflex nervous digestive upsets. I know of two instances where migraine sufferers found that going out in the sun without goggles brought on attacks. Many cases of summer headache must be of the same variety.

—o-o—

STIMULATED by an article by Meta Rosenthal in the July number of Hygiea, I have been investigating the varieties and principles of different sun goggles.

After the light rays at either end of the spectrum were discovered—those invisible to human vision—the invention of glasses to strain out some of these rays has gone on.

It is the ultraviolet rays beyond the violet end of the spectrum which cause the conjuinctivitis of the unwary mountain climber.

Some abortive attempts at making colored glasses were made by Fieuzel of Paris and Dr. William Thompson of Philadelphia in the 1880's. Thompson had glasses made with an amethyst tint, and since no good formula for making amethyst glass existed, opticians used old window panes, colored amethyst by long exposure to sunlight. Such were the crude beginnings of the modern industry of colored glasses.

But in 1909 the Glass Workers Cataract Committee of Great Britain engaged Sir Isaac Crookes to experiment on adding various metals to the ingredients of glass in order to produce various colored lenses. The committee was so named because they were attempting to prevent a cataract peculiar to glass blowers and considered to be due to infra-red rays.

—o-o—

THE RESULT of these experiments was the Crookes glasses which are now the most popular form of sun goggles. They range in color from dark gray almost black, to almost white.

The needs of the aviator, the motorist and the fisherman or hunter are all somewhat different as regards colored glasses. The aviator needs to be relieved of glare, but he also needs glasses that will not cut off the yellow rays of the sun. The eye sees over large spaces and most clearly by the yellow-green rays of the spectrum.

Polaroid is a new material much in vogue at present. It consists of a film of cellulose with minute crystals of iodine in it, cemented between two flat glass discs. It admits only waves of light which vibrate in a single flat plane. It is a great boon to the motorist.

If the knot is placed on the right side of the material under the button, the thread is less likely to become loose and the buttons to come off.

SUCCESS OF NEW HAT GOVERNED BY ITS SLANT

THE success of a new hat is governed by its slant. Regardless of whether it is large or small, trimmed with feathers or with ribbons, it must be perched on your head with an angle that shoots downward from the crown of your head to the bridge of your nose.

Some of the hats are placed so far forward over one side of the head that they look as though a wisp of wind would send them to the pavement. Others have a forward sweep that places them so sternly over the center of the brows that there is no escaping the severity of the wearer's expression. All leave the back of the head bare unless there is a wide band that holds the hat securely in place or one of those old-fashioned snoods to provide a sleek look and a feeling of security.

BECAUSE OF the sweeping angle of the new hats they look high even though many of them actually are of pancake proportions. By posing them over the eyes—or one eye—the back of the hat or the side of a brim is certain to point toward the sky. Elaborate use of feathers and of ribbon also serves to create an impression of lofty lines. Twisted drapery, brims that are caught up suddenly in an abrupt angle and dangerous looking pins contribute their share of "high-hat" influence.

An analysis of the styles on display in the St. Louis shops shows a variety of modes from which to choose. The beret, the tricorne, the toque, the pill-box and the Robin Hood brimmed model are represented in the collections. All of these have been pulled, twisted and dented until they bear little resemblance to the types for which they are named, and it takes a close observer to put them into their right classification.

Many of the berets are quite large and are irregular of line. Some of them are caught up at the side in a novel draped effect; others look as though large sections had been cut out. Felt is the favorite medium although many velvet berets are being introduced for afternoon wear. The black velvet beret that is trimmed with colorful ribbon is prominent in the early autumn collections.

Tricornes also may be extremely small or unusually large. Schiaparelli, who is responsible for the fad of doll-size hats, has featured a tiny tricorne while Suzy goes to the other extreme with wide-brimmed models which frame the face with a dashing silhouette. Ribbons and high clusters of feathers are the popular modes of trimming, some entire crowns being covered with contrasting embellishment.

—o-o—

THE WOMAN who likes a pill-box will find more becoming models to please her during the coming season. Perhaps this new flattery is due to the greater use of trimming. When a sweeping ostrich feather or a fringe of lacy braid extends over the severe close-fitting pill-box, then greater becomingness is certain to result.

Although the majority of the new hats that start the autumn season are black, they are far from subdued in their effect. Accents of bright color distinguish practically all of the newcomers and indicate that vivid decorations have much to do with the success of the unique millinery modes.

Approval for Capes

PARIS has placed the stamp of approval on capes for autumn and winter so the woman who likes this loose, swinging wrap may choose it of tweed, velvet or fur. Full-length cape ensembles made of tweeds, either striped or plaid, are being featured for sports wear. Alliances of tweed and velveteen also are proposed, the cape usually being of the wool fabric with a lining of the velveteen. An innovation in capes made of wool for afternoon wear is the addition of one-foot-square pockets of fur. Entire capes that are made of sheared beaver, mink and Alaska sealskin are finger-tip length or longer and fitted snugly at the shoulders.

Newest Costumes In Green Shades

THE fashion world is turning green. Every shade from the light yellow green to the deep-toned forest hue is being used for women's costumes. Grayish hues are being used for town tailleurs, lime shades for sports suits and the rich dark colors are reserved for velvet dinner dresses.

These tones are given various descriptive names that are characteristic of the season's trends. Outstanding among the latest to be added to the large collection is "northern sea." A recent fashion show in New York City was devoted exclusively to a display of fall costumes in this shade which is described as a medium yellow-green.

Although green is being featured as an accessory color as well as one for basic costumes, it is interesting to note that seldom are green ensembles accompanied by green accessories.

Striped Motifs.

Plaid designs are recognized as favorites with college girls but this autumn the clan plaids will receive some opposition from the striped motifs. Equally as many striped fabrics as cross-barred ones are being used for youthful frocks and suits. Oxford gray and black woolens that have widely spaced pin stripes of white are being introduced into St. Louis. One representative costume consists of a one-piece frock with its matching Eton jacket. A bright colored tie, usually red or green, adorns the white collar of the blouse.

Latest Trend In Decoration Of Fall Garb

Ruffles, Embroidery and Tucks Are Some Examples of New Vogue.

THE decorations of your footwear and your other accessories will match those of your frock or your suit, if you keep up with the latest trends of fashion. Ruffles, embroidery, tucks, bloused details and novelty stitching are some examples of this vogue for decorative costume accents.

Materials, colors and leathers that are dominant notes of an ensemble are repeated on footwear and bags. A Scotch plaid skirt will be worn with a spectator sports pump which has a plaid toe. The popularity of twin fabrics also is noteworthy in the alliance of footwear and suits. When a sports outfit consists of a large plaid jacket and a diagonally striped tweed skirt, a shoe can be obtained that brings out the diagonal theme with plaid accents.

When a sports coat has those big, saddle pockets with a flap that snaps in place, a large calfskin bag is available to carry on this mode. The drawstring idea used to gather fullness at the back of a coat and emphasize a bloused waistline is repeated in the drawstring at the wrist of very short cuffs and also across the instep of a soft, suede pump. Other bloused effects at the sides of autumn shoes, with a yoke treatment added for good measure, duplicate the fullness appearing below the yoke of many autumn dresses.

Fur trimmings not only are used with dressmaker emphasis upon the new coats and dresses, but also on hats, bags and shoes. One pump, for example, that fits high on the foot has a little collar of sleek kidskin to match the collar of a jacket. Another pump uses a bow of fur to match the trimming on a hat. In evening fashions there is even more evidence of the dressy trend in the decoration of accessories. Swathed waistlines or intricately draped themes on frocks are carried out by the draped treatment of fabric sandals that match the shade and material of the costume. Jabots are used not only at the neckline of informal dinner frocks, but on the front of shoes and tops of bags. The flounced theme in evening skirts is duplicated by little flounces on the vamp of sandals while shirring, ostrich trimming and elaborate beadwork have as much place in accessories as in apparel embellishment.

'Gingerbread Man' Brings Amusement for Children

FOLLOWING up its success with "The Red Mill" and "Babes in Toyland" as children's operettas in the last two seasons, Municipal Opera is setting aside the week beginning tomorrow night for an excursion into storybook land. The vehicle chosen is the 31-year-old musical fantasy, "The Gingerbread Man," which was presented locally in the far distant past, on the indoor stage, but never has been done in Forest Park.

The book and lyrics were written by Frederick Rankin, the score by A. Baldwin Sloane. Sloane also composed the music for the fairy tale fantasies, "Jack and the Beanstalk" and "Wizard of Oz," which was a hit show for the famed team of Montgomery and Stone. Better-known songs from the "Gingerbread Man," if any remember them, are "Mazie Bon Bon," "That Awful Bogie Man," "The Evil Eye," "The Beautiful Land of Bon Bon," "Do Awake," "The Gingerbread Man," John Dough," "Old Rameses" and "Moon Song."

That the children's shows have an appeal for adults and children alike is shown by the attendance figures for "Babes in Toyland," which drew 71,365 persons in a week last year and held an all-time record until "Roberta" broke it this summer, and for "The Red Mill," which, with 69,981, was the second largest among the seven-day shows of 1936.

It has become the custom of the opera to round up a wide variety of singing, dancing and comic talent for such extravaganzas and this year's production sees the introduction of several new entertainers and utilization of the special abilities of season favorites.

For its Gingerbread Man, the opera has engaged Joe Dorris, dancing comedian whose style is greatly similar to that of Ray Bolger of the stage and screen. Dorris grew up on New York's colorful West Side, where Ruby Keeler, Nancy Carroll, James Cagney and the McCarthy Sisters came from. He began his career in a Gus Edwards' vaudeville production, "Newsboys and Girls," and later was featured in a headline vaudeville act.

The role of the romantic Jack Horner will be played by Mary Hopple, contralto star of the 1937 Municipal Opera season, making her only appearance this summer.

Melissa Mason, the tall dancing comedienne of "White Horse Inn," will be seen in the humorous role of Margery Daw, Joseph Macaulay will be the cruel-hearted Machevalius Fudge; Annamary Dickey is Mazie Bon Bon; Detmar Poppen plays Carmelita, a fairy queen; Jack Sheehan is Wondrous Wise and Frederic Persson is Santa Claus.

The role of Simple Simon will be played by Bobby Vernon, another newcomer. Besides playing a leading role, Vernon will be seen with his dancing partner, Jessie Draper, in several dance specialties. The pair have appeared in virtually every important city of the world. In the last three years Vernon also has taken juvenile roles on the legitimate stage. Among the New York productions in which he has been featured in character parts are Earl Carroll's "Sketch Book" and "The Great Waltz."

Municipal Opera's juvenile holiday would not be complete without a large number of local kiddies appearing on the stage, so some 50 St. Louis boys and girls will take part in singing and dancing numbers. One of their routines will be a march number, with the entire Municipal Opera chorus, similar to the "March of the Toys" in "Babes in Toyland" last year.

THE play opens on the wedding day of Jack Horner and Mazie Bon Bon. There is a general holiday and gay festivity. Margery Daw and Simple Simon are having the fun of their life, but not without arguments. Simon composes nursery rhymes which are not to her pleasure. Then in the midst of all the happiness enters wicked Machevalius Fudge, dealer in black art and curses, who casts gloom across all the gaiety. He has come to find the Princess Sugar Plum, whom he has changed into a most tempting plum at the order of her father's most bitter enemy.

Now, true to his character, Fudge has turned traitor and gone over to the side of the Princess' father, King Sugar Plum, who has sent the sorcerer to find his daughter. Through his magic Powers Fudge frightens Wondrous Wise, Simple Simon and Margery Daw into aiding him in his search for the Princess. He learns a baker's boy, Jack Horner, was about to eat the Princess while she was a plum in a pie, but the Good Fairy appeared in the nick of time and changed her back into a young girl, Mazie Bon Bon.

However in order for Fudge to return Bon Bon to her original self as Princess Sugar Plum, it is necessary for Jack Horner to place her in a pie. Therein Fudge encounters a blockade. But his cunning nature invents successful trickery. The sugar plum makers are on a strike. Fudge appears on the scene wth a sugar plum, which is actually a mesmerized Princess Sugar Plum. Jack is tricked into putting the plum into a pudding, which Fudge grabs and disappears with. Later, then, Bon Bon is changed into her real self.

JACK calls for help from the Good Fairy. She tells him he is the rightful King of Bunnland. His surly uncle had disposed of him and his father and usurped the throne. Then the Gingerbread Man comes to life in the window and joins the members of Santa Claus land in the search of Bon Bon. When she is found, Mazie does not remember her sweetheart or any of her friends, so effective has been Fudge's work. But like all good fairy tales, in the end it is learned the Gingerbread Man is actually Jack's father and he makes his son King of Bunnland. Jack marries Mazie and the two realms merge.

Art Director Raymond Sovey has opportunity in creating two giant scenes, which have the title of a Street in Santa Claus Land and the Dividing Line between the Realms of King Sugar Plum and King Bunn. Bright fairyland costumes will be worn by the characters and chorus. Municipal Opera's two dance directors have joined forces again to arrange an array of ballets and light dance routines.

Municipal Opera's final production of the current season will be the revival of Ziegfeld's stage masterpiece, "Show Boat." The musical play will open Monday night, Aug. 15 and will continue for two consecutive weeks, the final performance to be given Sunday night, Aug. 28. Several members of Ziegfeld companies are in the cast, including Norma Terris, star of "Bitter Sweet" and "Glamorous Night" at the Municipal Theater in 1936, who will take her own role of Magnolia, and Margaret Carlisle, prima donna star of "Virginia" this summer, who will be seen as Julie. Ronald Graham will sing the role of Ravenal and George Rasely will appear as Capt. Andy. Other members of the great cast are Helen Raymond, Joseph Macaulay, Jack Sheehan, Vicki Cummings, Al Downing, Earle MacVeigh, Minto Cato and Kenneth Spencer.

Film Houses Book New Season Shows

MARKING its fourteenth anniversary jubilee which starts next Friday, Loew's Theater is presenting a list of new season features which includes, first, "The Crowd Roars," starring Robert Taylor with Edward Arnold, Maureen O'Sullivan and Frank Morgan; "Too Hot to Handle," starring Clark Gable and Myrna Loy; "The Young in Heart," with Janet Gaynor and Douglas Fairbanks Jr.; "Boys Town," starring Spencer Tracy and Mickey Rooney; Luise Rainer and Fernand Gravet in "The Great Waltz"; "The Citadel," starring Robert Donat and Rosalind Russell; Jeanette MacDonald and Nelson Eddy in "Sweethearts"; Gary Cooper and Merle Oberon in "The Lady and the Cowboy," and "Three Loves Has Nancy," with Robert Montgomery, Janet Gaynor and Franchot Tone.

"Marie Antoinette," top production of all on Loew's list, will open a roadshow engagement at the Astor Theater, New York, on Aug. 16 and will be available to Loew's, at popular prices, about Aug. 26 or Sept. 2. Norma Shearer has the title role, with Tyrone Power and John Barrymore as her leading men.

While Loew's is running these shows, the Fanchon and Marco houses—Fox, Ambassador, Missouri and St. Louis—will have "Alexander's Ragtime Band," set to reopen the Fox on Aug. 19; "Gateway," with Arleen Whelan and Don Ameche; "The Texans," historical spectacle, featuring Randolph Scott and Joan Bennett; "The Amazing Dr. Clitterhouse," starring Edward G. Robinson; the Edgar Bergen-Charlie McCarthy feature comedy, "Letter of Introduction"; Sonja Henie in "My Lucky Star," Jane Withers in "Keep Smiling," Kay Francis in "My Bill"; "Give Me a Sailor," musical comedy with Martha Raye and Bob Hope; Deanna Durbin and Jackie Cooper in "That Certain Age"; the Ritz Brothers in "Straight, Place and Show"; Richard Dix and Chester Morris in "Sky Giant"; George Raft, Henry Fonda and Dorothy Lamour in "Spawn of the North" and later "Care Free," the new Astaire-Rogers musical, the Marx Brothers in "Room Service" and the screen version of "Boy Meets Girl," with James Cagney, Pat O'Brien and Marie Wilson.

Fredric March Again Planning Stage Role

With his role in the comedy "There Goes My Heart," completed Fredric March will next report to the Walter Wanger studio for his final screen appearance of the year. That engagement finished, he and Florence Eldridge (Mrs. March) will apply themselves intensively to finding a play in which they plan to appear on the New York stage in the late fall or early winter.

Although reading plays has been one of March's duties when away from the studios for some time, no definite choice of a vehicle has yet been made.

In the future March plans to limit his picture-making activities to two productions each year, to be made in the summer, when his son and daughter are not in school. This will leave the star's year open for footlight engagements, preferably only one play a year, in which Mrs. March will play opposite him, during the winter and spring months. They were together in the short-lived "Yr. Obedient Husband," last winter.

Adventure in 'Algiers' Reveals Dazzling New Star

By Colvin McPherson

HOLLYWOOD saw and Hollywood liked a French picture melodrama called "Pepe le Moko," so Producer Walter Wanger acquired the property and remade it into an American movie called "Algiers," which is now at Loew's.

This second film is about the same fascinating character, a French jewel thief who lives a carefree life in the native quarter of the city of Algiers, called the Casbah. The police realize they can never capture Pepe le Moko in the Casbah but one native Inspector realizes that in time he will discover the lure that will lead Pepe to abandon security and venture forth. Then it will be Pepe's doom.

In "Algiers" this lure is a woman, a lovely Parisian tourist, played by a new actress from abroad named Hedy Lamarr. Hedy Lamarr, who, according to report, was born in Glasgow, Scotland, the daughter of an Austrian army officer and his American wife, married an Austrian millionaire, made a Czechoslovakian movie called "Ecstasy" and has been classified variously as Viennese, Czechoslovakian and Hungarian, has all the exotic qualities that the role requires.

Mark it down that here is not just another European "discovery" by assiduous talent-hunters. Hedy Lamarr is something to compare with Garbo or Pola Negri. Dazzlingly beautiful under the lens, she is also an actress, speaks good English and has the straight-forward, unaffected manner to her art that immediately fascinates. Hedy Lamarr is as thrilling as nine out of 10 girls were when we were 18 and that is saying something.

Is it any wonder, then, that poor Pepe le Moko follows her to the boat and is shot down by a bungling detective? Charles Boyer plays Pepe with his usual debonair, wistful and polite qualities. Joseph Calleia moves with the ease of a friendly leopard in his role as the Inspector who brings about Pepe's downfall. Gene Lockhart is the perfect picture of cowardly deceit as an informer, in one of the best supporting bits in 1938. Sigrid Gurie succeeds as Pepe's native sweetheart.

Director John Cromwell has kept the "colorful, sordid, dangerous" atmosphere of the Casbah throughout the picture and has preserved a flow of action that makes the time pass quickly and the events seem natural.

Some persons may be disturbed, on first viewing the picture, by finding so many characteristics of American gangsterism in Pepe's little band. Death to the accompaniment of a nickel piano is not new, nor is a bit of juggling by one of the thief's lieutenants. But American movies, including "Scarface," surely have had time to reach Algiers and since it is admitted that American movies set so many styles, perhaps adoption of these methods is understandable. It couldn't be that Hollywood has a one-track mind, when it comes to screen play writing.

"City Streets," in which Loew's reveals an American counterpart of the Casbah, is not about thieves and tourists, however, but about a dear, dear Italian grocer named Leo Carrillo and a poor little prima donna with braces on her legs, named Edith Fellows. Sentimental Leo is a sap for poor little girls who can't walk so he sells the grocery store, pays for an operation and finally gets terribly sick with pneumonia, delirium and a bad cold. That does the trick. Edith has just got to walk then.

Little Miss Broadway.

SOME of us old-timers, who remember when Shirley was just breaking into picture business, may have wondered, in the passage of the years, what direction her talents would take. Gifted with great versatility, she seemed to have many avenues open to her. With the arrival of "Little Miss Broadway" at the Ambassador, the question is all the more perplexing.

Instead of tapering off to three or four theatrical arts—singing, dancing or tearful drama—she adds other abilities.

When Shirley is adopted out of an orphans' home into a hotel inhabited by unemployed vaudeville entertainers, she immediately becomes interested in their welfare. She therefore qualifies for a future W P A director, in the depression of 1968. When the owner of the hotel, Edna May Oliver, decides to close it, Shirley takes her penny bank over to pay the rent. That shows an instinct for the office of treasurer.

Edna May has the child taken back to the orphanage, from which Shirley escapes on a rope made of sheets. She could list that as experience in asking for a job as fireman. And, finally, when young George Murphy is about to be deprived of his fortune by Aunt Edna May, Shirley pleads his case in court. Lawyer, Congressman, President of the United States, maybe.

Yet it would not surprise me, seeing how husky the kid has grown, to hear of her chucking it all for a career as weight-lifter.

Along with the Shirley Temple decathlon, "Little Miss Broadway" contains events for other players. George Murphy dances in several routines with the star, Jimmy Durante, El Brendel, the Brian Sisters, give aid, even a pet penguin figures in for a bit of entertainment. The feature has more for the mass audience than any Temple picture in a long time.

Harold Lloyd's "Professor Beware" is typical of his style—mad chases on every type of conveyance, silly prissiness of the character he plays and a daffy romance with a pretty girl. Although the entire show is greatly enjoyed by children in the audience, the most amusing scenes for adults are those in which Lloyd hides a stolen chicken under his coat while riding with a rural Sheriff and the finale, in which he incites riot by slapstick insults.

Call of the Yukon.

THE FAR NORTH, as represented in "Call of the Yukon," at the St. Louis is strangely convincing. The snow looks real, an avalanche is exciting, the breaking-up of the ice in the river occupies an important section of the story. As expected, there is a wild dog of great intelligence and the rivalry of two men, Richard Arlen and Lyle Talbot, over one girl, Beverly Roberts. A pair of bear cubs in the film get as fine an audience reaction as the principals. A fight between the cubs and an owl is most unusual.

"Men Are Such Fools" is the St. Louis' other feature. Priscilla Lane, best-looking of the many Lane sisters, teams with Wayne Morris as a husband and wife who cannot decide they like each other until she is sailing for Paris, in the last reel.

"White Banners," in which Fay Bainter makes a notable contrbition for the year 1938 as a philosophical housemaid, and "Cowboy From Brooklyn," in which Dick Powell is funnier than ever before, continue, at the Missouri. An issue of "The March of Time," added this week, discusses the United States Coast Guard, giving an object lesson in how it operates against smugglers.

Introduced in London in 1930 and played by Coward and Gertrude Lawrence in New York in 1931, "Private Lives" is the story of a husband and wife who have been divorced, marry other persons and then find they really love each other, or at least love fighting with each other. In the picture version of 1931, Norma Shearer and Robert Montgomery were starred.

Looking Back, Broadway Sees a Great Year Ahead

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Aug. 6.

ALTHOUGH there are not, quite yet, frost upon the pumpkin, ticket speculators swaggering along Broadway or other signs that the new theatrical season is on, producers are beginning to ready their new plays and musical comedies for the first curtain three weeks from now.

Last season was a profitable one and the Broadway impresarios are looking to the forthcoming one as profitable because of last season. That is the logic of Broadway impresarios, just the reverse of the thoughts of the penguins in that famous Fred Allen Arctic Circle act where the formally attired birds came strutting on stage walking backwards.

"They're not interested in where they're going," explained Fred. "They just want to know where they've been."

So the producers are at the moment in a dither signing stars, playwrights, theaters and practically every other accessory of the theater, excepting pay checks, for the season that is about to begin.

George Abbott, who is a triple-threat actor-playwright-producer, has eschewed the summer theaters and mused in his Fifth Avenue offices all summer while preparing the musical comedy version of Shakespeare's "The Comedy of Errors," which he will have in rehearsal hardly before the sun goes down.

Rodgers and Hart are almost in their final version of the musical score for the show and if you perhaps faintly recall those two, they wrote "Thou Swell" and "My Heart Stood Still," among their scores of other musical comedy hit songs, and you can brood upon the fact that a pair of lyrical English grammarians who wrote the song called "Thou Swell" are also writing a score for Shakespeare.

All in all, the managerial end of Broadway looks promising at this slight prelude to the new season. Jed Harris says he has a dozen new plays he likes and undoubtedly will present six of them.

The new playwrights group, a section of dramatists who are going to produce their own plays, will have an active season in this, their first one. Elmer Rice will drop his dramatic chores for a moment to stage the first one, written by Robert E. Sherwood, a drama about young Abraham Lincoln. Raymond Massey, a Canadian-born actor who has a strong physical resemblance to Lincoln will have the title role. This is Rice's first open effort as a director, but he has directed the productions of many of his own hit plays.

Another new Broadway producing firm has been organized by Alex Yokel and George Jessel. They plan to present three new plays. Yokel and Jessel first met in 1925 when Jessel was starred in "The Jazz Singer" and Yokel was press agent for that show.

After that Jessel went to Hollywood, married Norma Talmadge and now he is back as a producer. Yokel quit being a press agent to produce the horse race comedy, "Three Men on a Horse," which made him a young fortune.

—o-o—

THE ancient although friendly feud between the New York and London theaters over interchange of actors is aptly illustrated in the situation of the Broadway stage at the moment.

Of the nine performers who may be ranked in the star class and who are currently highlighted in the shows which are surviving the summer heat, only three of them were born in the United States.

There are only six dramas and two musicals now open and in the top musical hit, "I Married an Angel," three of the four stars are foreign born. Dennis King was born in England, Walter Slezak in Vienna and Vera Zorina, of Norwegian parentage, in Berlin. The fourth star, Vivienne Segal, is a red-haired Philadelphia operetta singer who is proving in this show that she is also a fine comedienne.

Henry Travers, who heads the cast of the still continuing 1937 Pulitzer prize play, "You Can't Take It With You," was born in England. Dudley Digges, who was born in Dublin, Ireland, is being starred for the first time in his long career in "On Borrowed Time."

Frederick Leister, who is now playing the lead in "Bachelor Born," was born in London and he is soon returning there to play the Dudley Digges role in the British production of "On Borrowed Time."

Of the other two Americans being currently starred, James Barton in "Tobacco Road" was born in Gloucester, N. J., and Frank Craven, who presides as the kindly commentator in the 1938 Pulitzer prize winner, "Our Town," was born in Boston.

—o-o—

LONDON, too, has been getting its share of American stars this season. A second company of American actors has just been shipped to Piccadilly to replace in "Golden Boy" the first American company which is being returned here to fulfill previously signed contracts.

Peggy Wood, who was born in Brooklyn, has just returned to her Connecticut estate after singing the leading role in the London run of Noel Coward's new musical extravaganza, "Operette."

Alfred Lunt and Lynn Fontanne have closed their engagement in "Amphitryon 38" in London. Miss Fontanne was born in England, while Lunt is a native of Milwaukee.

British restrictions on American actors working in London are much more severe than the rules governing the working of British actors on the Broadway stage.

That may be due, perhaps, to the fact that on Piccadilly it is the British Home Office that dictates whether or not American stars can work there, while the United States Government demands that British and other alien actors must only satisfy the usual immigration regulations. Here, it is Actors' Equity Association, the actors' union, that says how frequently and how long an alien actor can work on these shores.

The British restrictions in this matter is, in brief, that any American or other alien star playing a role on the London stage can do so only because he is particularly fitted for the part and there is no British actor who can satisfactorily substitute.

Actors' Equity Association has long kept a fairly firm control on the working of alien actors on Broadway. In recent seasons, however, they have become more lenient in their viewpoint when it became evident that some British stars in Broadway plays who had exceeded their time limit could, by their personal popularity, keep plays running and, thereby, their supporting cast of American actors employed.

Actors alone, however, benefit from any reciprocal relations between the two nations, since tastes in dramatic entertainment differ widely on the two sides of the Atlantic. Plays that are big successes in London are too frail for Broadway and New York's comedy hit, "You Can't Take It With You," failed miserably on the other side last winter.

LINTON H. WELLS, who has returned to New York from a 20,000-mile trip through Central and South America during which he interviewed diplomats and newspaper men for the Sunday Magic Key programs, reports that whenever he listened to short wave broadcasting south of the Rio Grande, he found considerable intefrefence by European stations with United States station's programs. The short wave broadcasts most often heard in Latin-America are those from Germany and that this is due mainly to the strength of the German signals, Wells says.

"Both Italy and Russia broadcast to South America," Wells said, "but not as clearly as Germany. Latin American listeners would like to listen to American programs if they could get them without interference. But I came across one instance when President Roosevelt was making a speech during which a German station came in with a piano recital on the same wave length and continued there until the President had finished when the recital went off the air." Wells declared that if democratic ideals were to be preserved in the Western Hemisphere, it was essential that such interference cease and the Latin American audience be allowed to hear programs from the United States.

Construction of a 50,000-watt station in the New Brunswick has been started by the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation, and a similar station will be erected near Saskatoon. The stations will be hooked up with the 50,000-watters built last year at Toronto and Montreal.

A woman has been appointed chief announcer of the new 1000-watt short wave station erected by the Italian Government at Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, which is being equipped to use 5000 watts power. She is Signora Luisa Gasparini. For several years, the best known announcer on the Italian stations was Lisa Sergio, who now is announcing for the NBC and serving as mistress of ceremonies and consultant on programs designed for reception in Italy.

Informal Social Events for Guests At Harbor Beach

Harbor Beach, Mich, Aug. 6.

INASMUCH as all the cottagers at Harbor Beach take their meals at the central clubhouse, one of the favorite ways of entertaining is the giving of dessert and coffee parties after dinner.

Such a party was given by Mrs. Ernest Richard Kroeger last Saturday night at the club in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Hord Hardin, who arrived from St. Louis that day and have rented the Hamilton cottage for the rest of the season. All the resorters were invited to meet Mr. and Mrs. Hardin and to remain for bridge at the Casino or dancing at the clubhouse. Mrs. James M. Sloan, Mrs. William N. Claggett, Warren Chandler, Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Sparks and Mrs. Frederick R. Peters were among the St. Louisans invited. After dinner a group of the younger set gathered at the home of Miss Jean Anderson of Detroit for a Tom Collins party before the dance. Miss Betty Fitz-Gerald, Miss Eleanor McCarthy, Peter Clarke and John Brodhead Jr., who motored here from Pointe Aux Barques, were among the guests.

Sunday night the same group was entertained by Peter Clarke and William Breed of Stockbridge, Mass., at a steak supper. The party drove to the old "haunted" house near Port Hope, 10 miles from Harbor Beach, set up grills and broiled steaks successfully despite a drizzling rain.

Sunday morning Mrs. Donald Danforth and three of her children, Billy, Donald Jr. and Dorothy, left by motor for Sunlight Ranch, Cody, Wyo., to spend August. Mr. and Mrs. Danforth's youngest child and nurse returned to St. Louis.

Among the enthusiastic young dancers are Carol and Philip Smith Jr., Frances Brodhead, Terry Shepley, Alby Horton and Tommy Toberman, all escorted by parents, brothers or sisters who return for the dance for grownups at 9:30 o'clock.

Shepley, celebrated hers with a hayride, to which were invited her guest, Miss Jacqueline Stevens of Grosse Pointe, Mich., Robert Whittemore Knapp Jr., Janet, William and Bud Brodhead and a large group of Detroit friends. Mexican Theme for Mid-Summer Party

THE Mid-Summer Frolic Association celebrated its fifth anniversary last night at Mexicana, title of this summer's frolic, on the lawn of Harry Langenberg's home, 49 Westmoreland place.

Guests stayed from 9 to 4 o'clock this morning to dance the rumba to the music of a Negro orchestra. Paper lanterns in red, green and white, Mexican colors, lighted the garden, and Mexican flags were put up. Venetian Boat Parade on Charlevoix Lakes

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., Aug. 6.

A SPECTACULAR Venetian boat parade, colored lanterns gleaming and flags flying on 50 participating yachts and cabin cruisers, was held Monday night on Lake Charlevoix. The largest boat, on which a 30-piece orchestra played, led the parade from the Coast Guard Station on Lake Michigan, where it formed, into Round Lake, past hotels and cottages and into Lake Charlevoix, and ended on Round Lake where the boats anchored in fan-shaped formation as a finale. Each boat carried merrymakers not only from Charlevoix but nearby North Michigan resorts, who sang and danced as the procession sailed on.

Simultaneously on shore a carnival was held. Cabanas were lantern-lit, numerous beach suppers were held, and amusement and refreshment stands set up.

The Ironton Players presented Dracula, featuring Vincent Donahue, at their Playhouse Tuesday night. Several dinner parties preceded the performance, and Lake Charlevoix was filled with visiting yachts transporting spectators from other resorts.

Dunes Club Events Attract St. Louisans

Narragansett, R. I., Aug. 6.

THE Dunes Club, about which much of the social life of this resort centers, is having one of its most successful seasons. Resorters participate in weekly backgammon tournaments, a series of swimming meets and dinner dances, and are anticipating a Gay Nineties ball Aug. 20, all sponsored by a sports and activities committee which includes several St. Louisans. Several Dutch treat dinner parties were given at the club tonight.

In addition, a program of sports events and entertainment for children of the colony has been prepared by David Adair. Last week's events included a children's circus in the inclosure of the Point Judith Polo Club, at which Claire Ann Werner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. Werner, as "barker" introduced the performers. Sally Busch, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Adolphus Busch III, participated in peasant garb.

Next Saturday, at the Dunes Club pool, a water carnival will be given, in which the young people will compete in swimming and diving events, with "The Sea Queen and the Seven Sharks," a burlesque on Snow White, as a special attraction. Other children's activities include swimming instruction at the pool, and golf, tennis and softball competition at Point Judith Country Club, yachting instruction in the "Cape Cod Knockabout," and picnics and field days to historical points in South County.

Mr. and Mrs. John A. Aid have joined her sister, Mrs. Robert J. B. Sullivan, at Seafield Cottage, and Tuesday night, Mrs. Sullivan's brother-in-law, J. Banigan Sullivan, will give a large dinner party in their honor at his home, Carrickadooey, on Ocean road.

Mrs. Adolphus Busch has with her at Overcliffe Mrs. W. A. Greene of Birmingham and Dallas. This week-end they will accompany Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Wooster Lambert on a short cruise to Watch Hill, R. I., on board the Lambert yacht.

Bolton Landing, N. Y., Aug. 6.

ANDREW W. His daughter, Miss Jane, is entered in several events, as is Gloria Mae Bixby, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Church Bixby.

A gay pre-horse show party was a masquerade, given Thursday night in the French Village grill of the Sagamore Hotel, at which the St. Louis colony was represented by Miss Nancy Stevens, Miss Martha and Miss Stella Bixby and William Niedringhaus, who is spending the summer here with his mother, Mrs. Helen Johnson Niedringhaus.

A tennis tea was given at the lakeside home of Mrs. James L. Hand of New York for the committee in charge of the eighth annual Sagamore invitation tennis tournament, to be held Aug. 10 to 14. Miss Martha Bixby, who has participated every year, is in charge of the courts.

Mrs. Ir A. Stevens has returned from Colorado Springs, Colo., where she visited her son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh H. C. Weed Jr., and their young son, born Aug. 2. She made the trip by airplane.

Among the portraits to be exhibited will be those of Mrs. Stevens and her daughters; Miss Martha Bixby and Miss Stella Bixby, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. William H. Bixby; Mrs. W. B. SAN FRANCISCO HAS VARIETY OF SCENERY

San Francisco and the surrounding territory of Central and Northern California offer the traveler every variety of scenery, amusement and general interest. From San Francisco radiates 100,000 square miles of mountain and valley, lake and river, modern highway and mountain trail, busy modern cities and old Spanish missions, gigantic, centuries old redwoods and rugged ocean coast.

San Francisco proper has many attractions for the traveler. There are old corners of the city like Chinatown, the largest gathering of Chinese outside of the Orient; the noted Japanese tea garden, in spacious Golden Gate Park; the quiet, but famous cafes tucked away on corners of its historic hills; The well-known Fishermen's Wharf with its riot of color and crowds of visitors; the clanging cable cars which pack millionaire and mechanic alike to the summit of Nob Hill for a breath-taking view of the city and the bay, and the parks and boulevards which enchant the visitor have new rivals for the favor of the visitor.

Two bridges, marvels of engineering skill, now span San Francisco Bay—the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge and the Golden Gate Bridge. The bay bridge to Oakland gives the visitor easy and comfortable access to the trans-bay cities, Sacramento and the Mother Lode gold country, California's four famous national parks—Lassen, Yosmite, Sequoia and General Grant, and the San Joaquin Valley. Modern and old California are seen in a few hours' journey when one drives from Sacramento into the Mother Lode country where ghost mining towns, winding mountain roads and placid mountain streams remove one from the speed and noise of city life. Immense groves of redwoods which have seen centuries of years and many generations of man pass set off the grandeur of the Sierra Nevada Mountains, where Mount Whitney, the highest point in the United States, rises to an elevation of 14,496 feet. Between these towering crests and San Francisco lies the fertile San Joaquin Valley which produces wine, cotton, oil, fruits and innumerable farm products which find a universal market.

Leads to Redwoods.

The Golden Gate Bridge is an avenue to the famous Redwood Empire stretching clear to and beyond the Oregon line. It contains a variety of scenery almost impossible of duplication. Vistas of redwoods cover 1,500,000 acres. Petrified forests, lakes, rivers, picturesque sea shore, colorful orchards and vineyards make a kaleidoscopic variety of natural scenic beauty.

In the San Francisco district are many points of interest which always attract visitors. These include the two noted universities—the University of California and Stanford University; Muir Woods and Mount Tamalpais; the huge dirigible base at Sunnyvale; two wooded and picturesque military reservations, and the busy trans-bay airport from which the famous air clippers fly to the Far East.

To San Francisco's immediate south lies Monterey Bay with its picturesque, cypress-studded coast line. Santa Cruz, Watsonville, Del Monte and Carmel are here. Poets, artists and writers have given Carmel its glamour.

Golf courses are numerous in San Francisco. The North offers winter sports. Football, American or soccer, is played all year round. Two race tracks, Bay Meadows and Tanforan, hold frequent meetings and can be reached in 30 minutes. Skiing enthusiasts can enjoy themselves in many directions. Fine bowling greens are always crowded in Golden Gate Park. Public tennis courts are liberally patronized.

STATE OF ILLINOIS HAS FINE PARKS

Nauvoo, One-Time Mormon Stronghold, to Be State Park —Black Hawk Recreational Area.

Plans for the establishment of a State park at Nauvoo, one-time stronghold of the Mormons in the Middle West, are under way by the State of Illinois Planning Commission. Several tracts of land have been assembled by the people of the town and are being offered as a nucleus of the proposed park.

One hundred years ago the Mormons emigrated to Illinois and one of the most important chapters in the history of Mormonism was unfolded at Nauvoo. It was during their stay here that the prophet Joseph Smith was assassinated at Carthage, 20 miles away, and the leadership of the church passed to Brigham Young.

Nauvoo witnessed the organization of the secret police force charged with innumerable crimes of violence from the time of its organization as "Brigham's Destroying Angels" until long after the founding of Salt Lake City.

Nauvoo is not the only point of interest which has been taken over in the park-planning program. New Salem, the home of Lincoln, has been restored; Fort Chartres, site of the old French fort on the Mississippi, Vandalia Statehouse, and Fort Kaskaskia have been restored in a measure.

Oldest Recreational Area.

Black Hawk State Park is said to be the oldest recreational area in the Middle West. No evidence of its use for any other purpose has been discovered and even in prehistoric times it is said to have been the scene of competitive games and ceremonials by Indian tribes.

Its terrain is doubtless responsible for this. Five ridges, the highest one rising 75 feet above Rock River, provide a commanding view of the surrounding countryside, and, in the day of the Indian, afforded protection against surprise attacks by hostile tribes, so necessary to permit the relaxed vigilance which enabled them to devote themselves to their games and ceremonies.

It was the custom of the Indians to set aside certain areas for ceremonial use, which were used for that purpose exclusively. This preserved the record of its use for recreational purposes unbroken until the advent of the white man. The primary interest of the early settlers was the location of fertile farm land. The ridges, ravines, and rock formations of what is now Black Hawk State Park made its cultivation impracticable. Later, it again came into use for recreational purposes as the scene of picnics and festive gatherings of residents of nearby towns.

It received its name from its association with the famous Indian Chief, Black Hawk, the last to dispute the passage of the white man through the lands of his forefathers. Here it was that he held his vigil to keep informed of the movements of the troops who had taken the field against him in his final desperate effort to wipe out the settlers, over 100 years ago.

The area became known in the surrounding region as Black Hawk's Watch Tower, or simply "The Watch Tower." When it was taken over by the State the name Black Hawk was preserved. The old Indian trails, worn smooth by the footsteps of countless mocassined feet, are now well-marked trails. On top of Watch Tower Hill is a new stone museum building, housing the famous Haugberg collection of Indian relics.

PANAMA MELTING POT

From the day of its discovery, the Isthmus of Panama has played an important part in the development of the American continent. In the early days of the "Conquistadores" it was the base from which Francisco Pizarro and many others set out to conquer the great Southern country, while today the Panama Canal facilitates commercial and cultural interchange between the Western hemisphere and the old world.

Panama is one of the most cosmopolitan countries in the world. Under its blue sky and stimulated by its mild climate, people of all races thrive, thus converting the Isthmus into the melting pot of modern civilization.

Rich in historical tradition, the tourist finds in this wonderful country all the romance of the old world. Traces of the visits of such adventurers as Vasco Nunez de Balboa, discoverer of the Pacific Ocean; Francisco Pizarro, conqueror of Peru; Sir Francis Drake, Sir Walter Raleigh, Henry Morgan and many other celebrated explorers of past centuries are to be found on the Isthmus.

THE PEOPLE VOTE

POLITICAL bosses took a bad licking in the Democratic primaries in St. Louis and Missouri Tuesday. Tom Pendergast's man, Judge James V. Billings, lost to Judge James M. Douglas by 125,000 votes for State Supreme Court nomination. And in St. Louis Mayor Dickmann's Circuit Clerk candidate, John J. Dwyer, lost the nomination to H. Sam Priest, who ran on his business-like record as incumbent.

Pendergast, Democratic boss of Kansas City for years and of Missouri for the last six years, and his organization spent several hundred thousand dollars to turn back Governor Stark, who supported Douglas.

The victory of Priest, backed by the anti-Dickmannites, and the simultaneous success of Governor Stark in his contest with Pendergast brought discussion of possible new combinations of state and city politics. The Mayor's defeat was accentuated by loss of two bond issues.

Photographs on this page are of the primary in St. Louis. The fight on the bosses with many Republicans voting Democratic resulted in the largest vote ever cast here in a Democratic primary.

OCEAN IN MINIATURE

Expedition boat of Marine Studios, St. Augustine, Florida. It has a built-in well for transportation of giant sea specimens.

THE most unusual aquarium in the United States opened last month at Marine Studios, 18 miles south of St. Augustine, Florida. Two tanks contain live specimens of giant fish that were drugged before transport from their native haunts. Now the fish live in "Oceans in Miniature," where an attempt is made to duplicate conditions existing in the open sea.

Sharks, seals, porpoises, penguins and barracuda have been placed in the aquarium. Visitors watch through 200 portholes. An important part of the $500,000 structure is the only motion picture studio designed especially for filming underwater scenes. Chairman of the Board of Marine Studios is Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney.

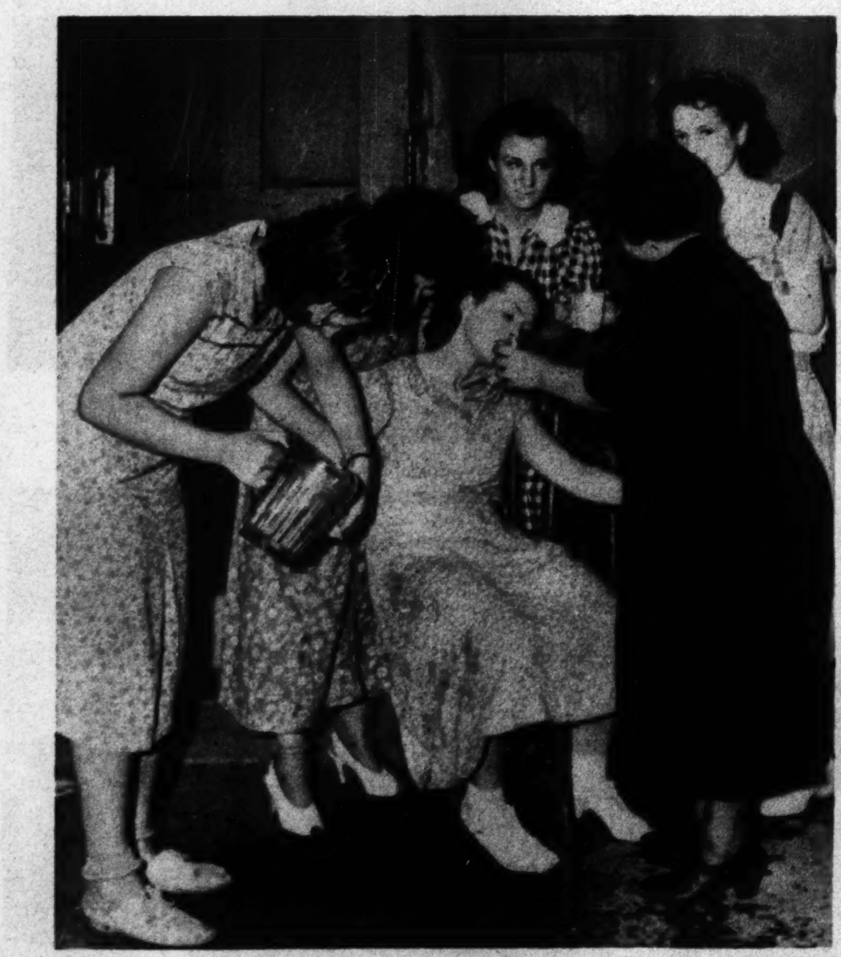
PEARL WHITE, daredevil star of the old silent movie serials, heroine of a thousand breath-taking adventures, died Thursday in Paris of a liver ailment. Adult movie-goers found it hard to believe that the star of "Perils of Pauline," the actress who had dropped from burning houses into sewers, who had driven autos over cliffs, who had provided so many tense moments in nickelodeons, was really dead. Born in Green Ridge, Missouri, Pettis County village of about 300 persons, she had picked strawberries, sold papers, worked in a circus, and finally earned enough in silent films to spend the last 15 years in retirement. She was 49 years old.

Strange Case of Mass Hysteria



This girl is coming out of her swoon, under the ministrations of fellow workers. Heat was eliminated as the cause of the faintings.

A GIRL working in a paper factory in New York City fainted the other day. Whereupon six more girls promptly swooned. Restorative measures were applied, and in a short time they were back at work. The explanation given for the faintings was mass hysteria, one of the strange phenomena of crowd psychology. Practically the same thing happened in a garment factory there recently. A girl worker screamed, other workers became excited. Six fainted before the "epidemic" was over. Last May, in Wilmington, North Carolina, five high school boys fainted, probably from heat and fatigue, in an R. O. T. C. parade. After seeing the boys collapse, 100 girls had hysterics, some of them losing consciousness. One of the largest demonstrations attributed to hysteria was the collapse of 400 workers in a French sugar refinery at Lille last year.

THE twice-married Sultan Ibrahim of Johore, reputedly one of the wealthiest Malay potentates, if not among the richest men in the world, has a new girl friend. She is Miss Lydia Cecilia Hill, former cabaret girl, who recently returned to her home in Kent, England, from a visit to the Sultan, wearing a diamond ring on the third finger of her left hand, diamonds sparkling in her ears.

She is 24 years old, the Sultan 64. In June the Sultan declined an invitation to a party in Singapore in celebration of King George's birthday. Instead he took Miss Hill to see the movie, "Her Jungle Love."

Only last March the Sultan divorced his Scottish wife, the former Mrs. Helen Wilson, by the native custom of repeating four times the word "talak" (get out). She got out with an allowance of $25,000 a year and $225,000 in jewelry.

Sultan Ibrahim rules a semi-independent state near Singapore. It is a protectorate of the British Empire, population 2,000,000 persons. His income is from rubber plantations.

Proud Father of 26th Child at 82

Mrs. Edith Williams Boarman and her infant son.

TO MRS. EDITH WILLIAMS BOARMAN, 21 years old, an eight-pound boy was born last Sunday at a hospital in Washington, D. C. Mrs. Boarman's husband is George Boarman, 82-year-old night watchman.

The new baby, he says, is the twenty-sixth child he has fathered. The first 25 were borne by his first wife. His second wife was childless. Edith is his third wife. He married her last September, while working on her father's farm in Charles County, Maryland. "I didn't like to see her working in the fields," he explains.

Boarman is elated at the arrival of Herbert—that's the name he and his wife have chosen. He says he has lived an honest life, doesn't drink or smoke, and is "kind to his fellow man."

He says he had "18 or 20" brothers and sisters. This indefiniteness is lacking in Boarman's pronouncement on another aspect of domesticity: "Life isn't worth living," he says, "unless you're married."

The Soviet-Japanese situation at a glance.

The Soviet army is said to be the most highly mechanized in Europe. Thirty tanks like these were hurled into an assault at Shachofeng.

AFTER five days of bitter fighting last week on the Siberia-Korea-Manchoukuo border southwest of Vladivostok, military observers began to fear that a long-dreaded Japanese-Russian war had begun in earnest. Heavy artillery, tanks and bombing planes battled in disputed territory at Shachofeng and Changkufeng following Soviet refusal to withdraw from a hill which Russian troops fortified July 11.

Both sides claimed victory, said they had inflicted heavy losses. And both blandly maintained they were merely defending their territory and had no intention of carrying on a large-scale war. Some commentators asserted that neither was in a position to fight the other, and hoped it was only a repetition, on a larger scale, of dozens of border skirmishes that have flared since Japan invaded Manchuria in 1931.

The Soviet Eastern army in recent years has been highly mechanized and increased to 500,000 highly trained men. A great fleet of submarines and planes are stationed at the Vladivostok base, only four hours' flying time from Tokio and Osaka. The Trans-Siberian Railroad has been double tracked. New industrial, munition and agricultural centers have been established in the Far East to support the army.

Japan has held a half million of her best troops in reserve along the Manchoukuan border since she began the war with China a year ago.

A Movie Comeback at 17

NANCY KELLY

NANCY KELLY is a newcomer in Hollywood, yet she is a veteran of the movies, having appeared as a child star in 52 pictures made in the East. At 4 she worked as a model for advertising agencies and became known as one of America's most photographed children. She is now 17. Her acting in "Susan and God," a hit last season on Broadway, brought the screen contract. Radio listeners have heard her on the "March of Time" broadcasts in roles ranging from Freddie Bartholomew to Princess Juliana. She is five feet five inches tall, weighs 113 pounds and has brown eyes and hair. Her father is a ticket broker, her mother a former actress.

Half a Man—But He Supports Himself

BORN without arms, legs or hips, Pierre Mathieu is less than half a man but he makes a living for himself and his father, not by exhibiting himself, but by his skill as a toymaker. He now is 60 years old and has been working profitably since he was 12. This extraordinarily brave man, who is just head and torso, lives at Terte de Carentoir, a hamlet in the old province of Brittany, France. His father, 84 years old, other relatives and neighbors assist Pierre Mathieu in doing things that usually call for hands and feet. The toymaker's teeth are his hands. Skillful and continued use of them has given him a neck and a jaw much stronger than those of many men with all their limbs. His handicaps have had no apparent effect on his mind or his outlook, relatives and friends say.

His day begins when a neighbor comes in to dress him, largely in a sort of bag.

The toymaker's day ends with him in his small bed under a sacred picture.

Where Are They Today? Celebrities Then and Now

Theda Bara is now Mrs. C. J. Brabin, wife of a movie director; they live in Beverly Hills in a domesticity which contrasts—

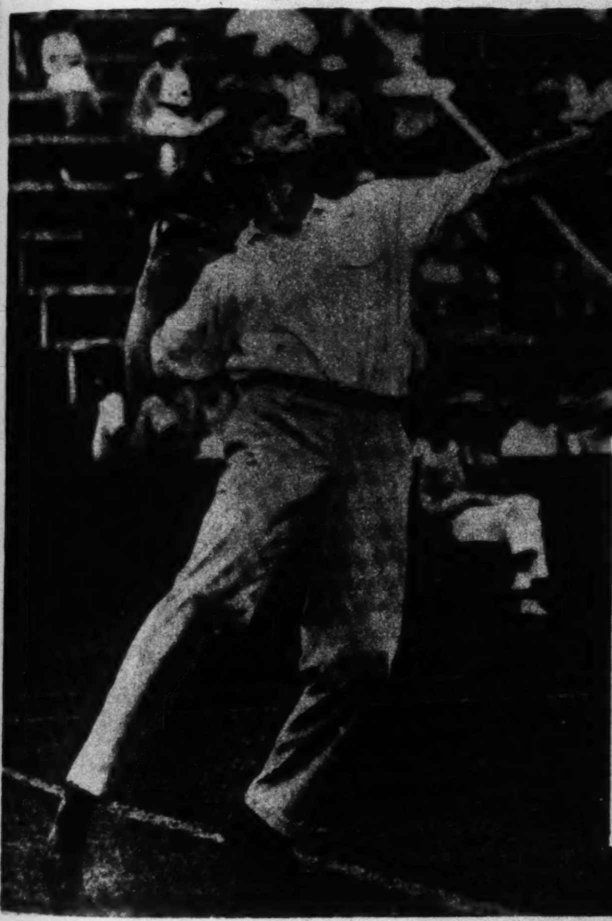
With the home-wrecking roles she played as the silent screen's most devastating vampire. She lured and ruined men in such pictures as "A Fool There Was."

Geraldine Farrar in 1920 (costumed as Zaza in the opera of that name) when she was a favorite of Metropolitan Opera audiences. She had beauty, shapeliness and charm as well as a lovely soprano voice.

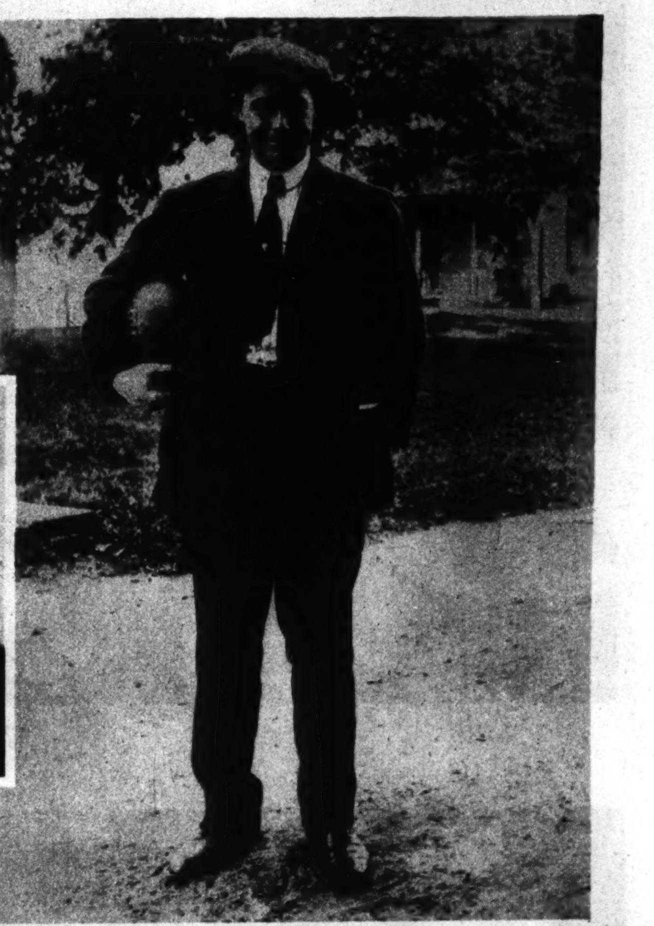
Now 56 years old, Miss Farrar, still handsome and charming, lives in graceful retirement on her country estate, Fairhaven, at Ridgefield, Connecticut, interested in her garden, the future of music, community affairs and many other things. She attends the opera regularly, serves as a director of the New England Conservatory of Music and is writing her autobiography, "Such Sweet Compulsion."

William S. (Bill) Hart making a characteristic play with twin shootin' irons in the days when he was packing movie houses and mowing down screen miscreants in his roles as a strong, silent but deadly gentleman of the Old West; and as he may be seen today at his ranch, Hill of the Winds, at Newhall, California, where it pleases him to live and dress the part of an old-time rancher.

CELEBRITY comes, and for a few days or a few years a name is seen and heard everywhere. Celebrity passes, and the name fades out of current use, and presently someone says, "I wonder what ever became of So-and-so." PICTURES here shows what has become of some American notables.

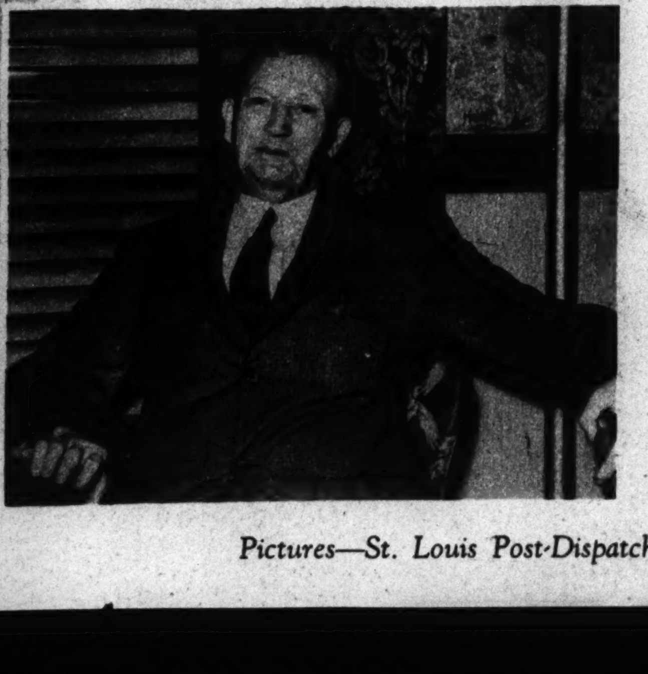


Maurice McLoughlin, national tennis champion in 1913 and 1914, delivering his famous "cannonball" service, a spectacular feature of the "California Comet's" aggressive, smashing type of play. McLoughlin nowadays (above, right) is in the real estate business in Pasadena. He has given up tennis, but plays an enviable game of golf, ordinarily getting around in low 70s. His son is coming along in tennis, heading the Pasadena Junior College team.

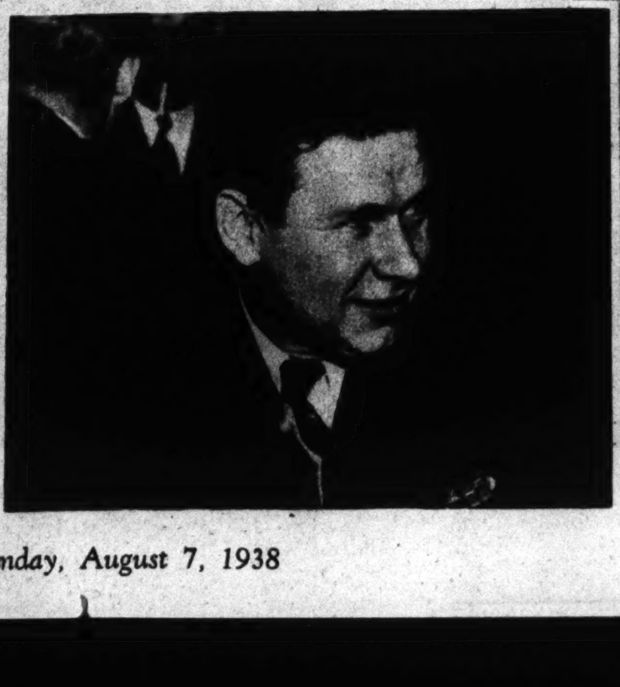


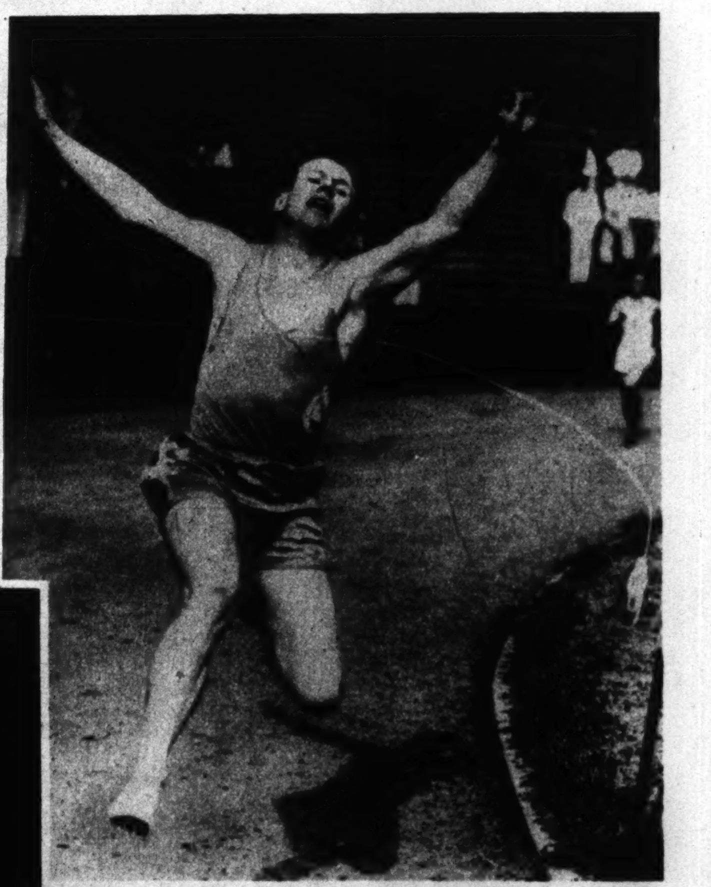
Fielding H. Yost (above, left) is director of athletics at the University of Michigan, and as such is still a familiar figure, of course, to those in touch with the university's affairs. But in 1905 (above) people all over the country were talking of him. He was "Hurry-up" Yost, coach of Michigan's "point-a-minute" football teams, which had a habit of burying opposing elevens under an avalanche of brawn, speed and strategy. Yost was head football coach from 1901 to 1923, inclusive, and in 1925 and 1926.

Peaches (Frances Heenan) Browning in 1926 when she was the 15-year-old, much publicized bride of the late Edward (Daddy) Browning, wealthy, elderly, eccentric New Yorker. The pet gander caused much amused comment, and inspired at least one comic song. At right, Peaches after her Reno divorce last fall from Bernard J. Hynes of Denver. Apparently having abandoned theatrical ambitions, she is seen frequently these days in the more glittering New York cafes; she inherited a good deal of money from Browning.
(Left, Associated Press Wirephoto)



Cy Young (above) in the days when he was making batters look silly as he piled up a pitching record of more than 500 victories, including three no-hit games, in 23 seasons in the major leagues. His service was with teams representing Cleveland, St. Louis (National League) and Boston. He retired in 1911. Now 71 (right), Denton Tecumseh Young has a pleasant job as "manager-greeter" for a Boston hotel; part of his work is to go to baseball games.





Charlie Paddock is publisher of the Long Beach (California) Press-Telegram and is currently interested in driving gamblers out of his town. He is married. Back in the '20s he was known as "the Fastest Human." The finish of a record-breaking 140-yard dash, above, shows him breasting the tape with his characteristic finish.

"Red" Lewis as Doremus Jessup.

SINCLAIR LEWIS GOES ON THE STAGE

In a scene in the Jessup home.

Jessup is taking in a glowing account of Corpo plans. Donald Cook (seated) is the local Corpo leader. George Beban Jr. is standing

SINCLAIR LEWIS has long been as famous among acquaintances for ability as a mimic, raconteur and conversationalist as he has been among the public for his novels. "Red" loves to talk and to argue. His anecdotes are really brilliant little comedy sketches because of his genius for characterization.

He has often put this ability to public use in his lectures. And two weeks ago he demonstrated it for the audience of the summer theater at Cohasset, Massachusetts, with his debut as an actor in a new version of "It Can't Happen Here," adapted from his novel. He played Doremus Jessup, Vermont editor who is broken by Fascism, and he got repeated curtain calls.

The play was greatly changed from the version offered in Federal theaters last year. Six scenes and many characters were eliminated. President Dictator "Buzz" Windrip was heard only as a voice over the radio. Actor Lewis was such a hit the play is being held over for another week beginning tomorrow.

In relative amounts of electricity per inhabitant, the United States is far ahead of Germany. Hitler's people have exactly twice as much as Mussolini's, and Stalin's people are quite a bit behind Italy.

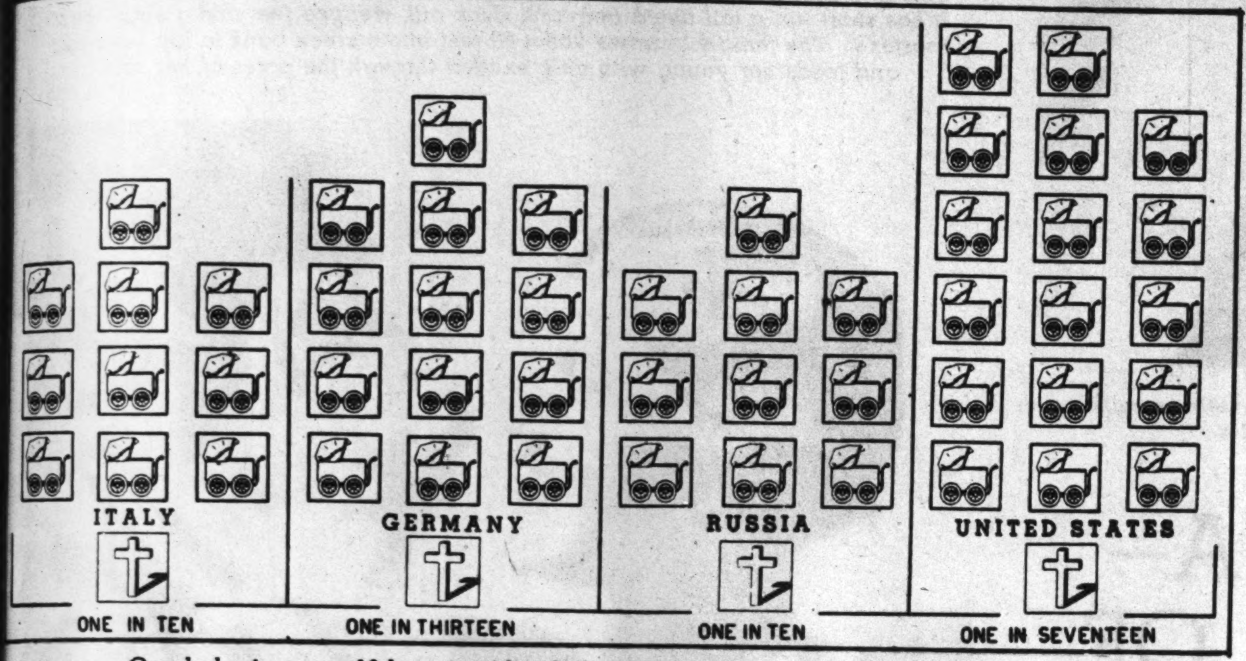
Comparing the Dictatorships and the United States

ON THE thesis that the one-party superstate, whether it be built on Fascism, Nazism or Russian Socialism, has a long way to go before it can show results comparable to those produced in the United States, M. E. Tracy, editor and publisher of "Current History," has written "Our Country, Our People, and Theirs." It has been published by the MacMillan Company. With official figures (in most cases) from the nations concerned, Tracy compares the United States with Germany, Italy and Russia. This comparison is made easy by means of charts, 11 of which are reproduced on this page.

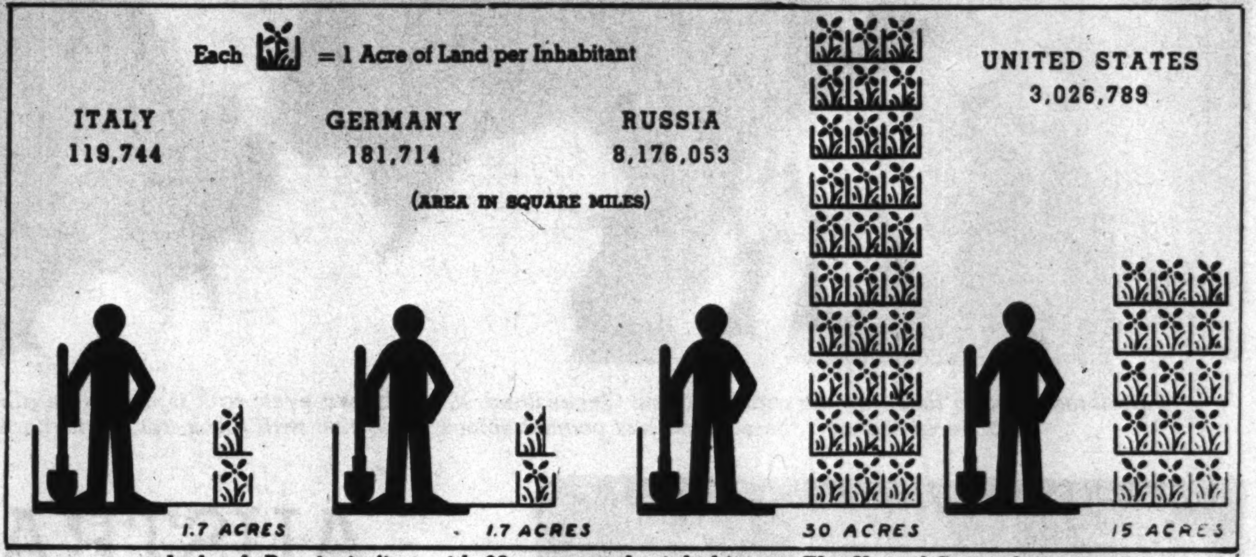
The author says that he hopes the facts, figures and information presented will help people to answer such questions on the superstate as: To what extent has it served the common good or promoted the common happiness of mankind more effectively? What have the people dwelling under it gained that we have lost? What have they surrendered that we would not willingly give up?

The basic idea, Tracy explains, is to offer such information as will give a reasonably clear picture of living conditions in all four countries, so the reader can think of himself as an inhabitant of any one of them; can visualize what he probably would earn in his trade or profession; what he would have to pay for commodities; what luxuries and conveniences he could enjoy; and what restrictions he would have to obey.

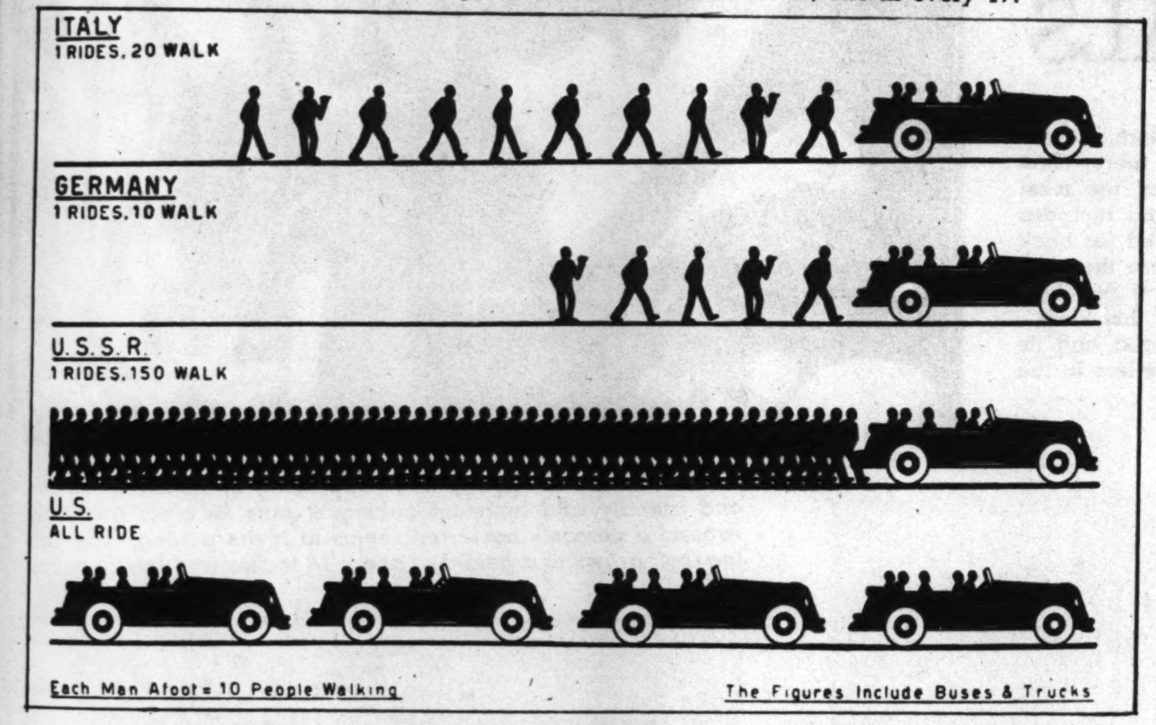
Each of the four countries has been treated as a home unit, colonies, dependencies and far off possessions being ignored.



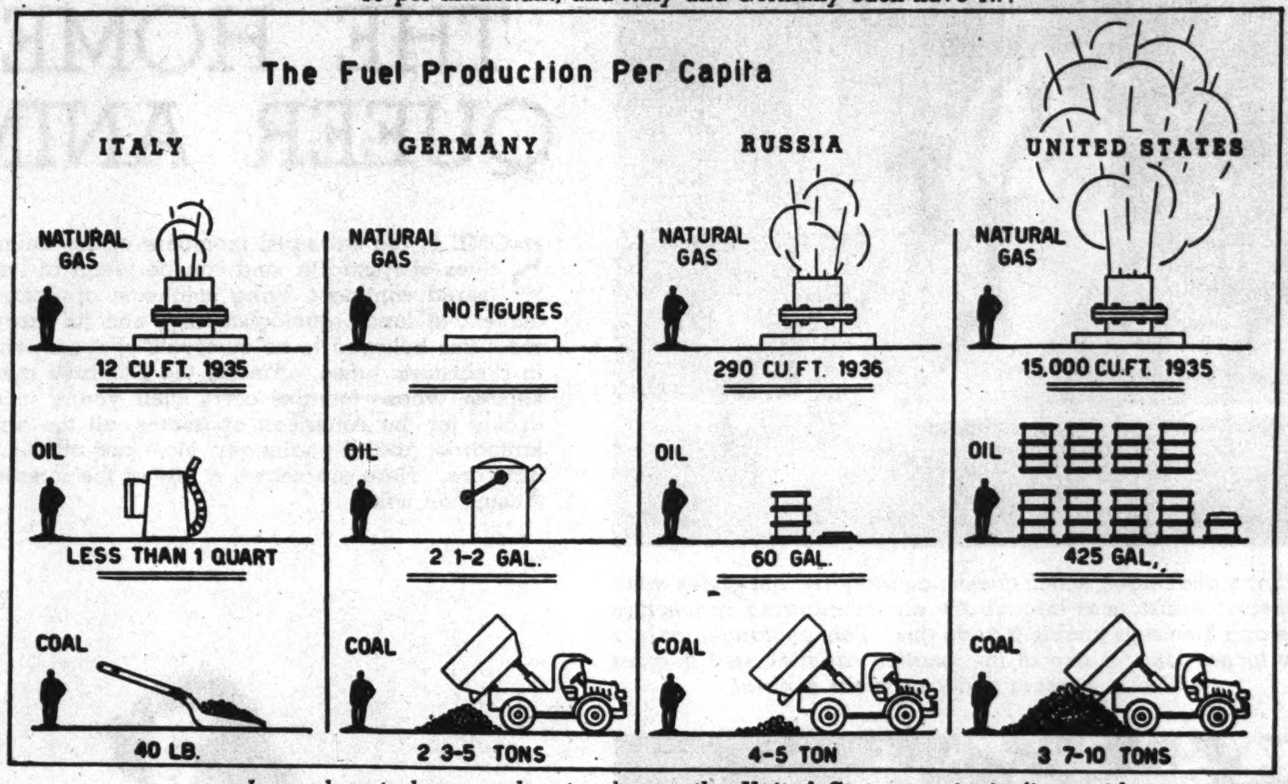
One baby in every 10 born in either Italy or Russia dies before it is a year old. In Germany it is one in every 13 and in the United States, one in every 17.



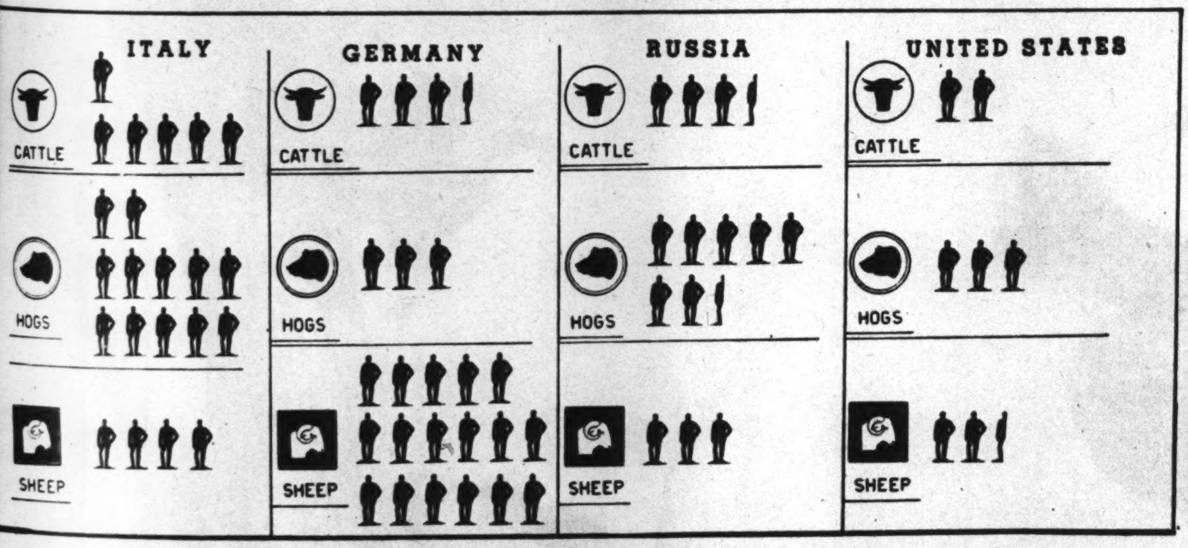
In land, Russia is first with 30 acres to the inhabitant. The United States has 15 per inhabitant, and Italy and Germany each have 1.7.



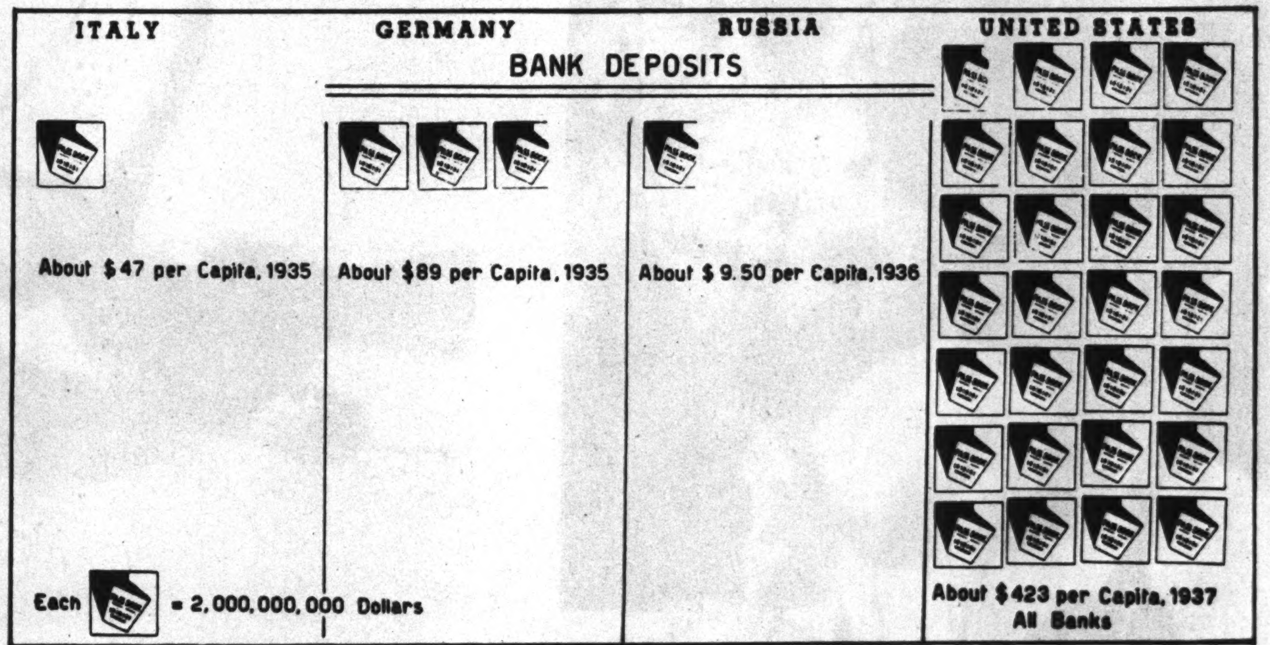
A comparison of automotive transportation, showing what percentage of the people would ride and walk should the entire population decide to move. In Italy, one rides and 20 walk, and in Russia, 150 walk while one rides.



In coal, petroleum and natural gas, the United States again is first, with Russia far behind but in second place. Italy and Germany make a low mark.

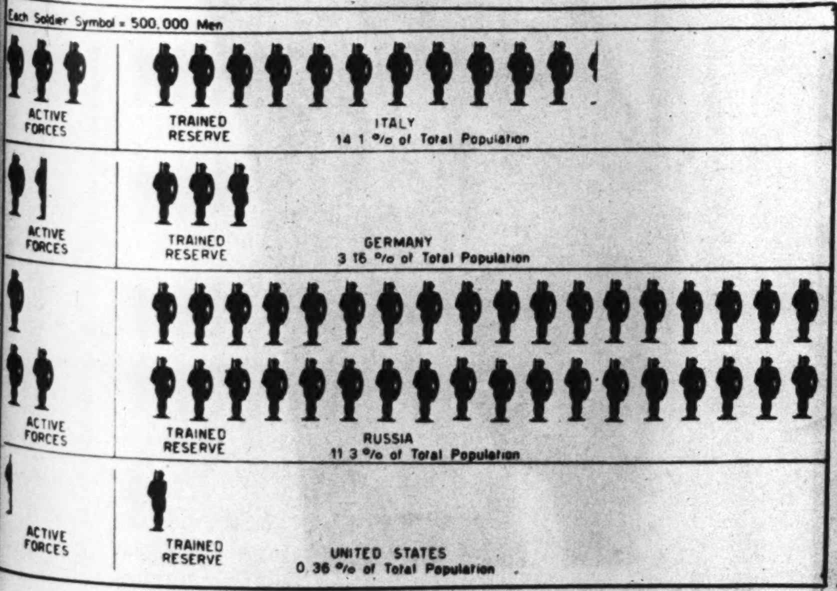


The United States is peculiarly fortunate in the number and quality of its domestic animals, having the most cattle, hogs, and sheep per capita.



In bank deposits, the United States is again far in the lead.

MATTERS MILITARY



Russia easily takes first place in the matter of armies, but Italy has a greater percentage of its people under arms.

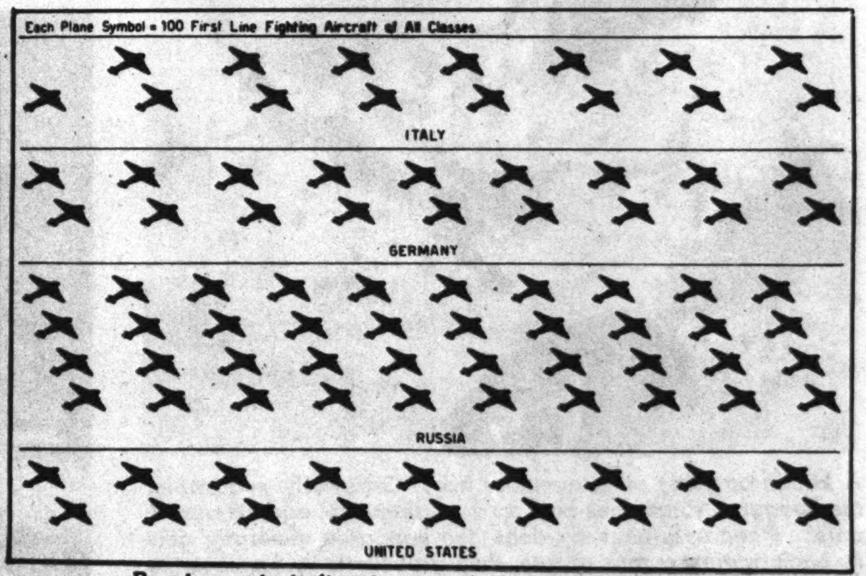
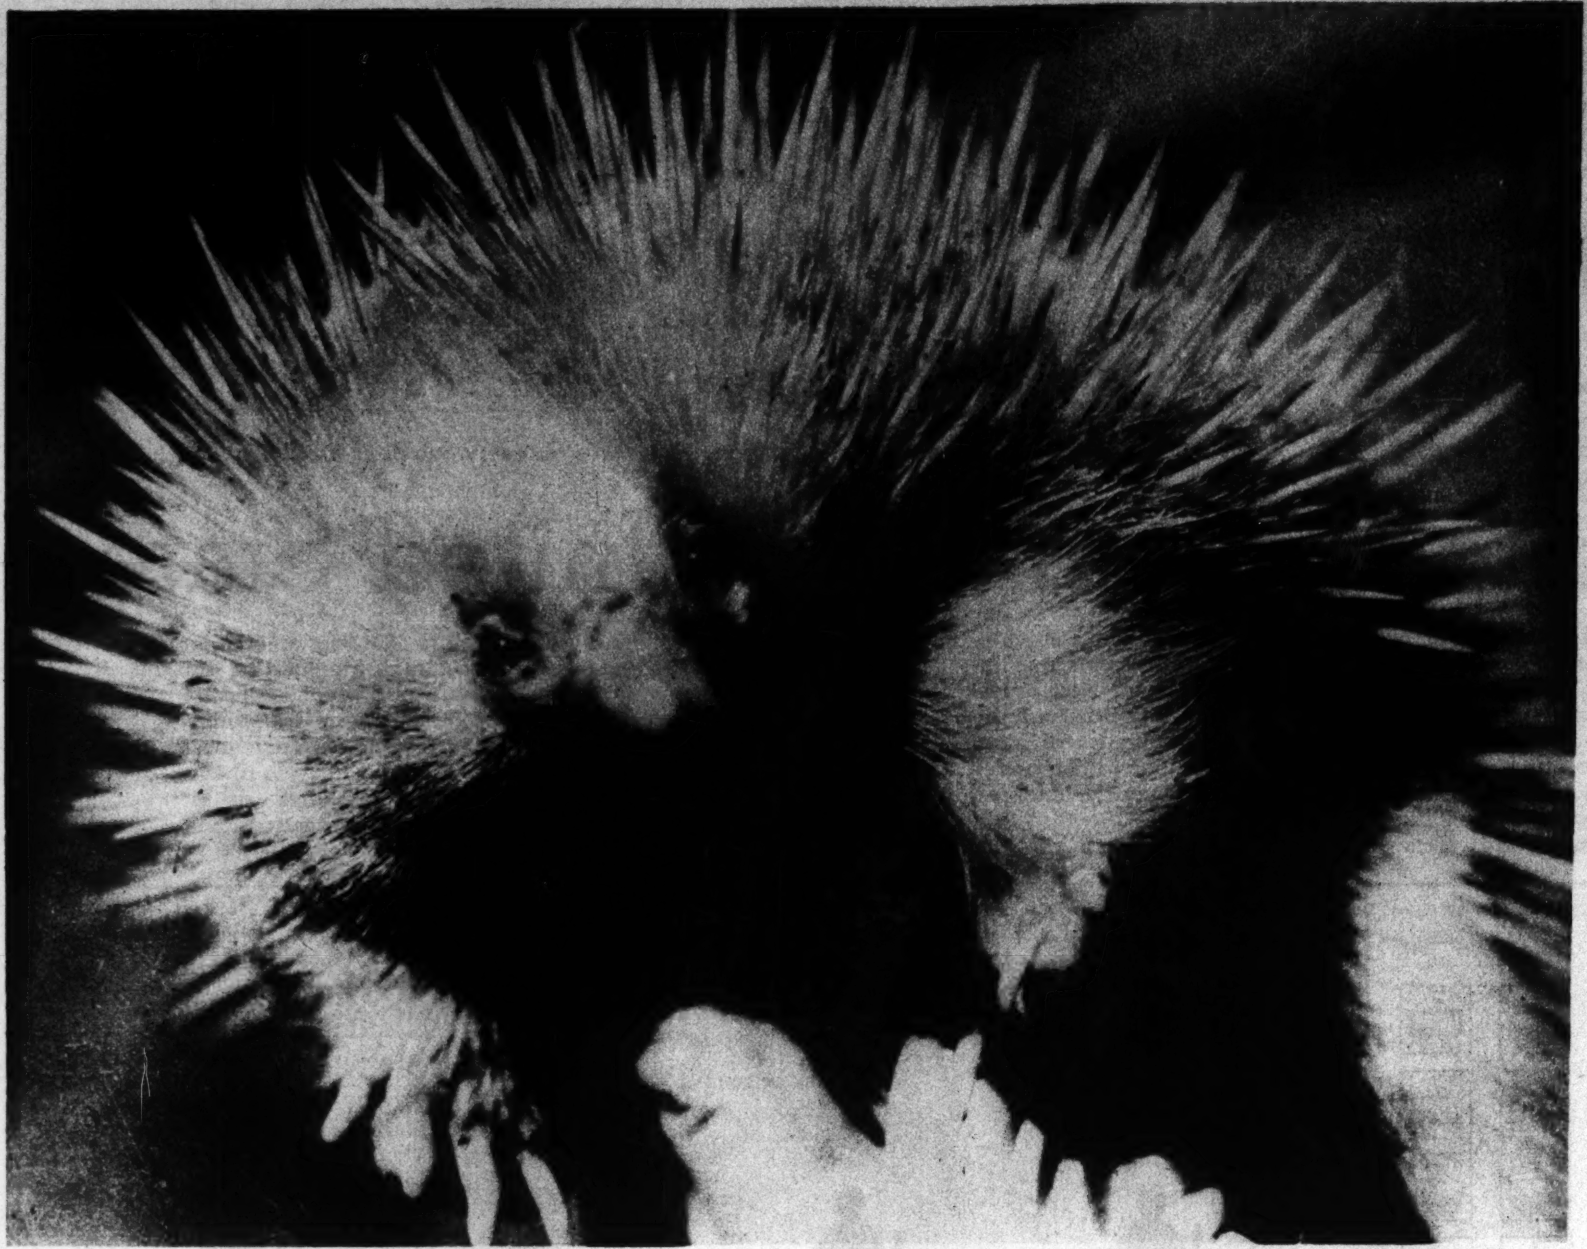
*26 years is the life of a ship

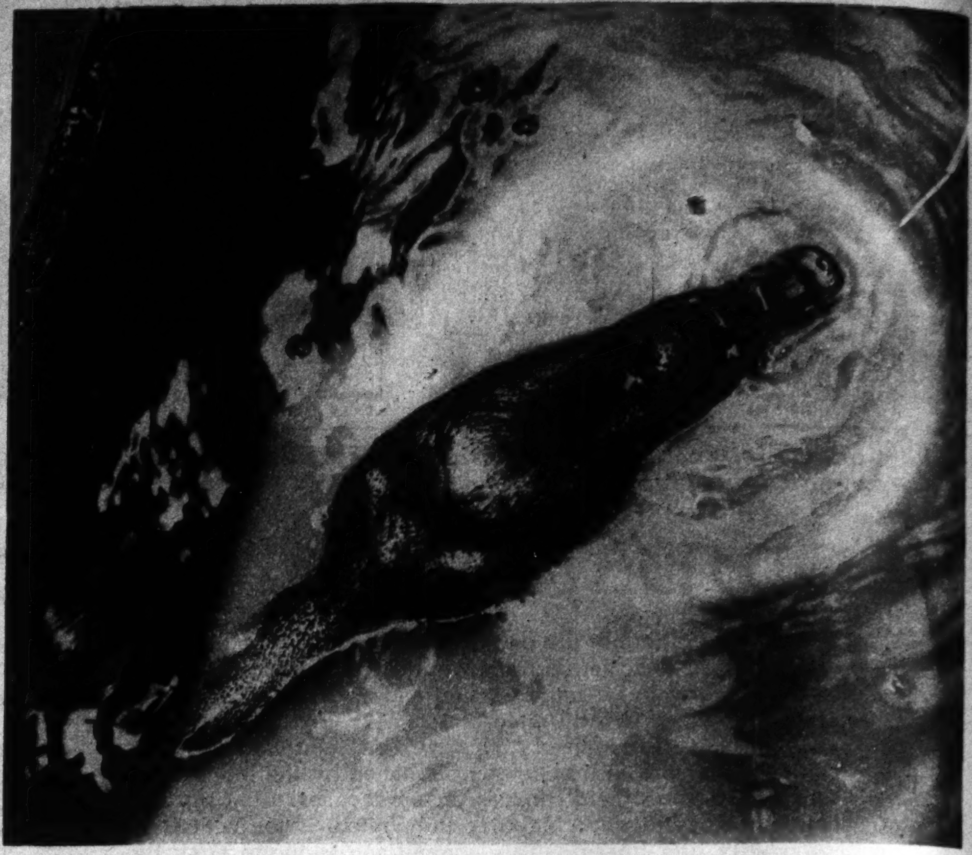
In navies, the United States is first but in some classes of ship Germany and Italy have a lead.



Russia again is first in aircraft, having a commanding lead. The United States, Italy and Germany are equal in the number of first line fighting planes.



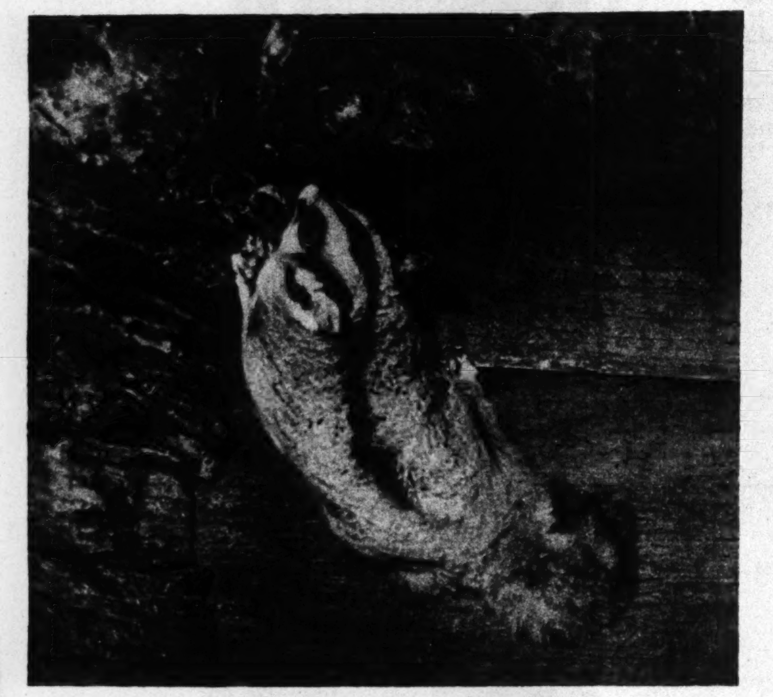
An albino echidna found off the coast of North Queensland; it has brown eyes, so it is not a true albino. Sometimes called "native hedgehog," the echidna has pointed spines, yellowish with black tips, on its back and sides.



This is a platypus, a sort of combination of various land and water creatures. It has short fur, a tail like a beaver's, duck bill, webbed feet and a spur like a rooster's. The female burrows about 60 feet into a creek bank to lay her eggs, and feeds her young with milk exuded through the pores of her skin.

AUSTRALIA— THE HOME OF QUEER ANIMALS

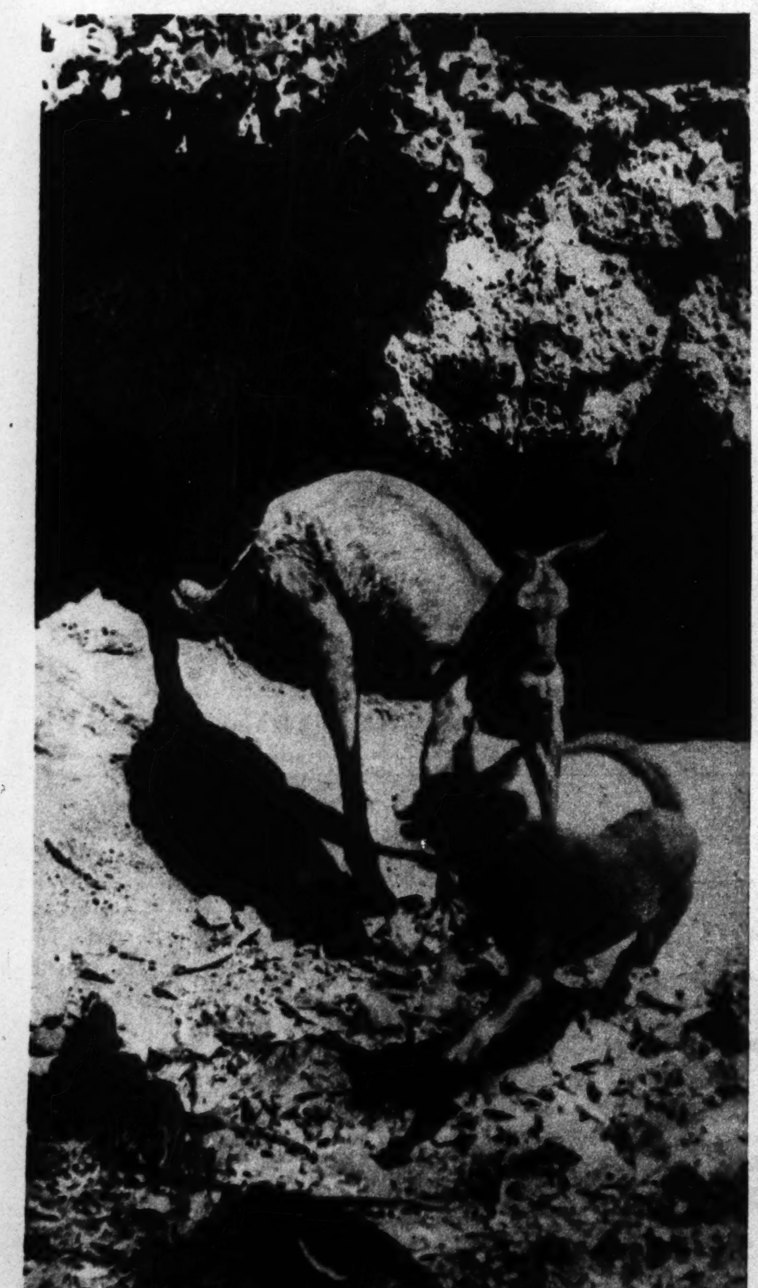
SOME of the strangest members of the animal kingdom are natives of Australia, and can be found at large only there. The island continent, lying southeast of Asia, is one of the most ancient of lands, geologists say, and its array of fauna includes creatures believed to be survivals of types which existed far back in prehistoric times. Among the primitive mammals are the marsupials, whose females carry their young in abdominal pouches; except for the American opossums, all the animals of this kind—kangaroo, koala, phalanger, etc.—are native to Australia and its environs. Here are shown a few of the interesting dwellers in the Australian wilds.



A flying phalanger, which doesn't actually fly, but glides quite respectable distances through the air; membranes connecting fore and hind legs enable it to do this. This phalanger, only a few inches long, is one of the smaller varieties, and is often called a 'possum glider or sugar squirrel.

A koala bear, one of the most appealing of animals. Funny and friendly and innocent-looking, it puts its arms trustingly around a person's neck and seems to invite petting. The "living toy" grows to a height of about 18 inches and has gray fur.

The big green turtles found along the Great Barrier Reef, on the east coast of Australia, provide sport as well as soup. This ocean ride was at Heron Island.



A kangaroo turns on a pursuing dog. Ordinarily peaceable, the kangaroo sometimes puts up a rousing fight against assailants. When overtaken by dogs, the kangaroo generally gets its back against a rock or tree, then grabs with its forelegs the first dog that jumps for its throat and rips the enemy with its claw-armed hind feet. If the kangaroo makes its stand in a pool or stream, it grabs an attacking dog and holds it under.

Australian opossums, which abound in the forests. They sleep in the trees in the daytime and forage for food at night. The silver grays especially have been trapped in numbers for fur.

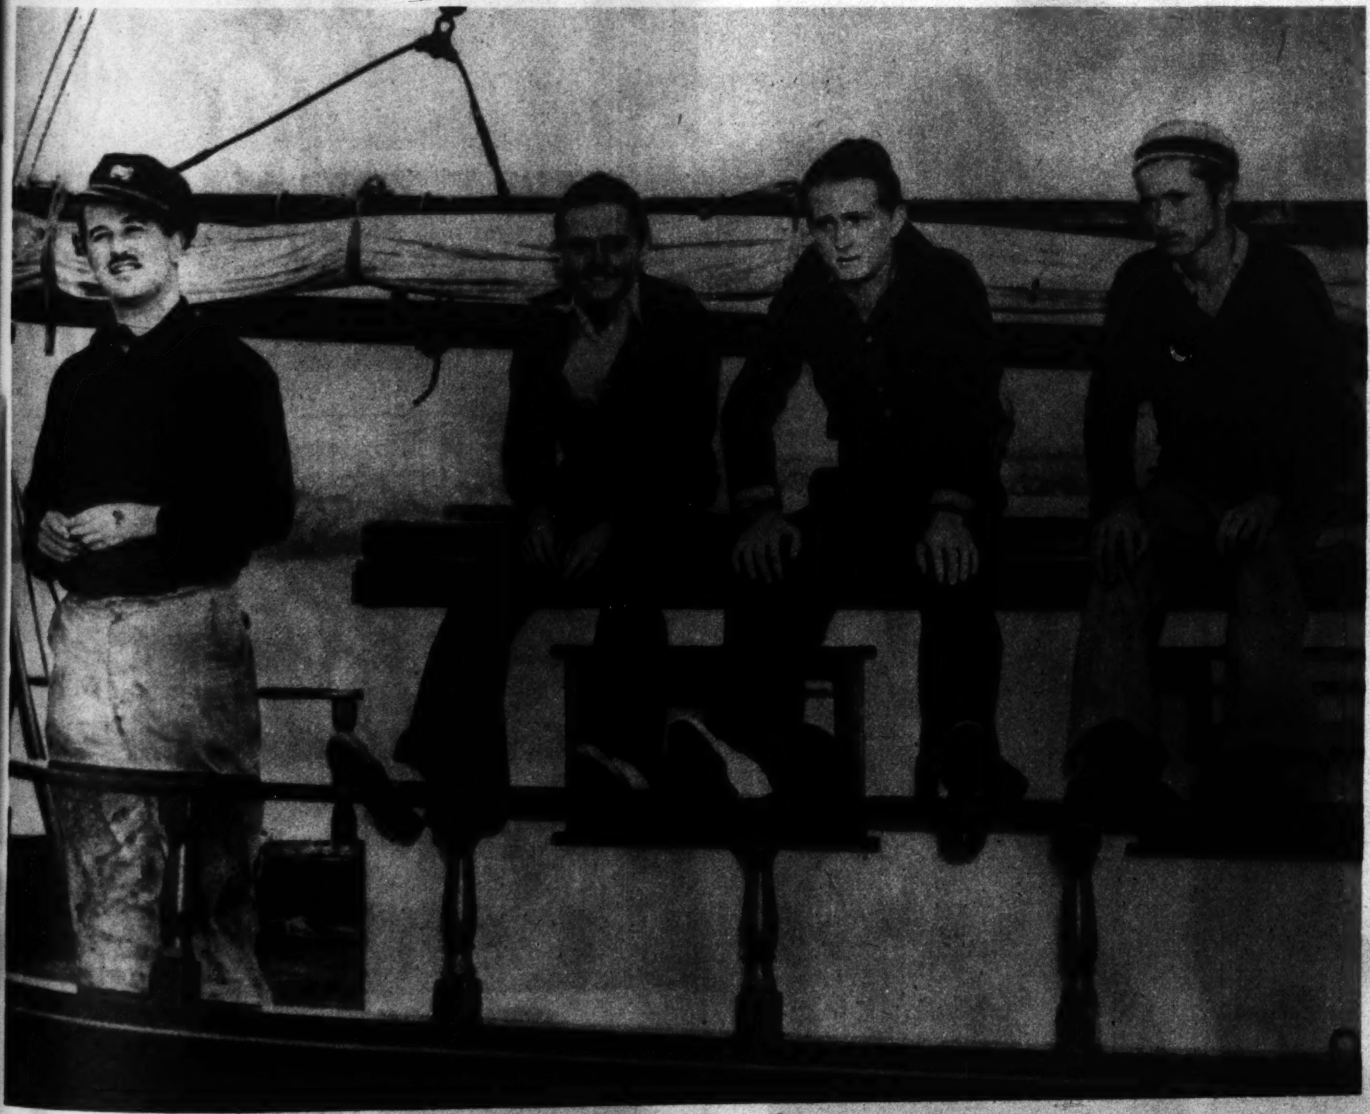
THE BOYS WHO STOLE A YACHT AND TOOK IT TO SEA

The Tira.



From the left, Lew Foote, owner of the stolen yacht; James Henninger, Lyle Tara and William Grace, yacht snatchers.

LAST May 27, Lew Foote, Santa Cruz, California, creamery owner and sportsman, discovered his $25,000, 55-foot yacht Tira had been stolen from the Santa Cruz harbor, where it was being prepared for a world cruise. A few hours later, Mrs. William R. Tara told police her 17-year-old son, Lyle, had disappeared, along with James Henninger, 17, and William Grace, 16. When the police learned the boys had stocked two skiffs with provisions, charts and maps and talked of looking for $60,000,000 in buried pirate treasure on Cocos Island, they knew who the culprits were.

Radio, the Coast Guard, even the United States Navy, were used in the search. But not until 28 days later was the yacht found. The boys were arrested when they put in at Puerto de Vallarta on the Mexican West Coast for supplies. Foote flew to the port, found the boys had sailed almost all of 2000 miles, the Diesel engines having gone out of commission the first day.

Foote treated the boys kindly, allowed them to act as his crew on the voyage back. The young adventurers, on their return, called him a "grand guy," and related they had planned the trip for months, studied navigation at nights, and had been headed for Panama. They knew nothing about sailing, "just experimented," for the first few days. After five days of living on potatoes and canned beans, they were sick of adventure, and were thinking of turning back when caught. They denied they were after buried treasure.

Authorities at Santa Cruz clapped them behind bars, then brought them before Juvenile Judge Roy B. Maxey. He sentenced them to reform school until the age of 21, then suspended their sentences on their promise to attend church, abstain from liquor and tobacco until 21, memorize the Ten Commandments, and not capitalize on their publicity.

The boys swabbing decks as the yacht arrived home.

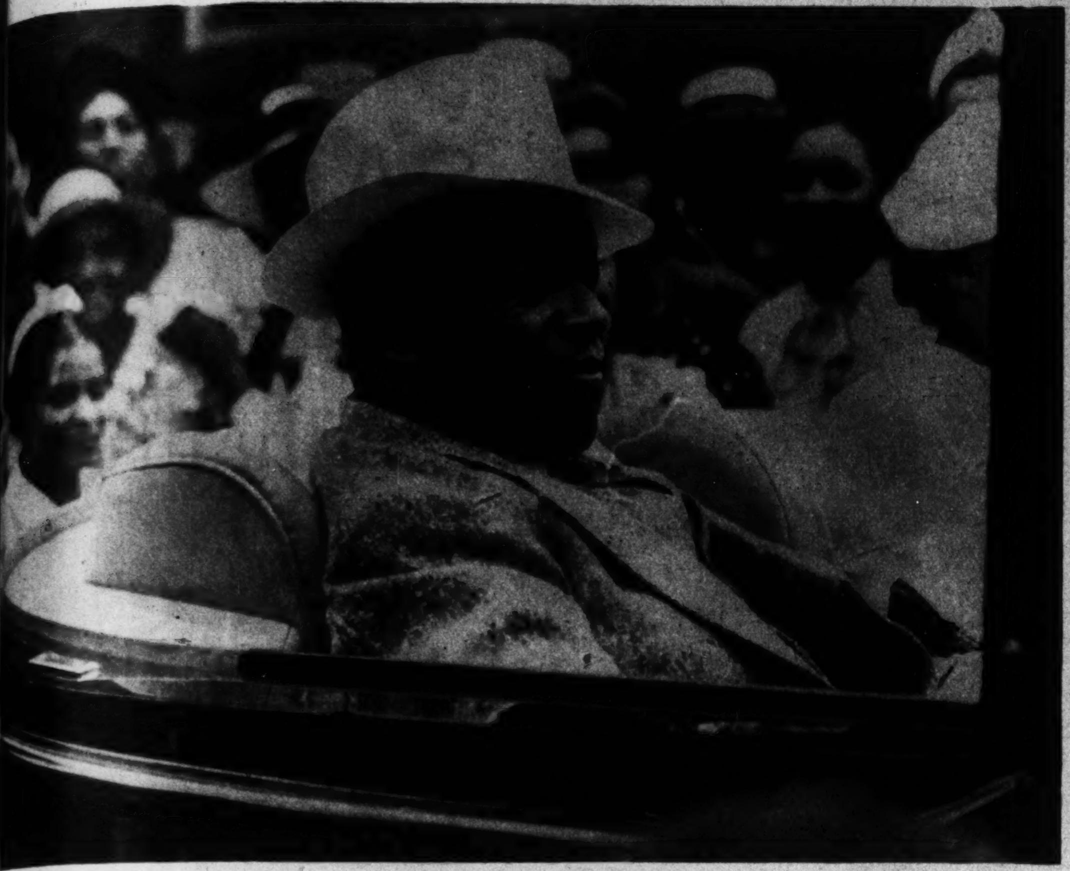
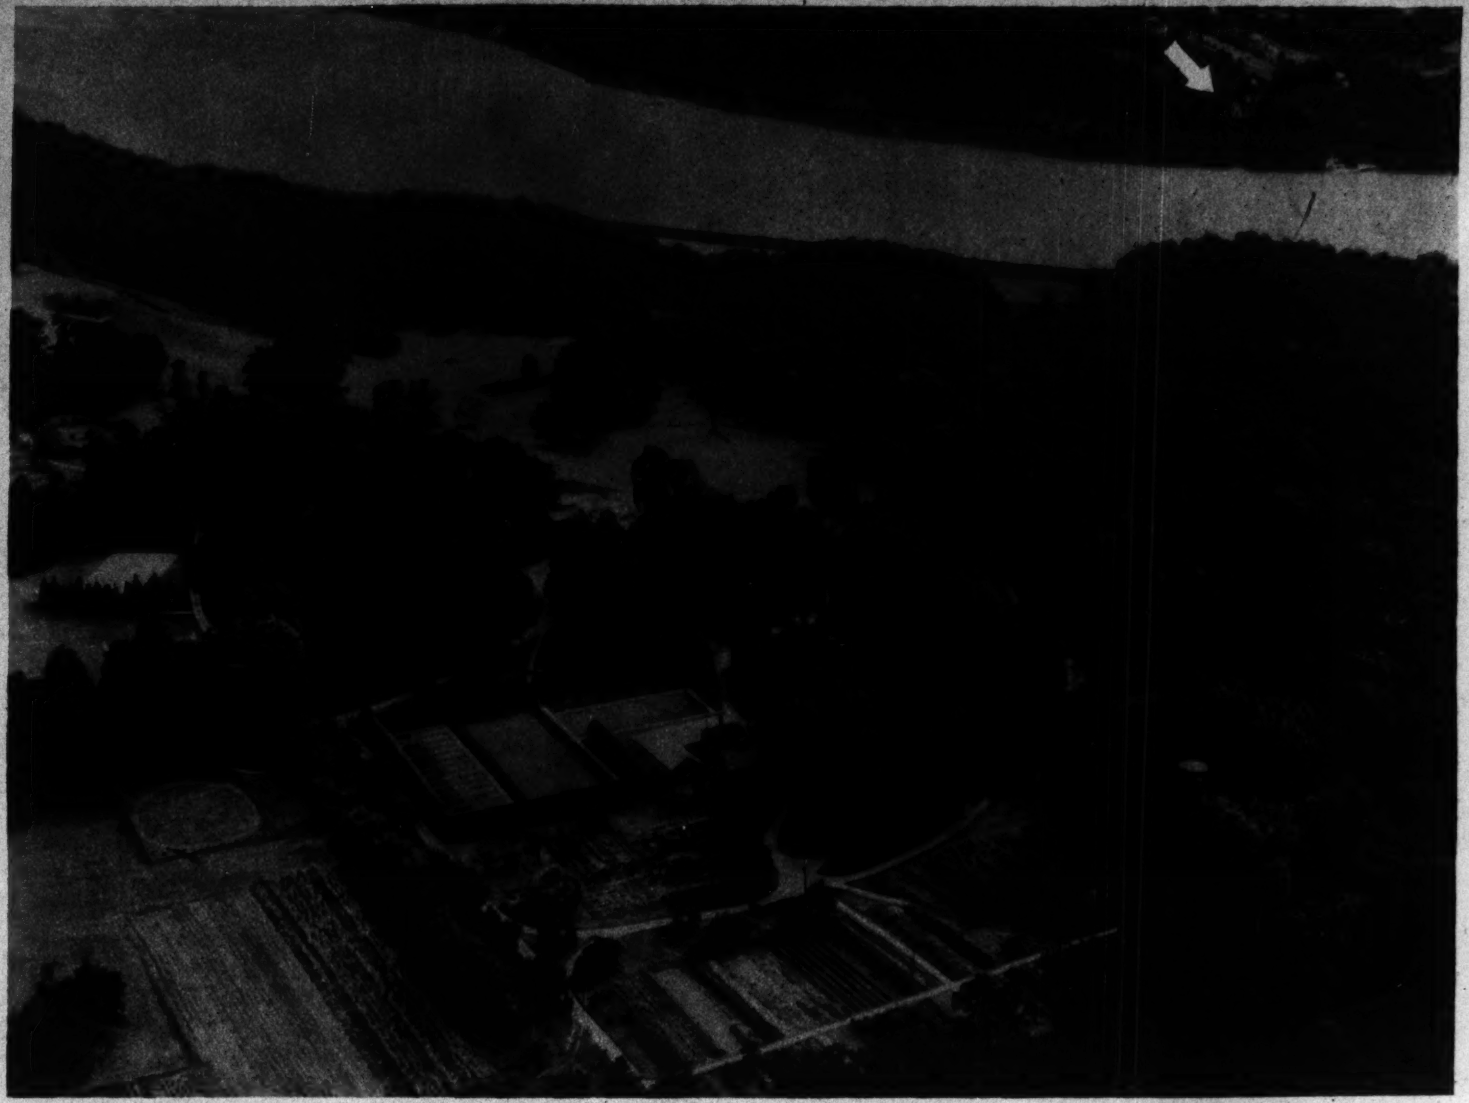
CULT BUYS NEW HEAVEN' NEAR F. D. R.



Father Divine, "God" to thousands of followers, rides majestically through Harlem, wearing a salt and pepper suit, panama hat and tan and white shoes. About 2500 of his followers took part in the parade behind his automobile. (Wide World Photo)



President Roosevelt's estate at Hyde Park (foreground) is just across the Hudson River from the 500-acre estate of Howland Spencer (right background), sold to followers of Divine. (International News)

HOWLAND SPENCER, a critic of the New Deal, last week sold his 500-acre estate, across the Hudson River from President Roosevelt's home, to the Negro followers of Father Divine. It was announced that the cult will open a new "Heaven" there, which will include a camp and home for the "faithful."

Spencer had frequently argued with the President over whether the old Dutch name "Krum Elbow" rightfully belonged to the Spencer estate or to the Roosevelt property. The President's mother ended the dispute by deciding in favor of Spencer.

Thus to "Krum Elbow" comes the Harlem leader who has gained thousands of followers, partly through the medium of tremendous feasts. The new "Heaven" is a further step in the amazing career of the former odd jobs man who calls himself "God"; carries a roll of $500 bills, owns a private plane and two Rolls-Royces, and wields a powerful influence over the Negro population of New York.

SABU—The 'Elephant Boy' Who Will Become a 'Prince'

In his new role as the ruling prince of an independent Indian state.

SABU, brown-skinned Hindu boy of striking appearance and extraordinary dramatic gifts, who achieved stardom a year ago in "Elephant Boy," is returning to the screen in the role of an Indian prince in Alexander Korda's "Drums," a color picture with the British "course of empire" as its theme. The success of his first picture, which was based on Kipling's "Toomai of the Elephants," made him the native equivalent of Freddie Bartholomew and Mickey Rooney.

Mechanical Pitcher

BYRON MOSER, St. Louis banker, decided one day that one of the things this country needed was an accurate batting practice pitcher—a pitcher that would send the ball up to the plate regularly where the batter could hit it, without having to waste time waiting for a good one or straining a high-priced back reaching for a bad one. So he set about devising a mechanical pitcher. He enlisted the co-operation of A. F. Howe, St. Louis inventor, and together they worked out the contrivance pictured.

The machine is, in effect, an electrically-operated slingshot. A motor operates a worm gear. A metal socket, in which a baseball rests, is drawn back along a track, then released, and pulled forward by strong rubber bands until it is suddenly stopped, whereupon the ball shoots out. The gear then automatically is reversed and the socket moves back, a ball dropping into it from a hopper for another pitch. The machine can deliver about four pitches a minute.

"WE KNOW TOBACCO BECAUSE WE GROW IT—WE SMOKE CAMELS BECAUSE WE KNOW TOBACCO"—Tobacco Planters say

SINCE 1875 Ed Dail's family has been growing tobacco. Ed has been planting it himself for years. "Our tobacco crops have a family reputation," he says. "My best grades have gone to Camel buyers for years. So I know finer tobaccos go into Camels. That's why I've been smoking them for over 20 years."

"YOU GET to know about tobacco, growing it for as long as I have," says Benjamin Franklin Faulkner. "In the market, my choice lots went to the Camel people again last year. Camels—being made of finer tobaccos—are the favorite with most growers here. I've been a steady Camel smoker myself for 21 years."

JOHN CARAWAY'S business, growing tobacco, gives him an insider's knowledge of cigarette quality. A Camel smoker for 23 years, he says: "I know Camel pays more to get better grades of tobacco from local growers. Most of us smoke Camels. We know the choicer tobaccos in Camels—we grow these finer grades."

FORD, CHRYSLER TRADE PRACTICE DECREE DRAFTED

Firms Would Change Financing Methods and Anti-Trust Charges Would Be Dropped.

TENTATIVE APPROVAL IN WASHINGTON

Independent Credit Concerns to Study Pact — Final Sanction by U. S. Court Required.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 8. — The Justice Department tentatively approved today a proposed consent decree designed to eliminate practices which prompted anti-trust action against the Ford Motor Co. and the Chrysler Corporation.

The decree, which establishes a code of business ethics for manufacturer-affiliated automobile finance companies, is subject to approval of United States District Court at South Bend, Ind.

A Federal grand jury there on May 27 indicted the Ford and Chrysler companies, General Motors Corporation, their affiliated finance companies and 40 individuals on charges of violating the Sherman Anti-Trust Act.

Department officials withheld details of the proposed decree pending its examination by independent automobile finance companies. Complaints of the independent companies first drew the department's attention to the automobile financing field.

In general, the decree would provide that the Government drop its charges and the Ford and Chrysler companies would abolish certain financing practices. The Government has objected particularly to the manufacturers requiring dealers to insist that customers finance their purchases through manufacturer-affiliated companies. Dealers risked loss of their contracts, the Government charged, if they failed to comply.

The decree also is expected to abolish the payment of rebates to dealers for steering business to manufacturer - controlled finance firms.

Negotiations leading to the proposed agreement have been in progress since last May, one official said. An earlier effort to settle the dispute out of court last November failed. United States District Judge Ferdinand A. Geiger ended a Milwaukee (Wis.) grand jury investigation of automobile financing when he learned of the conferences here.

The Justice Department made no mention of an agreement with the General Motors Corporation. A demurrer filed by the company to the South Bend indictments is awaiting argument.

TWO TIRE TRUCKS OVERTURNED AFTER 150 GO OUT ON STRIKE

Driver of One Machine Flees When Some in Group Try to Beat Him.

A truck of the General Tire Co., 400 Washington boulevard, was overturned by a group of about six men in the 4300 block of Clayton avenue today. The driver of the truck, Scott Ward, fled when some of the men tried to beat him.

Shortly after, a truck of the Arthur A. Guenther Tire Co., 2747 Olive street, was overturned at the corner of North Florissant avenue and Destrehan street by a group of eight or nine men. Edward Bray, the driver, was not injured.

A strike of about 150 employes of 40 tire stores and filling stations which sell tires was called Saturday by the Gasoline Service Station and Warehouse Employes Union, an affiliate of the American Federation of Labor.

JUDGE TIPTON TO BECOME MISSOURI CHIEF JUSTICE

Will Succeed Judge Hays, Who Will Complete His Turn in the Office Aug. 14.

JEFFERSON CITY, Aug. 8. — Supreme Judge Ernest M. Tipton of Kansas City will become Chief Justice of the Missouri Supreme Court, succeeding Chief Justice Charles T. Hays of Hannibal, effective Aug. 14, the court announced today.

Each of the seven judges of the court en banc serves one-seventh of his term as Chief Justice, the office rotating among the judges in the order of seniority. Judge Hays, completing his turn as Chief Justice, will continue his duties as judge in court en banc and in Division No. 1 of the court.
